Juveniles Explode Pay Phone; 4 May Face Court Action

Four Woburn juveniles face possible court action for destroying a public telephone outside Mottolo's Restaurant at 831 Main Street. The youths rendered the pay phone inoperative at about 11:00 p.m. on Christmas night by exploding a firecracker in the coin return slot beneath the main mechanism assembly.

The force of the exploding block-buster, a two-inch barrel-shaped firecracker, was powerful enough to blow the upper section of the phone unit apart, sending the box off the wall of the booth, and destroying the internal apparatus. The coin box remained intact. An Arlington telephone office repair representative estimated the damage at $94.40.

The youths admitted setting off the miniature bomb, police said, and are scheduled to appear before Judge William Henchey at Woburn District Court, Juvenile Sessions. Sgt. Daniel I. Reardon and William E. Nash, juvenile officer, will present the state's charges.

The violation of General Law 148, Section 39: "No person shall sell, or keep or offer for sale, or use, explode, or cause to explode, any combustible or explosive composition or substance," can carry, in the case of juveniles committing misdemeanors, a penalty of up to six months imprisonment or not more than $500 fine or both, if the court exacts full punishment. Often, however, juvenile cases are continued for a year on what is similar to a probationary status, with restitution of damages the only real penalty imposed.

Judge Alfred Sartorelli in a Woburn District Court Criminal Sessions hearing last Thursday, raised the bail set at $10,000 to $20,000 on each of the two housebreak burglars caught on Priscilla Lane in Winchester on Friday, December 14, by Officers Thomas Parsons and Mario Buzzotta.

Judge Sartorelli raised the bail, police estimated, due to the number of counts in the charges, the fact that the men were caught in the act of committing a crime, and also the fact that one of the men had previously jumped a superior court bail.

The district court established probable cause for grand jury action on the two men from evidence submitted by the Winchester police.

The Police Department has already prepared indictment papers on the two men, Alton E. Hanscom, Jr., 28 of Charlestown, and Robert D. Wyman, 26, of Somerville.

The two suspects will appear before a grand jury in East Cambridge either at the end of this week or next week, police said.

If the grand jury decides to indict, the two men will be arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court, at which time they have an opportunity to plead guilty or not guilty. A date for a trial is set if they plead not guilty.

Any criminal felony punishable by over five years imprisonment goes to Superior Court from a District Court. In this case, Police said, the two men could receive up to 20 years in a state prison for breaking and entering a house to commit a felony.

Local Democratic Committee Happy With Recount Tab

The Star has received this week a news report from the local Democratic Committee, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, Chairman:

"Naturally, our local Town Committee members were overjoyed when the recount finally ended and we added a Democratic Chief Executive to the almost entire slate of Democratic state and national officials.

"Our congratulations have been extended to Governor Chub and his lovely First Lady, Toni, and their fine family. Also, we have extended our congratulations to the local leaders of the Peabody campaign, Secretary John Hogan of the Town Committee and Mrs. Roger Harsch, member of the

Postal Rates Are Due To Change Jan. 7th

Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun strongly urged citizens of Winchester to be sure and place the correct postage on their letters on Monday, January 7, 1963 when the new postage rate increase goes into effect.

Postage rates for first-class letters will be increased from four cents to five cents an ounce with air mail letters costing eight cents an ounce instead of seven.

First class post cards will cost four cents instead of three with air mail cards going from five to six cents.

The extra charge of one cent for stamp booklets containing the five-cent and eight-cent denominations has been dropped. The booklets will be sold at their face value at $1 and $2 respectively.

Postmaster Gilgun warned residents that insufficient postage will be collected from the addressee or the letter returned to the sender.

Additional information on the new postage fees is available at your local post office.

Xmas Tree Pick-Up Day Is January 5th

Saturday, January 5, is the annual Jaycee Christmas tree pick-up. In the name of safety and community service the members of the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce will collect all those Christmas trees in town that have been left in front of each home.

The pick-up begins at 8:00 a.m. on Saturday, so we encourage residents to put their trees out on Friday night so as not to be missed by the early morning rounds.

Peter Kirk, Bill Ryerson and Bill Haynesworth, this year's tree committee, indicate that all is A-Okay in the planning department. Many residents have donated the use of their trucks to facilitate the speedy pick up of all trees. For their generosity, the community and the Jaycees offer their thanks.

By establishing this community service on an annual basis, the Jaycees hope to reduce the fire hazard due to old and dry Christmas trees. We do hope that the residents will show their interest in this campaign by placing their trees in front of their homes on Friday night, January 4, for pick-up January 5, 1963.

EXPLOSION RIPPED IT APART. Patrolmen Francesco Tranchita and Erwin W. Nurnberger, Jr., examine the public telephone that was destroyed when four Woburn juveniles set off a firecracker in the coin return slot. Damage was estimated at $94.40. The youths responsible were just having a little excitement; nevertheless they will appear in Woburn District Court on state charges.

Hospital Silenced As Telephones Go Out Under Flood

The Winchester Hospital was without telephone communications, with the lone exception of one outside line, for one hour Tuesday afternoon when a basement flood covered the main terminal box wiring.

At approximately 3:15 p.m., Mrs. Barbara Mullen of Reading, who operates the telephone switchboard in the lobby of the old admittance entrance to the hospital, noticed that she could not get any calls out.

Using another phone in the new part of the building that operates from a different line source, Mrs. Mullen called the Arlington office of the New England Telephone Company. They had a repair crew and an emergency communications truck at the hospital within a half hour.

The telephone repair crew was unable to get into the maintenance room below the switchboard because the outside stairs was half filled with water.

The Fire Department responded to a call with a rescue truck, Engine I, and four men. They pumped the stair well out, and opened the door. The room was filled with five feet of water. The pump on the fire engine lowered the water level quickly, and the telephone men were able to get into the room.

With two police cruisers and four policemen standing by for emergency communication in addition to the telephone truck, the hospital was adequately "covered" while restoration work was in progress.

The regular hospital telephone system was operating at normal capacity within one hour after the telephone maintenance crew arrived.

Meanwhile, the Fire Department had located the flood source at a one inch T fitting pipe joint seam on the sprinkler valve.

A replacement joint was fitted onto the pipe and the sprinkler system returned to normal control and pressure.

Quack, Quack!

It was so freezing cold he didn't want to move, and couldn't even if he did.

Fact of the matter was, he was frozen stiff.

Solidly implanted in the ice on the Aberjona River directly behind the Fire Station by about four inches of his rump section, the little bird was as immobilized by the frigid temperatures as were many of the mechanical wonders still in their residential driveways.

Firefighters Walter Skerry and Charles McNutt, who came to his rescue, were at first tempted by the nature of their profession to build a fire to help the little fellow out.

But the firefighters finally had to chop down about six inches into the ice to get the duck and three pounds worth of his encasement out.

They carried the eight inch block of duck into the fire house and put him under a faucet.

It took about an hour to thaw the shivering bird out of his unusual aviary, whereupon he ran all about the fire apparatus and station quacking his thanks and decorating the place.

Social Security Tax Will Go Up In 1963

Winchester taxpayers will find this new year one of definite Social Security tax increases as well as proposed Federal income tax cuts.

The scheduled higher Social Security taxes will affect employees, employers, and the self-employed.

The increases, provided for under the Social Security Act, will go into effect automatically. The new rate will be 7¼ per cent on the first $4,800 of pay, instead of 6¼ per cent, as at present.

Half of this will be paid by the employee, through payroll deductions, and the other half by his employer.

For those who are self-employed, there will be a hike of 7/10ths of one per cent.

It boils down, in the case of Winchester, to an overall increase of approximately $254,000 over the amount paid in fiscal year 1961 by those who are on wages or salaries and by their employers. The figure is based on data released by the Internal Revenue Service and by the Department of Commerce.

During the fiscal period, some $11.6 billion was contributed to the Social Security pension fund by the nation's 64,639,000 workers and their employers.

Winchester's part of that payment was an estimated $1,590,000.

In the forthcoming year, its portion will rise to $1,844,000.

The increase will be the ninth since the Social Security program was begun. Two more boosts are scheduled, one of them in 1966 and the other in 1968, at which time the "final" rate is to go into effect. It will be 4 and 5/8ths per cent for employees and the same for employers.

However, should a plan of hospital care for the aged or other expansion of benefits be voted by Congress, the tax would have to go still higher.

For the individual worker in the United States, the annual cost of Social Security averaged $89 in fiscal 1961. The maximum anyone had to pay was $144. Next year the ceiling will be $174.

Individual payments in Winchester were higher than in many areas because local incomes were better.

Rocky Ledge Farm Dispute Is Before Appeals Board

The Board of Appeals will hold another public hearing on the three-year-old Rocky Ledge Farm dispute on Tuesday night in the East basement room of the Town Hall at 7:30 p.m.

The dispute involves an application by Paul J. Mahoney to build a greenhouse off Cambridge Street near the present establishment owned by Mr. Mahoney.

Objectors claim that Mr. Mahoney intends to make the greenhouse into a large supermarket.

The Board of Appeals has not yet reached a decision on the case, and all interested abutters and citizens are urged to attend the hearing and make their views known to the Board.

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN TO A DUCK . . . BUT IT DID, and Firefighter Charles McNutt holds the duck he freed from frozen ice in the Aberjona River in back of the Fire Station along with Firefighter Walter Skerry. Duck was taken to Mrs. Dorothy Lord's farm in North Woburn, with the other town ducks, by Herbert Mullen of the Park Department.

Winchester's John A. Volpe Leaves The Governorship Of Massachusetts Behind Today

At noon today John A. Volpe, 54, of 10 Everett Avenue, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, will walk out the front entrance of the State House on Beacon Hill and down the front steps to Beacon Street.

He will walk alone.

When he gets to the bottom of the long stairway he will no longer be governor of Massachusetts.

It is traditional for outgoing Massachusetts governors to leave the State House while the swearing in ceremonies of the new governor are taking place.

It is also traditional that they leave the stately building walking by themselves.

And members of the governor's personal staff will also wait for the governor to descend and greet them.

The retiring governor will go with his family and friends to an informal luncheon and reception given for him by his personal staff at the Hotel Kenmore.

Gov. Volpe then plans to go to Florida for a short vacation with his family before returning to his work as head of the Volpe Construction Company.

As to whether he plans to return to public office, that is a matter of speculation on anyone's part. He has made no indications of his future plans in politics, if any.

In the last days of his administration he sought to fill many state offices that every outgoing chief executive is expected to make. All day yesterday and this morning he worked with the Governor's Council, trying to get his nominations of candidates for various state offices passed, including the Registrar of Motor Vehicles post, which had been meeting with unusually stiff other party opposition.

And at noon on Wednesday his last official ceremony was to swear in the members of the State Legislature, first the House of Representatives and then the Senate.

Wind Gusts Cause Hevey's Window To Fall, Shatter

A strong wind gust at about 4:30 Sunday afternoon sent the 7 by 10 foot curved plate glass window in Hevey's Pharmacy out of its window frame, shattering it into thousands of pieces.

The shattering glass did not injure any of the store personnel according to John Collins, the manager, and none of the products in the window were affected.

"But it was extremely cold inside the store of all of a sudden," Mr. Collins said.

Patrolman Robert G. Baird called the Fire Department to the store to help cover the gaping hole. Firefighters Lt. Walter Carroll, Joseph Faga, Charles McNutt and David Dalton rushed to the scene with a salvage cover of tarpaulin and some plywood cross-braces.

While Hevey's personnel and store customers wait for the glass company to come and replace the glass, which will probably be designed for two sections with a center brace rather than the single large pane as before, the wind now whips across the tarpaulin instead of blowing into the store, and just the cold temperature seeps through.

Mr. Collins said he guessed the replacement cost would be between $200 and $300.

But it may be sometime before the glass company brings more glass to the front of Hevey's due to a backlog of about 500 calls to the glass company from this area as a result of the stormy winds.

Donors Asked By Red Cross For Bloodmobile Day

Four patients desperately needing blood and none of this type available!

How must the doctors and families of these patients feel when life hangs on that needed transfusion?

This is not an isolated situation - BUT the above patients happen to be in our local hospital.

Why does this happen? Because not enough people donate blood to keep the supply adequate. AND THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR HUMAN BLOOD!

The Red Cross bloodmobile is coming to the Church of the Epiphany on Monday, January 7th from 12:45 to 6:45 p.m.

David C. McLean Is New Editor Of Star

The appointment of David Cameron McLean as editor of the Winchester Star was announced this week by Richard A. Hakanson, publisher of the Star.

Mr. McLean succeeds Paul Wilson Sullivan, who was appointed editor of the Star in May, 1962, following the retirement of James H. Penaligan. Mr. Penaligan will continue on with the Star as a contributing editor.

The son of Dr. and Mrs. John D. McLean of 20 Seneca Road, Mr. McLean was educated in Winchester schools, the Choate School in Wallingford, Connecticut, Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, and the Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University in New York City.

DAVID CAMERON McLEAN

Mr. McLean was a reporter for the Patriot Ledger Newspaper of Quincy before coming to the Star. While attending graduate school he worked for the New York Times and edited the United Nations on Campus magazine in New York. He was a reporter for the Boston Globe in 1961, and last summer he edited a newspaper for the Netherlands Government aboard a ship sailing between the U. S. and Europe.

At Bowdoin, Mr. McLean was editor of the college newspaper, was continuity and advertising director of the radio station, and wrote for the yearbook. He was a philosophy major and a member of DKE fraternity.

The annual census is under the direction of the Board of Registrars and is in compliance with a State law which states that "annually every building in the cities and towns of the commonwealth shall be visited and a true list shall be made containing specific information, as nearly as can be ascertained of every person twenty years of age or older."

In addition, the Winchester corps of twelve official recorders have been asked by the Board of Selectmen to list all persons under twenty years of age in connection with this census because of the need of an accurate count of total population of the town for Planning Board and School Department purposes.

The separate cards on which the workers record these names will be given to the School Department.

There are two census takers assigned to each precinct. Each carries a certificate of identification with the seal of the Town of Winchester embossed on it and signature of the bearer.

They are instructed to record students at private schools and colleges as well as persons in the armed services and those out of the country on government assignments. If married, spouse and members of their family are also listed.

If you are not home when the census taker calls you will find a notice advising you that a visit had been made. It is most important that you cooperate by following instructions stated on the notice and contact the census taker as soon as possible.

Local Man Arrested In N.Y. For 6 Slayings

A 20-year-old Winchester man is being held by New York City police on charges of killing six men during six robberies last week—one in Woburn and five in New York.

Henry P. Dusablon of 3 Holland Court, Winchester, and Emanuel Sampieri, 30, of Patchaugue, L. I., were ordered held without bail for a Monday hearing on homicide charges by Judge Louis Wallach in New York Criminal Court on Saturday.

Both men were arrested by police at gunpoint Friday night in the Hotel Belvedere in Times Square.

New York police had found an $850 ring taken in one of the robberies at a pawn shop. Dusablon had pawned the ring, police said, and signed both his name and Massachusetts address. A check of New York hotels located Dusablon, who had registered under his own name, police said.

Woburn Police Chief Thomas J. Maguire sent Lt. Kenneth Murphy and Special Officer John F. Gibbons to New York Saturday to questioned Dusablon about the slaying of a Woburn antique dealer on Christmas Eve.

Frank C. Ross, 59, of Harlow Street, Woburn, was found dead in his Walnut Street shop after he was robbed of approximately $100. Police said he was shot with a .32 caliber pistol.

Henry Jassem, 54, of Queens, New York, was found dead in his Ninth Avenue novelty shop on Wednesday. He had been robbed of a ring and $20 in cash before he was shot, according to police.

And, within an eight hour period on Friday, Martin Himmelstein, 47, of Queens, New York, was found shot in his wine and liquor store in Manhattan; Morris Neuringer, 59, of the Bronx, New York, was discovered murdered in the bathroom of his liquor store; Harry Schneider, 50, of Queens, New York, was found dead in his Army and Navy surplus goods store; and Caesar Lago, 62, an employee at Himmelstein's store, died from a critical bullet wound in the Knickerbocker Hospital.

New York Detective George Barrett, who headed the search for the killers, said the single motive in all the killings was robbery, and the largest amount taken in any robbery was $100.

Ministers Urge Strengthening UN Peace Efforts

Theodore A. Webb of 95 Pond Street, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Bay District Unitarian-Universalists was one of a group of the ministers meeting at Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire this week who released a statement to the press calling for massive response to world leaders favoring reliance on the U. N. and the creation of world government.

Eight Unitarian Universalist clergymen serving New England churches congratulated Look Magazine for carrying post-Cuban reactions, "Christmas in Crisis." The ministers endorsed statements of western leaders who in the article called for a critical review of the policy relying on nuclear deterrence to keep the peace.

Guy Meyer of Arlington said, a suicide pact is being developed between the nuclear nations. He urged Unitarian Universalists to express continuing concern to the government calling for an organization to which weapons could be entrusted.

Manuel Holland, Framingham minister, recited a portion of the Lord's Prayer, "lead us not into temptation to rely upon the threat of nuclear violence" referring to the recent crisis in the Caribbean.

Kenneth Warren, Barnstable minister who gained national prominence in aiding reverse freedom riders, stated, "We must make a choice between world government and world war."

Berkely Moore of Windsor, Vermont, Robert Gardiner of Medford, Walter Royal Jones, Jr., of Gloucester and Theodore A. Webb of Winchester were among ministers who met on the New Hampshire campus for three days to discuss ethics and social action for Unitarian and Universalist churches.

A statement to be released later called upon the people of the world "to take back from their national governments the power to make war and to vest the authority to keep international order in a world government democratically responsible to the people."

St. Mary's in 3-2 Win Over Peabody

After losing a 1-0 advantage, St. Mary's stormed from behind in the third period to pump in two quick goals and skate away with a 3-2 decision over winless Saint Ann's of Peabody.

Pepper Cunningham initiated the scoring at the midway point of the first period with assists going to Dennis Griffin and Frank Manzie. Peabody retaliated moments later however, when a brilliant solo effort by the St. Ann's center resulted in the equalizer.

There was no scoring in the middle stanza as both defensive units played a very close checking game.

In the final frame St. Mary's resorted to wide open offensive hockey with the results being that Peabody caught the Winchester defense up ice and a sideboard shot bounded off of goalie Jim Kirk's stick and into the cage to give Peabody a 2-1 edge.

As the period wore on the one goal margin began to assume gigantic proportions and the lagging Saint Mary's offense wasn't able to muster sufficient fire power to pierce Saint Ann's solid defense. With four minutes remaining in the contest coach John Falla dropped slap-shooting Skip Fucillo back to the right point and put high scoring Frank Hession on the right wing in a last ditch attempt to inject some vitality in his club.

Within thirty seconds this strategy had produced the desired results when Frank Hession fed a pass up to Manzie who promptly passed it over to Pepper Cunningham and the Saint Mary's Captain stalemated the game with a short shot into the Peabody cage.

St. Mary's maintained their pressure on the St. Ann's goal and at 8:43 of the period Frank Hession dissolved the tie when he picked up Cunningham's pass and whipped it into the lower right hand corner of the Peabody net. It was Hession's fourth goal in as many games and it proved to be the winning margin.

Not until the final buzzer sounded was there any indication of a fight, but as the Winchester club filed across the ice there erupted a stick swinging duel which abruptly turned into a full scale fist fight in which several players on both teams took part. Although the melee, which lasted for five minutes, had no direct bearing on the contest it is entirely possible that the League may suspend several of the would-be gladiators.

Next week Saint Mary's faces a rugged East Boston team in a game which will break the tie for second place. The two clubs, which share identical 3-1 records will face off next Saturday at 12:00 noon at Boston College's McHugh Forum.

Church's Forum Celebrates Its 25th Anniversary

On Sunday, the First Congregational Church took special recognition of the 25th Anniversary of The Senior Forum, its program for high school young people.

At the 11:00 o'clock service of Morning Worship, the ministers of the church, Dr. Dwight L. Cart and Rev. Wesley A. Mallery, were assisted by Reed Lowry, Forum president, as chaplain.

Forum members who served as deacons and ushers were Richard Starkweather, John Stockwell, Bruce Carpenter, Jeffrey Russell, Joseph Kingston, Dean Ericson, Neal Baker, Vance Belliston, Daniel Brink, Jonathan Fowle, William Keeton, William Palmer. The Forum Choir, Christine Cooper chairman and Mr. Robert White choirmaster, also assisted in the service.

The guest preacher was Dr. Herbert Gezork, President of Andover Newton Theological School and a long-time friend of Forum, having appeared first as a Forum leader in 1939 and continuing his contacts with the group through many years.

Dr. Gezork spoke on the theme "A Three-fold Look," combining the anniversary occasion with the New Year emphasis in such a way as to make all ages in the congregation aware of the great heritage in which Christians share and the great responsibility which they bear in shaping the future of their own lives and the life of the world. Many Forum alumni and their families were present for the service.

In the evening a reception and dinner were held in Chidley Hall. Dr. Cart, Mr. Mallery and Reed Lowry greeted the 200 guests who attended. The informal reception gave opportunity for many former Forum members and advisers to mingle with the present membership and renew Forum memories.

Dr. Robert G. Millican, general chairman for the church's recognition of the Forum anniversary, presided at the dinner.

Special greetings were sent to Dr. Howard Chidley under whose ministry Forum was begun. He could not be present because of illness.

Seated at the head table were all but two of the original advisory committee. They were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bates (Mrs. Evelyn Scott Bates), who 25 years ago were superintendent of the Church School and Director of Religious Education respectively, Mr. William Parsons, then chairman of the Prudential Committee and now Moderator of the church, Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Wallace, and Mr. Erskine N. White.

The Forum officers also sat at the head table. In addition to Reed Lowry, they are Janet Millican, vice president; Dorothy Williams, recording secretary; Marjorie Mumma, corresponding secretary; William Gaffney, treasurer; and Jonathan Moody, assistant treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Forum superintendents, Mrs. Russell Roberts representing the first Forum class, Dr. Cart, Mrs. Millican, and Mr. and Mrs. Mallery were also head table guests.

The address of the evening was given by Mr. White, president of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. and a member of the church. He stressed the need for all ages to be aware of the almost immeasurable changes taking place in our scientific-technologically oriented world and to develop moral and spiritual values by which these materialistic advantages may be turned to truly constructive use in personal and social life.

There was a birthday cake ceremony in which the cutting was done jointly by Mrs. Roberts and Reed Lowry representing the two ends of the twenty-five year span being celebrated.

The evening concluded with a brief service of worship in Ripley Chapel which was led by Marjorie Mumma and William Gaffney with the assistance of the Forum Choir and Gayle Clark, organist.

Assisting Dr. and Mrs. Millican in dinner arrangements were the following Forum advisers who prepared and served the meal: Mrs. Keith Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gay, Mrs. Wendell Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Moody, Mrs. George Niles, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pyne, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keppler, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Archibald, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kajander, Mr. and Mrs. James Mumma, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nason, and Mr. and Mrs. John McClennan.

Mrs. William Barone assisted in the preparation of the anniversary issue of the Forum Flashes news-sheet.

Forum will begin the New Year with a service of Holy Communion in Ripley Chapel next Sunday at 9:15 a.m. with Mr. Mallery in charge.

Kaufmann Lecture To Highlight VNA Year

Dr. Gustav G. Kaufmann will speak on the provocative subject, "The Doctor Has More than One Head" at the Annual Meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association at 2:15 p.m. on Friday, January 25, in his home at 8 Wedgemere Avenue.

Coffee and social hour at the Kaufmann residence will begin at 1:30. The business meeting will fol[illegible] Dr. Kaufmann's lecture.

[illegible]r. Kaufmann is Chief of Medical Service at the Winchester Hospital and a well-known local physician. His lecture will be based on the behind-the-scenes interchange of information among doctors at the Winchester Hospital and promises to make the meeting a highlight of the V. N. A. business year.

At the December meeting members voted that the cost per visit beginning January 1, 1963 will be $4.00. There will be no regular meeting of the Board in January.

Dr. Sklodowski Speaks On Space Age Human Factors

The Professional Nurse Group will hold its next meeting tonight Thursday, January 3, at 8 p.m. at the Choate Nurse's Home in Woburn.

The speaker for this meeting will be Dr. Vladimir Sklodowski whose topic is "Life Support and Human Factors in the Space Age." Dr. Sklodowski is at present associated with the Avco Corp. in Wilmington where his present position is that of Manager in the Human Factors Department. In this position he supervises a staff responsible for the studies, analyses, tests and personnel and human engineering requirements necessary to assure integration of man into the operational man machine system.

Dr. Sklodowski studied at the Polytechnic Institute of Warsaw, the University of Warsaw, Vienna and Berlin. He earned his Ph. D. degree in 1951 from the University of Ottawa, Canada in comparative phonetics and psychology. While in Vienna in 1931 he studied at the private psychological clinics of Dr. Sigmund Freud and Alfred Adler.

Dr. Sklodowski is a member of numerous scientific organizations including American Association of University Professors, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the American Psychological Association. He is listed in American Men of Science and has published numerous articles and monographs related to industrial psychology and human factors engineering problems.

Hooper—Dyer

At a candlelight ceremony in a setting of red poinsettias and holly on Saturday, December 22, Miss Martha Leighton Dyer, daughter of Mrs. Colver Payson Dyer of 11 Grove Street, and the late Mr. Dyer, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Churchill Hooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olcott L. Hooper of 228 Highland Avenue. Dr. Dwight Cart performed the 4:00 o'clock ceremony which was followed by a reception in Chidley Hall.

MRS. THOMAS CHURCHILL HOOPER

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. George T. Davidson, Jr., of Conway, New Hampshire. She wore a gown of ottoman satin, trimmed with seed pearls, with a bell skirt terminating in a chapel length train. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of orange blossoms and she carried white poinsettias with holly.

Mrs. Peter Cobb Doran of Carbondale, Illinois, was matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Betsy Drew, sister of the groom, was maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Linda Maroney of Winchester, Miss Deborah Litchfield of Chelmsford, Miss Mary C. Pear of Greenwich, Connecticut and Miss Charlotte Bishop of Weston. Mrs. Eben S. Andrew of Annisquam, was honorary bridesmaid. All the attendants were identically gowned in sheath dresses of white brocade and carried red poinsettias and holly.

Mr. Henry Olcott Hooper of Riverside, Rhode Island, was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. Roderick J. MacLennan of Truro, Nova Scotia; Mr. Charles H. Maddrey of Ahoskie, North Carolina; Mr. Peter C. Doran of Carbondale, Illinois; and Mr. Richard W. Gaffney of Somerville and Mr. Ralph C. Parady of Gloucester.

The bride is a graduate of Cazenovia College. Mr. Hooper graduated from Dartmouth College in 1961 and received his M. B. A. from the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth in 1962. The groom is associated with the Raytheon Company.

After a wedding trip through the Laurentians, the couple will live in Boston.

M. S. P. C. A. Silent Auction

All kinds of useful items will be sold when Winchester Auxiliary of M. S. P. C. A. meets Monday, the 14th, for the very popular annual "Silent Auction" (written bidding) to which members and friends bring something they got for Christmas, which didn't appeal to them for reasons of color, style or type. For a quarter or fifty cents people often carry away a real "find."

Friends of members and friends of animals are cordially invited to this event. The brief business meeting starts at 1:30 and a social hour will close the afternoon. For lots of fun join us on Monday, January 14. Mrs. Joseph Gibson, 14 Wedgemere Avenue is our gracious hostess.

Moser—Harris

On the afternoon of Saturday, December 29, Miss Linda Hartley Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwin Harris of Attleboro formerly of Winchester, became the bride of Mr. Richard LeRoy Moser, Jr., son of Mrs. Richard Moser of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and the late Mr. Moser.

Bradford Bachrach

MRS. RICHARD L. MOSER, JR.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white peau de soie with full length sleeves and a square neckline. Her bell shaped skirt was accented with a matching waistband. It had a chapel train fashioned with soft fullness at the back. Her veil of French silk illusion was caught at the crown with one large peau de soie rose and she carried white roses, holly berries, ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Richard Murphy of Winchester was her sister's matron of honor, and was gowned in short red peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, long sleeves and a bell shaped skirt. Her headpiece was a red veil caught to the crown with a red rose. She carried chrysanthemums, holly and ivy.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Noel Gove and Ann Luitweiler of Winchester, Miss Ellen Moser, sister of the groom, and Miss Sandra McKinney of Silver Spring, Maryland. Their gowns were identical to that of the matron of honor and they carried similar bouquets.

Mr. William Spencer Moser was his brother's best man. Serving as ushers were Mr. Roger A. Blackport and Mr. David Berles of Grand Rapids, and Mr. Glenworth Young and Mr. Thomas Ghysles of Hartford, Connecticut.

Mrs. Harris wore a rose chiffon sheath with a round neck, draped skirt and matching hat for her daughter's wedding. the bridegroom's mother was in a beige sheath of lace over satin with a matching hat and accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Moser attended Northwestern University and is also a graduate of Michigan State University in the class of 1962. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Moser plan to live in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tofuri of 1 Tremont Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily Louise, to Mr. Anthony Pacillo, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Pacillo of Reading.

A July wedding is planned.

Let's "Follow The Fun"

Many people are planning winter holidays. Three characters whom I know are headed north for a vacation of "vigah" and exercise.

But January 30 and 31 and February 1 and 2 is the time to join us at the Town Hall for Winton Club's annual "Wing Ding!" Good times and surprises are always guaranteed.

Many people are working hard preparing for this adventure. Scenery must be built, costumes stitched and fitted, lights adjusted, props gotten, music selected, a script written and other chores.

Heading up the big project is Mrs. Malcolm S. Burr, chairman of the Winton Club cabaret. The members of her general committee are: Mrs. Merton E. Ober, Mrs. Henry K. Porter, Mrs. Ralph M. Swanson, and Mrs. Robert P. Wild. These ladies are most fortunate to have Jud Davis of Cargill for director of their show.

Look for the announcement of talent night - a time when we all have the chance to try out for the glamour of show business. Don't be shy or bashful or selfish about your talent. We need you, we want you, and Mrs. George L. Snow is counting on the biggest turnout ever! See you soon!

Editorials:

Not Another Man On The Schedule, But Millions Of Seconds Of Relief

An article for the town meeting warrant submitted to the Selectmen's office yesterday morning by the Winchester Fire Department bears some thoughtful consideration by Winchester voters. It asks to see if the town will take any action in regard to the request of the members of the Fire Department to have their hours of work reduced from the present 56-hour work week to a 48-hour work week.

The decision to have the article placed on the town warrant with the Selectmen's approval as an article supported by them was negative. "After much deliberation, it was the unanimous opinion of the board, that, at this time it is not in the best interests of the Town to recommend a 48-hour week for the firefighters," was the opinion expressed by the board.

The firefighters met with the Finance Committee on the matter six weeks ago, but the committee did not support the idea.

And again, also in the latter part of November, the firefighters met with the Personnel Board to try and get some support from the official town family on the issue. The Personnel Board is still discussing the matter and has not rendered an opinion, according to Firefighter Lt. Ernest A. Howard, who heads the group representing the Fire Department in their interest in reducing the size of the work week.

It must be recognized that the Fire Department presented the same proposal to the voters of the town in the March 1961 town meeting election referendum. It was defeated by about 400 votes at that time.

However, as an article in this year's town meeting warrant, the voters will have the opportunity to vote again on the matter. It is an opportunity, rather than a chore, to do so again, because we must consider what is just and vote accordingly.

Leaving the problem of town and tax money outside the issue for the moment, although it has the very definite bearing of being intimately connected with the issue in the sense that salary and taxpayer dollars may shift somewhat from the present scale of relationship if the town votes in the affirmative, which undoubtedly and correctly was somewhat the approach used by the town officials - let's return to the real issue at stake here.

The firefighter puts in a days work just as every other working man does. True, many hours are whiled away just waiting for an emergency call, but when a call does come through he is often asked to do courageous work beyond the average working man's call of duty.

Should the firefighter be penalized for his many hours of stand by readiness? If your answer is yes, how should he be penalized for ladders not climbed, or hoses not carried or for not driving fire trucks at breakneck speed through town all day for something to do so that it can be called labor?

And again if your answer is yes, you have two means at your disposal for effecting your penalty. The first to lower his pay. But you don't want to do that because you think that both firefighters and policemen should receive fair wages for off and on hazardous duty. Well, this is not your choice at the town meeting anyway, so that can be ruled out of the picture for now.

What's left to penalize the firefighter? You have the chance to authorize the continuance of the present 56-hour work week. That's right, make him work more hours than the town asks of any other of its employees regularly, week after week.

There must be a few left who are saying that they don't have it so bad, the system seems to work alright now, and what have they got to complain about......other towns must have their Fire Departments working long hours too, or they must get overtime pay (which they don't as salaried town employees.)

Take a look at our neighboring towns and compare the systems. Of 20 communities surrounding Winchester and between Winchester and Boston, two have 56-hour work weeks for firefighters. They are besides Winchester: Reading and Wakefield. Four have 50-hour work weeks: Wellesley, Concord, Belmont and Stoneham. The other fourteen, including Woburn, Arlington and Medford have 48-hour work weeks.

The Personnel Board is concerned with salaries and wages to town employees. This factor is not directly involved with the article as presented for the town warrant (although, as has been said, there are possible tie-ins). But it is interesting to note that when the Personnel Board discusses the relativity of salaries and wages on its pay schedules it frequently looks to see what other towns are doing as some sort of model or rule of thumb to judge their decision by.

The board frequently tries to set a middle course among a given set of nearby towns in the establishment of pay schedules. Lt. Howard said it was his opinion that the board has been very fair and equitable in its appraisals with all town employees.

However, Lt. Howard adds in examining a list of 12 towns most frequently used as models such as Arlington, Melrose, Needham, Stoneham, Concord and Wellesley, Winchester fares at the bottom of the list, not the middle position, in having the shorter work week.

One of the big things close to the heart of every working man is his time off. The present 56-hour work week allows but one brief 48-hour weekend (from 8 a.m. Saturday to 8 a.m. Monday) in a six week period. Under a 48-hour work week the firefighters would have the opportunity to have three weekends off in a seven week period.

Nearly all the firefighters are married men with families and they cannot help but dislike this feature of the 56-hour work week.

The Fire Department estimates that to staff the department around the clock in the same way it has been done, six additional firefighters will have to be hired. This may be a small hardship on the town treasury and the tax dollar, but possibly that would be better than asking the firefighters to put in 56-hour work weeks every week.

On the other hand, a serious study of the needs of the Fire Department might point up that the six additional men thought to be needed to round out the schedule wouldn't be needed after all.

Penny Pinchers Parking Persists

What is the thinking behind the idea of parking meters? Isn't it to make the most use of our admittedly limited parking space for the benefit of the entire community. Certainly it is not to make it more difficult to park an automobile on visits to the center.

There are, however, not a few people who do not seem to understand this, nor to cooperate with the police in their attempts to enforce the proper use of the parking meters.

These people never put money in the meters unless there is an officer at hand to see that they do. If there is one watching, they get circumspectly from their cars and drop their coin in the meter box before leaving. If none is in the vicinity, they make no effort to deposit their coin, and doubtless they save quite a little in the course of a week or month.

If you charged one of these meter skippers with dishonesty he would be properly exercised about it. There is nothing dishonest about beating the rap at a parking meter, according to their thinking.

Not long ago we watched the cars parking on the metered side of Shore Road in front of the Converse Market. There were no more than two in every five who dropped their money in the meter box. At one point, where there were three signs asking that there be no parking, a car was parked right across the driveway entrance. The gal who parked it there went blithely about her business as if she had done something of benefit to all mankind.

As we said above, parking meters are for use so that more of us can find places to park in our crowded center. They are not going to help if some of us do not use them properly. We all would resent being told that we are stealing from the town when we fail to deposit our coin in the meter box, yet that is exactly what we are doing.

Make a new year's resolution to pay the parking fee asked by the town for using its parking spaces. We will all feel better, and there will be more parking space if we do. J.H.P.

THE WIND BLEW; AND THE WINDOW FELL. The big 7-by-10-foot window pane in front of Hevey's Pharmacy opened and shattered in the strong week-end wind gusts. Firefighters responded to the police call for assistance in "battening down the hatch," as bitter cold winds swept through the store. Window manufacturer refused to replace the large piece of glass until both the wind and temperature subsided.

Town Committee, and local Women's Chairman for the Committee. We understand, (unofficially, of course,) that John Hogan is to serve, as a member of the Governor's Inaugural Committee. We understand, too, that there will be two Inaugural Balls, one at the Armory and one at the Sheraton-Plaza.

"Well, three of our finest Committee members are home again: Joe Flaherty from the hospital, John Hogan, from Nassau, and Jack Costello from a visit to London and Ireland, his third annual trip in three years. Jack, who is the busy Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Community College Committee, takes advantage of the quiet late Fall season as a time to renew friendships abroad during his vacation.

"Again, on this trip, he enjoyed a pleasant sojourn as the guest of his friend who is a Professor at the University of London. Between visits to his Irish relatives and friends, Jack drove 1500 Irish miles and has brought back a wonderful set of films of Irish life and British historical sights, the latter including shots of Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

"All of these films we will see at our second Irish night which will take place in late January or early February. This affair will be held in a public hall and there will be guests and also invited well-known personages.

"The first Committee meeting will be called soon by its Chairman, Mrs. Bee Wilson, who has no neer as a Social Chairman. Her assistant Chairman will be Mrs. Helen Nadeau.

"Again Mrs. Mae Sericka will head up the sub-committee on invited guests. Mrs. Anna Notemyer, Mrs. Anna McLean, Mrs. Marie Colella, Mrs. Elinor Russo, Mrs. Mary Murphy, Mrs. Lillian Hughes, Mrs. Sue Winn, Mrs. Mary Doherty, Mrs. Bette Hill, Mrs. Kay Jennings, Mrs. Helen Gaynor, Mrs. Margery Flaherty, Mrs. Mary Dailey, and Mrs. Margaret Donohue will serve as committee members. The date will be announced later.

"Secretary John Hogan reports several incidents which occurred in the Bahamas. These included finding himself enjoying window-shopping and discovering that a fellow shopper, State Senator Phil Pellegrini, was standing next to him. At Paradise Beach he dropped down beside Richard Nixon and family, and Huntington Hardwick.

"While our happiness is emphatic as we welcome one of our best workers, Joe Flaherty back to the ranks, we deeply regret the sudden death of an excellent worker, Mrs. Dorothy Rainey. Chairman McDonald and Committee member Patrick Henry Allen, represented Winchester's Democratic Town Committee at Dorothy's funeral at the New Hope Baptist Church.

"Several members of the Town Committee will be present at Governor Endicott Peabody's Inaugural today and will later join those at the Governor's Reception in the historic Hall of Flags."

Census

Persons who will be out of town during the month of January and claim Winchester as their legal residence are urged to notify the person taking the census in their precinct that their name should be included and if additional information or correction should be made request the census taker to send a card provided for the purpose.

Following is the list of census takers:

Precinct I: Virginia M. Phillips, 5 Wilson Street, and Catherine A. Snell, 3 Wilson Street.

Woburn police are attempting to have Dusablon and Sampieri returned to Massachusetts for trial. Legal extradition procedure calls for the written approval of both state governors in order to have one state surrender its prisoner to another.

Dusablon, who had completed eight grades of schooling, was an unemployed truck driver. He has a police record of juvenile criminal offenses.

(If the youths had been older, or the crime against property greater, police could press for felony charges, which is punishable by up to 10 years of imprisonment.)

Sgt. Reardon said that in talking with the boys, ranging in age between 11 and 14, that he felt they did not intend to steal the money that was in the telephone, but that had done it for a little excitement and did not realize the damage that was and could have been done.

Agent James F. McMahan of the Boston FBI office, came to Winchester and Woburn to investigate the violation of Federal laws.

The youths said they had purchased the firecrackers from a 17-year-old Woburn friend who had bought them in Georgia and was selling them for a profit.

Interstate transportation laws prohibit the purchase of fireworks in one state and transporting them to another for sale.

Police said they knew of no pending action against the entrepreneuring Woburn youth by the FBI, but that a large quantity of fireworks were confiscated.

Winchester Police Chief Joseph Derro said "The selling or exploding of fireworks in Massachusetts is a serious offense, and a number of laws with stiff penalties have been enacted to prevent just the type of misdemeanor that was committed last week.

On investigating the scene after repairs were made, firefighters discovered that the water had been pumped out just as the water level had risen to the bottom edge of the main fuse box for the old section of the hospital. Another five inches of water would have short-circuited the power for lights and electricity in that part of the building.

Miss Ann Gallighan of Woburn, hospital supervisor on duty during the temporary lack of communications, said "The telephone company, fire department and police department all responded very well and quickly restored our telephone switchboard to operation."

THE METHODIST CHURCH LAST SUNDAY set aside the morning service to recognize the many students and service personnel in the parish home for the holidays. Surrounding the Reverend H. Newton Clay, whose sermon was on "Beliefs Do Matter," are, left to right, in front, the four young women who were special ushers for the service: the Misses Sue Bennett, Sharon Durfee, Jeanne Chase and Cynthia Knox. In the rear are the four young men who assisted with the service: Dale Grinnell, Bruce McKay, Larry Longworth and John Tutty. Student Recognition Sunday has become an annual event for the church.

Finger In The Pie

Season's Greetings, Mr. Khrushchev!

As we write, it is the Holiday Season—the Christmas season, when Love fills the hearts of men, and Peace rules the world. The air resounds to carols; "Merry Christmas" is the universal password. But Merry Christmas, we know, is not for you. Although the name of God may pass your lips, you brand him as a myth, and religion as an opiate. Your contempt for both is well known. You have turned churches into museums, and would turn all Russians—if you could—into atheists and anti-religionists. So—we do not wish you "Merry Christmas." In the first place, it would be meaningless; in the second, it would be a profanation.

Nor do we wish you a Happy New Year. A Happy New Year for you would be an unhappy New Year for us. Your schemes for world domination cut across our ideals of freedom, personal or national. Your treatment of human beings as pawns of the state insults our respect for the individual. You have gained fantastic power—so much, indeed, that if you want a world war you can have it, regardless of unnumbered millions victimized without their consent. Thanks to you, both they—and we—live under the constant and imminent threat of annihilation. This is an abomination of which we are all very weary. We yearn for the day when wars can be initiated, not by individuals, whoever they may be, but only by groups—preferably, of course, the United Nations.

You could, if you would, make a magnificent New Year's gift to the world. You have a rare and wonderful opportunity, offered to but few. If only, during 1963, you could manage to get through your head two simple concepts—just two!—then all the world would rejoice, and you yourself be able to divert some billions of dollars to provide better standards of living for your patient, long-suffering people.

First, you cannot dominate this world by fomenting revolutions. Your recent attempts in that area have backfired on you. Even you must have noticed that the tide is already beginning to run in the other direction. Second, as long as you mind your own business, you need have no fear of us. Our bases with which you are surrounded are for defense, not aggression. But we can understand your suspicions. As long as your motives are selfish, grasping, and calculated, you are naturally unable to concede to others sincere, generous, or human ones. You must, of course, measure us by your own yardstick. This is unfortunate.

From the start you have been ruthless. As Stalin's loyal henchman, you massacred your tens of thousands. You elbowed yourself to the top among Presidium members. In the process, you made enemies. You maintain, we suspect, a precarious existence. At any moment you may be toppled from your throne by others equally ruthless. This must occasion you food for thought. Perhaps—even sleepless nights.

Other things—many of them menacing—are converging to fill your New Year to the brim. The world-wide image of Soviet military power you strove to create is, to put it mildly, sadly tarnished. Your military inferiority was exposed in the Cuban crisis. Your promises to the Russian people about a better life have been publicly repudiated. Your red satellites in Europe are balky, with captive peoples eager to revolt. You have lost the initiative in Berlin and Germany; in Africa, where left-wing nationalists are disillusioned, and in the Communist world generally. Your relations with Red China are worsening, heading for a climax. Another headache is agriculture, where planned crop increases have failed to materialize. In Siberia, 47,000 workers walked off their jobs in protest against low wages and poor working conditions. Too, the Common Market has taken root, and seems pointed toward eventual political, as well as economic, unity in Europe. Like it or not, with it you must deal. Your troubles close in on you. Truly, a dictator's life is "not a happy one."

So—we cannot wish you happiness. It isn't in the cards. But if you would like to make a New Year's resolution—just to be in style—we do have a suggestion. It's simple—start keeping your promises! A few, now and then. At first you'll find it hard, but it's a habit that will grow. We, who must live with you, are wary of doing business with you because of your impressive record of broken faith and violated contracts. Do something, won't you, to boost your average a little?

Yes, 1963 looms as a busy year for you—VERY busy! And that's all right, too. For the busier you are at home the less time you will have for mischief abroad—to develop, perchance, more Cubas! (We trust you learned something there!) You have so MUCH to learn! However, you're no fool, and given proper incentive, may even make some progress in the right direction.

And so, in extending to you the Season's Greetings, we choose our words with care. May your Christmas be conspicuous by its absense; your New Year prove busy and constructive!

Chief Derro Is Pleased by Alert Officers to Duty

Editor of the Star:

As Chief of Police, I wish to commend Officers Thomas C. Parsons and Mario A. Buzzotta for the fine police work performed by them in capturing Robert D. Wyman of Somerville and Alton E. Hanscom, Jr., of Charlestown, for burglaries committed in the Sargent Road-Franklin Road area over the past several months.

This was a most important accomplishment, since it relieved the anxiety not only of the residents of the area involved, but also of residents of other parts of the town and other communities, particularly Medford.

The apprehension of these men was indirectly the result of planning and watching and waiting on the part of many members of the police department, but officers Parsons and Buzzotta deserve the greatest credit because they were faithful to their duty, they were on the job, they were alert, they were courageous, and they used their heads at the crucial moment.

Although I realize that these officers acted solely from a sense of duty and devotion to the public safety, and that they expect no reward beyond the satisfaction of a job well done, nevertheless I feel that they should be given some recompense for their excellent work, and therefore I order that Officers Parsons and Buzzotta shall be granted three additional days off without loss of compensation.

Joseph J. Derro,
Chief Of Police

Local Officials Praised for Job Done in 1962

Editor of the Star:

Congratulations to the Star on the splendid year-end review and for a year of outstanding reporting and service to the community.

While the year of 1962 did bring controversy, it also brought understanding. It focused attention on our Town Government and brought a new realization of the great effort and dedication that our elected officials donate to the Town. We may disagree with them at times but this does not diminish the respect and gratitude they deserve for the services they so generously provide.

The Selectmen particularly are asked to cope with every conceivable problem, and are pressured from many directions. The prodigious amount of time and effort they contribute involves not only themselves, but a sacrifice for their families. They have, I am sure, our respect and admiration.

Very truly yours,
Alton D. Jones

Art Association

On January 8, at 7:45 p.m. in the Rich room of the Library, Mrs. Maurice Schulman, director and owner of the art gallery "Origins," a gallery of Ancient and Primitive Arts, will lecture to members and friends of the Winchester Art Association on The Aspects of Aboriginal Art of Mexico and Peru. Also Mrs. Schulman will bring to the January 8 meeting unusual primitive Peruvian sculpture, jewelry and fabrics, on display for the evening only.

On exhibit from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts for the month of January, in the West Reading room of the Library will be black and white prints and some color photographs of art of Peru and Ecuador. Diego Rivera, outstanding mural artist of Mexico, has some color prints, too, for us to see, a special opportunity for all of his paintings now in the Cortez Palace.

Mrs. Rhoda A. LeRoyer

Mrs. Rhoda A. LeRoyer of 2 Elmwood Avenue, wife of Charles P. LeRoyer, died Tuesday morning January 1, at the Emery Nursing Home in West Medford where she had been since last August.

Mrs. LeRoyer was the daughter of Charles W., and Adelphine (Todd) Young. She was born March 11, 1890, in St. Stephen, N.-B., and came to Boston with her parents as a girl, graduating from the Brimmer-May School in Boston in 1908. She came to Winchester in 1909 and lived on Yale Street, and Sheffield Road, later making her home for many years on Glen Road.

Active civically, Mrs. LeRoyer joined the Winton Club the year it was organized in 1911, and devoted herself to the Club's gift shop at the Winchester Hospital, this being one of her chief interests. Prior to moving to Elmwood Avenue, she made her home on Lewis Road.

Married September 14, 1912, Mrs. LeRoyer and her husband observed their golden wedding anniversary last September. Besides her husband she leaves three sons, Charles P. LeRoyer, Jr., of Hartford, Conn. Henry L. LeRoyer of Raynham Center, and Maxime F. LeRoyer of Ipswich. There are also 10 grandchildren. She is also survived by two brothers, Mr. Fred W. Young of Erie, Pa., Mr. Kenneth T. Young of Harrisville, N. H. and a sister, Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth of Winchester.

Family services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church by the minister, Dr. Robert A. Storer. Burial will be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Benenato

Mrs. Catherine Benenato of 14 Chapin Court, a resident of Winchester for more than 45 years and widow of Antonio Benenato, died Thursday evening, December 27, at the Winchester Hospital after a short illness at the age of 73.

Mrs. Benenato was born February 3, 1889, in Italy, but came to this country as a young woman and for the past 46 years had lived in Winchester, being well known among residents of the Italian section of the town.

Surviving are three sons, John F. and Joseph, of Malden; Paul A. Benenato of Woburn; two daughters, Miss Constance Benenato of Winchester, and Mrs. Anton (Lena) Semenuk of Woburn; two grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Anna Cimino of Winchester.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with Solemn High Requiem Mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 o'clock. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Obituaries

Mrs. Anna C. S. Meserve

Mrs. Anna C. S. Meserve of 433 Main Street, a widely known resident of Winchester for nearly 30 years, died Friday evening, December 28, at the Daniels Nursing Home in Reading, after a short illness at the age of 72.

Mrs. Meserve was the daughter of Charles P., and Helen (Camerdam) Shilaber. She was born February 10, 1890 in Boston and came to Winchester in 1932, living first for some years on Cutting Street. Recently she had lived at 433 Main Street.

She was a member of the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian Church and actively associated with the National Braille Press as a volunteer worker. She had brailled many books at her home over the past ten years.

Mrs. Meserve leaves two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Tubbs of West Caldwell, N.J.; and Mrs. Katherine Morrow of South Acton; four grandsons and a sister, Mrs. Helen S. Pidgeon of Reading.

Services were held Monday forenoon at 11 o'clock at Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church with the minister, Dr. Robert A. Storer, officiating. After cremation interment will take place in the family lot in Forest Hills Cemetery.

Mrs. Pauline Kinsley

Mrs. Pauline Kinsley of 99 Cambridge Street, the wife of Willburt E. Kinsley and a resident of Winchester for 38 years, died suddenly at her home on December 27.

Mrs. Kinsley, the daughter of Evan I., and Sophie (Neighbor) Pattengill, was born February 17, 1890, in Syracuse, N. Y. She spent her early life there and in Elmira, N. Y., where she was the soloist at Grace Episcopal Church. After the death of her father she moved to Stamford, Conn., where she married Mr. Kinsley in 1924, coming to Winchester immediately afterward.

A communicant of the Church of the Epiphany, where she was long active in the Tuesday Group, she had also been in the past a member of the Fortnightly and the Florence Crittenton League.

Mrs. Kinsley is survived by her husband, Willburt E. Kinsley, a life long resident of this town.

Funeral services were conducted at her home by the Rev. John B. Hill, curate of the Church of the Epiphany, followed by cremation at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mrs. Ellen T. Loftus

Mrs. Ellen T. Loftus of 33 Swanton Street a long time and highly respected resident of Winchester died Tuesday morning January 1, at a nursing home in Medford in her 90th year. She had been ill for the past two years.

Mrs. Loftus was the daughter of Michael and Mary (McNichols) Ruddy. She was born March 14, 1873, in Ireland, but had made her home in Winchester for 70 years and was widely and favorably known by older residents of the North End. She was the wife of the late Martin Loftus, and a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society.

She leaves a son, Matthew T. Loftus, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward K. Kelley of Somerville. Two grandchildren and a great grandson also survive.

The funeral will be held Friday morning from the Lane Funeral Home at 8:15 with Requiem High Mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

James W. FitzGibbon

James W. FitzGibbon of 7 Madison Avenue West, retired traffic manager for the Boston & Maine railroad, died suddenly Monday morning, December 31 at his home. His sudden passing, wholly unexpected, came as a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. FitzGibbon was born in Cambridge July 19, 1885, but moved with his parents to Somerville as a child and grew up in that city, living there until he moved to Winchester 22 years ago. His only job had been with the Boston & Maine and he had risen to the position of traffic manager at the time of his death. He was actively identified with the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Somerville.

He leaves his wife, the former Helen Kelly; a son, John Paul FitzGibbon of Winchester; and a sister Miss Katherine FitzGibbon of Boston.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home at 8 o'clock. Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

Michael J. Drohan

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Mary's Church for Michael J. Drohan, 88, retired signal engineer of the Boston & Maine Railroad, and a resident of Winchester for 70 years.

Celebrant of a Solemn High Requiem Mass was his son, Rev. Athanasius, C.P., of Our Lady of Sorrows Monastery, West Springfield.

Mr. Drohan died December 28 at his home 85 Nelson Street, after an extended illness. He was born in Dungarvan, County Waterford, Ireland, and came to this country in his youth. He served the signal department of the Boston & Maine for 62 years, holding one of the road's longest employment records on his retirement. On the occasion of his 50th anniversary he was honored at a testimonial banquet attended by many top rail officials of the East. Presiding at the banquet was the then Governor-elect Maurice J. Tobin.

He was considered one of the top signal interlocking authorities of the country and when the Boston & Maine installed its modern freight classification yards outside North Station he was in charge of all signal work. He served for many years as signal consultant to the Maine Central Railroad.

He was married to the former Johanna Fitzgerald at St. Mary's Church, on December 26, 1896. She died five years ago.

He was a charter member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society and was a member of the Winchester Lodge B.P.O.E., and many railroad organizations. During his entire 70-year residency here he lived on Nelson Street.

Besides Fr. Athanasius he leaves three other sons, Edward W., director of public relations at Boston City Hospital; Walter M., registrar of the Lowell Technological Institute, and John M., of the auditing department of the B. & M., and a daughter, Sister Athanasia, C.S.J., of the Regis College faculty, Weston. Also six grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

Interment was at Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

James Edmund Walsh

James Edmund Walsh of 85 Brookside Avenue, a Navy veteran of World War II, died late Monday evening, December 31, at the Winchester Hospital. He had been in the hospital for only a week but had been for some time in failing health.

Mr. Walsh was the son of David and Elizabeth (Cotter) Walsh. He was born in Boston February 1, 1913, and had made his home in Winchester for the past 10 years. He was a tool maker and carpenter.

During World War II Mr. Walsh served as a shipfitter in the Navy with two years service in the Aleutians and two years in the South Pacific area. He was commended for his work during his years in service.

He leaves his wife, the former Mary Holmes; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Bronk of Andover, Mrs. Mary Froburg of Ballardvale and Mrs. Jean Candelino of Somerville; and two brothers, David, living in Florida and Fred Walsh, in North Carolina.

Services will be held this Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with the Rev. John R. Matthews, pastor of the North Salem Methodist Church in New Hampshire officiating. Burial will be in the Spring in Hillside Cemetery, Eastport, Maine.

ROBERT WHITE OF WINCHESTER and Robert Duff sounding forth on the tenor notes of Verdi's "Requiem."

Lexington Choral Society Concert

One hundred forty-eight singers from Winchester and 39 other communities have rehearsed since September in preparation for the Lexington Choral Society's performance of Verdi's "Te Deum" and the "Manzoni Requiem." The Choral Society, assisted by soloists and orchestra, will present these works in Cary Hall, Lexington on January 12 and 13 at 8:30 p.m.

The "Te Deum," written for double chorus, is one of Four Sacred Pieces composed in 1896. The magnificent Requiem Mass, completed in 1874, was written to commemorate the death of the poet Manzoni. It has been remarked that in composing this dramatic masterpiece Verdi was praising God to the best of his ability according to his talents. Also that, "Verdi's unquestioning use of his natural operatic speech bears witness to the flaming sincerity in every note."

Director Allen C. Lannom recently stated, "Verdi thoroughly understood the quality of sound. There is always an electrifying 'something' at work. Although this work obviously is not liturgical, we all need to recognize that even when he uses the musical language of the operatic stage; he genuflects before a very real, personal altar. Romantic the music may be, but it must have been felt in the deepest part of the composer's being - that part where music snd religion were one."

Soloists for the concerts will be Marjorie McClung, soprano; Corinne Curry, mezzo-soprano; Carl Olsen, tenor and Jay Hilborn, baritone. The Philharmonia Symphony Orchestra will have Robert Brink as concertmaster.

Admission is by free ticket only. These may be ordered from any chorus member or Ticket Chairman Mrs. Gerald Lauderdale EM 9-3369, Mrs. John Harris CI 9-8672.

To Speak At Church Guild Meeting

Mr. Robert M. Mulford of this town is to be the guest speaker at the joint meeting of the Social Service and Mission Union Guilds of the First Congregational Church on next Tuesday, January 8.

MR. ROBERT M. MULFORD

This meeting, which will be held in Chidley Hall, will start with a luncheon at one o'clock under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles P. Dreyer and Mrs. John U. Monro. The worship service will be conducted by Mrs. Albert J. Penner.

Mr. Mulford who is General Secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, is a graduate of Syracuse University with an M. S. in Social Work from Columbia University. He is a special lecturer for Harvard University School of Public Health and Simmons College School of Social Work. He is a member of the Advisory Committee of the American Humane Association and has been associated with many other organizations in the field of social service, including the National and the Massachusetts Conferences on Social Welfare.

Mr. Mulford's subject will be "The Neglected Child as a Handicapped Person." All women of the Church are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Baby-sitting will be available at a nominal fee.

David P. Blair On Dean's List At Lake Forest

David P. Blair, sophomore biology major, and son of Dr. and Mrs. Murray R. Blair of 32 North Border Road, is among the 171 students at Lake Forest College named to the Dean's List for superior scholastic achievements during the 1962 fall term which ended December 7, according to Dr. William Lewis Dunn, provost and dean of the Faculty.

This honor group represents 16 per cent of the student body of 1,066, and includes 100 women and 71 men. The senior class placed 37 members on the Dean's List, a percentage of 23 per cent. The list also included 39 juniors, or 18 per cent of the class; 47 sophomores, or 17 per cent of the class; and 45 freshmen who represented 13 per cent of the class.

Neighbor Helping Neighbor Through March of Dimes

The March of Dimes began as a tribute to an American president who proved that even though a man might not be able to walk, he could still lead.

Each president, in the 25 years since, has welcomed the annual March of Dimes as an opportunity to salute the American people for a record of accomplishment which cannot be matched by any other voluntary health agency in the world.

Neighbor helping neighbor, through the March of Dimes, has brought about:

for many areas in the country, new facilities offering highest quality medical care for persons with polio, birth defects and arthritis through a growing network of treatment centers.

for every child on every continent, polio protection through vaccines developed solely with March of Dimes funds.

for the protection of human life, a magnificent fund of basic research, which promises to shed light on a variety of diseases.

for thousands afflicted by birth defects, arthritis and polio, more than one-third of a billion dollars in patient aid.

for anyone who ever suffers from a crippling disability, development of improved equipment and medical techniques, originally to aid polio patients, but now used to relieve many kinds of crippling handicaps.

In this area hundreds of "good neighbors" are volunteering their services this month in the National Foundation's great fight against crippling diseases. Mothers, fathers and teenagers, too, are participating in the annual campaign for funds which make possible the treatment, care and research in this great humanitarian effort.

We exhort all to join in this worthy enterprise, conducted locally by Middlesex East Chapter. Those who are unable to participate actively in the campaign can help the cause by responding generously to the appeal of the volunteer workers.

The campaign slogan "Give for the Life of a Child" will, we feel sure, touch every heart during this Silver Anniversary of the March of Dimes.

Cambridge Panel For New Parents

Dr. Eva J. Salber will speak on "Patterns of Breast-Feeding," accompanied by a film, and lead a panel discussion with members of the Nursing Mothers Council at the January meeting of the Boston Association for Childbirth Education.

The meeting will be held on Wednesday, January 9, at 8 p.m. at the Friends Meeting House, at 5 Longfellow Park in Cambridge. Parents and professional people are cordially invited to attend and are advised of ample parking on Brattle Street.

A native of South Africa, Dr. Salber received her training there as both a Medical Doctor and a Professor of Medicine. She has lived in the United States for seven years and is currently Senior Research Associate at Harvard's School of Public Health. Dr. Salber is a resident of Newton and the mother of four children; she will speak from her experiences as a mother as well as a researcher.

The Boston Association For Childbirth Education is non-profit and non-sectarian and is a member of the International Childbirth Education Association. It sponsors a variety of activities and services concerned with pregnancy, delivery, breast-feeding and infant care, including pre-natal classes offered in Newton and Lincoln at regular intervals.

For further information about any of these programs, please call Mrs. Alan Friot, PA 9-1870.

First Baptist Will Sponsor Sessions On Special Needs

The First Baptist Church will conduct four consecutive evening sessions for children, young people and adults on the role of the Church's Mission to Persons of Special Need during the month of January.

The church's concern will be with awakening awareness within the community of the needs of the blind, the deaf, the mentally retarded, the physically handicapped, the aged, the emotionally disturbed, the narcotic, the juvenile delinquent, the alcoholic, and the imprisoned.

Guest speakers with films will address the evening sessions and speak directly with the respective age groups. Individuals from the Perkins School for the Blind will show their film "Children of the Silent Night;" Mr. Thomas P. Walker, field representative from the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped, Inc.; Mr. Moran from the United Prison Association of Mass. will speak and show the film "From Convict to Citizen;" Miss Barbara Harred, speech therapist from the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing; Lieut. John Elliott from the Winchester Police Department; Chaplain Fred Brown from Lyman School for Boys; and a member of the A1-Anon organization will all take part in confronting the church with its mission to "Persons of Special Need."

The program will begin at 5:30 p.m. each Sunday with a buffet supper followed by worship and study. Group leaders are: Primary, Mrs. Dean Veltman; Junior, Mrs. David Thoms; Junior High, Miss Mary Ann Skruta; Senior High, Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell; and Adults, Mrs. Arthur Barker. All members and friends of First Baptist are urged to attend these exciting sessions developed by the National Council of Churches on the needs and problems within communities.

Henry Clark In Special Course

Mr. Henry L. Clark, Jr., president of the J. H. Winn, Inc., is one of eleven small business executives who recently successfully completed a 10-session Advanced Financial Management Workshop conducted by Northeastern University, and received graduation certificates on N. U.'s Henderson House conference center in Weston.

Highlighting the graduation ceremonies was a talk by William G. Simpson, deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration for Management and Research Assistance, Washington, D. C., who told the assembled graduates how his office is preparing a nationwide program which will be of great benefit to them.

The course, conducted by Northeastern's Center for Continuing Education in cooperation with the Small Business Administration, was designed primarily for small business owner-managers or those responsible for company financial management.

Basically concerned with areas such as present and future profits, sources of money, and money management, the workshop also ranged through many facets of sound financial planning and control procedures.

Returned To Camp Lejeune

Marine Lance Corporal John E. Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bird, Sr., of 63 Wildwood Street, returned to Camp Lejeune, N. C., on December 1, with Headquarters and Service Company, First Battalion, Sixth Marine Regiment.

The battalion was engaged in extended operations away from Camp Lejeune recently. It returned as part of a major movement of Second Marine Division forces back to the large east coast amphibious training base.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF "Honey Fitz"

STARTS TUESDAY • JANUARY 8

John F. "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald, grandfather of our President.

History lives again in this newspaper series from John Henry Cutler's book as colorful political figures fight and shout through Record American pages. Brawling, uproarious years of brickbats and insults. Honey Fitz in frock coat and derby singing "Sweet Adeline" as the theme song of a political career. Fighting his way up in the gaslight era when the sweat of labor was bought at 70c a day. When grinding poverty and prejudice were symbolized by the NINA sign at factory gates . . . Sachems Edge Tanners

The newly organized Winchester High School indoor track team got away to an auspicious start last Friday afternoon, at the Andover Academy indoor cage, edging the Tanners of Woburn, 43 to 34 in a meet that was decided by the last event, the relay.

Either team could take the meet with a win in the relay, and Woburn's chances looked good at the end of the first leg, in which Winchester's exchange student from Hungary, Tebor Saddler, did not pace himself well and was behind by 15 yards starting the second leg.

Austin Garvey, son of Woburn's track coach, cut down this lead somewhat, running against Joe Maltacea, record holding sprinter, so Winchester's third runner, Dick Lindsey had nearly 15 yards to make up.

Not only did Lindsey erase the deficit, but in a strong finish stretched his advantage to 10 yards as he and the Sachem anchor runner, Bill Thoms, changed batons.

Thoms, with his long bouncy stride held every bit of his advantage and won going away in 2m 28.7s.

Thoms was Winchester's star, winning the 600, tying for first in the high jump and anchoring the winning relay. Woburn placed one-two in the mile, won the dash and 300 as well as the 1,000 yard run.

Stoneham Upsets Sachems

The Stoneham High School basketball team, led by Jack French's 22 points, defeated the Winchester High School basketball in the opener of the Middlesex League for both teams. Stoneham led all the way in a game which saw the Sachems unable to control the boards.

In the first period, Stoneham led by Jack French jumped out to a 5-1 lead. The Sachems tied the score at 7-7, but again French led Stoneham as they jumped out in front 17-8 as the first period ended.

As the second period started, the Sachems led by Jim Devaney closed the lead to four points, but again Stoneham jumped back to an eight point lead 21-13. With about the three minutes left in the half, the Sachems finally rallied and closed the gap to three points as the half ended, 25-22.

The third period saw Stoneham jumping out to a seven point lead on two quick baskets by Eric Agursson. The Sachems were unable to cut this lead as Stoneham played steady ball and led 37-28 at the end of the third quarter.

Capt. Jim Devaney again pulled the Sachems to within four points as the fourth period got under way only to have Stoneham come rgiht back and take a six point lead with four minutes left. The Sachems fought hard and again cut Stoneham's lead to two points with a little over two minutes left. Stoneham guard Jack French again pulled his teammates ahead by six with some fine shooting and the Sachems found themselves on the short end, losing 51-45.

Library Film Program

On Friday, January 4, 1963, at 7:30 p.m., the Family Film Programs will be resumed. "Journey into Spring" will look ahead, with the coming of Spring to the English countryside, revealed by a detailed observation of animal, pond and plant life in Hampshire, the parish of the famous 18th Century naturalist, the Rev. Gilbert White. This brilliantly made film blends a lyrical track with exquisite color photography.

"Movie Set in Action" shows a movie set in one of the major Hollywood studios working on a television film. It includes all the people, sets and equipment involved in actually shooting one scene.

In "Irish Children" a young brother and sister help with farm and household chores and join the whole family picnicking and digging turf from the bog.

School age children may see the film Saturday morning at 10:15.

"Clipit," the new, better way to clip newspapers and magazines. Fast, easy and neat. Cuts only the top sheet. 98c at the Winchester Star.

Sachems Hand Everett First Loss

The Winchester High School basketball team, led by Capt. Jim Devaney's 26 points, defeated Everett High 58-47. The loss ended an Everett four-game winning streak.

Everett's Richie Green put Everett ahead in the first period scoring seven out of his teams 13 points, to take a 13-9 lead at the end of the first period. Winchester fought back behind the shooting of forward Jim Devaney and tied the score at 23-23 as the half ended.

The Sachems hit for four straight baskets as the third quarter started and took a 43-37 lead as the third quarter ended. As the fourth quarter started, the Sachems again, led by Jim Devaney, added to their lead and put the game out of Everett's reach, winning by a score of 58-47.

Capt. Jim Devaney played one of his finest games, scoring 26 points and leading the Sachems to an upset victory over Everett. Everett star Richie Green played well, scoring 16 points, but had no real backing from his teammates in defeat.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

The annual club Christmas party was held this year on the 26th and featured an epicurean array of delicacies provided by our own fabulous Ann Dean and her well organized Entertainment Committee.

While everyone gathered around the punch bowl, the names of those willing to risk it were tossed into a hat and the resulting draw produced a number of interesting blind-date partnerships.

As a result, Santa Claus was in evidence most of the evening; but his best gift was to Herb Wood who found Fredna Perkins in his stocking and joined with her to celebrate the season with a most impressive overall victory. The large, 18-table section played 22 boards as the 36 pairs sought to come out on the plus side of a 90 point average. The successful ones included:

North-South

Fredna Perkins and Herbert Wood	114
Ann Dean and Ann Murray	107
Miggs Root and Guy Mingolelli	98½
Eleanor Mansfield and Richard Smith	96
Betty Olive and Dr. Robert Blackler	95
Ted Atkinson and Pat Grady	95
Thea Andrews and Thomas Holdiman	95
Chandler Symmes and Jock Olmsted	94
Evelyn Blackler and Martha Walker	92
Lorna Symmes and William Duryea	92

East-West

Chester Davis and George Sweet	107½
Helen Mahoney and Darrell Root	103½
Prue Kimball and Blair Hawley	103½
Peg Sullivan and Edward Sullivan	103
Alice Kimball and Charles Watson	102½

Our club has just found another benefactor in the person of Mr. Simeone, proprietor of the White Spot in Woburn and of Simeone's Restaurant in Cambridge, who has been kind enough to donate a six month supply of paper coffee cups to the WDBC.

We are looking forward to another banner year for duplicate bridge in Winchester. Membership applications are coming in at a record pace, and the club may well reach its limit of 100 before February 1st.

For the benefit of those not familiar with the details, the WDBC meets every Wednesday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Any Winchester resident is eligible to take advantage of the opportunity to obtain a season playing privilege for $20.00. This entitles the member to 52 weeks of bridge, including 12 master point nights and six club championships. This is the equivalent of $60.00 worth of nightly charges. We think that this is the best entertainment buy available anywhere. Individual or couples interested should contact treasurer Ralph Atkinson (PA 9-2903) as soon as possible. Happy New Year to all!

What Do You Do When It's Cold Outside?

Some people light a fire in the fireplace: some bundle up in extra clothing: some go skiing or skating: but some think about carpeting to cover that cold floor. There's nothing colder than a cold floor, especially first thing in the morning.

If the cold weather starts you thinking about carpeting . . . why don't you visit our showroom. We have over 2,000 selections of broadloom carpeting and oriental rugs in every price range to warm your floor.

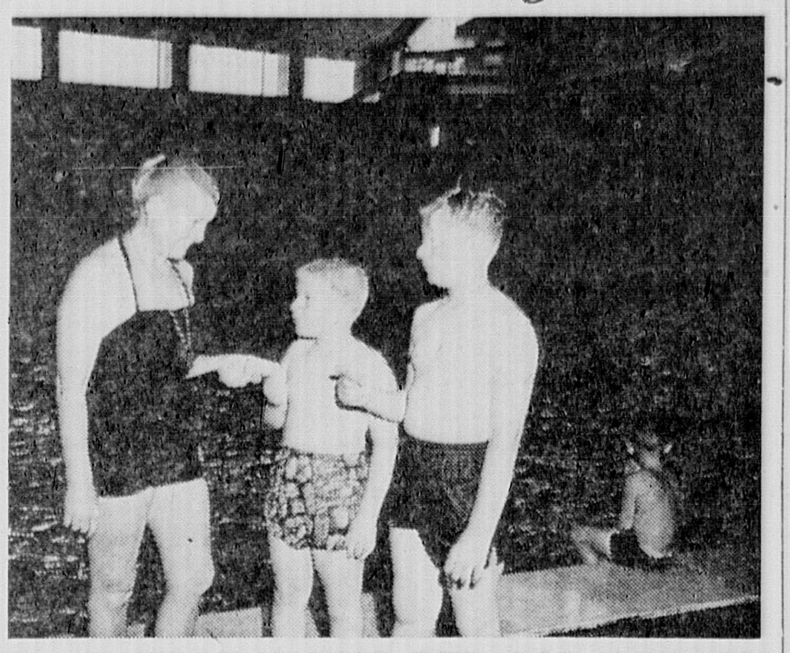
Red Cross Swimming . . . In Italy



MRS. HERBERT D. CROWLEY, WIFE OF LT. COMMANDER CROWLEY, who has been stationed in Italy, has been instructing the children of military and civilian personnel in the Naples city pool as an instructor in the American Red Cross Swimming Program there.

The Star has received from the Naples, Italy, office of the American Red Cross, a report of the leadership and participation of Mrs. Herbert D. Crowley of 25 Albamont Road, wife of Lt. Commander Herbert D. Crowley, until recently stationed there with the U. S. Navy.

The organization expresses through its report the gratitude to Mrs. Crowley felt by many servicemen and service families in that area.

The Crowley family, which includes four children, is due to return to Winchester very shortly.

In addition to being an active Gray Lady doing volunteer work in the Naval Hospital, Mrs. Crowley undertook training as a Swimming Instructor and recently taught four hours a day at the Red Cross Swimming Program in the City of Naples Mostra Indoor Swimming Pool.

The newly inaugurated Swimming Program is open to all military and civilian personnel and dependents affiliated with NATO and other governmental organizations in Naples. In her work with the Program, Mrs. Crowley has taught children from England, France, Turkey and Italy as well as many American youngsters. About 600 children received training recently and some 300 of these some sort of certification.

Mrs. Crowley has also been secretary of the Board of Directors for the USO Club serving American military personnel assigned to Naples and to members of the Sixth Fleet when they are in port.

Lt. Commander and Mrs. Crowley are the parents of Kevin Colgate Crowley who was reported in last week's Star to have been elected president of his class at Forrest Sherman High School for Naval dependents' school in Naples and to be pitcher for the Babe Ruth Baseball League there. They have three other children, Peter, Debbie, and Gregory.

Saint Mary's Bombs Belmont

Saint Mary's hockey team took a giant stride in the defense of the Cardinal Cushing Trophy, symbolic of C.Y.O. hockey league supremacy, as they defeated Our Lady's of Belmont 5-2 in one of the feature games of last week's C.Y.O. league action.

Although vastly outplayed in the first period some stellar goal tending by Jim Kirk kept Belmont off the score sheet and gave Saint Mary's time to regroup their forces.

Midway through the second period Frank Hession got his club off the starting block with a neat tip in of Skip Fucillo's blue line blast. Pepper Cunningham and Dennis Griffin combined beautifully for Saint Mary's second goal of the period.

Griffin started the play at the blue line, whipped a side board pass over to Cunningham and the latter quickly backhanded the puck into the Belmont cage.

Saint Mary's maintained their scoring pace through the final frame with John Stabile lighting the lamp at 3:02 and John Moran tallying just forty seconds later to up the count of 4-0.

Belmont capitalized on a breakaway at the halfway point of the period but Bob Nannene iced the decision just one minute and forty seconds from the final buzzer when he converted John Moran's centering pass. Although Belmont was able to break Kirk's magic for a second goal, their effort was to no avail as there was only one minute and ten seconds showing on the clock.

You can now buy the widely advertised STICK, a pressure-sensitive paper glue in dry stick form, also STITCH, an adhesive formula that makes any fabric a press-on. Holds fast indefinitely. At the Winchester Star.

1962 In The Sports World Disappointing, Promising

FOOTBALL

The year 1962, considered sports-wise, offered little of moment during the 365 days it languished in Winchester. There was little to mark it as distinctive.

Commencing with the high school sports; the football team has only recently completed an unfortunate season, winning but a single game in nine, and that from non-league Cambridge High and Latin School.

There are several reasons for Winchester's poor showing on the gridiron. Chief among them was a scarcity of material, and what sometimes seemed like a lack of desire on the part of the material that was at hand. Many times victory eluded the Sachems because of mistakes in judgment, fumbles, and intercepted passes.

BASEBALL

In baseball the high school won 7 out of 17 games played and finished 5th in the Middlesex League. A new coach, Bob Kessler, had to get used to the material left him by his predecessor, Frank Provinzano, and this took time. On the whole the team perked up under Kessler's coaching, and toward the end of the season was beginning to win rather regularly. There should be much better results this season.

WINCHESTER

BASKETBALL

The basketball team split 18 games in the middle, winning nine and losing nine. The team finished fourth in the Middlesex League, and on the whole did fairly well.

There were inter-squad troubles that had to be ironed out during the season that prevented a better showing, but once Coach "Jimsy" Phillips decided upon a positive course of action, things began to work out and the team finished strongly, with prospects for this season reasonably bright.

TROPHIES WON

The John Joy Trophy was won by Albany, skipped by Don Nord, and the Winchester Shield went to Schenectady, skipped by H. B. Harker.

The Fulton Cup, emblematic of the club championship was won by the rink skipped by Bobby Wood, and including Charlie Reeves, Frank Murphy and Bill Speers. The White Cup went to the rink skipped by George Whitten, including Dave Buttrick, Ed Little and Earl Spencer, Jr.

The Young Cup for senior skips was won by a rink skipped by Dr. Sheeran and comprising John Macdonald, Brad Bentley and Lyle Longworth. The Chairman's Trophy for junior skips was won by the rink comprising Tommy Downes, skip, George DeVries, George Watson and Dick Pettingell.

The Winchester Rink for the Harold Farnsworth Trophy was won by Malcolm Moysey, skip; Betty Moysey, Dr. David MacDonald and Katherine MacDonald. The Geoffrey Neiley Trophy went to the rink from from Utica, N. Y.; Robert Borcheski, skip; Ann Borcheski, Harry Remmer and Connie Remmer. The Capitol Winter Rink with Geoffrey Richards, skip, made off with the Joseph L. S. Barton Trophy.

CROSS — COUNTRY

The cross country team did well in dual competition though it was unable to score in championship meets.

The girls basketball team carried the banner for high school sports this past season by finishing its season undefeated for the first time in several seasons.

Winchester had a fine gymnastics team, winning most of its dual meets and finished third in the big State meet with 99 points. Soccer was also introduced to the high school this past year with indoor track and wrestling being scheduled for a trial this year.

The Celtics won the PAL Basketball series, and after several years of vain trying the town finally voted Sunday Bowling.

RUGBY MATCH

There was another Rugby match on Manchester Field for the benefit of the Owen Scholarship fund with the Boston Rugby team beating the Westmount Rugger Club of Montreal, 17-5.

Ted Bailey, a Winchester boy, had exceptional success with the hammer, breaking the Harvard record and finishing well up in interscholastic competition. The Winchester Bantams, coached by Bill Cruwys, won the championship of the North Shore Hockey League, but their big brothers at high school weren't able to win either the Middlesex League, or State crowns.

ODDS and ENDS

The Winchester Merchants, playing their second season in the Carling Inter-City League, made an exceptionally good showing and were in the race for the championship right down to the wire.

Dick Chapman of Oyster Harbors and his 20-year-old son, Dixie, won the Father and Son Golf Tournment at the Winchester Country Club. The championship of the Park Department Softball League was won again by the Sons of Italy. Police Lt. Edward O'Connell landed a 35 pound striped bass during the summer at Plum Island.

Winchester Tennis Players won the Wright Cup after a successful season.

CURLING

Great strides have been made in curling at the Winchester Country Club during the year just passed, and this sport is commencing now to challenge golf in the general interest it arouses.

In the big International Bonspiel, played in Winchester, the rink skipped by Dr. Paul Sheeran won the Winchester Bowl. William Crosston, George DeVries and Paul Rimbach were the other team members.

BOATING

Boating hereabouts this past summer was distinguished by the Winchester Boat Club's sponsoring the annul Invitational Snipe Regatta which attracted 40 odd boats from all over the eastern seaboard to Mystic Lakes in July. Rod Long was the individual winner of the regatta.

At Marblehead Race Week Winchester was conspicuous by its absence, the local boat club entering no boats in the snipe competition which Winchestesr has dominated in recent years.

LITTLE LEAGUE

The Buffalos, coached by Roland Gray and with John Stone as manager, won the championship of the American Little League. The National Little League champs were the perennial Dodgers, managed this year by Woody Boynton and with John Martin and Alden Cheever, coaches.

In a Mothers little league game on Ginn Field the Green Perfumed Swatters set back the Red Silk Stockings by an estimated score of 12-3.

The Giants won the championship of the Babe Ruth League with the White Sox, second. The composite team got into the playoffs but was unable to win the championship.

Nash Receives Institute Diploma For Juvenile Study

William E. Nash, juvenile officer of the Winchester Police Department, graduated from a juvenile institute course at Northeastern University's New England Police Institute in Weston on Friday, December 21.

Police juvenile specialists from six states attended the intensive one-week course taught by some of the nation's foremost authorities on police juvenile matters.

At a graduation banquet ceremony, Dr. John Coughlin, director of the Massachusetts Youth Service Board, addressed the police juvenile officers.

In commenting on the Winchester Police Department's contribution to the police programs at Northeastern, Professor Robert Sheehan, director of the institute, said, "Chief Derro has recognized the need for professionalizing the police service enjoyed by the citizens of the town of Winchester.

"Working closely with the university," Professor Sheehan added, "the chief has moved forward significantly through education in his all-out effort to make Winchester a safe community in which to live."

New Protection Program For Area Shipyards

Mr. Adam Vanyo of 49 Harvard Street is a member of the committee which recently presented a new protection program to the State Congressional Delegation relating to shipyard employees.

The program was defined in a release received from the National Association of Government Employees as follows:

"Members of the Massachusetts Congressional Delegation and city and state officials were presented a six-point program which would avert layoffs at the Boston Naval Shipyards.

"Kenneth T. Lyons, president of the National Association of Government Employees, in laying down his recommendations which called for the modernization of the Navy Yard and special training programs for nuclear construction, urged that these measures be carried out not only to protect the jobs of the 3,000 Middlesex County employees but also to create more jobs by increasing the workloads at the Boston Naval Shipyard.

"1. Formation of a committee from the delegation, State Legislators, business leaders, and employee representatives from the shipyard to meet the Secretaries of the Navy and Defense to outline the local position.

"2. Sponsor legislation to cancel the present law, which removes repair work from the yard and allow the yard to perform on an efficient productive basis.

"3. Allow the shipyard to bid competitively on the building of Naval nuclear vessels when it has been given the same opportunity to train its personnel on nuclear work, as have other Naval shipyards.

"4. Enact legislation to remove from competition any shipbuilders whose workmanship or overcharges were found to be the result of carelessness or fraud by the General Accounting Office.

"5. Include the Boston Naval Shipyard in Boston's future waterfront picture.

"6. Recommend to Congress that schools and colleges in Greater Boston be assigned to train shipyard workers to handle nuclear systems.

Lyons said the Navy has plans for such nuclear training, but up to now it has not acted in any manner that would give rise to the shipyards diversification from handling conventional work.

Reappointed To Five Year Term

Massachusetts Commissioner of Veterans' Services, Charles N. Collatos of Lexington, has been reappointed to another five year term by Governor John A. Volpe. He is National President of the Association of State Directors of Veterans' Affairs.

A combat veteran of World War II in which he served in the European theater with airborne troops, Collatos did special duty at the famed Potsdam conference in Germany at war's end.

A graduate of Northeastern University, the Bay State veterans' official formerly served on the staff of the late Gov. Paul A. Dever and was later named a State Labor Relations Commissioner. He has been Commissioner of Veterans' Services and Director of the Korean Bonus Division since 1956.

Long active in veterans' organizations, Commissioner Collatos is a past state commander of the American Legion, former National Executive Committeeman and he is also a member of the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and AMVETS.

The commissioner has been widely praised for his efforts to provide greater benefits for veterans and their dependents through legislation and efficient operation of existing Federal and State laws. He has also been commended by such organizations as the American Legion, AMVETS, Disabled American Veterans, Jewish War Veterans, Polish War Veterans and many other civic groups.

Commissioner Collatos expressed to Gov. Volpe his gratitude at being re-appointed and pledged to continue his outstanding public service to Massachusetts veterans and their families.

Living With Your Heart

by HOWARD B. SPRAGUE, M.D.
Past President
Mass. and American Heart Assns.

("Living With Your Heart" is a community service of the Massachusetts Heart Association Greater Boston Chapter.)

Is the stress accompaning the pace of urban American life a major cause of heart disease?

It is possible to suffer a heart attack, and death from the effects of anger, fear or anxiety, of course—with a major "if"—if one is harboring unsuspected coronary artery disease.

But is modern life actually any more stressful than that of our forbears who emerged from the cave to the split-level home over the centuries- Can the strains of the office in 1962 be compared with validity to those of the jungle? And how does one explain the fact that Trappist monks, who lead lives of placidity, frugality and lean diet have not been spared from artery degenration, which sets the stage for heart attacks?

My inclination is to believe that the role of inborn metabolic errors weighs more heavily than that of environment in the causing of heart disease. Indeed, if it were possible to capture that will-o'-the-wisp, a satisfactory test to define individual liability to coronary disease, I venture to say that nonsusceptible persons could eat and work as they wish and indulge in the more common vices without revenge at the hands of the heart.

Each of us has his personal reaction to stress, and I seriously doubt it is predictable by any presently available test. Attempts to define coronary-prone people on the basis of emotional reactions of known patients compared with "controls" of so-called normal individuals seem to me to be unrealistic.

Stress cannot be defined by the dimensions of the load; though there are relationships between some heart attacks and a specific "stress" event, it does not seem that sustained stress over a long period has great significance. One is led to wonder why, even if the role of the emotions in heart trouble is assumed, the continuation of such stresses—or even an increase—fails to produce a second heart attack in an impressive number of patients.

The physician may be credited with saving his patient from further destruction but who among us does not recall men who disregarded all his advice and lived merrily on despite the direst of predictions?

In my own experience it appears that the man who recovers well enough to return to his usual work does best if he stops smoking, loses weight and increases his physical activity. I use ability to follow such a regimen as a test of the patient's motivation to recover fully.

Dr. Harry J. Johnson, president of the Life Extension Foundation, found on the basis of examination of 20,000 executives by his agency that often the healthiest men worked hardest and longest, had the most stress and rather enjoyed it.

I believe the human develops artery degeneration or clotting imbalance if he is hereditarily inclined toward it and the environment of diet, tobacco, physical inertia, long hours of work and other factors brought by socio-economic stresses are operative.

Coronary disease is too no-scientific in its victims to be the result of a single cause, and its attribution purely to stress is too easy and popular a theory to be lightly accepted by medical science.

The American public is constantly fueled with anxiety about its stresses. It is encouraged to swaddle itself securely from any form of worry—an unrealistic way of life if one ever existed.

As a result, certain occupations are becoming classified as stressful and automatic pension perquisites follow. Laws are passed inhibiting the hiring of older workers, and lawyers have a field day. To me, this smacks of decadence.

One can only hope that coronary disease will prove more amenable to changes in the environment short of a return to the cradle for, as Rene Dubois says, "to grow in the midst of dangers is the fate of the human race, because it is the law of the spirit."

N. G. Society Erects Memorial To Admiral Byrd

A striking new memorial near Arlington National Cemetery honors the late Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the great polar explorer.

The memorial was erected by the National Geographic Society, which supported Admiral Byrd's expeditions and published many personal accounts of his adventures.

The heroic bronze statue portrays Admiral Byrd in arctic dress at the height of his career when he was hailed throughout the world as the foremost polar flyer. The statue rests on a base of white Carrara marble, symbolizing ice and snow.

"Avenue of Heroes"

Located near the main gates of Arlington Cemetery, across the Potomac from Washington, the memorial stands on a ceremonial roadway which is to become an "Avenue of Heroes." The statue is the first to be placed on the avenue, which was set aside as an appropriate site to honor outstanding Americans.

Speaking at the statue's recent dedication, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said, "Every once in a while there comes a rare individual who pioneers the wasteland and sets the feet of his fellow human beings on new paths.

"Admiral Byrd was one of those restless striving souls without whom mankind would still be living in caves and gnawing at bones half-cooked over an open fire," Mr. Johnson said. "He faced peril with sure confidence that the soul of immortal man was so strong that it would triumph over any hazard or adversity."

Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally, Jr., who also spoke at the dedication, summarized Admiral Byrd's early naval career. "From the very beginning," Mr. Connally said, "young Dick Byrd demonstrated the courage, determination, and sheer grit that were to serve him so well when he faced the later hardships of polar exploration." He described the explorer's five expeditions to the Antarctic.

Life Had Four Dedications

Speaking for Admiral Byrd's family, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, the explorer's brother, said: "My Brother Dick had four dedications in life. He was dedicated to his family, whom he loved; he was dedicated to his country, which he cherished; he was dedicated to the Navy, which he served; and he was dedicated to the National Geographic Society, which he esteemed."

Senator Byrd praised the society for aiding his brother and other explorers: "Certainly no other private institution has done so much to support bold hands when they have sought to draw the veil from the mysteries of the world."

Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, said at the dedication: "With the passing of Admiral Byrd in March, 1957, the world lost one of the greatest of all polar explorers. No man contributed more to our knowledge of the Arctic and Antarctic. The first man ever to fly over both poles, he will live in history as the Admiral of the Ends of the Earth."

The statue was created by the noted Washington sculptor. Felix de Weldon, whose famed Iwo Jima group is near by.

Boston Center For Adult Education New Term Starts

The winter term of more than 100 day and evening courses will begin the week of January 7 at the Boston Center For Adult Education, 5 Commonwealth Avenue.

A wide variety of weekly classes open to men and women of all ages from Boston and suburban communities will include Patterns of Contemporary Thought, Great Religions, Your Income Tax, Languagesl plus many offerings in music and the arts.

Registration will continue through January 12; for information and a free program booklet, call COpley 7-4430.

"Beauty And The Beast"

The Boston Children's Theatre opens the New Year with their presentation of "Beauty and the Beast" on Saturday, January 19 at New England Life Hall.

This three-act version of "Beauty and the Beast" is a dramatization by the well-known writer, Nicholas Stuart Gray. The story has always had a particular appeal to children. It contains considerable humor and excitement in the action and tempo of the plot.

The principal roles will be played by Valerie Clark of Belmont as "Beauty," and George Connolly of Jamaica Plain as "The Beast." Howard Weiner of Revere will play "Hodge, the Wizard." Also lending support will be Arlene Feinberg of Belmont, Ellyn O'Toole of South Boston, Amy Kraft of Newton, Joyce Mesnick of Brookline, and Elaine Bell of Revere.

Adele Thane is directing, with sets by Thomas Picard, costumes by Vivian Dooley, and lighting by Charles Atwell and Dave Adams. Performances are scheduled for January 19 and 26, and February 2 and 9, at 2:30. The theatre is again offering special group rates for civic groups, P.T.A.'s, schools, Scouts, etc.

Reservations may be obtained by writing or calling the Boston Children's Theatre, 263 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, KEnmore 6-3324.

"Honey-Fitz" Book to Be Serialized

It was the brawling, tumultuous years of politics in Boston, the florid era of Honey Fitz, who rode to fame on a song he sang himself, "Sweet Adeline." Beginning Tuesday, January 8, The Boston Record American will serialize John Henry Cutler's nostalgic book, "Honey Fitz," which has already caught much public attention since the derby-hatted frock-coated pioneer is the grandfather of the President, the Attorney General, and the new U. S. Senator.

Fighting prejudice, poverty, and ignorance, John F. "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald brought a new concept to Boston politics and set the pattern for political organization that has been so successfully followed by his grandsons. Replete with amusing incidents and comments about the gaslight and horsecar era, "Honey Fitz" is a warm and knoweldgeable series both informative and entertaining.

Jaycee International Benefit

The international division of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a piano recital by Richard Perry on January 6, 1963 at 3:00 p.m. at the Bardwell Auditorium of the Dana Hall School in Wellesley.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the International Student Association of Greater Boston. Tickets sell for $1.25 and $.75. For reservations call CE 7-9056.

Salvation Army Reports Christmas Activities

Major Norman E. Sampson, officer in charge of Salvation Army services in Greater Boston, reports The Salvation Army reached more families than ever before during the 1962 Christmas season.

A preliminary check of the statistics reveals that 2,026 family dinners were provided for 10,125 hungry men, women and children in Greater Boston; 4,915 children were happily surprised on Christmas morning with gifts of toys, books and games; 2,221 persons were supplied with much-needed items of warm, comfortable new clothing; 4,601 children and adults attended parties where they received gifts and Christmas entertainment; 19,628 men and women in hospitals, nursing homes, correctional and other city, state and federal institutions received a gift and a visit from Salvation Army workers during December.

Major Sampson pointed out that The Salvation Army checks its cases again the files of the Christmas Clearing Bureau to avoid unnecessary multiplication of assistance.

"In providing 43,516 items of assistance for our less fortunate friends and neighbors, The Salvation Army has completed a service which would not have been possible without the whole hearted support of the entire community" Major Sampson concluded.

Sunday, January 3

Man's inseparable relationship to his creator will be emphasized at Christian Science church services Sunday. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "God."

Golden Text: "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Rev. 21:3).

Readings will include this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 3): "The Divine Being must be reflected by man, — else man is not the image and likeness of the patient, tneder, and 'true, the One 'altogether lovely;' but to understand God is the work of eternity, and demands absolute consecration of thought, energy, and desire."

Postmen Deliver March of Dimes Envelopes

Middlesex County mail carriers had only a short respite from the heavy Christmas mail. This week, in addition to the regular mail, they're delivering thousands of donation envelopes for the March of Dimes.

The postman's call signals the start of the 25th Anniversary March of Dimes campaign of Middlesex East Chapter. Every home in the area is receiving one of the "mailers," according to Samuel A. Cammarata, campaign director.

Mr. Cammarata appealed for an early and generous response. He said that nobody's need is greater than that of a crippled child and pointed out that thousands of disabled children are not getting the best possible medical care.

Contributions will be used to provide care for victims of birth defects as well as those afflicted with arthritis and polio, leading causes of crippling and disabling of children.

Middlesex East and eight other chapters in Eastern Massachusetts are cooperating in sponsorship of a Birth Defects Center at Boston City Hospital, which is an important teaching and training institution for three Boston medical schools, Harvard, Boston University and Tufts.

In addition funds collected during the 25th Anniversary campaign will help Middlesex East Chapter continue its support for polio victims stricken before the Salk and Sabin vaccines became available.

Contributions will also help support March of Dimes research which may lead to breakthroughs in prevention and treatment of Birth Defects, Arthritis and other diseases.

"That is why the March of Dimes theme this year 'Give for the Life of a Child,'" Mr. Cammarata added. "I urge Middlesex County residents to mail their contributions as soon as possible."

Methodist Couples Plan Smorgasbord For January 8th

YOUR Pharmacist SPEAKS

Nowhere in the vast Complexity of Nature are the mysteries of life and death and the struggle for survival more pronounced than among the microbes. Fortunately, most microbes are not harmful to man, but almost all are hostile to one another.

Thus, for some time, man has striven to follow Pasteur's advice: "Use bacteria to combat a disease caused by other bacteria." Man has learned—and is learning—to borrow from microbes the substances which they secrete to kill other microbes; the result—antibiotics.

Free Aptitude Test Available At Army Office

Sergeant Jack Bateson, Army recruiter in Winchester, announced Wednesday that his office is administering "screening" tests to all interested young men and women to determine their "trainability" in various fields.

According to Sergeant Bateson, he has attempted to make his office a "counselling center" for any young man or woman who needs assistance in choosing the training for which they are most qualified.

"We give a sort of screening test here in the office," he said, "then we have the applicant given an extensive battery of tests at Boston Army Base. The results of these tests are available to us the next day, and we go over them very carefully with each applicant to find the most suitable area for specialization."

Pointing out that there is absolutely no obligation connected with the testing and counselling, Sergeant Bateson said that the service is made available merely with the hope that some of those tested will feel that, among the more than 100 technical schools available in the Army, the young man or woman will feel that one is especially suited to his or her own particular aptitude.

"Thousands of youths all over the country, many of them high school seniors, take advantage of this opportunity every year." he said, "and I'm sure that they all benefit from it--even if they don't enter the Army."

Further information about these aptitude tests may be obtained by contacting Sergeant Bateson at 49 High Street Medford, or by telephoning him at EXport 6-5777.

At the Christmas Eve Candlelight Carol Service in the First Baptist Church, Mrs. Russell Holt of 29 Leslie Road and Miss Roberta Watson of 7 Maple Road were received into membership following the ordinance of believer's baptism. Dr. Russell Holt was received by letter from the First Baptist Church of Medford. Mrs. Ava Johnson of 40 Everett Avenue was received by letter from the Maplewood Baptist Church, Malden.

Charles River Dam Drawbridge To Close for Repairs Today, Jan. 3

The driving habits of 70,000 motorists and truckers who normally use the Charles River Dam drawbridge at the Museum of Science each day, will undergo a drastic, year-long change when the Metropolitan District Commission begins replacing the 54-year-old span, this morning, January 3, with a new, $772,000 bridge designed to help relieve vehicular congestion in the future.

For the next 12 months, only two lanes of traffic will be permitted over the bridge and the M. D. C., in cooperation with Cambridge and Boston traffic engineers, has devised a simplified detour for passenger cars around the construction site.

Truckers, however, may find the re-routing a bit more complicated, under what may become a permanent detour through East Cambridge planned by Cambridge Traffic Commissioner Robert E. Rudolph.

The downstream half of the present bridge will be kept open for the next six months, or until the upstream half of the new span is completed. Traffic then will use the completed half of the new bridge. while the remaining half of the old crossing is removed and replaced.

During the year-long period, traffic will alternate one-way across the Charles River Dam drawbridge. It will be inbound to Boston between midnight and noon, and outbound to Cambridge and points west from noon until midnight, thus accommodating the majority of drivers who comprise the rush-hour flow in either direction.

Boston-bound auto traffic during the "off" hours will be detoured via Commercial Ave. in Cambridge and over Longfellow Bridge to Charles Street Circle. Vehicles bound for Cambridge during the reverse 12-hour period will be rerouted via Charles St., Longfellow Bridge, Cambridge Parkway, and thence on to either the Northern Artery or Prison Point Bridge.

Trucks entering Cambridge from McGrath Highway at the Somerville line, will be detoured onto Medford Street, thence onto Gore, Lambert and Fulkerson Streets, next turning right on Binney Street and left onto Portland Street onto Main Street. Through trucks will continue along Portland Street, Albany Street, and thence over Boston University Bridge.

Those approaching the construction site from Prison Point Bridge in Charlestown will be directed over Commercial Avenue to Kendall Square around the rotary and up onto Longfellow Bridge.

Trucks outbound from Boston, via either Nashua Street or the Fitzgerald Expressway down-ramp, will be detoured via Charles Street, over Longfellow Bridge to the Kendall Square rotary, thence sharp right along Third Street to the detour's end at Msgr. O'Brien Highway, and the Northern Artery.

Both Rudolph and M.D.C. Commissioner Robert F. Murphy urged motorists to veer away from the general construction and detour areas from points as distant as possible. For instance, drivers ordinarily using McGrath Highway via Union Square in Somerville, are advised to follow Webster Avenue through Cambridge, thence onto Broadway and over Longfellow Bridge.

Motorists outbound from Boston towards northeasterly destinations are advised to utilize either Sumner or Callahan Tunnels, the Northeast expressway, or the city arteries of Mystic Avenue and Broadway in Somerville, or Rutherford Avenue in Charlestown via the Charlestown Bridge or the City Square ramp off Fitzgerald Expressway.

Throughout the entire construction, the contractor, Builders' Iron Works, Inc., of Somerville, will maintain a special pedestrian walk across the Charles River Locks for the accommodation of those walking from the M.T.A.'s Science Park Station to the Museum of Science buildings.

The present draw-bridge, Commissioner Murphy explained, is in poor structural and operating condition. It also became a source of aggravation for drivers who've experienced long and frequent delays while the span has been raised to accommodate 90 per cent of boats using the locks.

The new bridge will be elevated considerably, Murphy explained, and the additional clearance underneath will make it necessary to open the span for less than 20 per cent of all marine traffic.

The only interruption to boat traffice, however, will occur on Jan. 10 and 11, when workers remove the upstream leaf of the bridge, with special permission of the U. S. Corps of Engineers which has primary jurisdiction over navigable rivers and streams. Oil barges that use the locks will bring extra supplies of fuel in anticipation of the two-day closing.

Extra details of Metropolitan and Cambridge police will guide motorists and truckers around the construction site and traffic signals at Leverett cir. may be altered to expedite the revamped traffic flow through that bottleneck.

Additionally, M.D.C. and municipal officials from Boston and Cambridge will confer periodically throughout the next year to eliminate any hitches that may develop in the re-routing.

Commissioner Murphy assured that every precaution is being taken to guarantee against mechanical or structural failures that might affect the operating half of the bridge until the newer half is completed. He's ordered Joseph Caputo, president of Builders' Iron Works, to keep a land-based crane nearby, that can be used to raise or lower the downstream leaf.

Additionally, Murphy has told the contractor to stockpile sections of steel surface grating, in case it becomes necessary to replace any of those which comprise the road-surface of the present bridge.

The actual start of construction was delayed until after New Years, Murphy said, so as not to interfere with Christmas shoppers, or with the flow of traffic to and from the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Nashua Street, which is abnormally heavy the final weeks of each year.

Roger Swanson Appointed As New Sylvania Manager

The appointment of Roger A. Swanson, formerly of Winchester, as Product Manager - Transistors for the Semiconductor Division of Sylvania Electric Products Inc. has been announced by S. George Lawson, divisional vice president. Sylvania is a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation.

Mr. Swanson will be responsible for the manufacture and sales of all transistors manufactured in Woburn, headquarters of the Semiconductor Division.

In 1956, Mr. Swanson joined Sylvania as a sales engineer for semiconductors and special purpose tubes and, since that time, has held various managerial positions in the division. He was most recently Western Regional Sales manager for semiconductors.

Before joining Sylvania, he was associated with Westinghouse Electric Corp. and E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.

Mr. Swanson is a graduate of Harvard University where he received a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and a Master's degree in business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. During the Korean War, he was an officer in the United States Navy.

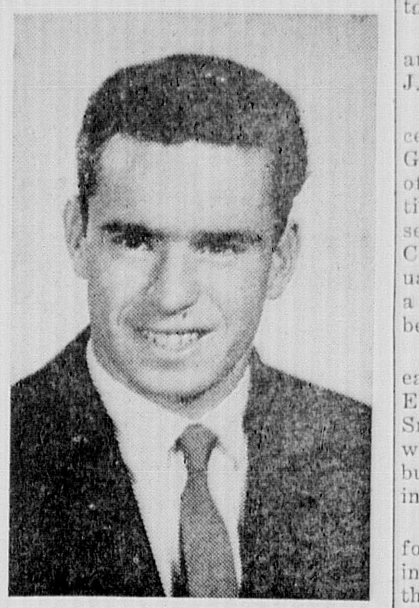
Winchester Youth Joins Air Force

John M. McDonough, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonough of 71 Sylvester Avenue, has enlisted in the Air Force, according to MSgt Thomas Kearns of the area recruiting office at 19 High Street, Medford.



JOHN M. McDONOUGH

Airman McDonough was flown to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, to begin his USAF basic training. The new recruit is a graduate of Winchester High School.

Complete Course At Northeastern

Two Winchester men were among the fourteen small business executives who successfully completed an eight-session Manufacturing Workshop conducted by Northeastern University, and received graduation certificates on December 18 at N. U.'s Henderson House conference center in Weston.

They are Warren W. Vatcher and David S. Wardwell, both of J. H. Winn, Inc.

Highlighting the graduation ceremonies was a talk by William G. Simpson, deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration for Management and Research Assistance, Washington, D. C., who told the assembled graduates how his office is preparing a nationwide program which will be of great benefit to them.

The course, conducted by Northeastern's Center for Continuing Education in co-operation with the Small Business Administration, was designed especially for small business owner-managers engaged in manufacturing.

Basically concerned with the four major areas of manufacturing, men, marketing, and money, the workshop also covered the range of small business problems from production to sales.

Board Of Health Is Urging Adult Polio Clinic Registration

The Winchester Board of Health has announced this week that a special adult polio vaccine clinic program for the town has been arranged. The adult clinic is scheduled for two consecutive Saturdays, on January 26 and February 2, from 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M., in the Board of Health clinic room in the basement of the Town Hall.

The Board of Health said that it urged all townspeople to take advantage of this opportunity for prolonged immunity against all the various types of Poliomyelitis, including the so-called "wild strains."

It is important, the board added, that every adult participate in the town-sponsored program not only for their own individual protection, but also in consideration for their family, neighbors and friends with whom they come in contact. All it takes is two persons who have not been vaccinated to start a polio case in Winchester, the board noted; one to be a carrier, the other to be a victim.

All adults wishing and intending to take part in this attempt by the local Board of Health to completely eliminate any chance of polio contamination in the town are advised to sign up for the program on one of the four registration dates.

Only those adults who register for the clinic will be vaccinated on the clinic dates. The necessity for registering is due to the fact that the board must order a specific amount of serum from the manufacturer. It is a refrigerated medicine, and once it is thawed for distribution it cannot be used after a short period of time and it cannot be returned.

Saturday, January 12, from 8 A.M. to 12 noon.
Tuesday, January 15, from 7 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Thursday, January 17, from 7 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Saturday, January 19, from 8 A.M. to 12 noon.

The registration for the clinic will be in the Town Hall basement. A nominal charge of 50c per adult will be charged to help cover the cost of purchasing the protective medicine.

League Plans For An Evening With Town's Rep., Sen.

Now that the ballots have been counted and the new administration is beginning, the League of Women Voters of Winchester has invited Harrison Chadwick and Philibert Pellegrini to an evening coffee to meet informally with members and guests to discuss current issues that will come before the General Court this session. They will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guinn Smith, 38 Rangeley Road, at 7:45 p.m., January 16th, to speak briefly and answer any questions that members of the audience may have.

Mr. Chadwick is well known to residents of Winchester. He has been Town Moderator for the past seven years and has represented Winchester in the State House of Representatives for the past 16 years. During this period, he has served on the Rules Committee, the Education Committee, the Metropolitan Affairs Committee and the State Administration Committee. He has served on several Recess Commissions, including the Fiscal Survey Commission of which he was vice chairman, and the Crime Commission.

Mr. Pellegrini, our new State Senator, lives in Arlington and practices law in Somerville. He was educated in the Somerville public schools and was graduated with honors from Suffolk University Law School in 1941. He is

Ericson, Kell Buy Stock Control In 2 Arlington Firms

Two Winchester men, Robert C. Ericson of 172 High Street, and Thomas N. Kell of 70 Yale Street, have purchased the controlling interest in an Arlington manufacturing company and its distributing company.

THOMAS N. KELL

ROBERT C. ERICSON

Mr. Ericson is president of both companies, Silibond Products, Inc., and Waterproofing Products, Inc. Mr. Kell is the vice president and treasurer of the companies, both located at 94 Summer Street in Arlington.

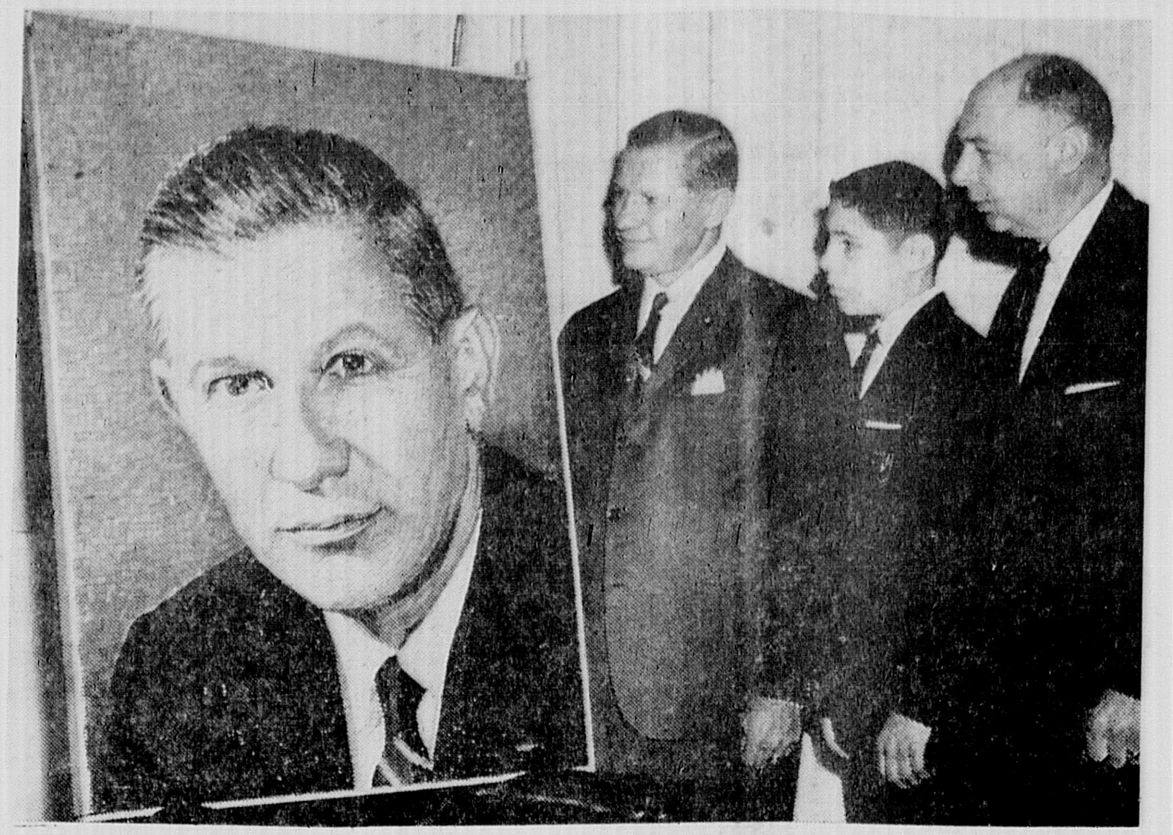
Mr. Kell joined the Arlington outfits in 1960; Mr. Ericson joined about nine months ago.

Mr. Ericson, a graduate of Illinois Institute of Technology and Harvard Business School, was manager of technical administration of the Cryovac Division of W. R. Grace Company for ten years before going into the Arlington businesses. His Winchester interests include the High School Parent-Faculty Association, the Boy Scouts and the Men's Club at the Congregational Church.

Mr. Kell, an engineering graduate of Georgia Tech and a former Lt. Colonel in the U. S. Army, was vice president in charge of sales for Perry Austin Manufacturing Comany in Staten Island, N. Y., before going with Silibond Company in a similar position. His Winchester interests include the United Fund, he is a member of the Parish Players, and is a past president of the Men's Club at the Congregational Church.



PORTRAIT IN MOSAIC was recently presented to Governor John A. Volpe by Louis W. Mian of 18 Chestnut Street. A former student of mosaic art at the Venetian School of Mosaic in Venice, Mr. Mian began the portrait before Governor Volpe took office two years ago. Here he and his son, Louis, Jr., present it to the Governor at the State House.

Local Artist Dedicates, Gives Mosaic Portrait To John Volpe

Louis W. Mian of 18 Chestnut Street, a professional artist in terrazzo and mosaic media, presented his mosaic portrait of Governor John Volpe to the former governor in ceremonies at the Governor's chambers at the State House on December 18.

"It is the first known mosaic of its kind to be bonded to its backing through the use of epoxy cement," Mr. Mian said. The three by three and a half-foot portrait of Mr. Volpe took two years to complete Mr. Mian said. He worked on it during week ends and spare time in his basement studio; but if he had worked eight hours a day every day it still would have taken about 12 weeks to finish, he added.

There are 5,000 pieces of enamel mosaic stones with 180 varieties of color shades in the portrait. The mosaic pieces, ordered specially from the Island of Murano in Venice, Italy, are applied on a three-fourths-inch marine plywood.

There is one-eighth of an inch epoxy between the mosaic and the plywood which results in a particularly tight and strong bond. Usually mosaics are bonded in cement.

The cost for the materials for the portrait were under $100, but the true value of mosaic art, a style used by the old Byzantine masters, comes from the skill, patience and labor of the artist. "I had to remake the 80 different cut pieces in the left eye seven times before getting the effect I wanted," Mr. Mian said.

"Also," Mr. Mian added, "it wasn't enough to just get a likeness of a man . . . it had to be a close representation of Governor Volpe."

Mr. Mian, a 1930 graduate of the Venice School of Mosaic—the only school of art in the world which specializes in the mosaic style—said he was proud to be able to say "The governor appeared to be very pleased with both the work and the likeness."

New Postal Rates Push Sales Of Penny Stamps

Monday turned out to be one of the biggest days for stamp sales in the history of the Winchester Post Office when the new postage rate increase went into effect, according to Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun. The post office only sold a somewhat higher than normal number of 5 cent stamps, but it distributed approximately 4,500 1 cent stamps to long lines of persons in that one day, Postmaster Gilgun said.

The local post office had the good fortune not to be beseiged by a great quantity of insufficient 4-cent postage on mail. The post office has to collect the difference from the addressee or return the letter to the sender.

Rates for first-class letters were increased from four to five cents, air mail letters went from seven to eight cents, and three-cent post cards were raised to four cents on January 7 by federal legislation.

Local post office business settled back to normal again on Tuesday, Postmaster Gilgun announced cheerfully. He added that the post office was planning to issue a new 5 cent stamp commemorating the United States flag today.

Woburn Police Net 5 In $2500 Sears Break

Five men from Woburn, Stoneham, Somerville and Lowell were arrested by Woburn police over the week end in connection with the $2,500 theft of merchandise and cash from the Sears Roebuck Store on Cambridge Street near the Winchester line early last Friday morning.

The five men appeared in Woburn District Court on Monday morning. Their cases were continued to Monday, January 14. Three of the men were ordered held in $1,000 bail with surety on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony; a fourth was held in $750 bail on charges of receiving stolen property.

The arrests of the alleged robbers came about due to the alertness to routine duty of two cruising car patrolmen of the Woburn Police Department.

Woburn Patrolmen P. Joseph Lally and John O'Donnell noticed a car parked in the Woburn Country Club lot early Friday morning and as a routine procedure wrote down the registration number.

At 8:30 Friday morning Charles Arms, the credit manager at Sears, discovered the disorder and thefts in the store and notified police.

More than $2,500 worth of television sets, a variety of rifles, radios, musical instruments, clothing and other merchandise were taken from the store. In addition, an undetermined amount of change was jimmied out of the cash boxes of several vending machines used by the employees in the store.

Woburn officers Lally and O'Donnell turned the registration number of the car they saw in the area over to Chief Thomas J. Maguire, and the investigation with 11 officers began.

Winchester Commuters Throng Mass Railroad Transport Experiment

The Monday morning turnout of commuters at the Winchester and Wedgemere railroad stations was in sharp contrast to the usual small percentage of commuters who go into Boston and who had been boarding the occasional Boston and Maine trains in the weeks before.

But the trains were no longer running just occasionally for commuters. The number of trains passing through Winchester during the commuting hours was doubled, the service was better, and the fare was reduced by 30 per cent.

On the first day of the Mass. Transportation Commission's unique experiment aimed at relieving the commuter transportation problem and reducing the increased auto traffic problem in Boston by commuters, an increase of 21 per cent more commuters was reported.

The inducements to patronize the railroad got off to a good start. However, railroad officials, in expressing "cautious optimism" on this first week's results, said that the increase in commuters will have to grow as the service establishes itself as reliable if the experiment is to succeed.

For several years railroad passenger traffic has been declining in direct proportion to new highway construction. In the first six months of 1962, the Boston and Maine carried 2,851,524 passengers, or 117,630 less than for the same period of 1961.

On the basis of total revenues from all passenger operations in the first half of 1962, the Boston and Maine sustained an average loss of about 70 cents for each passenger carried, or a deficit of $3,800,000.

No privately operated enterprise could continue to incur losses of this magnitude and expect to stay in business.

If rail pasenger service is a public necessity that cannot be supported by private enterprise then public means for its support has to be found—and this is the central issue that will be determined by the public response to the demonstration program.

Appeals Board Will Vote On Rocky Ledge

As a concession to the Board of Appeals and to opponents of the petition by Paul J. Mahoney to build a commercial greenhouse off Cambridge Street, Mrs. Margaret (Mahoney) Nunes submitted a new site plan for the board's consideration at a public hearing in the Town Hall on Tuesday night.

At the hearing, attended by about 50 persons, Mrs. Nunes, the attorney for the petitioner, asked that the board accept the new plan which would locate the greenhouse either 25 or 50 feet, whichever the board decided, from the West Side Playground. It would be bounded by Lester Whittaker's property.

The dimensions for the different location would be increased from the original 250 by 100 feet requested in the old location to 350 by 100 feet.

The board asked if the Mahoney's planned to erect a fence to protect the greenhouse from children playing athletics on the town-owned playground, and Mrs. Nunes said yes.

Mrs. Nunes said the Mahoney's were willing to make the change in location as their one last concession, but that they would accept no restrictions on the granting of the permit.

"We want only what the law allows, but we'll take no less," Mrs. Nunes said.

Merchants Assoc. Meet Jan. 15 On February Plans

The Winchester Merchants Association has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday, January 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the showroom at Koko Boodakian and Sons.

The association expects a 100 per cent attendance by its members in order to initiate promotional plans for the month of February.

The association of Winchester merchants has a record membership of 50 merchants as of the first of the year.

Winton Club's Cabaret Tryouts This Sunday

The Winton Club Cabaret's tryouts for this year's theme of "Follow the Fun" will be held at the Masonic Hall on Sunday, January 13, at 7 p.m.

Mrs. George Snow, talent chairman, has issued a general invitation to all new and old residents of Winchester who can sing or dance, to come to the talent tryout and get acquainted party on Sunday.

Through the years the Winton Club has attracted a large number of townspeople who have responded to the cabaret's talent scouting, and this year should prove better than ever, according to Mrs. Snow. Anyone having questions regarding the cabaret program or kinds of acts and actors in demand, are advised to call Mrs. Snow at PA 9-1238.

The cabaret's dress rehearsal night is scheduled for Wednesday, January 30, at 7:30 p.m. This is the night that the show goes into production, with the children of the members of the cast sitting in the audience, watching their mothers, singing sans aprons, and their fathers dancing without the usual evening papers in their hands.

Thursday, January 31, at 8 p.m. is theater night in the Town Hall. Many theater-goers have dinner parties with their friends before 8 o'clock. The Winton Club will serve as host with an attractive candlelight coffee social before the 8:30 curtain call. All seats for the performance are reserved. During intermission dance music will be provided by the Jimmy Masher Orchestra.

JAYCEE'S CHRISTMAS TREE BUNDLE. Eddie Van Steinberg of McDavitt Corporation (left) aids Paul Coon, Bill Bird, Ronny Gravallese and Al Samoiloff, members of the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce, in their annual Christmas tree pickups. The Jaycees unloaded the old trees at the dump in preparation for burning them there with the cooperation of the Winchester Fire Department.

Put 18 Jaycees, seven donated trucks, and 50 truckloads of Christmas trees, all together on January 5 and you have the annual Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas tree pick-up.

The Jaycees worked from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday covering every street in town and picking up discarded trees in front of homes. The program was part of their annual community service safety project to help homeowners get rid of the decorative but old and dry Christmas trees, which represented a potential fire hazard.

Fifty truckloads of trees were taken to the town incinerator area where they were burned under the direction of the Fire Department.

The seven trucks used to gather the trees were donated by local businesses: Fitzgerald Fuel Company, Winchester News Company, the Park Department, the Highway Department, Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and McDavitt Construction Company.

The Jaycees and volunteer truck drivers, including Charles Souza, William Hession, Russell Mahoney, Charles LaVignew and Edward Van Steinberg, were served refreshments at the Sons of Italy Hall when the pick-up drive was completed.

Miss Elizabeth Spencer

Miss Elizabeth Spencer, retired principal of the Wyman School and a teacher in Winchester for 35 years, died late Saturday, December 29, at her home in Wakefield, N. H. at the age of 92.

Miss Spencer was born in 1870 in Stoneham and was graduated from Stoneham High School in 1889. She was graduated from the old Bridgewater Normal School in 1891, and for three months taught the seventh, eighth and ninth grades in Rowley.

She came to Winchester in 1892 and first taught at the little old Highland School. She later taught at the Prince, Wadleigh and High Schools before going to the Wyman School, where she remained until her retirement in 1933. She was principal of the Prince School and also for 46 years, of the Wyman School.

Upon her retirement she moved to Wakefield, N. H., and continued to make her home there. She was highly esteemed by her associate teachers and by generations of school children and their parents.

Miss Spencer was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and of the Stoneham Methodist Church. She was also a member of the Wakefield, N. H., Women's Club.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wakefield, N. H., Congregational Church, with the Rev. Donald Vedler officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Lindenwood Cemetery, Stoneham.

Mrs. Anne B. Pynn

Mrs. Anne B. Pynn of 24 Clematis Street, widow of Franklin Pynn and a long time resident of Winchester, died Monday, January 7, at the Glendale Nursing Home in Woburn after an illness of three years.

Mrs. Pynn was the daughter of James, and Emma-Jane (Avery) Barrett. She was born September 27, 1892, at St. John's, New Foundland, was educated there and married in St. John's March 30, 1909, at the age of 16.

Mrs. Pynn came to Winchester in 1911 and continued to make the town her home, taking an active interest in the First Baptist Church and working in the Thrift Shop of the Women's Society during its long existence. She was a member of Victoria Rebekah Lodge but through her entire life she was primarily concerned with her home and family. Her husband died in November of 1961.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Marion Dunbar of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Florence Chase of Winchester; six sons, Woodrow W. of Whitman, Carl Irving of Medford, Robert Bradford, of Guilford, Conn., Russell James of Duxbury and Franklin Pynn, Jr., of Waltham; 18 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter; also a brother, Jacob Barrett of St. John's, Newfoundland.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Graham Funeral Home in Woburn with the Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Paul Henry Howard

Paul Henry Howard of 345 Main Street, president of the Weymouth Art Leather Company of South Braintree, and a resident of Winchester since 1918, died suddenly at his summer home in New London, N. H., Friday evening, January 4, following a heart attack.

Mr. Howard was the son of Frank W. and Mabel (Besse) Howard. He was born June 24, 1895, in Boston, and lived as a boy in Montvale before going to San Francisco on the West Coast while his father was engaged in rebuilding operations after the big fire and earthquake.

It was during this time that Mr. Howard laid the foundation for a great interest in sports as he and his twin brother, Alan, served for several years as mascots of the University of California football teams.

Returning east, Mr. Howard lived in Reading and attended Reading High School, playing both basketball and baseball on the high school teams. He was graduated from Reading High School in 1914 and from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the class of 1918, with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

During World War I Mr. Howard was in the Government service commissioning ships at the Boston Naval Shipyard. On March 21, 1918 he married Dorothy Dey of Wellesley and they came to Winchester at that time. He was a member of William Parkman Lodge of Masons vice president of the Vinyl Fabrics Institute of New York City and a member of the Lake Sunapee Country Club.

Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, David W. Howard of Salem, N. H.; and Wallace Howard of Alexandria, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Wheeler of Winchester, nine grandchildren and a twin brother, Alan S. Howard of Winchester.

Services were held Monday afternoon at 1:30 at the Church of the Epiphany with the rector, Dr. John W. Ellison, officiating. Following cremation, burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Roger J. Thomas

Roger J. Thomas of 45 Russell Road, a meat cutter in the employ of Lucci's market in Wilmington, died suddenly at his home Thursday evening, January 3. He had worked as usual during the day and his unexpected passing came as a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Thomas was born in Cambridge June 6, 1904. He had been in Winchester for 23 years and was also well known in Woburn through his former association with the Mohigan Beef Company in that city.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Beatrice E. (Foley); two daughters, Carol Ann of Winchester and Miss Margaret M. Thomas of Woburn, a teacher in the Woburn schools. A brother Edward, of Cambridge, also survives.

The funeral took place Monday morning from the Lane Funeral Home at 8:15. Requiem High Mass was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 o'clock. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Albina L. Cerra

Albina L. Cerra of 6 Laurie Lane Burlington, and a former resident of Winchester for 15 years, died Friday night, January 4 at the Massachusetts General Hospital after several years of failing health.

Mrs. Cerra was born July 4, 1897 in Watertown, and had made her home in Winchester since 1948.

She leaves her husband, Joseph; and three sons, Joseph S. of Burlington; Gene, of Woburn; and Ernest Cerra of Concord; 10 grandchildren and a sister Mrs. Domenic Psicatelli of Watertown.

The funeral was held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the Lane Funeral Home with Requiem High Mass celebrated at St. Margaret's Church, Burlington, at 10. Burial was in Chestnut Hill Cemetery, Burlington.

Leaves Sister Here

Mother Mary Genevieve, of the Order of Jesus and Mary, died in Washington, D. C., on December 29.

Born Aurore Mercier in Cambridge 53 years ago, she was the sister of Mrs. Aline Mercier Poirier of 18 Mt. Pleasant Street.

She was known to others here through her work, for over thirty years, as a teacher in the Villa Augustina in Goffstown, New Hampshire.

McDonald To College Council

A Dartmouth College freshman from Winchester was recently elected to the Freshman Council. He is Alan MacDonald, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael MacDonald of 92 Bacon Street.

Headed by the Freshman Class President, The Council serves as the coordinating body for the activities of the class. It organizes such functions as mixers with neighboring girls' colleges, Freshman Fathers' Week End, and various other service functions. The Council also serves as a forum for presenting the ideas of the members of the freshman class.

MacDonald is a graduate of Winchester High School, where he was president of the class of 1962.

Women's Alliance Unitarian Church

On Tuesday, January 15, the Women's Alliance of the Winchester Unitarian Society will hold its annual Guest Meeting. Members of local churches have been cordially invited to attend.

Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m. by Mrs. Don Kroell and Mrs. Harold Fifield, and their committee, in Metcalf Hall.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Robert M. Smith, chairman of the Committee for Recreational needs, will speak on "Progress in Recreation." This will be of interest to anyone interested in the needs of our local young people. After the talk, there will be an opportunity to ask questions on the subject.

Mademoiselle College Board Members

Mariana Ross of 11 Madison Avenue, a Junior at Denison University has been chosen to be a member of Mademoiselle magazine's 1963 national College Board, made up of students from colleges and universities across the country. The annual College Board Competition is designed for young women with talent in art, writing, fashion, merchandising, promotion, or advertising. Each Board member was selected on the basis of an entry that showed her interest and ability in one of these fields.

As a College Board member, she will report news from her college to Mademoiselle, and she is eligible to compete for one of the twenty Guest Editorships that will be awarded by the magazine in May. To win one of the top prizes, each member must submit a second entry to show her specific aptitude for magazine work.

The twenty College Board members who win Guest Editorships will be brought to New York City for the month of June to help edit, write, and illustrate Mademoiselle's 1963 August college issue. They will share offices with the magazine's editors, advise the staff on campus trends, interview well-known artists and writers, and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores, and advertising agencies.

They will also be photographed for the college issue, and will be considered for future staff positions with Mademoiselle and other Conde Nast publications. (As a special bonus, the 1962 Guest Editors were flown to Rome, where they spent five days attending fashion showings, visiting art galleries, sight-seeing, and going to parties in their honor.)

One hundred and fifty leaves all in one spiral notebook, ideal for note taking in three courses, and now ruled for college students at the Winchester Star.

Rexall Opens New Contest

Cash prizes are now being offered in the latest Rexall Super Plenamins Sweepstakes now going on at the Winchester Rexall Drug Store in the center. For the winners, it will be "Money in the Bank," with up to a total of $50,000 in prizes, 1010 prizes in all.

First Prize, explained Mr. David Klein, owner and manager, is a $10,000 Bank Account plus an extra bonus of $15,000 when the winner has included a box top from a Rexall Super Plenamins special combination package (or the substitute as stated in the Official Rules of the Sweepstakes).

According to publicity just released, the Second to Tenth Prizes run from $5,000 to $1,000 in Bank Accounts. The 1000 runners-up will each receive a $10 Rexall merchandise certificate, which they can "spend like money" in their Rexall Drug Store.

This exciting Money-in-the-Bank Sweepstakes is being conducted by the Rexall Drug Company, makers of Super Plenamins, well-known vitamin-mineral product. To enter Rexall customers merely ask about the special combination Super Plenamins package now being offered at a big saving, and pick up their Free Entry Blanks with Official Rules. This will be for a limited time only, since this offer ends March 31, 1963.

Civil War Group

The Winchester Civil War Study Group will meet in the Winchester Public Library at 7:45 p.m. on January 17.

Mr. Lawrence Rubin will present the program originally scheduled for last month. His topic will be the Stone River campaign. The battle of Stone's River or Murfreesboro was one of the great battles of the Civil War and deserves to be better known. All men interested are cordially invited to hear Mr. Rubin and join in the discussion.

Editorials:

Good To The Last Drop . . . Polio Vaccine

If one of those old time Yankee hawkers were to appear on Winchester Common peddling a sure-fire, guaranteed, 50c panacea for all human ailments, there would be many who would skeptically dismiss his sales pitch. There would also be many who would grab at the belief that such a cure-all would help protect them against any disease.

While no hawker is scheduled to appear on the Common to give a sales pitch about the oral polio vaccine being made available through the polio clinics of the Winchester Board of Health, there will still be some adults, undoubtedly, who are skeptical about the value of taking the protective immunization because of the decreased number of polio cases in the past few years.

Since there has not been a case of polio reported in Winchester in the past three years, the danger may not appear imminent to those who believe they are among the privileged "chosen few" upon which no fickle finger of Fate would dare carry the spectre of disease.

But the danger of contracting the dreaded polio very definitely does exist, and no one is excepted from this possibility.

Granted, it is a matter of statistics that polio continued to decline in the United States last year with a 35 per cent drop from 1961. In 1958 there were 6,092 cases of crippling polio recorded in the United States. In 1961 there were 1,364; and last year there were 886 cases . . . the rate has been reduced to less than one-sixth that of the five year old figure.

Why has the number of polio cases dropped so significantly? Simply because people were so afraid of the plague not so many years ago that they were willing to accept the Salk vaccine (even before it had been fully tested), and ambitious public health immunization programs were begun.

The vaccine program was started on school-age children. And last May, in a continuance of that original type of program, 2,565 Winchester school children received their Type I vaccine. In June, 2,516 received their Type II shots.

Now the local Board of Health is urging the adults of the community to accept the responsibility of protecting themselves as the children have been and are being protected. It is a responsibility not only to themselves, but also to every other person in the community. One carrier of the very communicable disease could easily transmit it to any number of persons who do not have the proven prolonged immunization that the vaccine gives.

The Board of Health and the Finance Committee of the town are to be commended for getting together and making this first clinic for Type I polio vaccine available to the adults of the Town. It was through the transfer of $10,000 from Reserve Funds to a special polio account that the vaccine will be purchased from the manufacturer.

The nominal 50c fee charged on January 12, 15, 17 and 19 registration days in the Town Hall will contribute to replacing the money in the Reserve Fund. But have you ever paid a cheaper health insurance premium and been guaranteed such complete protection?

The clinic dates are January 26 and February 2 in the Board of Health clinic room in the Town Hall. Be one of those who can believe your health is protected against this paralytic disease through the preventive method. It is good health insurance to the last drop.

America is a land of progress, and Yankees are known throughout the world as having an acutely practical business sense, along with a certain amount of good old common sense.

This week the national spotlight has been trained on Massachusetts as the Mass Transportation Commission and the Boston and Maine Railroad jointly undertook the first and largest project of its kind in an effort to solve basic mass transportation problems.

It is a pilot research demonstration program we are now living with for a year; not a permanent solution to the transportation problem in the form of a subsidy.

However, it is typically American to attack a large problem, and to do so in a big way. It is a credit to the Commonwealth that its government had the foresight to create the Mass Transportation Commission to do research and present proposals for the solving of this continual headache.

The MTC did a tremendous amount of research and obtained the necessary cooperation and coordination to achieve what appears to be in its first stages of demonstration a successful, comprehensively planned, system of mass public transportation.

Indeed, it was good business sense for the Boston and Maine and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroads, the MTA, and some 30 bus lines to join in on the project to increase the commuters' use of public instead of private transportation.

On the other side of the scale, it was good common sense for many of the commuters who had been taking their cars into Boston to switch to the commuting trains.

With the greatly reduced fares—almost 30 per cent below previous prices—and the stepped-up train schedule with 108 sleek and speedy stainless steel electric Budd cars going through Winchester every half hour or less, the new public transportation service was not only more convenient than personally driving into the city, but also more economical transit. In addition, there wasn't the parking problem to contend with or pay for.

The Federal and state governments are willing to pay part of each commuter's fare if he rides on public transportation to ease the transportation woes of Greater Boston.

If the commuting by public transit systems experiment works as it is hoped it will, it could mean a great lift to metropolitan Boston and to the commuters who have to travel between here and there.

At the end of the year, the Mass Transportation Commission will meet with Federal, city, regional and urban transportation experts and planners to analyze and interpret the results of this great experiment.

This area will also serve as a testing ground for the nation, and even other parts of the world. It is the largest, most comprehensive mass transportation program ever undertaken, and Massachusetts is serving as the testing laboratory.

Get in on the experiment to improve public transportation in Massachusetts. In fact, let's all get aboard!

The unique demonstration by the Mass Transportation Commission is an experiment, not a subsidy. It will run for one year—until January 4, 1964. If it proves successful as an experiment, in all probability it will be continued by some means. If it is unsuccessful, the commuter service by railroad may cease entirely.

The Mass Transportation Commission is the first and only one of its kind in the country. It is a state agency created in 1958 by the Furcolo administration to do research into relieving mass transportation problems in the Commonwealth.

The commission asked the state legislature for authorization for the demonstration project and funds. Former Governor John Volpe backed and presented the bill, which passed the legislature early in 1962, and also granted appropriations.

At about the same time the federal government passed a bill authorizing expenditures in this transportation assistance field. Appropriations were agreed to last October by the federal agency, and money was granted for two train demonstrations, the B & M and the NY, NH, & H Railroads; and 12 bus demonstrations.

Altogether the commission received $10.2 million from federal and state grants. The B & M will be paid $2.2 million for the service it is rendering.

The new B & M service means a train every half hour to and from Boston, with more frequent runs—less than every 20 minutes—during the rush hours.

Additional service is scheduled to and from Winchester, and Wilmington, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, and Portland, Me.

The new fare from Winchester to Boston will be 50 cents one way compared to the old fare of 74 cents from Winchester and 56 cents from Wedgemere. The twenty ride ticket will cost 36.1 cents per ride. There will be no change in the cost of a twelve ride ticket.

This expanded B & M service and lower fares is due to continue one year, after which statisticians will determine if it can or cannot be profitably continued. But if it cannot, then what? That, too, is a question that is asked and many communities have already begun to lay plans for the future. What does the citizenry want in the way of Mass Transportation and what are they prepared to pay for it? Winchester, a town that is accustomed to frequent rail service will answer part of this question in the light of its needs, by the number of commuters who will ride the train daily.

Two local residents are working on the demonstration program of the Mass Transportation Commission. Herbert E. Bixler of 15 Fells Road is a consultant to the MTC through the Systems Analysis and Research Corporation. Gordon H. Fay of 125 Church Street is associated with the Commission as assistant project officer responsible for demonstration program operations and railroad analysis.

The clinic will be for the Type I vaccine. Other clinics are being planned to distribute the Types II and III.

The adult clinic is made possible at this time due to the Board of Health's obtaining a special $10,000 transfer of funds from the Finance Committee. The program is being worked in conjunction with the state's health program in stamping out the polio disease. The winter period is the time of year advocated by the state Board of Health to administer the polio vaccine.

Michael D. Saraco, board of health agent, said that each of the three types of polio vaccine drinks are a protection against a certain type of polio. He also said that persons having regular Salk shots as recently as last year are urged to take this adult series due to its more prolonged immunity against the disease.

School age children will receive the vaccines throughout the schools during the weeks of January 28 and February 4 during regular school hours.

Pre-school children, from three months to six years of age, may receive the vaccine at a special clinic to be held at the Board of Health clinic room on Tuesday, January 22, from 1 P.M. to 4 P.M. Parents or guardians must sign request forms at the clinic.

Appeal Board

Mrs. Nunes said that the board had no real authority to place restrictions on existing town zoning laws when the general residence zone clearly permits the building of a commercial greenhouse on land having three or more acres.

Mrs. Nunes then delineated state judicial decisions which interpreted the terms greenhouse, commercial greenhouse, agriculture, and farm to show how the intended commercial greenhouse fitted within the town's zoning by-law regulations.

She also described in legal terms how and why the decision rendered by the state Supreme Court on June 26, 1962, precluded the board's ability to deny a building permit under the existing zone law, saying "the board would not be justified and would be acting arbitrarily if it attempted to do so."

In summing up her case, Mrs. Nunes said: "Because we have conceded to competition and opposition by changing the location of the greenhouse, we now ask that the Winchester zoning by-law not be rewritten at the whim of competition or local residents, but rather that the by-laws be interpreted according to judicial decisions and legislative enactmen (Enabling Act legislative enactment (Enabling Act by the legislature) of Massachusetts."

Mrs. Nunes added that if the Mahoney concession is not accepted, they will attempt to build on the original land site proposed opposite the gas station on Cambridge Street.

William J. Speers, Jr., counsel for Mr. Whittaker, said that Mr. Whittaker had no objections to the new location submitted by the Mahoney's.

When asked by the board if the opposition would seek to place any restrictions on the permit if one should be granted, Mr. Speers said that he did not believe the law would permit restrictions being placed on this permit under the zoning rules and regulations and in light of the state Supreme Court's decision on that matter.

Discussion followed on the emphasis in the zoning regulations upon the agricultural uses of such a greenhouse as opposed to the commercial nature of its intended business. It is a matter of interpretation, both parties agreed.

Mr. Speers suggested that if the board grants the permit that instead of trying to place restrictions upon it, which might be illegal, it would be up to the board to decide if it wanted to authorize Butler MacDonald, building commissioner, to serve as its agent in interpreting whether the conforming use of the building—if constructed—is primarily used for agriculture rather than commercial uses.

The board asked Mr. Speers if either he or his client saw any reason why the proposed commercial greenhouse would adversely affect the health or safety, would be injurious to the character of the neighborhood, or would be detriment to the public welfare. Neither one objected.

However, a number of residents on Pond Street wanted to be placed on the board's record that they were opposed to the granting of the permit on the grounds that the neighborhood is residential in nature, and if the permit is issued it might prove to serve at a later date as grounds of precedent for another business enterprise to try to get a permit on Cambridge Street and really "commercialize" the general residence zone.

The board has 90 days in which to take the petition for a commercial greenhouse under advisement. If it has not reached a decision by that time the petition is automatically granted.

Police Record Six Violations Of Auto Property

Three cars were ransacked, two others were moved without the owner's consent, and a sixth car was stolen over the past week in Winchester.

Two automobiles parked in the driveway of Arthur Reynolds of 27 Lawson Road were reported ransacked on Saturday morning. Mr. Reynolds told police that nothing of value had been taken from the two cars, a 1960 and a 1962 Ford.

Later that same morning police received a call from Robert Twombley of 17 North Gateway, who said two cars parked in his driveway had been moved out onto the street during the night. Neither of the two cars, a 1962 Tempest and a 1956 Ford, were damaged.

The person or persons who moved the cars then opened Mr. Twombley's unlocked garage door and started to take his 1962 Lincoln out of the garage. Police said the culprits were apparently scared away for some reason before they finished what they were doing, as they left a flashlight behind.

A 1958 Chevrolet was stolen from the driveway of the home of Kenneth L. Keyes of 18 Winthrop Street on Sunday morning. The stolen car was later found by police officers David Greel and Mario Buzzotta in the rear of the Town Hall.

And on Monday morning police were notified by Mrs. F. J. Mardulier of 37 Woodside Road that someone had broken into and ransacked a car parked on her property and taken three credit cards and some small change.

Reverend Earle To Address Senior Forum

Rev. Ralph H. Earle, minister of Second Congregational Church, will be the guest speaker Sunday at the 9:15 a.m. chapel service of The Senior Forum at the First Congregational Church. Since the beginning of his pastorate in Winchester, Mr. Earle has been a very good friend of all young people in the community. The youth groups in his own church have carried on a fine program and have entered fully into inter-church activities with other youth groups. Mr. Earle is a senior student at Harvard Divinity School, having entered there after graduating from Pasadena College in California and having done graduate study at New College, University of Edinburgh, Scotland. At the service on Sunday, he will speak on the subject "The Dilemma of Two Worlds."

Assisting in the service will be the following: Dottie Williams and Diane Kittredge, chaplains; Joan Wheeler and Kandy McConnell, deacons; May Mumma and Robin Thompson, ushers.

At a meeting of the Student Council last Sunday plans were furthered for the Anniversary Plate sale. Plates with a sketch of the church building will be sold during this 25th Anniversary year. May Mumma and Jon Moody are in charge of arrangements. Plans were also made for a roller skating party this month, a Class Night on Sunday, January 27, and the annual International Weekend on February 9-10. It was also voted that the Spring Conference begin on April 15 during the school spring vacation.

Mr. Mian began the project just after Mr. Volpe was elected governor in 1960. He had taken several pictures of the governor, traced them onto a paper upon which he drew in watercolors, the color tones he wanted to use. Then he outlined mosaic placings and ordered the stones from Venice. He had to place three orders because in cutting the one-half by one-eighth inch enamel stones there were naturally a certain number of throw-aways.

Mr. Mian said he felt sure the governor would be reelected to office and that he had planned to give the portrait to a Sons of Italy organization to present to the governor from the Italian-American people.

But when the governor was not reelected, Mr. Mian had to work quickly to finish the portrait while the governor was still in office, and give it to him personally.

On Saturday night Woburn police went with Lowell police to the homes of two suspects. Both men, George Carey, 32, of 9 Westford Street, and Thomas Searles, 26, of Chelmsford Street, along with a quantity of merchandise believed by police to have been taken from Sears, were taken into custody.

On Sunday morning police raided the office of a business firm in North Woburn and arrested a third man.

By noon on Sunday Carl R. Carey, 23, of 35 Boston Street, Somerville, had been placed under arrest by Woburn police.

And early Monday morning, Carl Fiorenza, 37, of 431 Williams Street, Stoneham, believed by police to be the "fence-man" in the operation who bought the stolen goods, was arrested by three Woburn officers on a stake-out in North Woburn.

Finger In The Pie

Christmas Chaos

The first thing a dictator does when he takes over conquered territory is to disrupt communications of all kinds. Well he knows that nothing more quickly leads to chaos and confusion.

Similarly, if one deliberately set about to take the joy out of Christmas, he couldn't do it better than by means of a general newspaper strike. It's a good deal like cutting the jugular vein of a big city.

First off, the big stores lose millions of dollars a day in advertising. No one knows what special features are for sale. Women use advertising as a shopping guide even when not actually purchasing the items advertised. Similarly, no one knows what's new at the theatres. Two Broadway shows opened soon after the strike began. No one, not even the actors or producer, knows whether they are any good. There are no critics to tell them. Both shows fear imminent death for the simple reason that the public doesn't know they exist. Only the big, established hits can continue at capacity business. What this will do to the theatre is anybody's guess.

Moreover, if the shutdown is a long one, quite likely one or more of the papers will not resume publication, hence some hundreds of jobs especially in the news and business offices, will be permanently lost, thus visiting the hardships of the strike in more lasting form on the unemployed. Or if the union wins a significant part of its demands, the effect as a pattern may be to accelerate the disappearance of newspapers in many other parts of the country who are unable to meet the weekly wage increase of $18.45, plus fringe benefits estimated to reach a total of $38.00.

For national or international news, people must depend on out-of-town newspapers. During the current strike, 300 copies of the Sunday Chicago Tribune were sold within an hour after arrival. Boston, Philadelphia and New Jersey papers are in special demand.

Repercussions are, in fact, too numerous to mention. Readers most miss the services a newspaper provides to aid everyday living. The weather forecast, the television listings, the movie and theatre listings, the stock exchange tables, the schedules of sports events — even the telephone number of advertising stores are conspicuous by their absence. "Merry Christmas," indeed! Well, something, at least, is gained. If the newspaper publishers do weather a long strike, it can fairly be predicted they will not sign another contract ending in the first week of December!

A Prayer For Little Beasts

Oh guard, dear Pan, so great and wise,
All little beasts with frightened eyes.
Who sniff and scrabble in the night,
Then scurry off alive with fright.
Hide them in burrow, nest or den,
Far from the guns or traps of men.
They ask so little, only these:
Grain from the farmer, mouldy cheese,
A wormy apple in the grass
And nuts for winter store. Alas,
How they are hunted out of hand
All up and down their noisy land!
Oh guard, dear Pan, so great and wise,
All little beasts with frightened eyes.

—Beulah May

Random Musings

This may be sheerest treason, but our thoughts can't help but dwell on the half-billion dollars we will have thrown away on Skybolt Missile, if discarded. That sum of money could have extended the list of "New York's 100 Neediest Cases" to "New York's 100,000 Neediest Cases."

It seems a farmer in Baltimore decided to try out Khrushchev's idea of paintings produced by the "daub of a donkey's tail." He found an amiable mule, swabbed the end of its tail in paint, had a friend tickle its neck, and held the canvas in close proximity. The result was described by a critic (unfamiliar with its origin) as "the work of a very serious abstractionist, so sensitive and delicate that it reminded me of Chinese art."

French postal authorities have found their mint-flavored stamps have proved so popular that they will follow up next year with stamps flavored with various aperitifs, including anisette. There's a hint here for Uncle Sam, whose stamps, if licked in any quantity, tend to leave a nauseous taste in the mouth!

Attitude of Town Regarding RR Upsets Local Man

Several weeks ago the Star carried an article which stated that the town had gone to court in an effort to guarantee that the access ramps to the Winchester railroad station would be kept free from ice and snow. On Christmas day I met an out-of-state acquaintance arriving by train from Boston. The condition of the ramps was disgraceful. Covered with ice, without a trace of sand, the ramps were a menace to safety. Several elderly persons arriving on the same train experienced great difficulty in getting off the ramps safely. My acquaintance, who has travelled widely by rail all over the country, was appalled at the condition of the ramps. He observed that he had rarely seen such poor conditions in his years of rail travel.

I realize that the responsibility is not the town's according to the letter of the law. But it does seem to me that the town could make a safety of those using the ramps by real contribution to the health and assuming the burden of keeping them clear. This would seem particularly desirable now that the B & M has undertaken to improve service with state aid. As far as I can see, the town has done little or nothing to contribute to the success of this important experiment in rail service. I realize that there are many who feel that the town cannot and should not do anything for the B & M, but it seems to me that this should be balanced against the effects of the failure of the present experiment. It is hard to see how an end to all rail service or the extension of the MTA will benefit Winchester.

It is most discouraging to see the lack of publicity and interest which the increased train service has received here in Winchester. Two weeks ago I asked for a copy of the new schedule. I was told that they would not be available until just before the schedule was to go into effect. It occurred to me at the time that if the town were alert to the seriousness of its transportation problem, it would have made an effort to distribute timetables to the residents of the town well in advance of the start of the new service. Unfortunately, little consistent effort has been made to publicize the new service through the Star. The basic problem is the old one of civic interest and civic education. Undoubtedly, there are many residents of the town who have had no experience in travelling to Boston by train, and who might be won over to the new train service if someone took the trouble to inform them of its advantages. It is a pity that neither the town nor a local civic group has seen fit to conduct such a campaign.

The town is failing in its responsibilities by not considering the transportation problem as one of the most serious problems. It may be that this neglect will cost the town heavily in future years. The tax burden which nearby communities have to bear for the MTA is proof enough of this. With the new increased rail service the town has an opportunity to contribute something toward the resolution of this grave problem before it is too late. And it may be too late on January 6, 1964 when the experiment ends.

Very truly yours,
William J. Callahan, Jr.

Again Our Thanks

Editor of the Star:

The Winchester Community Relief Committee, wishes through the Star, to express its heartfelt thanks to all who assisted in the efforts to provide cheer for the town's less fortunate residents during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Through the kindness of the Winchester Star, we were able to gladden many hearts with gifts of food and canned goods, vegetables, shoes, clothing, toys, and other necessary items. We are also grateful for the money donated from clubs, societies and private individuals.

The Committee particularly appreciated the action of private persons who took the responsibility of caring for individual families with food and wearing apparel, and the assistance rendered by all of the town's churches, both at Thanksgiving and Christmas and the help extended by the

Firefighter's Work Week Considered On Lengthy Side

Winchester is again indebted to the Star for calling attention to a situation which none of us, acting as individuals, would countenance. I refer to the short-sighted injustice involved in the 56-hour work week for firemen in this town.

As Winchester is among the leaders in pleasant living conditions for its residents, so should it be among the leaders in reasonable working conditions for town employees. With respect to our firemen we have not only failed to lead; we are dragging our feet. As you have pointed out, Winchester, among the twenty surrounding communities, is bringing up the rear. Of these twenty, only two other towns still have the 56-hour work week for firemen. We are thus open to the accusation that we enjoy our pelasant homes at the expense of some of our employees who lack the free time to enjoy theirs. We should correct this situation by bringing our firemen's work week into line with that of similar towns in the Greater Boston area. This means a reduction to 48 hours a week.

Sincerely yours,
Ruth D. Terzaghi

Post Office Crew Is Praised on Its Xmas Mail Speed

Editor of the Star:

Congratulations to the Winchester Post Office crew for a tremendous job on the Christmas mail. On Monday the 24th, at the height of the rush, we got a stack of cards and letters, some of which had been mailed from out of town as late as 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Sincerely,

Editor of the Star:

The Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce deserves a real pat on the back, and sincere thanks from residents for collecting Christmas trees last Saturday.

Congratulations to the Star as well! Each tree out front of a home, waiting to be picked up, was there because some one carefully read the Star and followed instructions.

Folkers Appointed March of Dimes Winchester Head

Donald Folkers of 79 Yale Street has been appointed chairman of the 1963 March of Dimes in Winchester it was announced today by Samuel A. Cammarata of Somerville, Middlesex East Chapter Campaign Director.

DONALD FOLKERS

Mr. Folkers, who is employed by the First National Bank of Boston, is president of the Winchester Young Republican Club, an associate member of the Republican Town Committee and a precinct chairman.

In accepting the appointment as director of the campaign forces in Winchester, Mr. Folkers said "The 25th Anniversary March of Dimes this month promises to be the most successful in years."

"Our campaign theme this year is 'Give for the Life of a Child,'" Mr. Folkers said, "and we're asking the residents of Winchester to do just that."

Through the contributions of the American people during the National Foundation's first quarter century, March of Dimes-supported research developed the Salk and Sabin vaccines and polio has been eliminated as a threat to the lives and well-being of children all over the world, even though millions of dollars are still needed to aid those stricken in former years."

Mr. Folkers urges all residents of Winchester to give as generously as possible during the 25th Anniversary Campaign this month.

Mr. Folkers will also be co-chairman of Region Three comprising Melrose, Wakefield, Woburn, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester.

Reminder to Our Foreign Visitors

The Department of Justice again reminds Winchester aliens that this is the month during which they must register and report addresses to the Federal Government.

Failure to do so opens the possibility of fine, imprisonment and, or deportation.

The law applies equally to alien children, but if they are under 14 years of age their parents or legal guardians should submit the address for them.

A few points taken from a Justice Department booklet serves to point up sme of the factors in the law:

The report must be made each year that the alien remains in the United States.

It may be made at any Post Office. Just ask for an Alien Address Report Card.

If temporarily out of the country on January first, the alien must submit a report within ten days of his return.

Students and short term visitors are included, in other words any alien in the country on January first must report.

Democratic Notes

Members of the local Town Democratic Committee attended the inaugural of Governor Endicott Peabody last week at the State House. Later, they joined the line of well-wishers and were greeted at the Hall of Flags reception by the new Governor, his wife, Toni, his children, and other distinguished persons.

Many remarked on the unusual situation of the parents of both the Governor and Mrs. Peabody, Bishop and Mrs. Malcolm Peabody and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gibbons. The latter two are British subjects from Nassau where Mrs. Peabody's father is a member of the Bahamas ruling assembly.

Mrs. Peggy Harsch, local chairman for "Women for Peabody," represented the Town Committee at both Inaugural Balls, escorted by her husband, Roger Harsch.

Mrs. Harsch was dressed in pale petunia satin with shoes of a deeper pink shade, and a bouffant Jackie Kennedy hairdo. She received a warm embrace from the "first lady."

Bee Wilson announced that plans for the 1963 Irish Night are taking form. While she has not yet had a formal meeting of her committee, she is being besieged with suggestions by telephone.

Many of those who have called suggest March 17 for the date of this event. The date will be settled at the first meeting of the committee. This will be the main fund-raising affair for the Democratic Town Committee.

Mrs. Mae Serieka is busy on her plan for the Irish Night guest list.

Former Senator Fred McDermott and his wife have signified their intention to be present.

January testimonial will be held at Blinstrub's to honor a worthy and able Democrat, Senator Jim Long of neighboring Woburn.

William Dailey, treasurer, announced that all the bills for 1961-62 have been paid with the committee operating comfortably in the black.

Atom Smashers To Be Built By High Voltage Co.

An eight and a half million dollar contract for three high voltage atom smashers has just been concluded with the government by the neighboring High Voltage Engineering company of Burlington, located up off the corner of Routes 3 and 128.

The company is in its fifteenth year of operation and Dr. John G. Trump, of 9 Cambridge Street, is its technical director and chairman of its board. Dr. Trump is a professor of engineering at M. I. T. and was a founder of the Company.

The new 20 million electronvolt machines have been purchased by the Atomic Energy Commission of the United States and Canada for installation at Yale University, the University of Minnesota and the Chalk River Nuclear Laboratory in Ontario. They are to be the first of their particular kind designed for research into nuclear structure.

Weighing 187 tons and capable of accelerating beams of protons and heavy atomic nuclei along a 100 foot path at extremely high speeds against experimental targets, the machines will cost the government about $3 million each.

Dr. Robert Jamison Van de Graff, of Lexington, who developed the high voltage electrostatic generator in 1932, has been chief physicist and a director of High Voltage Company since its founding.

Dental Society Annual Meeting

The Massachusetts Dental Society will hold its Annual Mid-winter Educational Meeting on January 14 and 15, 1963 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston.

Some 500 dentists from Massachusetts and neighboring New England states will participate in courses to be given by prominent lecturers in dentistry and other related fields.

The House of Delegates, the legislative body of the Society, will convene on Sunday, January 13 to conduct the general business of the Society. Dr. Herman S. Levine of Boston is president of the Massachusetts Dental Society, and Dr. S. Patric Scavotto of Boston is chairman of the Mid-winter Educational program for 1963.

Featured speakers will include Dr. Helmut A. Zander of Rochester, New York; Dr. David Weisberger of Boston; and Dr. Daniel J. Holland of Brookline, who will discuss the "Diagnosis of Dental Pain and Swelling," with Dr. Robert Glass of Boston acting as moderator for this seminar.

A second seminar session in dentistry will be conducted by Dr. Philip H. White of Boston, and is entitled "One Answer to Dentistry's Challenges." The speakers for this seminar will include Dr. Don W. Gullett of Toronto, Ontario, secretary of the Canadian Dental Association, Dr. Rudolph H. Friedrich of New York City, and Mr. Joel R. Jacobson, the first executive vice-president, New Jersey State American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations, Newark, N. J.

The selection for the "Dentist of the Year" along with those dentists celebrating their 50th year in the practice of dentistry will be honored at a luncheon on Tuesday, January 15.

Bloodmobile Day Partial Success

The Winchester bloodmobile day on Monday was a partial success, according to Red Cross officials.

A total of 75 pints of blood were contributed by 90 generous donors to the appeal made by the Red Cross. Many volunteers and helpers aided in getting the blood for the Red Cross on Monday afternoon in front of the Church of the Epiphany, but in general, officials said, it was a relatively poor showing.

Elected Director Of Red Cross

FRANCIS P. BRENNAN

A graduate of Boston College and Bentley College of Accounting and Finance, he was an overseas army combat officer during World War II.

Currently a director of Massachusetts Business Development Corporation, Massachusetts Small Business Investment Co., Inc., and Metropolitan Mortgage Bureau, he is also a member of several civic and banking organizations.

Midwest College Representatives Interview Students

A growing interest among New England high school students in attending mid-western colleges will bring the admissions directors of ten coeducational colleges from that area to Boston to interview some of them. Students from local secondary schools and others throughout the northeast will meet the directors at hotels to discuss college offerings and qualifications for entrance.

The colleges, members of the Midwest College Council, staged a three-day admissions conference at five high schools here a year ago last October. The presidents of the colleges as well as the admissions directors took part in the conference which sparked a sharp rise of New England enrollments in current Council freshman classes.

This year's seniors and juniors, who first became acquainted with the small, liberal arts colleges of the midwest by attending the conference, will be on hand for the interviews. Invitations to arrange for the consultations were extended through high school guidance counselors.

The interviews will take place Monday (January 14) from 10:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and Tuesday (January 15) from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, Boston. Evening appointments are being arranged for the convenience of parents who wish to accompany their children.

The appointments are being made in advance by telephone. For interviews in Boston students have been advised to phone KI 7-6708. They may see one or more colleges in whichever city is most convenient.

A coffee hour for guidance counselors, during which they will bring themselves up-to-date on new developments at the ten colleges, will be held in the State Suite of the Sheraton Plaza on Monday, from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. More than four hundred counselors attended special afternoon sessions of the 1961 conference.

Booklets describing the general characteristics of the small midwestern college and containing two-page sketches of each of the Council colleges have been sent out to the counselors in the area so students could examine them in advance.

The colleges are: Albion College, Albion, Michigan; Alma College Alma, Michigan; Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin; Hamline University, St. Paul Minnesota; Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio; Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio; Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo, Michigan; Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois; Ripon College, Ripon, Wisconsin; and Rockford College, Rockford, Illinois.

Dr. Paul F. Sharp, president of Hiram College, and chairman of the executive committee of Midwest College Council, said in commenting on the visits, "We were all most gratified by the warm reception accorded us by high school counselors, students and parents when we were in New England last. Although we came then to talk mainly with sophomores and juniors, a number of last year's graduating class attended our meetings and decided to enroll at our colleges. As a result, the Council's collective New England enrollment this past fall appears to have more than doubled over that of the previous year according to preliminary figures from a study now being conducted.

"Judging from the number of inquiries and applications some of us have already received from those who will be graduating next Spring, September, 1963, should see substantial enrollment increase even over the present figures.

"We are delighted at the prospect because of the experience we have had with students from the many excellent New England secondary schools. They in turn have found that living and studying with others in the midwest has added a new dimension to their education which they might not have discovered at an institution nearer home. And the word seems to be getting around back at their former schools."

De Cordova Recital By Belgian Pianist

Jeanne Stark, talented young Belgian pianist, will give a piano recital at the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln this Friday evening, January 11, at 8:30 p.m.

Her program will include Mozart's "Sonata in D Major," Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Paganini," Bartok's "Suite, Op. 14," and six etudes be Chopin. Tickets for the performance may be purchased at the Museum.

An honor graduate of the Conservatoire Royal de Musique in Brussels, Jeanne Stark was awarded the National Laure Van Cutsem Prize and a scholarship by the Queen Elizabeth Competition Committee. She has been a soloist with the Belgian National Orchestra and made her New York debut in 1961.

In addition a new exhibit will open at the DeCordova Museum on Sunday when the paintings, collages and drawings by Boston artist Robert S. Neuman will be shown from then to February 17. The Neuman exhibition will be shown concurrently with an extensive display of earrings from a private collection. The public is invited to attend the opening of both exhibitions at the Museum on Sunday afternoon, January 13, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Robert Neuman has long been recognized in the art world as one of America's most gifted and promising young painters. He received a Fulbright Grant for Painting in 1953 and a Guggenheim Fellowship for Painting in 1956; in the past ten years he has had fourteen one-man exhibitions at galleries in the United States and Europe and has participated in major group exhibitions here and abroad.

More than one-half of the exhibition at the De Cordova Museum will be devoted to his recent series of "circle paintings" entitled "Pedazos del Mundo" or "Pieces of the World." James Harithas, Curator of the Museum, writes in the catalogue for the exhibition, that in these paintings "the geometry of the structured world confronts the chaos of the equally important world which is beyond man's control. Neuman has found an intuitive bridge between these two worlds and is able to represent them as a unified whole."

Mr. Neuman won the Grand Prize at the Boston Arts Festival in 1961 and was the only Boston artist represented in the international exhibit of contemporary art at the Seattle World's Fair last summer. He has lived in Boston since 1957 and is currently Visiting Associate Professor of Art at Brown University.

Home And Garden Club

The Winchester Home and Garden Club continues a year of outstanding programs with the January meeting which will be held on Wednesday, the 16th, at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Hall. A coffee hour will begin at 1:30 p.m. followed by a brief business meeting and introduction of the guest speaker at 2 o'clock.

As this is the month of new resolutions, for the home gardener it is also the time to settle down with a variety of garden catalogues and make plans for the coming year. With this in mind, Mrs. Gerald Hills and Mrs. Valery Havard, Jr. of the program committee, have invited Mr. Daniel J. Foley, noted landscape architect, to speak on "An Easy Approach to Home Landscaping."

Mr. Foley, a former Editor of Horticulture, America's oldest garden magazine, is the author of several popular books on all phases of gardening, the best known of which, "Garden Flowers in Color," has been a continuing best seller for fourteen years. One of his avocations has been the history and development of gardening along the entire eastern coast of the United States. He has worked with several of the nation's leading color photographers in making pictures for books and garden magazines and he is recognized for his knowledge of color in the home garden and how to plan for the most dramatic effects.

Our contemporary houses pose problems which Mr. Foley believes are best solved by plantings that remain in scale with the house and surrounding landscape. He will discuss desirable trees, shrubs and perennials and will illustrate these with kodachrome slides. A question and answer period will follow his talk.

Soloist For Civic Choir

Dorothy Graham, formerly Dorothy Brandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ragnar T. Brandt of 5 Thornton Road, was the soprano soloist for the Mooresville Civic Choir's performance of Handel's Messiah, presented December 20 in Mooresville, Indiana, where she is now residing. One hundred twenty singers took part in the presentation directed by the music supervisor for the Mooresville Public Schools.

Dr. Clark Heart Fund Appointment

The advance gifts chairman for the 1963 Heart Fund in Winchester is Dr. Richard Clark it was announced today by Mr. Frank Greene local campaign chairman.

Dr. Clark of 71 Myopia Road is president of the Medical Staff of the Winchester Hospital. Associate physician at Massachusetts General Hospital, Dr. Clark serves as a consultant in Cardiology at Choate Memorial Hospital. He is a former director of the Work Classification Unit which is sponsored by the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association. Dr. Clark has served as Advanced Gifts Chairman for the past several years in Winchester.

"We have come to realize over the years the important role filled by the advance gifts chairman in setting the tone of the drive," said the general chairman. "Early giving on a large scale often indicates the success of the entire campaign" he concluded.

The advance gifts chairman encourages and coordinates generous contributions early in February from community leaders.

This year a house-to-house campaign will be conducted beginning on Thursday, February 21 with the climax on Heart Sunday, February 24.

The Fornightly

The January meeting of the literature committee of the Fortnightly was held on Wednesday, January 2, in the Rich Room of the Winchester Public Library.

Mrs. Everett Littlefield, chairman, opened the program. The aims and purpose of the E. S. O. reading plan was outlined by Mrs. Ralph Meigs and reports of five books read.

Mrs. Littlefield gave her paper on British Autobiographies of the Victorian Era. She traced the development of this type of writing from St. Augustine of the fourth century through Cellini, 1553, and Rousseau, 1712, to the writers of autobiographies in the last of the nineteenth century. These included G. K. Chesterton, the Sitwells, H. M. Stanley, Ellen Terry and Anthony Trollope.

At the February meeting Miss Mary Hodge will review British fiction of this period, and Mrs. Alfred Drew will present a book review.

"Beauty and The Beast"

The opening performance of the Boston Children's Theatre production of "Beauty and the Beast" is scheduled for Saturday afternoon January 19 at New England Life Hall.

The fairy tale of "Beauty and the Beast," dramatized into a three-act play by Nicholas Stuart Gray, has long been a best-seller among children's literary listings.

Cast in the role of "Beauty" is Valerie Clark of Belmont, with George Connolly of Jamaica Plain as the "Beast." Lending support will be Joyce Mesnick of Brookline, Howard Weiner of Revere, Ellyn O'Toole of South Boston, Amy Kraft of Newton, Elaine Bell of Revere, and Arlene Feinberg of Belmont.

Miss Adele Thane will again direct this popular young group, with settings by Thomas Picard, costumes by Vivian Dooley, and lighting by Charles Atwell and Dave Adams.

Performances are scheduled for January 19 and 26, and February 2 and 9 at 2:30 p.m. The Theatre is again offering special group rates for civic groups, P. T. A.'s, schools, Scouts, etc.

Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the Boston Children's Theatre, 263 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, KEnmore 6-3324.

March of Dimes Dinner to Honor Frank Fontaine

A testimonial dinner in honor of comedian Frank Fontaine will be held by the Middlesex East Chapter of the March of Dimes at the Hotel Bradford in Boston on Saturday, January 26.

Mr. Fontaine lives here with his family at 408 Highland Avenue.

The March of Dimes will honor Mr. Fontaine for his contribution to the field of entertainment, as a native son of Massachusetts, and for his participation and continuing interest in the March of Dimes and other charities.

Serving on the dinner committee will be George Swartz, chairman, and Samuel A. Cammarata and Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick, co-chairmen. Other members of the dinner committee include Judge John C. Pappas, Mrs. Arthur S. Hotch, George W. Rose, treasurer, and other prominent civic and business leaders of the Greater Boston area.

The dinner will be a $25 a plate affair with all proceeds going to the Middlesex East Chapter of the March of Dimes.

Particular interest in the event is generated by the fact that 1963 marks the 25th year in the entertainment field for Mr. Fontaine and also the 25th anniversary of the National Foundation March of Dimes.

Metcalf Union

At the Unitarian Church on Sunday, January 13th, at 6:30 p.m., Dr. Norman W. Storer will speak on "The Care and Feeding of Public Opinion" at the meeting of the High School Metcalf Union group.

Dr. Storer is a 1952 graduate of the University of Kansas, where he received his Bachelor and Master degrees. He received his Ph.D. from Cornell University. At present he is a lecturer on Sociology at Harvard University, and assistant chairman of the Department of Social Relations. His talk will cover the various methods of molding public opinion, creating the proper "image" for political candidates and other celebrities, and the uses of propaganda. Dr. and Mrs. Storer moved to Winchester in 1960, and live on Cutting Street with their two children.

Dr. Robert A. Storer will also be at this meeting to discuss plans for Youth Sunday on February 10, when the entire service will be conducted by members of Metcalf Union.

Several of our members attended the Mid-Winter Conference of NERC, which was held at Proctor Academy from December 27th to 30th. Christine Webb, Barbara Brotherston, Tom Baird, Dave Tesar and Margaret Rich were our delegates to this conference.

Easter Seals Helped 1,371 Crippled Last Year

Through its Easter Seal rehabilitation projects, the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped, Inc., last year helped 1,371 crippled children and adults toward greater usefulness, jobs and financial independence. This was an increase of 190 persons served during the previous year.

George M. Rideout of Wellesley Hills, president of Babson's Reports and society president, reporting on the year's activities, noted particularly that an increasing number of disabled adults were among those whose many needs were met by the Easter Seal Society's services.

He called attention to the organization's program development across the state. This included a traveling rehabilitation team which is providing demonstration projects in community hospitals in Gardner, Greenfield, Southbridge and Ware. As a result of the team and individual case services, the physically handicapped of more than 150 Massachusetts communities benefited. Recently the team started a demonstration project in speech therapy for children in cooperation with the public school department of Ayer.

"Not only is the traveling team taking rehabilitation to crippled children and adults who otherwise might not have help," Rideout said, "but it also is helping communities to determine what physical restoration services they can or cannot provide locally because of resources and professional staff of which there is a chronic shortage. The demonstration projects frequently are evaluated to determine the needs of the handicapped and how they can best be met.

"Those people whose interest, efforts and financial support made possible the Easter Seal Society's record of achievement for the year can be proud," Rideout said. "But the need for their continued help and support remains. For all that has been achieved, we have barely scratched the surface in meeting the needs of Massachusetts' crippled children and adults."

In addition to the traveling rehabilitation team and individual case services, Easter Seal programs include the Rehabilitation Center of Worcester; a J. O. B. (Just One Break) placement program in the Greater Boston area and a project to eliminate architectural barriers to the handicapped and aging in public buildings across the state.

We now have a good selection of brushes for artists, sign writers, painters, industry, schools and hobbyists. At the Winchester Star.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Charlie and Mildred Watson made good on their new year's resolution by topping the North-South field in Section A of our first meeting of 1963, held on Wednesday, January 2nd, at the K. of C. Hall.

Fred Gove and Henry Morgan, who have just joined the Club, also started out royally as they led the East-West field by 8½ points. The results in this standard, eight table movement were:

North-South

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson	72
Dr. Gerald Barrett and Ted Atkinson	71½
Thomas Wilder and Roger Locke	68½
Geraldine Lawrence and Richard Smith	67
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	65½
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	63

East-West

Frederick Gove and Henry Morgan	79
Lolly Smith and Jock Olmsted	70½
Fredna Perkins and Kay McConnell	64½
Helen Mahoney and Ann Murray	63

Only three pairs finished above average in each field of Section B's eight table game, where scores were computed as percentages because of an East-West sitout round.

North-South

James Byrne and Blair Hawley	.639
Betty Olive and Pat Grady	.565
Clarence and Frank Woodward	.537

East-West

Richard Herlihy and Ed Sullivan	.624
Arthur Bibby and Frank Stewart	.528

Tournament Director Dick Smith has announced that our annual social team of four events will commence as soon as he has received entries from 16 teams. It will be strictly a member-guest affair this time, with each entry limited to two club members paired with two guests selected by them. This should give us a better balanced field. Also, since these matches are played in the home, it should provide a number of newcomers with a very pleasant introduction to the duplicate method of play.

The lovely Ann Dean is our guest columnist this week, but she doesn't rely on charm alone at the bridge table, as is evidenced by her play of the following hand, which produced a clear top! Here are Ann's comments:

PRO vs AMATEUR

"Many of us believe that we have achieved a great accomplishment when we are able to outwit the master bridge player, Blair Hawley.

Board number 23 last Wednesday evening was played by two amateur young ladies, against the OLD PRO's, Blair Hawley and Jim "Lover Boy, Cloak Room" Byrne.

This is an obvious slam going hand, although as played last Wednesday evening several teams shut off at 3 No Trump. Four teams played the hand East-West at six No Trump.

After South in all cases passed, West hands opened with a variety of bids, ranging from one Club, to two Clubs to two No Trump. As played and bid against the OLD PRO's the bidding West and East was as follows: West, two No Trump; East, three Hearts; West, three No Trump; East, four No Trump; West, five Hearts; East, six No Trump.

The opening lead was eight of Diamonds. West, playing the contract, can see that she has immediately nine high card tricks, and two additional tricks, because after taking finesses in both black suits she has three tricks sure in both these suits.

If the declarer immediately attacks both black suits using a finesse, and either one works, two tricks are automatic. The only question which appears is which way does one finesse for the Queen of Spades?

The teams which made six no trump finessed into the West hand. The ten of Spades losing to the Queen, and when the Club finesse worked, six no trump was made.

Our two ladies, however, playing against the OLD PRO's, played the ten of Spades into the dummy hand, played the three from dummy, and when this trick held, played the eight of spades to dummy's nine, thereby picking up four spade tricks, and when the club finesse later worked, made seven no trump.

The reason the hand was played that way, was that in duplicate play, the over-trick separates the "men from the boys." Furthermore, the dummy has limited entries, and finessing by using declarer's hand conserves dummies entries.

Robert Mulford To Serve Group For Boston Youth

Appointment of Robert M. Mulford of 29 Pierrepont Road, general secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, to the Program Advisory Committee for the Boston Youth Opportunities Project was announced this week by Dean Charles I. Schottland of Brandeis University, president of ABCD, Inc.

The committee is intended to give advice and assistance in planning programs for the project, which is financed by a grant from the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime.

Mr. Mulford has been with the MSPCC since 1947, and prior to that was for 7 years executive director of the Rochester, New York SPCC.

A graduate of Syracuse University and Graduate School of Columbia University, he is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Children's Division of the American Humane Association. He is also a member of the Program Committee for the 1963 annual meeting for the Council on Social Work Education and the Planning Committee for the Executives' Conference for the Child Welfare League of America. He is a director of Massachusetts Community Organization Service and Social Work Careers and a member of the Executive Board of the Massachusetts Committee on Children and Youth.

He is also a member of the Child Care Council, the Advisory Group on Relocation, the Committee on the Government Center Project, and the Division on Social Services to Families and Individuals of the United Community Services.

Jaywalking Dangerous

Nearly two-thirds of all pedestrian deaths in cities occur because pedestrians cross streets between intersections, the Massachusetts Division of the American Automobile Association said today.

"Jaywalking is one of the most dangerous traffic violations," said Richard W. Hoover, Safety Director for AAA's Massachusetts Division.

"The pedestrian who fails to cross at the intersection runs the risk of sudden death from a passing car," Hoover continued. "But by crossing at the intersection, the pedestrian is usually aided by a cross-walk, sign, or signal."

The Triple-A urges adults to set the example here. Only in this way will children develop this important safety habit.

The theme "Cross Only at Corners," is featured on a safety poster now being distributed to elementary and junior high schools in Massachusetts by the AAA as part of its regular monthly safety education program.

The poster was designed by Paula Gordon, 16, a student at Eureka Senior High School, Eureka, California. Winning a first-place award in the American Automobile Association's National Traffic Safety Poster Contest, the poster has been printed for distribution by AAA Motor Clubs throughout the country.

NO SALE!

Many wonder why we don't have a post-Christmas or January special sale as do many rug and carpet dealers.

We don't mark up our merchandise for holiday selling periods . . . and we refuse to bring in low end goods for a phoney sale.

We feature year 'round values . . . and that means the best dollar value possible. No matter what your budget see us before you buy.

Business Listings In Winchester

During the year 1962, there were 87 changes in Winchester businesses according to a Dun & Bradstreet reference book credit listing. Of these changes, 19 names were added to the credit list and 36 changes in the ratings of continuing businesses were noted.

The reference book lists those manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers.

Back of each listing in the reference book is a credit report. The report includes a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating); a description of what the business does and how it does it; a financial section which usually includes the latest financial statement; and a record of how the business pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by business men who want to evaluate the credit risk of a business before shipping or selling, insurance underwriters also use these reports to review risks, rates, and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

Arlingtones Sing At Stoneham Town Hall

Friday night, January 18, at 8:30 p.m. at the Stoneham Town Hall, "The Arlingtones" present a barber shop style concert under the auspices of The Stoneham Woman's Club, Mrs. John C. Anderson, president. "The Arlingtones" is a group of approximately forty men comprising the Arlington Chapter of the National Society of S. P. E.-B. S. Q. S. A., Inc. having won high honors in the northeast district competitions and having among their quartets a champion quartet, The Celebra-keys." This type of harmony of high quality has become increasingly popular throughout the country. Joining "The Arlingtones" on Friday night, January 18, in their program of old and new favorites will be guest quartets, one from Framingham and the international champion quartet "The Bay Staters" from New Bedford. Admission is only a dollar and a quarter; tickets will be on sale at the door which will be open at 7:45 p.m. that night. Tickets may be purchased in advance by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope with the money to the Ticket Chairman, Mrs. Norman W. Downes, 2 Girard Road, Stoneham.

WHS Scholarship Foundation Elect Officers

At a room-capacity meeting in the High School on Tuesday, December 11, the Winchester Scholarship Foundation elected officers for 1963, heard committee reports and voted several changes in the by-laws.

Mrs. Arthur Hertig reporting for the Scholarship Committee stated that 19 seniors were granted awards ranging from $200 to $900 for a total of $7,900, and that 14 previous recipients of scholarships were granted further aid for a total $5,200. Total grants for the year amounted to $13,100.

J. Henry Van Dyke, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported that contributions during the year ended on June 30, 1962 and totaled $14,250.

Arthur L. John, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the following slate of officers and members to serve on committees for the coming year and they were elected:

Neil H. Borden, chairman; Charles W. Butler, treasurer; and Mrs. Helen E. Chaput, secretary.

Members elected to the Finance Committee:

Levon Boodakian, chairman; John H. Van Dyke, Philip Tesorero, George Billman, Frank Grabiec, Gerard O'Brien, James Henry and John K. Colony.

Elected to serve as a member of the Scholarship Committee for four years: John McElwee.

Elected to serve as publicity chairman: Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr.

Bennett Brenton To New Post At Employers Ins.

Announcement has been made of the recent appointment of Mr. B. Brenton, Jr., of 17 Clearwater Road, as assistant superintendent of the Home Office Boiler and Machinery Department of the Employers Group Insurance Company here.

Mr. Brenton is a graduate of Tabor Academy and Bowdoin College with the class of 1953. He has been with Employers since that time and since 1956 has been head of the New England Boiler and Machinery Department of the company.

He lives here with his wife, Peggy (Benjamin), and their three children. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bennett Brenton of 35 Willowdale Road.

Frederick Fish Is New Trustee Of Homes for Aging

Mr. Frederick L. Fish of 27 Ginn Road, has just been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Association of Massachusetts Homes for the Aging at the Association's annual meeting held recently.

In this capacity he will serve as representative of the Davenport Home in Malden.

The Association was organized to protect and promote the best interests of private, non-profit charitable homes for the aging. The Association serves as the central agency for development of a constructive and advancement of ideas to aid and serve the senior citizen. There are about 130 registered homes in the state.

Sunday Service at 11:00 a.m.

Sunday School is held at the same time as the Church Service.

Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock.

Reading Room, 5 Winchester Terrace (off Thompson Street). Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sunday, January 13

Communion services will be held this Sunday at The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and also at all Christian Science branch churches and societies throughout the world. The church tenets will be read, and the congregation will be invited to kneel in silent communion.

The Lesson-Sermon is on "Sacrament," and Bible readings will include this verse from Matthew 5: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will also be read (p. 4): "The habitual struggle to be always good is unceasing prayer. Its motives are made manifest in the blessings they bring,—blessings which, even if not acknowledged in audible words, attest our worthiness to be partakers of Love."

We have a complete selection of artists' oil colors in tubes, also jars of linseed oil and turpentine. All at the Winchester Star.

To Promote March of Dimes

The local 25th Anniversary March of Dimes campaign will get a big boost on Saturday afternoon, January 5, with the presentation of a Hollywood spectacular on Channel 5 at 5 o'clock.

"Once Upon a Dime," is a comedy-laden hour-long show in which some two dozen movie, television and musical luminaries take part.

The story concerns a group of jewel thieves who plan to steal a fabulous diamond necklace on display at a March of Dimes benefit program. Their confused and hilarious exploits and the inspirational messages of hope for crippled children add up to an hour of entertainment that will be one of the highlights of the new TV year.

Officials of Greater Boston Chapters of the March of Dimes anticipate a generous public response to the annual campaign following this presentation.

The organization, which is still providing treatment for polio victims stricken before the miraculous Salk and Sabin vaccines, has launched a full-scale program of research and treatment for birth defects and arthritis.

Kraft master leisure time kits, seed growing flowers, puppet and stained glass, also oil-paint sets at the Winchester Star.

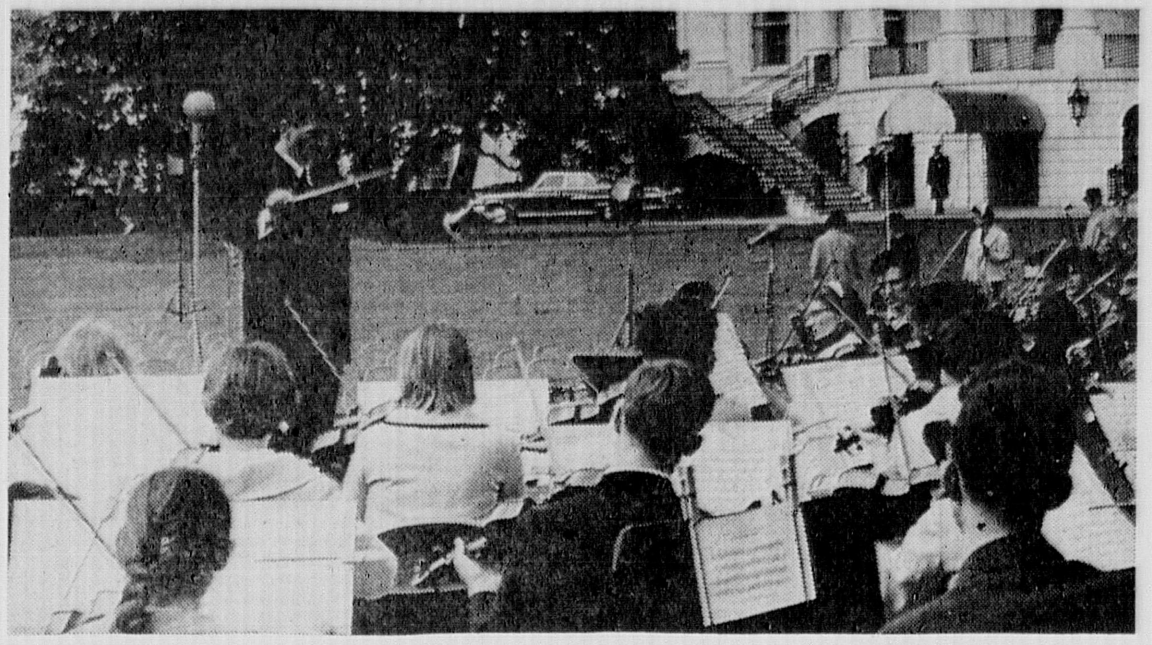
Youth Symphony At White House



Four Winchester musicians were among the performers of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony when it opened its season on Sunday afternoon with an open rehearsal at Boston University's Sargent Gymnasium.

They were also members of the group when it played on the White House lawn this summer.

The musicians are Neal Baker, cellist, son of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Baker of 7 Grove Street; Betty Hauck, violist, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Hauck, 41 Canterbury Road and Joan and Robert Wilson, violinists, daughter and son of Dr. and Mrs. William Wilson of 8 Oneida Road. All are students at Winchester High School.

The rehearsal is open to the public without charge.

The 107-member teen-aged symphony, now nationally known for its performances at the White House and Carnegie Hall, will perform under its conductor Marvin Rabin, associate professor of music at Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Arts.

The group will play a children's concert in Needham's Newman Jr. High School Saturday, January 26; in Weston on Sunday, February 9; and in Arlington on Sunday, April 7. All three suburban concerts will be benefits for the host towns' school music programs.

The traditional Jordan Hall concert will be held Sunday, May 5.

In mid-February, Boston's WHDH-TV, Channel Five, will videotape a set of concerts with the Symphony for broadcast later on "Dateline Boston," produced by Mrs. Virginia Bartlett.

For the first time, the Youth Symphony will play in the Boston Symphony Orchestra's youth concerts under Harry Ellis Dickson. Half the Youth Symphony will perform with the B. S. O. Saturday, March 30, and the other half Saturday, April 6.

Also for the first time, an "alumni day" will be held; past members of the orchestra will return to play December 29 in an all-day rehearsal at Boston University.

The Greater Boston Youth Symphony is made up of junior and senior high school players ranging from 11 to 18 years of age. It is a joint project of the public, private and parochial school music directors of the Greater Boston area, the Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts and a community-wide board of directors.

Mrs. Frederick Haffenreffer of Wellesley is president of the board, with Von M. Weston of Arlington and Mrs. William Cruickshank of Wellesley as vice presidents; Mrs. James H. Currens of West Newton, secretary, and H. Spencer Dormitzer of Arlington, treasurer.

Gen. Chairman Of Publishing Week

General chairman of New England Printing and Publishing Week January 13 to 20, is William D. Holden, of 24 Henry Street.

WILLIAM D. HOLDEN

Holden, of New England Printer and Lithographer of Boston, as general chairman is in charge of coordinating the activities of the 25 assorted committees which deal with the the various phases of the week set aside for honoring printing and publishing.

Highlights of the week include the New England Printing Machinery Show at First Corps of Cadets Armory, a two-day Lithographic Technical Forum, a New England Book Fair, and the Mid-Winter Convention of the New England Weekly Press Association. Sixteen graphic arts groups join in sponsoring the week.

Chinese Restaurant Opened Tuesday

Winchester can now boast it has a Chinese Restaurant. The Joy Joy Chinese Restaurant on the Woburn-Winchester line at 5-7 Main Street opened this week on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Benny Wong, manager of the new restaurant, has had many years of experience in Boston's Chinatown — known all over the world for its excellent cuisines.

And Mr. Wong plans to continue the tradition of Chinese restaurateurs in his new establishment. He plans to feature a complete menu selection of the finest in Chinese foods.

Noontime luncheons and dinners as well as evening meals can be enjoyed while sitting down in a true Oriental decor, including Chinese lanterns. Or, for those who are rushed by business, the Joy Joy staff says it is happy to offer quick take out service.

The pagoda-shaped Joy Joy has facilities for serving 110 persons, and has an upstairs room that can accommodate parties of up to 25 persons.

Because of the lack of a number of restaurant facilities in the area, Mr. Wong feels that the Winchester-Woburn area is an excellent location for an Oriental-type restaurant. The Joy Joy, with its 12-man staff, will be open regularly for business from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 a.m.

Dr. Corcoran To Address Parents

On Tuesday, January 15th, the Vinson-Owen Parents' Association will have Dr. Clare M. Corcoran as guest speaker at their second general meeting of the school year. The meeting will be held in the Vinson-Owen auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Corcoran, principal of Vinson-Owen, is well qualified to speak on her subject "Teaching Today's Children to Read." After graduating from the Belmont Public School system and receiving her degree in Education from Framingham State Teachers College, she went on to graduate study in Education at Boston University, earning both the master's and doctor's degrees. Her doctoral thesis was based on teaching reading in the primary grades.

Dr. Corcoran's first assignment in the Winchester schools was as a teacher in the Noonan School. From this position, she became assistant supervisor and then supervisor of Reading for Winchester Public Schools before assuming her present position as principal.

Refreshments will be served after Dr. Corcoran's address. Vinson-Owen parents and all others interested in the way reading is now taught are cordially invited to attend.

Adult Education Winter Courses Feb. 4

Courses for Winchester adults will commence for the second term of the academic year on Monday evening, February 4, according to Richard E. Desjarlais, assistant superintendent and director of the Adult Education Program in Winchester.

The term will offer 13 courses in the categories of general education, general interest and homemaking and crafts, all of which have been previously presented.

The fall term just concluded in Adult Education enrolled 273 students, or 128 more than the same term last year. Administrators look to a heavy enrollment again in the classes running from February into April.

Among the old standbys will be the Woodworking and Furniture Repair course, with emphasis on an average do-it-yourself program, and the Rotary-sponsored Developmental Reading Course, designed to increase efficiency in reading techniques, comprehension, rate and vocabulary building skills.

French and Spanish courses will be repeated. Bridge and Physical Fitness for both men and women are also scheduled.

The men's course in Fitness and Recreation has climbed steadily in popularity and enrollment since its first inclusion a year ago.

Personal Typing will continue for those who registered this fall. And Descriptive Mineralogy, Cake Decorating and Sewing are also listed.

Pamphlets with course descriptions and instructors' names will be distributed throughout the town the week of January 21. Registration may be made by mail to the School Department from now until the first of February.

Or anyone may register in person the evening of Tuesday, January 29, at the new School Department offices in the Lynch Junior High School on Brantwood and Horn Pond Brook Roads.

This is the time of the year to select a used car of your choice. We have been accepting a fine quality of clean used cars on our new car sales, resulting in a wide selection of high quality used cars.

Our prices are competitive. The quality of the used cars cannot be equalled. Remember that Winchester's used cars are better.

They Plan For You To "Follow The Fun"

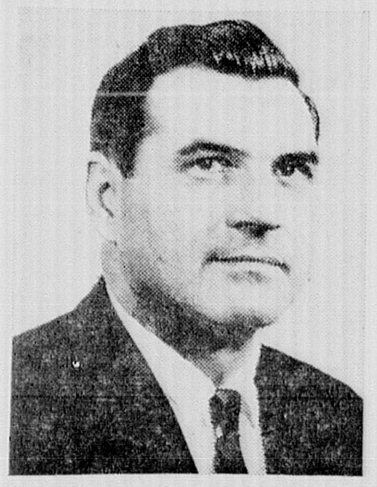
Dr. Mac C. Adams Will Speak To Fortnightly

Monday, January 14, will be Education Day at The Fortnightly in the Social Hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Refreshments will be served at one o'clock by the social chairman Mrs. Frank White and her committee.



DR. MAC C. ADAMS

Mrs. Herbert Thompson, president, will call the business meeting to order at two o'clock. Following this brief session Mrs. Hiram Moody, the program chairman, will introduce Dr. Mac C. Adams of 41 Myopia Road, who will present "Space Flight and Exploration.

Dr. Adams is a vice president and technical director of Avco Corporation in the Research and Advanced Development Division, Wilmington. His education at Cornell University in mechanical and aeronautical engineering has provided his background in research fields pertaining to space flight. In the capacities of technical and deputy director he has been responsible for the organization and technical direction of Avco's research programs in the area of reentry.

Dr. Adams has made significant contributions in the fields of high-altitude aerodynamics, aerodynamic heat transfer, re-entry of high-speed vehicles into the earth's atmosphere and associated physical processes such as ablation and radiation.

Dr. Adams will be most informative on this vast current topic of space and his message will be one The Fortnightly members and guests will not want to miss.

New Education Programs To Be Panel Discussed At The Washington School

The Dad's Club and the Mothers' Association of the George Washington School has planned a forward looking educational program for their open meeting to be held Wednesday evening, January 16 at 8:00 p.m. at the school auditorium.

A panel group representing many educational points of view will be present, and the public is invited to attend.

The panel includes: Mr. Albert Sutula, principal of the Parkhurst School, who will discuss team teaching as it is being carried on at the Parkhurst Elementary School; and Miss Rosella M. Gallagher, principal of the Harvey School, Arlington, has had direct experience with the SMSG program, a program designed with new nathematical concepts, which is now used in Winchester and Arlington Schools.

Also Mr. Joseph C. Forte, principal, McCall Junior High School, to discuss the SMSG program as carried on in the Junior High School and High School, and Miss Leonor M. Rich, principal, George Washington School, to discuss the philosophy of our elementary educational system.

Mr. Samuel Jones, assistant to the Director of Student Aid at M. I. T., and a member of the Dad's Club of the George Washington School will moderate the panel group.

Looking toward the future, it is important to assess what we are doing today in order to lay the foundations for the knowledge and skills demanded in our present day world. With this in mind, the parents' groups asked the above panelists to be present to handle special areas of the discussion. There is nothing more important or vital to the parent than the educational opportunities that are provided for their children.

A list of high school girls willing and prepared to baby sit for parents on the above date is in the hands of Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Mead. Parents may call for available baby sitters PA 9-0407 - Mrs. Perkins, and PA 9-4568 - Mrs. Mead.

Edward McDevitt To C.P.A. Board

Edward J. McDevitt of Wyman Court, a prominent Boston certified public accountant, was appointed by Governor Volpe to the Board of Registration of Certified Public Accountants.

EDWARD J. McDEVITT

A partner in the firm of Patterson, Teele and Dennis in Boston, Mr. McDevitt is formerly president of the 62-year-old Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, and formerly vice-president of the American Institute of CPA's.

He is also a trustee of the Hibernia Savings Bank and a member of the Budget Committee of the Winchester Community Chest.

A graduate of the Boston High School of Commerce and Northeastern University, he is married to the former Maryrose Berridge of Winthrop. The couple have one son, Edward.

Historical League Meets Next Week

The winter meeting of the Bay State Historical League will be held on January 19, at the Massachusetts Historical Society building, 1154 Boylston Street, Boston.

Any interested person is invited to attend.

There will be registration in the morning from 10 o'clock. At 2 p.m. there will be a business meeting and roll call.

Stephen T. Riley executive director of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and a director of the Bay State Historical League, will be one of several speakers who will tell about important segments of the extraordinary historical material acquired by the society since 1791.

In the hour preceding, and during the social period, there will be an opportunity to look at the treasures on display.

Middlesex League Hockey

Wakefield, which snapped Melrose's 26-game undefeated streak with a 2-0 upset win two weeks ago, hopes to continue in its role of spoiler today when it meets league leader Belmont in the feature game of the Middlesex Hockey League at the North Shore Sports Center.

In other pairings, the round starts at 3:30 p.m., Reading faces Melrose, Winchester opposes Stoneham and Watertown takes on Lexington.

Belmont likewise will be depending on goal tender Dave Crisafulli who, like Ring, has allowed only six goals this year. Thus, the contest looms as a battle of net tenders.

This game also brings together two clubs who have scored exactly the same number of goals, 14. It shapes up as perhaps the most even game of the season.

Belmont, a pre-season favorite to win its first Middlesex League title, hasn't hit its potential as a scoring unit yet. However, two of its starters, Bob Gardiner and John Labanara are among the league's top 10 scorers.

The outcome of the Middlesex League still is much in doubt. As expected no team is making a runaway bid. The top five teams are separated by only three points.

Saturday's round doesn't count in the standings, but it will serve as a preview of next year's clubs insofar as no seniors will be playing. Saturday is college board examination day for the seniors.

By: Fred McCormack

Strangely, color blind people generally have similar facial characteristics. They have a V-shaped face and their eyes are close-set.

In general they are very intelligent and their ranks include many from specialized fields such as medicine and law.

Another mark of the color blind person is an even disposition, seldom given to anger or deep fits of gloom.

Incidentally, color blind or not, you will never have occasion to feel anger or gloom when you trade at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY. Quality and friendly service are our trademarks. In the matter of prescriptions, all work is exacting and careful at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

Women's S.O.I. Bowling

The holidays are over and we are all back to normal. Your "reporter" was so busy shopping and going to parties that she failed to submit the bowling scores for December 19. Just a word about that week's bowling. Cusi and Terry were really at it tooth and nail. They bowled marvelous scores. We had seven girls on the 100 Club list. Two of them were new, Polly and Marie. By the way, it's good to have Mary Pizzo back. We missed you, Groucho.

Now for January 2. It looks like the Luckies are sneaking up to the top. You girls have done very well, hope you can stay there.

Mary and Emma are the only ones who didn't feel the effect of New Year's. They made high single and high triple. Terry is bowling 93.6—'Wow;" and Cusi finally made 90.0. Hope Terry didn't hurt her knee when she tried a Terry Walsh stunt.

Peg Fiore, why didn't you pass out your pep pills to all the girls? Heard they were good.

Our team of the week is the Kools. They ended up in second place in the first half. Captain Florence Paonessa is a cute little blonde that tries to make people believe she is a chipmunk. Terry Nappa does so well. Couldn't you rent out your arm, Terry, for people who want to improve their bowling?. Some day Irene Mangano is going to laugh out loud. Irene, don't look so serious, we are really a good group. Kay Pizzo is another wonder. Don't know where she gets her energy. Always stay as young and happy as you are now. Ann Geradi has done so well that the girls have already signed her up for next year. Glad you're doing so well.

Sachem Seconds Lose Close One

The Winchester High School Jayvees lost to Reading High School Jayvees 50-47. The Sachems bid 40 win was thwarted when Reading froze the ball for the last minute and thirty seconds.

The Sachems downed by nine points at halftime fought back and took the lead 47-46 with two minutes left. Reading took the lead 48-47 on a basket by Herrick. The Sachems lost the ball and Reading froze the ball until with one second left, Herrick of Reading was fouled. He sank both foul shots as his team won 50-47.

Completes First Coaching Season

Peter J. Sullivan, former University of Massachusetts quarterback, has just completed his first season of coaching in the Chelmsford School system.

His Freshman football team was undefeated in the Lowell Suburban League with five victories, 6 wins, 1 loss for the season.

Mr. Sullivan is the son of Mrs. J. A. Sullivan of 21 Sargent Road. He has been a lifeguard at Leonard Pool for the past two summers.

Winchester Blanks Reading

Winchester High remained deadlocked with Wakefield for third place in the Middlesex Hockey League by virtue of its 3-0 win over Reading last Saturday at the Lynn Sports Center.

The Sachems scored a goal in each of the three periods. Ed Cutting opened the scoring in the first period while his team was shorthanded, soloing at 6:41 of the period.

Vic Lawson blasted in a fifty footer in the second period with an assist from Cutting. In the final period Dick Eaton flipped home an eight footer to end the scoring. Reading tried hard but found the Winchester defense too good. The summary:

Winchester—Goal, Hills; defense, Johns, Lawson, Scherban; forwards, R. Murray, Cutting, Johnson, O'Callaghan, Eaton, D. Murray, Cowles, McCormack.

VFW Post 3719 Bowling League

Thursday night marked the end of our first half of the season. There is no doubt about the Diamonds taking first place. They ended up 12 wins ahead of the second place Clubs. The most improved team is the Spades, who should give the Diamonds a real battle during the second half.

High team single goes to the Hearts, 451. High team triple to the Spades, 1289. Individual high single is a three way tie between Rose, Barbara and Marsha. They each have a 114 string. High triple to Rose, 302. Rose was the only bowler to reach the 300 or more mark.

All the bowlers were really giving their best last week. Nellie's strike was a real beauty. Good work, Nellie, wish I could do as well. Ruth is getting spares at last, keep it up. Stina, start counting again, please. Mary's Sunday night bowling is really paying off.

Blanche rolled a strike and two spares in a row, but a lot of bad luck only gave her a 98 for the string. Blanche's 268 total was high for the night. Marsha's 106 string was high single.

Team standings for first half:

	Won	Lost	Pinfall
Diamonds	39	17	16,444
Clubs	27	29	16,218
Spades	24	32	16,116

We also sell
a funny-looking car.

We sell a car that looks like a beetle. And a station wagon that looks like a bus. But we (and all our fellow VW dealers) think of them a little differently. We think both VWs look just like what they are.

The VW Sedan carries 4 people. The station wagon carries 8 (bag and baggage). The wagon also handles a staggering amount of just stuff. (It has 170 cubic feet of space, compared to about 105 in conventional wagons.)

Both VWs have air-cooled rear engines. (No water or anti-freeze needed; terrific traction on ice and snow.) Both park in practically the same space. (The wagon is only 9 inches longer than the sedan.) Both defy obsolescence. (Nobody knows what year Volkswagen you drive. Except you.) And both have restored a sense of proportion to the size of cars.

The VW Sedan is a pretty familiar sight, so not too many people laugh at it any more. But the VW wagon is still good for a few chuckles.

Suggestion: have some fun yourself. Come and take either or both for a ride today.

Sachem Gymnasts Top Strong Wellesley

Winchester High School gymnastics team took a long step toward interscholastic rating last Saturday evening when they defeated the strong Wellesley High team, 116.55 to 113.18. It was Winchester's depth that made the difference.

Wellesley with one of the strongest teams in the State was favored over the Sachems, but were edged by Winchester in first place, 4 to 3. Wellesley had the advantage in second places, again 4 to 3, Winchester's co-captains, Reed Lowry and David March, starred for the Sachems with Mike Hammel. Tim Steeves was high scorer for the losers. The summary:

Floor Exercise—1, Ring; 2, Sargent (Wel); 3, Cade; 4, Peek (Wel); 5, Hammel; 6, Mills (Wel).

Side Horse—1, Gaffney, 2, Banay (Wel); 3, Croft; 4, Kent (Wel); 5, Lowry; 6, Spears (Wel).

Winchester Makes It Three Straight Over Melrose

Dave Bird and Jon Buckley ran a close race with Fardy, the Melrose miler, and finished only a few yards behind him. Tibor Saddler and Steve Wardwell got home 1st and 2nd in the 45 yard hurdles, the next event.

The following event was the 50 yard dash and Winchester swept it. Finishing in order were Paul Klorer, Dick Rowe and Austin Garvey. Dick Lindsey romped to an easy win in the 300 with Joe Grant finishing a good third.

Bill Thoms ran a heady race in winning the 600. He was pushed by Drake of Melrose but fought him off all the way. Dick Amoroso and Jeff Peckham ran their best time in the 1000 finishing close to the winner, Norris of Melrose.

In the field events it was all Winchester with Steve Wardwell and Roger Borggaard finishing one-two in the shot put, and Bill Graham and Bill Thoms were one-two in the high jump.

For the first time in three meets the results of the relay didn't matter. However, the relay team of Kidder, Garvey, Perrault, and Rowe won going away in the excellent time of 2:30 for the 1200 yards.

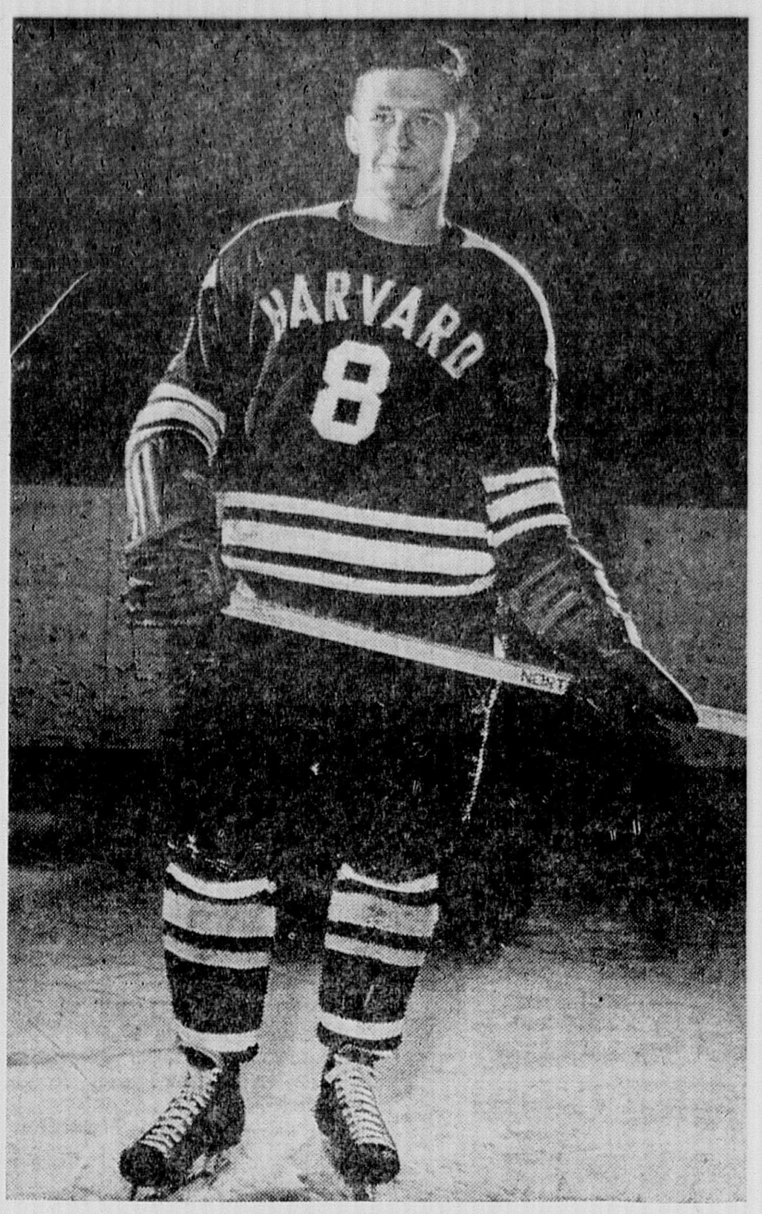
Bill Lamarche Playing Center For Harvard's Undefeated Hockey Team



BILL LAMARCHE

Take the ingredients of a good hockey center ice man. A good shot. The ability to pass. A good forechecker. Confidence. And the knack of anticipating a play or a player's movements.

These are precisely the qualities that Winchester's Bill Lamarche, high-scoring junior center for Harvard's undefeated hockey team, has shown in his team's eight games this season.

Take it from Harvard Coach Cooney Weiland. He played the position for the Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruins during a distinguished National Hockey League career.

"Lamarche is developing into one of the better center ice men around," Weiland says. "He has a world of confidence this season, and it's made a lot of difference."

A year ago, Lamarche, a 5-8, 150 pound graduate of Winchester High School, played only half the season and tallied just one goal and five assists. This season he's off and running among the top scorers in the East and leads the Crimson with 20 points in eight games, including 12 goals.

"He has an unusually good shot," Weiland says. "And it's a very accurate shot, always on the net."

Weiland need only think back to Harvard's last game. With the Crimson and Colorado College deadlocked in a sudden death overtime 2-2 tie in the finals of the Boston Arena Christmas Tournament, the Winchester product took a lead pass from wing Baldy Smith (Buffalo, N. Y.) and fired a clean shot, through a Colorado defenseman's legs, and into the right corner of the cage from 20 feet.

It wasn't this shot alone that earned Lamarche first team all tournament honors, however, for Bill had a fine three games in the Arena affair. In fact, the votes were already tabulated and announced to the press when he scored the goal that won the title for Harvard.

Lamarche was the top scorer in the tournament with nine points including six goals. His four goals in the second game against Boston University stands as Harvard's top single effort this season.

"It's been the play of this line," Weiland says of the Lamarche-Smith-Barry Treadwell trio, "that has kept us in most of our games. With our first line limited by injuries, Lamarche's line has borne the burden of our offense."

How true. Smith scored both goals in the 2-1 early season victory over Boston University. Lamarche had both scores in a 2-2 tie with Army.

"The three of them work well together," Weiland feels. "Now that our first line is back together I think we'll have two lines equal to any others in the East."

Sachem Gymnasts Host State Leaders Saturday

Winchester High School plays host to one of the best gymnastic teams in the State Saturday evening when they will compete against the Andover High group in the high school gymnasium.

Andover won the State meet a year ago and is touted as one of the best in the State. Winchester served notice that it is also one of the teams to reckon with by its last Saturday defeat of potent Wellesley.

The Andover meet should prove a good test for Coach Isidore Battino's up and coming gymnasts, who are a good chance against Andover because of their depth.

The meet has been arranged for Winchester and those who have never seen a gym meet could do a lot worse than to take it in. It should prove one of the best meets of the season, with the Sachems given a good chance of being returned victors. The first event goes on at 7 p.m.

We have the exciting TV game of Password. Hours of fun for ages 10 to adult. At the Winchester Star.

Winchester Upsets Lynn English On Track

Winchester High School's up and coming indoor track team won another "squeaker" last Friday afternoon at the Andover cage, hanging a 40-37 victory on Lynn English High School.

Once again the meet hinged upon one event, the high jump and when "Bill" Graham's 5.7in. effort proved good enough for first place the Sachems took the meet on his effort. Bill Thoms had already annexed third place in this event.

Because there were so many contestants in the jump it was some time before the meet winner could be declared.

Paul Klorer and Dick Lindsey were the Sachems' other first place winners, Klorer winning the dash in 5.7s, while Lindsey won the 300 going away in 36.1s. Dave Bird was edged out of the mile, won in 4m 54.5s by Anderson of English while Bill Thoms let Meadows of English get ahead of him on the big first turn and never could catch up. The time was 1m 22.3s, and Thoms was caught in 1m 22.7s.

Definite improvement was shown by the entire Sachem squad as the times and distances in every case were better than those established in the first meet with Woburn.

Winchester is competing in the North Shore Indoor Track League and is scheduled for 4 o'clock meets for the next seven Mondays at the Andover Academy cage. Following are the results of last Friday's meet:

Mile
1. Anderson (E)
2. Bird
3. Buckley, Time, 4m. 54.5s.

45 Yard High Hurdles
1. Louged (E)
2. Martinelli (E)
3. Saddler, Time, 6.8s.

300 Yard Run
1. Lindsey
2. Rowe
3. Pilon (E), Time, 36.1s.

600 Yard Run
1. Meadows (E)
2. Thoms
3. Perrault, Time, 1m. 22.3s.

1000 Yard Run
1. Doyle (E)
2. Peckham
3. Kazantian (E) Time, 2m 35.1s.

High Jump
1. Graham
2. Nichols (E)
3. Thoms, Height, 5ft, 7in.

12 Pound Shotput
1. Smith (E)
2. Wardwell
3. Winn, Distance, 39ft, 7½in.

Relay Race
Won by Winchester, (Klorer, Thoms, Rowe, and Lindsey), Time, 2m, 29.4s.

Melrose Outlasts Winchester 57 - 47

A big third period enabled Melrose to defeat Winchester, 57-47, in a Middlesex League game at Winchester last Friday evening.

Winchester led 28-24 at half time, but a big third period in which Melrose outscored the local boys, 16-7, wiped out this advantage and put Melrose in front. A 17-12 final quarter kept the game safe for Melrose.

Winchester seconds won the preliminary game from the Melrose seconds, 42-37.

Sachems Downed By Wakefield

The Winchester High School basketball team lost its second in a row to Wakefield last Wednesday by a score of 50-43.

In the first quarter Wakefield scored the first five points, led by Bill Wallace, and went on to take an 11-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

As the second quarter started, the Sachems shooting was cold and Wakefield, led by Alan Thornton and Bill Wallace capitalized to take a 25-16 lead as the half ended.

The Sachems shooting got better as the third quarter started, as they managed to cut Wakefield's lead to 4 points. John Shevlin pulled his team up again as they took a 37-28 lead as the third quarter ended.

In the fourth period the Sachems again fought back to close the lead to 4 points again, only to have Don Climo hit four straight baskets for Wakefield, to pull the Warriors ahead by 11 points. The Sachems could not break the lead and lost 50-43.

Bill Wallace and Alan Thornton led the visitors with 15 and 12 points respectively, while Jim Devaney led the Sachems with 14 points.

Melrose Downs Sachems In Second Half

In the first quarter Melrose took an 8-3 lead but the Sachems, led by Vic Papadinis and Bob Watson surged back and went ahead 14-13 as the quarter ended.

As the second period started, the Sachems led by Bob Watson again, surged ahead by 8 points, 24-16. Melrose fought back and closed the Sachems lead to 4 points, 28-24 as the half ended.

As the second half began, Melrose led by Tom Dougherty surged ahead of the Sachems on three quick baskets, and went on to take a 40-35 lead at the end of three periods.

Melrose added to their lead as the fourth quarter began and just outplayed the Sachems, to win 57-47.

Tom Dougherty led Melrose with 24 points, 18 of which were in the second half. Bob Watson led the Sachems with 17 points.

Girl Scout News

Sixteen intermediate girl scouts from troop 492 sang a selection of Christmas carols at the Winchester Hospital during the holidays. Sue Bassett, a Senior Scout, led the singing which was enjoyed by all.

Juliette Lowe Representatives, at their last meeting, sent a package to Sweden which enclosed friendship pins from each girl's troop.

Eaton's Portfolio, paper and envelopes. Use with any kind of pen. Handy, sturdy container takes minimum space in luggage. Excellent for traveling and for young folks going to camp. 59c at the Winchester Star.

Sachems End Losing Streak

The Winchester High School basketball team defeated Reading High School by a score of 59-43. The victory broke a three-game losing streak.

The Sachems jumped out to an 8-4 lead on the shooting of Jim Devaney, and went on to take a 10-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

As the second period started, the Sachems hit for the straight points led by Jim Devaney, to take a 20-8 lead. They held this lead as the half ended with a score of 28-15.

The Sachems led by Vic Papadinis added to their lead as the third quarter started. Reading fought back and cut the lead to 43-29 as the third quarter ended.

Reading led by Rich Baxter closed the Sachem lead to 9 points midway through the fourth period, but the Sachems again led by Jim Devaney pulled up their lead and went on to win 59-43.

Coptain Jim Devaney played a fine game for the Sachems, leading the team in scoring with 22 points, and playing fine defensive ball. Paul Romano led the visitors with 15 points.

Indoor Golf School Opens At Andover

Golf pro Billy Gilbert announces the opening of his Indian Ridge Golf School for winter lessons and practice which started January 7, at 62 Main Street, Andover. The indoor school, created for both beginners and experienced players, offers extensive facilities for instruction and for practice.

The school, open to everyone, has three practice areas, one net for teaching purposes, the others for practice. There are two carpets for putting practice. In addition, the school includes a Pro Shop with the latest golfing equipment. Everyone is welcome for lessons or for practice.

All lessons are by appointment. Single lessons or a series of lessons can be arranged on an individual basis or for groups. There are special rates for groups of six The school is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and on Tuesday and Friday evenings, 7-11 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling Billy Gilbert at GR 5-5233 or GR 5-5394, Andover.

Two indoor driving areas are open to the public. Buckets of range balls and nets are available for this purpose.

Winchester's heady display of position hockey kept the young Sachem sextet within striking distance of first place on the strength of their 3-0 win over a stubborn Reading team last Saturday at the North Shore Sports Center.

The penalty-killing team of Cutting and Johnson teamed up for Winchester's first goal as Barry Johnson took the puck from an attacking Rocket forward at the Sachem blue line and passed brilliantly forward to Ed Cutting. Cutting skated in cleanly to deke the goalie at 6:23 of the first period.

The Sachems enjoyed a wide territorial edge as they outshot Reading 25-9 over the course of the game. Their passing was sharp but Bob Ryan in the Reading nets was having a good day as he continually turned back Winchester attacks.

It was not until the closing minute of the second period that Ed Cutting circled the Reading net, drawing the Reading defense to him, and then passed out deep to the blue line to Tom Johns. Tom's drive never left the ice and was tipped in by Victor Lawson stationed at the far corner of the cage.

Dave Eaton put the game away at 8:37 of the third period when his determination and hustle forced the play into the Reading zone. He scored from the scramble out front on a quick swipe at the puck.

The Winchester offense was working well for this game. The lines were playing both ways with speed and finesse. Bob Murray did a fine job at center as he took over from the injured George Murphy. Coach Frank Finigan had to juggle his lines to keep his team flying throughout the game. Finigan is still working with his defensive units to iron out the mistakes that cost goals.

The icemen faceoff against the strong Stoneham team this Thursday at 3:50 at the Sports Center. Stoneham has been the surprise of the Middlesex League this year and would like nothing better than to knock off the Sachems.

On Saturday afternoon Winchester faces Belmont in a game in which no senior will play due to the College Board exams that day.

St. Mary's Downed 5 - 2

The second place St. Mary's sextet were downed by hard hitting Sacred Heart, East Boston, in C.Y.O. hockey league action at McHugh Forum last Saturday.

High scorer, Frank Hession, pumped in the first St. Mary's goal with Art Daniels getting the second. Hession is leading the team in goals for the year.

Excellent defensive work on the part of Dennis Griffin and Ed Dunn prevented the possibility of numerous East Boston tallies.

Next Sunday at 7:45 a.m. St. Mary's faces undefeated St. Agnes of Arlington at McHugh Forum, Boston College.

Troop 524 In Winter Campout

Scout Troop 524 can look forward eagerly to a series of interesting, instructive meetings under their new scoutmaster, Mr. William Krupsky, starting tonight Thursday, January 10 at 7 p.m., when they will be briefed on the 5 mile hike to be undertaken this Saturday, January 12, at 10 a.m. All scouts in troop 524 will be able to qualify for 2nd class badges in tracking, stalking and outdoor cooking, thereby becoming eligible to go on the very exciting and enjoyable camping trip known as the "Polar Bear" camp-out, coming up in the near future.

In the weeks to come, Mr. Krupsky hopes to provide an extremely varied and useful program for the troop, embracing every phase of scouting, including field and nature walks, and a course of instruction in life-saving in conjunction with the Red Cross swimming program, and he has already completed arrangements with the Police Department for a demonstration in the use of firearms, and in the technique of finger printing, and also with the Fire Department for a demonstration of fire-fighting equipment. The Staff of Troop 524 is listed as follows:

Scoutmaster, Mr. William Krupsky

Institutional Representative and Treasurer, Mr. Elroy Suneson

Troop Committee Chairman, Mr. Reid Weedon Jr.

Advancement Committee, Mr. Bernhardt Anderson, Mr. Edward Cincotta, Mr. Joseph Lima and Mr. Carl Stevens and Mr. Donald Thayer.

Camping Committee, Mr. David Burnham, Mr. Richard Swanson, Mr. Frank Clare, Mr. Dennis Heindel and Mr. Herbert Rondeau

Property, Mr. John Elliott

Transportation, Mr. Roy Huston

Publicity, Mrs. E. Robert Barlow

Advisory Committee Mr. Ted Cook and Mr. Albert Kasarjian

School Custodian, Mr. Henry Pacino

Troop 524 in 2nd Winter Campout

Scout Troop 524 braved winter weather during the weekend of December 29 and 30 for their second campout of the season, at Breakheart Reservation in Saugus. Fifteen boys pitched 8 tents, in which they slept on the ground, in sleeping bags. They cooked their own meals, and for recreation, enjoyed snowball fights with their leaders.

This winter campout is typical of Troop 524's year round camping program to produce expert, all-weather, self-sufficient campers who have a thorough understanding of the out-of-doors.

Freezing rain and bitter cold added to the rigors of the night and when the morning dawned, the tents were frozen enough to stand without the support of their poles! However, the scouts and their leaders came through with flying colors, and are already looking forward to their next overnight trip.

"You, the Jury" Movie For Attorneys

Edward J. Sullivan, clerk of the Courts, announced recently that a dinner and premiere of the motion picture "You, the Jury" is scheduled for Sunday evening, January 13, at 6 o'clock at the War Memorial Building in Cambridge, for attorneys of Middlesex County.

This educational picture, produced by the clerk of Middlesex Superior Courts, explains the procedure followed in selecting men and women to serve as jurors.

"You, the Jury" will be available for showing to groups after the premiere of the 13th and may be obtained by contacting Mr. Sullivan at the Court House in East Cambridge.

Know Your Auxiliary Police

This week introduces Auxiliary Police Officer, John Minghella, a resident of 3 Grand View Avenue. He is married to the former Mary Orgetta, and they have two children, Patricia 6, and John 4.

JOHN MINGHELLA

As a member of the Winchester Auxiliary Police for many years, he has given many hours of his time to serving this unit.

John is a war veteran of World War II, having served with the Army Military Police. He is employed by the John H. Pray & Co., of Boston. He is an active member of the Italian American War Veterans Organization.

Dr. Knapp To Speak To First Church

The Religious Education committee of the First Congregational Church of Winchester will present Dr. Forrest Knapp, Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches as the speaker at the first of a monthly series of lectures in Ripley Chapel on Tuesday, January 15, at 7:45 p.m. Dr. Knapp will speak on the subject, "The Ecumenical Movement, today and Tomorrow." Following the lecture which is open to the public, there will be ample time for question and discussion.

Library Film Program

To get out of the doldrums that Winchester can beget, we recommend "Wings on the Wind." In this color film large birds ride the up drafts in the tropical air in search of food, safety and solitude.

"The Pirogue Maker" takes the viewer step-by-step through the building of this type of canoe-like boat. Only a few master builders, among the Arcadians in Louisiana, still practice this art by which the unique craft is hewed by hand from a single cypress log.

How would you like to be a little boy who suddenly finds himself the only person in Copenhagen? In the film "Palle, Alone in the World," the impossible dreams of all small boys come true and all children from 6 to 60 will enjoy sharing the experience.

These three films will comprise the program at the Public Library for Family Night on Friday and for the Children's Program on Saturday morning.

First Baptist Series of Talks

"Blind Who See" - "Crippled Who Walk"

Each Sunday night in January from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. all the families of the church will gather for a corporate experience of fellowship and study in relation to the theme "The Church's Mission to Persons of Special Need."

This Sunday evening, January 13th, Mr. Thomas Walker from the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped will speak to the Jr. High Fellowship on the feelings and needs of teenagers who are permanently handicapped and institutionalized.

The Primary children will hear representatives from the Perkins School for the Blind, Watertown, and will see the film "Children of the Silent Night."

First Baptist welcomes all persons to become involved in this experience and attend these Sunday evening sessions.

UFO Meeting

The 14th meeting of the Massachusetts & Rhode Island Two-State UFO Study Group for Adults will open the fourth year of research and study into the mystery of "Unidentified Flying Objects" by this organization.

The group was organized and founded by its president, George D. Fawcett of 9A Warren Avenue, Woburn, on November 3, 1959, in Woodsocket, Rhode Island, to probe sightings of mysterious flying objects in skies world-wide.

The 14th meeting will be held at the Stoneham Historical Society building at 26 Williams Street in Stoneham on Sunday afternoon, January 20, at 2 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jewell of 111 Summer Street in Stoneham will be hosts for this meeting. Around 100 members from 30 cities in the two-state area are expected to gather to review increased 1962 "flying saucer" evidence, such as radar trackings, "Angel Hair," E-M effects.

The agenda will include the results of a two-state questionnaire and poll, distribution of new constitutions, tape recordings, slides, movies, photographs, eye-witness reports, 1896 sightings, the drafting of a group opinion statement, a review of the group's three-year programs, book reviews, committee reports, speakers and refreshments and is expected to last for at least five hours.

"Massive evidence already documented and being added to daily confirms UFO reality, their tremendous speeds, intricate maneuvers, unique shapes (discs, domed saucers, and cigar-shaped types) and proves that they are not earth made," Fawcett notes of 15 years of research and investigation.

According to the two-state UFO group policy, guests and interested adults and young people are eligible to attend any of these meetings upon proper introduction. A Woburn delegation will be among the many representatives attending this January meeting.

For additional information write Mr. Fawcett at 9A Warren Avenue, Woburn, or call WE 5-1597. In Rhode Island contact Mr. John T. Hopf of 10 Red Cross Terrace in Newport, or call VI 6-3772.

College Club Art Study Group

The Art Study group of the Winchester College Club will visit the Fogg Museum of Harvard University on January 18.

At 10:15 they will meet in the class room at the top of the right staircase to hear a talk by graduate student, Victor Carlson, on the subject "Master Drawings in the Fogg Museum."

On exhibition at this time in the museum is an extensive collection of drawings by Andrew Wyeth which can be enjoyed in the light of the lecture upon drawings of earlier masters. Members of the art group have admired Andrew Wyeth's oils and watercolors for many years and are very interested to see more of his works.

This is also an opportunity to see the Fogg Museum which this group has not visited for many years. The Museum is located on Quincy Street to the east of the yard. Arrangements have been made with the University Police to park cars in the yard between Memorial Church and Thayer Hall. Enter Broadway Gate on the north side of the yard from Cambridge Street where a policeman will be directing.

Members of the Art Group who wish to continue receiving card notices of the monthly visits to museums are asked this month to pay their dues to Mrs. Robert Eddy, 4 Fairview Terrace, PA 9-5018. Anyone in Winchester who wishes to may join the group. It is suggested that all cars should be as full as possible to ease the parking problem.

'63 Teachers Salary Raise Is Planned By School Committee

A new proposed salary schedule for teachers, with corresponding school administration differentials, appears to be inevitably headed toward inclusion in the School Committee's personal services budget request for the March Town Meeting.

The School and Finance Committees met jointly on this issue on Monday, January 7, and again last night. Although a specific schedule of teacher salary adjustments is currently under discussion, no official salary schedule plan has been released by either of the committees.

The salary ranges being considered by the committees in their meetings, however, start at $5,000 a year for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree, and progress through 14 yearly step increments under the bachelor's degree category, under the master's degree category, under a sixth year of graduate work or equivalent category, and under a doctor's degree category — reaching an ultimate proposed level of $9,500 for a teeacher with a doctor's degree and five years of service beyond the 14th step.

These figures are, of course, subject to revision and change in the joint committee meetings as they attempt to establish the final schedule they will include within the budget.

The present teacher salary scale starts at 4,750 for teachers with a bachelor's degree, and reaches a top level of $8,650 for a teacher with a doctorate degree. This pay scale schedule has been in effect for one year. Last year the town voted to equalize the salary scale of both men and women teachers.

As of last year, Winchester ranked in the top 3 per cent of the state in competitiveness of teachers pay. Winchester was among the top five in the state in this area of competitive attractiveness for teachers services.

However, due to the fact that an appropriation was made for equalization last year and not for slightly increasing the salaries generally, the town dropped from its relative "preferred position" to eighth place in the state in the bachelor's category, and to thirteenth place in the master's degree category salaries. The master's degree salaries, especially the maximum, is believed by the School Commmittee to be the critical scale in the teachers salary schedule.

Last year 37 teachers left the Winchester school system for a number of reasons. Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, pointed out to the School and Finance Committees that this quantity of teachers which left in one year represented the same approximate number of teachers that had left over a previous whole five year period.

Arthur L. Johns, chairman of the school committee, said that the committee "has substantially attempted to follow the recommendations made last January by the Citizens Advisory Committee on Professional Evaluation — which suggested that the School Committee maintain its relative position among the top school systems in the state.

"Teachers' salaries are going up in this region particularly, as well as in the national market generally," Mr. Johns continued, "and especially with the new state law raising the minimum to $4,500 for starting salaries as of January 1, 1963.

"We believe that the new schedule of salaries being proposed and discussed now, if accepted, will maintain Winchester's position among the top five or six school systems in the state," Mr. Johns concluded. "The new salary schedule will raise Winchester's position to that which was held last year by the Brookline, Newton, Lincoln and Sudbury pacesetters."

League Of Women Voters To Study The Constitution

The Massachusetts Constitution-"The Cornerstone of Massachusetts State Government; after so many years of service, is it in need of repair?" The League of Women Voters of Winchester will explore problems of State Government in its next set of unit meetings to be held January 22 through January 24.

The preamble of the State Constitution states that "The end of the institution, maintenance and administration of government, is to secure the existence of the body-politic, to protect it, and to furnish the individuals who compose it with the power of enjoying in safety and tranquility their natural rights; and the blessings of life: and whenever these great objects are not obtained, the people have a right to alter the government, and to take measures necessary for their safety, prosperity and happiness."

In order to discover whether or not the Massachusetts Constitution still fulfills its original purpose, the Winchester League plans to study each of the three branches of Government. However, the specific area to be discussed in this series of units is the Executive Branch.

Concensus of opinion will be sought on such questions as 1) Should the League support measures to shorten the ballot in the Executive Department? 2) Should the League support measures to eliminate the Governor's Council from the Constitution? 3) Should the League support measures to empower the Governor to reorganize the Executive and the Administrative Departments and have the power to appoint department heads to serve co-terminus with the Governor?

By attending one of the following unit meetings, you can help us to help you better evaluate the needs of our State Government and how to achieve them.

Legion Meeting On Communism Open to Public

Vin McCabe program chairman of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, announced the Legion will open its doors to the general public for tonight's meeting at 8:30 which is devoted to the various aspects of Communism and the way it has affected those countries taken over by the Communists from the reference points of social, political and economic conditions.

James Murray of Worcester, well known authority on Communism, will give short talks prefacing the films which are devoted to what would happen if there was an actual Communist takeover in this country from the viewpoint of one of our largest manufacturers, and the second film actually deals with conditions behind the iron curtain as they are today. Highlights of the Communist takeovers are depicted and film taken in the affected countries dramatically reveal the result of communist encirclement and control.

A question and answer period will follow the program. The Public and all Veterans and their friends are welcome and urged to get a first hand viewpoint of the continuing Communist Conspiracy.

Selectmen Review '63 Articles In Warrant

The Board of Selectmen met Monday night to review some of the articles to be brought before the Town Meeting in March. Vincent Clarke, town counsel, said there would be approximately 60 articles in the Warrant this year, about the same number as last year; which had 62 articles.

The local Civil Defense and Auxiliary Fire Department units appeared before the board to discuss the possibility of using some of the space in a new fire station on Lockeland Road beside Ridge Street if the town votes to construct one. There is an article scheduled for the Warrant requesting appropriations for a new fire house on the West Side.

The Civil Defense spokesmen were unanimously in favor of installing a civil defense headquarters in the basement of such a fire house if it is ever constructed. They foresaw the possibility of even receiving Federal grants to cover approximately two-thirds of the cost of putting in the foundation and setting up the headquarters if additional plans were made to specifically design part of the basement as a public CD shelter and storage area.

The board asked the Civil Defense director to find out how much of the construction cost of the building the Federal or state government might be willing to underwrite if CD plans are incorporated in the present proposal for a fire station. These facts could then become available in time for discussion at the Town Meeting, the board felt.

The Auxiliary Fire Department spokesmen did not feel, however, that they would be able to use a new fire house in the West Side location to any advantage because most of the 12 active members live

Burglary Suspects Arraigned for A Trial on Tuesday

The two men allegedly caught in the act of breaking and entering homes in Winchester on Friday, December 14, by police officers Thomas Parsons and Mario Buzzotta, were arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court, Criminal Sessions, on Tuesday, before Judge Edward Gourdin.

The court has scheduled the trial for the latter part of this month. Both suspects, Alton E. Hanscom, Jr., 28, of Charlestown, and Robert D. Wyman, 26, of Somerville, are being held on $20,000 bail each.

Also on Tuesday, Sgt. Andrew Crawford testified in Middlesex Superior Court before Judge Gourdin on the case of a New York suspect, Fred Klein, who allegedly passed two phoney checks in Winchester on September 26 and 27 at Randall's and the Winchester News Store.

The defendant was found guilty on charges of forgery, uttering and larceny. He was sentenced to one year of imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary.

Candidates Prepare For Town Election

With the annual town election just a little more than a month away, and with the deadline for filing nomination papers in the town clerk's office approaching rapidly, a total of 18 persons have officially taken out papers.

There are 20 town office positions to be filled in March. So far, the only office not yet having at least one candidate applying for nomination papers is the three year term for a commissioner of trust funds.

Of the 66 Town Meeting Member vacancies to be filled in the six precincts, 42 persons have filed papers for the three year terms as of this week. In precinct one there are 6 who have taken out nomination papers, 5 in precinct two, 7 in precinct three, 8 in precinct four, 7 in precinct five, and 9 in precinct six. In addition, there is a one year vacancy to be filled in precinct one, a one year vacancy in precinct five, and a two year vacancy in precinct six.

For the three year term open for candidates on the five-man Board of Selectmen, David S. Wardwell of 39 Lorena Road has taken out nomination papers.

For one five year and one three year term vacancies on the four-man Planning Board, Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road and Neil H. Borden of 58 Winford Way have taken out nomination papers.

For two three year term vacancies on the six-man School Committee, Richard M. Alt of 7 Pine Street is running for reelection and Lawrence E. Beckley of 5 Marshall Road is running for election.

Marguerite H. Troop of 2 Elmwood Avenue is running for election to a three year term as Town Treasurer.

Miss Troop, formerly the assistant treasurer, was appointed by the Board of Selectmen last May as acting Treasurer after the death of Mr. E. Abbott Bradlee. She was reappointed on September 30 to serve until the annual town election.

Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue has taken out nomination papers for another one year term as Town Moderator.

Small Fire Call At Ruth Porter Co.

The Fire Department had a call to the Ruth Porter Real Estate Office, 33 Thompson Street last Saturday morning at 10:45 a.m.

An electrical ceiling fixture was smoking heavily and in order to find the source it was necessary for firemen to pull out a good portion of the ceiling. They were at the scene about an hour.

It was a busy Saturday morning, but traffic was quickly controlled down the narrow, one-way street by means of pulling a Police car across the entrance end after the trucks had gone through.

"IF YOU'D HAVE IT DONE, GO," a very wise man named Benjamin Franklin once said, and a total of 300 wise Winchester residents went and registered for the Adult Polio Clinic Saturday morning at the Board of Health clinic office in the basement of the Town Hall. Many more registered on Tuesday and Thursday nights, and a large number is expected to register this Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon. The actual clinic dates are set for two consecutive Saturdays, January 26 and February 2, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Selectmen Declare Emergency For 1962 Overdraft Of Reserve Fund - Is Deficit Accounting

On Saturday, December 22, the Board of Selectmen declared that a state of emergency existed in Winchester involving the health and safety of persons and property.

It was the third consecutive year that the Selectmen found it necessary to declare such an emergency.

It was in actuality a "paper emergency" in Town financing of operating expenses.

However, without the formal declaration of an emergency existing by the local governing board to the state Director of Accounts, Arthur MacKinnon, and without his approval last Thursday, January 10, the town would have been faced with over-spending its 1962 Reserve Fund appropriations illegally to finance Highway Department snow and ice removal on roads and sidewalks during the harsh December winter weather.

The 1962 deficit in legal overdrafts on the Reserve Fund amounted to $2,940.57.

The town had appropriated $70,000 for the Reserve Fund at the March Town Meeting. But unforeseen 1962 drains on the Reserve Fund, such as $10,000 transferred to the Board of Health for a special polio clinic account, and $15,800 transferred to the School Department for maintenance bills exceeding budget allocations ate away at the Reserve Fund.

The only other five figure Reserve Fund transfer anticipated last year was $11,059 for snow and ice removal. This figure could have been accounted for under the Reserve Fund appropriation if it were not for the unexpected large transfers.

At a December 22 meeting the Board of Selectmen, under provisions of General Laws, Chapter 44 Section 31, officially declared that "as a result of the (then) present and continuing snow storm and extreme emergency involving the health or safety of persons or property existed," and therefore the board under the same state statutes "authorized the superintendent of streets to incur liability in excess of the appropriation made for snow and ice in the amount of $20,000."

James A. Wakefield, Jr., superintendent of streets, later advised the board that the Highway Department had incurred a liability amounting to $12,000 — less than the excess appropriation called for.

The Finance Committee advised the board that with only $9,059.43 remaining in the Reserve Fund, it was necessary for the selectmen to request the state Director of Accounts, an official of the state tax department who exercises supervision over all municipal and county accounts, to authorize the payment of the $2,940.57 excess liability incurred.

Townships frequently have to go through the procedure of declaring an emergency and obtaining the approval of the director of accounts before making payments on financially incurred liabilities of this nature due to the fact that the official legislative body of the town, the Town Meeting, meets just once a year (with the exception of special town meetings—which again costs the town additional sums of money).

The situation is different in cities such as Boston or Woburn, where the city legislative body, or city council, is capable of transferring accounts from one designated slot to another on short notice — thereby eliminating overdrafts.

Winchester will make payment on the overdrafts from cash on hand in the treasury, according to James J. Costello, town accountant. Because of the state's authorization, the expenses will be placed in the red ink column of the town's account books.

Mr. Costello estimated that throughout the town financial picture there is approximately $150,000 of money appropriated which was not spent, and is therefore considered a 1962 operating surplus. "The $2,940.57 emergency overdraft is therefore not a serious problem," Mr. Costello said. "It is merely a technical process of accounting which occasionally arises because our Town Meeting, does not come until March each year," he added.

Mr. Costello noted that Winchester has had legal overdrafts on the Reserve Fund for three years running. In 1960, with a Reserve Fund appropriation of $60,000, there was an overdraft for $21,591.76. In 1961, with a Reserve Fund of $70,000, the deficit was $6,640.47. And again this year, with the same $70,000 in reserve, a $2,940.57 deficit was incurred.

"It isn't actually a case of the town spending more than it has," Mr. Costello emphasized, "because for each of the three respective years we had a deficit there was more than that amount of money elsewhere in the treasury." In fact, in 1960 there was seven times that amount, in 1961 there was 20 times over the deficit, and last year there was 50 times more than the overdraft still in the treasury."

The 1963 Town Meeting will take no further action on the overdraft of 1962. It will appear in the Town Accountant's report, and the Finance Committee will briefly explain what happened to the town.

The Board of Assessors however, at the time they set the local tax rate in May or June, will pick up this overdraft as an item to be automatically added as a charge against the tax rate.

The Reserve Fund figure for 1963 will be proposed by the Finance Committee as an appropriation for the Town Meeting. It will be included as one of 63 different operating expenses for the town during the year.

Figured into the Reserve Fund are conservative estimates of departmental over-expenditures of proposed budget requests. Also, special account possibilities are estimated such as snow and ice removal. This principle of establishing a Reserve Fund enables the Finance Committee, under state statutes, to transfer more money than is specifically appropriated by the legislative Town Meeting "for extraordinary or unforeseen purposes."

The legal limit for Reserve Funds set by state statute is at 5 per cent of the preceding year's tax levy. Thus, based on a 1962 tax levy of $3,920,000 on personal, property and poll taxes, Winchester could theoretically establish a Reserve Fund of approximately $195,000.

However, the town only availed itself to about 35 per cent of its legal capacity in the Reserve Fund last year with the $70,000 appropriated for a Reserve Fund.

Mass Transport Trains And Buses Appear A Success

The first week of the Mass Transportation Commission's year experiment in rail and bus commuter service, aimed at finding a possible solution to the Greater Boston commuting problem, appeared to be a success in Winchester.

Every morning the Winchester and Wedgemere stations handled many more passengers than the stations were used to receiving. The same held true every afternoon in reverse, with residents returning to their home town from the metropolis.

Compared with the same week in January of last year, there was a 13.9 per cent increase in the total number of riders on the Boston and Maine Railroad last week.

The statistics of the changeover was felt through the week by the railroad, as the percentage of passengers increased. On Monday, there was a 10.7 per cent rise over the same day in 1962. On Tuesday, it rose again to 13.5 per cent; on Wednesday to 14.9 per cent; on Thursday to 15.4 per cent; and only a slight plateauing at 14.8 per cent on Friday.

In terms of passengers carried this meant that 2,500 more persons rode the B & M into and out of Boston on Monday than did a year ago. On Tuesday the increase was 3,069; on Wednesday the number rose to 3,437; on Thursday to 3,490; and then 3,450 on Friday.

During the week of January 7 to 11 in 1962, a total of 115,083 rode the trains to and from Boston. Last week, 131,049 used the new commuting service. That's an increase of 15,966 passengers.

On the first day of the new MTC experimental runs, some news sources indicated that the percentage rise over last year's traffic was as high as 21 per cent. However, an MTC official has said that the actual statistic is 13.9 per cent. The MTC has viewed the commuters reception of the new and improved service as "encouraging," according to one spokesman. "However," the spokesman added, "while the increase is encouraging, many more riders are needed over a long period of time to evalute the success of the experiment."

Winton Club Cabaret Gives Hospital Linen

A typical list of articles made, repaired or purchased by the Winton Club for the Winchester Hospital would stagger the usual homemaker's chore workload. A small part of such a list would include 50 dozen sheets, 60 dozen operating room towels, 75 dozen bassinet pads and 120 dozen diapers.

When a patient is admitted to our hospital, 12 pieces of linen, necessary for his use, are immediately put into circulation. If this same patient is transferred to the operating room, 52 additional pieces of linen are used. By multiplying the linen requirements of this individual case by the hospital daily census, it is possible to understand the staggering amount of linen Winton Club must provide to furnish a three-fold linen supply: linen in use; that which is soiled; and that which is held in reserve.

As the hospital grew, so did the demands upon Winton Club. The club has met the ever-increasing linen needs. Through the annual Cabaret it has raised the money to permit the purchase of linen. Six serving groups work from October to April to finish various types used at the Winchester Hospital.

As a homemaker naturally takes pride in her fine linens, so is the Winton Club proud of the quality and quantity of its annual linen donation.

Once again Winton Club presents its Cabaret, the 43rd, titled "Follow the Fun," on January 30, 31, February 1 and 2 (look for the Cabaret ticket ad in this Star issue).

Mrs. Malcolm Burr, cabaret chairman, urges all of Winton Club's loyal friends to support our largest yearly money-raising project, the Winton Club Cabaret, so we may continue to serve you and the Winchester Hospital.

Calling All Stitchers Red Cross Needs "Djamers"

An urgent request for home stitchers to sew a "Djamer," an authentic Algerian garment has been renewed by the Red Cross.

The need has increased due to the number of refugees in Algeria which has risen from 4,250,000 to 4,670,000 since last fall.

You can start your new year off right by sewing this pull-over which is easy to construct. It takes about two hours to put together. It is made of cotton flannel and comes in refreshing colors of yellow, blue, mustard and green. A large bloomer of unbleached cotton called a "serewal" completes the garment.

Despite the efforts of various relief agencies, conservative estimates by the Algerian government and United Nations health and technical experts indicate that many thousands of people will die from exposure, malnutrition and other conditions before spring.

The lack of shelter is so acute that the only source of comfort is clothing to keep the people warm. This applies in particular to women, children and older people.

The Boston Chapter has set its goal at 6,500 garments. During December the first shipment of 1,200 garments produced here was sent overseas, but since that time, due to the holidays, home sewers have been scarce.

The program is sponsored by the American Red Cross who appropriated $50,000 for materials at the request of the International Red Cross. The Boston Red Cross is one of seven chapters across the country engaged in this special program.

Any sewing group or any person who would like to spend a few volunteer hours helping others is urged to contact the Winchester Red Cross at 729-2300.

Noonan Home Hosts Hopping Good Time

Right from the dancing stage of "I Can Get It For You Wholesale" in Philadelphia to the living room parlor of Norman and Ida Noonan at 48 Woodside Road, Rec Russel dancer, came for a party on Sunday evening.

Mr. Russel was tendered a combination birthday party and an informal fan club meeting by his friends, the Noonans, and a group of interested high school age Winchester fans.

Rec appeared in Boston in a dancing garment worker part in the musical play, and has been with the road company ever since.

Turning 18 this week, Rec's professional stage history does not go back too far; but, as his new fans will testify, he makes up for this with enthusiasm about his job and those dancing parts he hopes to have in the future.

The story of his successful start in show business dancing has an added impact in that his dancing training began as therapy for a bout with polio. It was very successful therapy and the party was successful too.

Winter Week End For Troop 482

The girls of Senior Girl Scout Troop 482, under the leadership of Mrs. George Kimball, spent the week end of January 5-6 at Hartt Ridge at Cedar Hill in Waltham.

This week end was planned not only for fun but to pass the camping requirement for their five-point program which is the introduction to Senior Scouting. The girls spent some time in planning well-balanced menus, purchasing supplies, gathering and packing equipment.

They stayed in a winterized cabin which was equipped with a pot-bellied stove. This made it necessary to learn how to build a coal fire and the safety precautions that are involved in this. The ice on the skating pond was very good, and although the weather man was not too cooperative about providing much snow, there was enough to make use of the flying saucers and sleds brought along.

Helgen—Cairncross

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Judith Cairncross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Cairncross of 3 Warren Street, became the bride on Saturday afternoon, January 12, of Mr. Lon Endre Helgen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olani Helgen of Emmetsburg, Iowa.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin fashioned with a beaded waistband, scoop neckline, elbow length sleeves and a full chapel length train. Her elbow veil was of illusion netting, caught to an orange blossom crown. She carried a bouquet of Eucharis lilies and stephanotis.

Miss Gail Collins of 3 Harrington Road was maid of honor. She wore an American beauty red silk shantung sheath, with a matching headband and a face veil. She carried white camellias and ivy.

The bridesmaids, who were gowned identically to the maid of honor, were Miss R. Frances Neil of Terra Alta, West Virginia, Miss Susan A. Bradley of Cataumet and Miss Teresa Haines of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Mr. H. William Helgen of Northfield, Minnesota, was his brother's best man. And ushering at the ceremony were Mr. Allan Cairncross of Claymont, Delaware, brother of the bride; Mr. Charles J. Peterson of Verona, Italy, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. Stuart Staley of Wilmington, Delaware.

Solos at the service were sung by Mr. William M. Alston III, of Ada, Oklahoma; and Miss Mary Waugh of Rochester, Minnesota was guest book attendant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cairncross wore green brocade and a matching hat of velvet leaves with a corsage of cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother was in toast silk, with a mink and satin hat and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Miss Cairncross was graduated from Mount Holyoke College in 1960 and holds a master of arts degree from Columbia University.

Mr. Helgen is a graduate of St. Olaf College in Minnesota, 1958, and holds a master of science degree from Yale University.

After a wedding trip to New Hampshire Mr. and Mrs. Helgen will live in New Haven, Conn., where Mr. Helgen is completing work toward his doctorate in chemistry at Yale.

MacDonald—Glennon

At five o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday January 13, in the St. Charles Borromeo Church in Woburn, Miss Regina Barbara Glennon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Joseph Glennon of Woburn, became the bride of Mr. Paul Robert MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Joseph MacDonald of 67 Hemingway Street.

Bradford Bachrach

MRS. PAUL R. MacDONALD

The Reverend Father Christopher C. O'Neil officiated at the ceremony and the service was followed by a reception at the Vesper Country Club in Tyngsboro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a short white gown of bouquet taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline and three quarter sleeves and trimmed with appliques of Alencon lace. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white rosebuds.

Mrs. James E. Glennon of Woburn, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and the only attendant. She was gowned in a cantaloupe silk satin street-length gown made with a circlet neckline and short sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow rosebuds and wore a matching wreath in her hair.

Mrs. Robert F. McLaughlin of Lowell, was honorary bridesmaid for her sister; and Miss Ruth A. Gilgun, cousin of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Glennon was gowned in a candlelight silk brocade accented by a blue flowered hat for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. MacDonald, mother of the bridegroom, was in a rose silk chiffon gown with metallic printed jacket and a matching rose petaled hat.

Mrs. MacDonald is a graduate of St. Charles High School and Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart. Mr. MacDonald is a graduate of Malden Catholic High School and Merrimac College, and he is at present serving with the United States Air Force.

The Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be among the participants in a co-operative planning conference January 23-25 sponsored by the Mass. Council of Churches with the co-operation of the National Council of Churches. These meetings will be held at the Schine Inn. The purpose of this meeting is to give serious thought to the mission of the church and the mutual goals of all denominations related to the Mass. Council.

Jane Smith Is Cover Girl

Miss Jane Frances Smith of 49 Salem Street made her debut as a cover girl this month when a very fetching picture of her was chosen to front the January issue of "Baystater," the Massachusetts issue of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company's magazine.

MISS JANE F. SMITH

Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Smith and a 1960 graduate of Winchester High School. She is employed in the legal department of the Boston office of New England Tel. and Tel.

Featuring "Fashions For Frost" in this issue, the magazine showed Miss Smith in a stocking cap on its front cover. The photograph published today in the Star was a second one, used in "Winter Goes To Their Heads" a page feature showing company models in some of the more striking headgear of this season.

Either way Jane appeared a definite winner.

Dance Groups For Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen

On January 7, in the Parkhurst School Auditorium, the sixth grade Curry Dancing Class, of the Parkhurst and Vinson-Owen schools, met to enjoy the sixth of their nine lessons this year offered by Mr. Russell Curry in conjunction with the parents' associations of the schools.

The sixth grade mothers who were hostesses at this lesson were Mrs. Corinne Thayer and Mrs. Nancy Woods.

As a change of pace, to start the New Year, the girls introduced the boys, to their hostesses. As Mr. Curry ably explained, this might be a capacity they would have to fill some day at a girls college dance.

The highlight of the afternoon was when Mr. Curry announced he now planned to teach the group the Rock 'n Roll step. They started by simply learning coordination of the feet, seated. Then they learned the basic Rock 'n Roll step, and danced it to the music.

Next, they reviewed the fox trot step, and Mr. Curry demonstrated what a versatile step this is by doing it gracefully in time to the Rock 'n Roll music. Finally, the class ended with the group doing the Mexican Hat Dance which everyone always enjoys.

This joint group will end the year with a party at Winchester Town Hall on Saturday, April 6, at 2 o'clock.

"Belling the Cat" By Troop 486

On Wednesday, January 9th, eighth grade Troop 486 of Lynch Junior High presented a program for Troops 508 and 506 - 5th and 6th graders of Washington School.

Several members of Troop 486 took part in a short skit written by Mary Power and based on Aesop's well-known fable, "Belling the Cat." Appearing in the skit were Martha Broadhurst, Debbie Ericson, Mary Fenoglio, Lorrie Gray, Joyce Kell, Lauren McClellan, Jane Sexton, and Martha Williams.

A flag ceremony was then executed, followed by a short Court of Awards, at which time badges were presented to the following members of Troop 486: Kathy Dillon, Homemaker and Dressmaker; Mary Fenoglio, Backyard Camper and Outdoor Cook; Lauren McClellan, Backyard Camper. The First Class Rank badge was awarded to Martha Broadhurst, Joyce Kell, and Mary Power.

Those taking part in the flag ceremony were Debbie Bassett, Nancy Bennink, Beth Dutting, Debbie Ericson, Mary Fenoglio, Barbara Gibson, and Kathy Lindbo. Other members of Troop 486 include Ann Butler, Roberta Byford and Pam Woods. All three troops enjoyed singing together many Girl Scout favorites. The program concluded with the singing of "Taps" and the retiring of the colors. Troop 506 is under the leadership of Mrs. Richard Hakanson and Mrs. Carleton Clogston. Mrs. James Burke is leader of Troop 508 and Troop 486 is under the leadership of Mrs. Richard Dutting and Mrs. Ormon Bassett.

Reading Course At High School January 28

The High School Guidance Office issues today a reminder that the special Rotary-sponsored course in Developmental Reading will be given this term commencing Monday afternoon January 28, and running consecutively for 8 weeks.

Designed to increase reading efficiency and study methods, the course is given at 3:15, in Room 107 at the High School, and runs for two hours each session.

It is a tuition course, which has been taught here for the last four years and will again be taught by Victor Sanborn of the Manter Hall and Hillcrest Schools. Mr. Sanborn also presents the course to Winchester adults through the Adult Education program.

DAR to Meet This Monday

The Committee of Safety Chapter, D. A. R., will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday, January 21, at the home of Mrs. Charles O. Nichols, regent, 14 Jefferson Road.

An interesting program has been planned by Mrs. William W. Goodhue, chapter chairman of the National Defense Committee. She will include a discussion of the current best seller, "A Shade of Difference," by Allen Drury, which is a book of significant importance to all Americans and to D.A.R. members in particular.

Dessert will be served at 1:30 p.-m. followed by the business meeting and program.

Chapter members needing transportation may call Mrs. Sundberg, PA 9-1335, or board members.

OUR GAIN IS YOUR GAIN
While in a rug distributor's showroom last week, we found about 100 broadloom pieces that were too good to pass up.
We bought them for you, our customer; and they're now in our showroom. Beautiful pieces of all wool and all nylon are yours for only $6.00 per square yard. Some of these carpets were selling for as high as $14.00 per square yard.
This is not a sale. This is a find. Make sure you take a few moments to see these pieces before they are gone.

Mrs. Milligan To Address Epiphany Women

On Tuesday, January 22, Mrs. Lowell H. Milligan, president of the Women's Division of Province 1 (the New England Province) will address the Women of Epiphany at their general meeting.

Mrs. Milligan lives in Worcester and last year made a trip to the Far East. She visited Japan, Hong Kong, Okinawa and Taiwan and many Episcopal missions in those places. She illustrates her talk with colored slides. This is an area that is being studied and discussed this year by groups within the National Council of Churches.

Within the boundaries of the rim of East Asia live 38 million people. These people are faced with competing ideologies, the reawakening of nationalism, the impact of Western ideas and scientific advance, and the struggle between the forces of the free world and those of communism. Mrs. Milligan comments on her observation of how these issues are being resolved and the profound significance they have for world destiny and the Christian Church.

Luncheon will be served in Hadley Hall at 12:45 under the direction of Mrs. Richard Kiley. All women in Winchester are cordially invited to the luncheon and the program which will follow at 1:30. Please make reservations by calling Mrs. Prowse, PA 9-1637 or Mrs. Harmer, PA 9-3561.

Garland Alumnae Entertain Here For Students

On Tuesday, January the twenty-second, the Garland Junior College Alumnae Association is sponsoring a late afternoon tea for prospective students from the Winchester schools. The parents of interested students have also been invited to attend.

The tea will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Rushton Harwood, Jr. 30 Ledgewood Road. Mrs. Harwood is fund chairman of the Garland Alumnae Association. Acting as co-hostess for the tea will be Mrs. Felix R. Forte, 31 Willowdale Road. Mrs. Forte is president of the Garland Alumnae Association.

The purpose of the tea is to offer prospective students an opportunity to discuss with alumnae of the College their views on the value of the Garland programs both during and after College.

Among those who are planning to attend are: Marie Lyons, 33 Grayson Road; Brenda Pepi, 29 Sargent Road; Miss McDonagh, 23 Chisholm Road and Miss Constance Trickett, director of guidance, all from the Winchester High School. Also Miss Maureen Rose, Medford and Mother Elizabeth Farragher, principal, from Marycliff Academy.

State Meet Awaits Two Junior High Science Winners

Two eighth grade science contest winners, one each from the Lynch and the McCall Schools, have earned the right to represent the school in "Science Countdown," a State science competition scheduled for next month.

Heidi Rendall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Rendall of 16 Ardley Place will represent the Lynch School. Paul Blanch, son of Dr. and Mrs. Euan T. Blanch of 16 Alden Lane, will represent McCall.

"Science Countdown" is an elimination contest sponsored by the Lowell Technological Institute and WBZ-TV; and it is expected that the final competition will be televised.

To win the honor of representing the schools, Miss Rendall and Mr. Blanch first defeated their classmates in a series of eliminations which were held with much spectator interest and excitement in their respective schools.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

A set of action-packed pre-arranged boards were played in Section A of the January 9th club meeting, marking the first time that this type of innovation has been introduced at the WDBC. A 63 average score resulted from the eight table Mitchell movement and the following pairs managed to ride out the storm:

North-South
Mr. and Mrs. William Wheelock	79½
Edward Mansfield and James Bradley	75
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson	72
Helen Mahoney and Clarence Woodward	63
Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Symmes	62½
East-West
Anne Murray and Howard Wittet	69½
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	69½
Barbara Sawyer and Dr. Robert Blackler	67
Dr. Gerald Barrett and Ted Atkinson	65
Chester Davis, Sr., and George Sweet	64½

The 8½ table play in Section B led to a North-South average of 73½, while East-West pairs had to compare scores under the decimal system. The winners were:

North-South
Elizabeth Slade and Robert Haskell	88½
Ellen Schofield and Martha Walker	84½
Miggs Root and Nancy Atkinson	82½
Mary Campbell and Ida Finlay	74½
East-West
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	.616
Peg Sanderson and Blair Hawley	.601
Lillian Sheridan and Rose Hickey	.585
Greta Hawley and Darrell Root	.562
William Duryea and Jock Olmsted	.555

♣ A J 5 2

Assuming no defensive bidding, make your opening call with this holding, then let your favorite partner carry on with the following North hand, but don't YOU peek at the North hand!

♥ 10 8 6 3 2

What final contract did you reach? If you went into three no trump, you have earned a comfortable middle board, making making game with an overtrick.

Those who tried a slam were in for stormy weather. Six no trump scored a bottom, with either a club or heart lead. Six hearts was bid at one table, but declarer could not avoid the loss of two trump tricks.

At our table, South bid one diamond and rebid two clubs after North's response of one spade. North then bid two hearts. South then announced "three no trump" in a tone of confident finality, and was about to play the board in his favorite contract when he was somewhat jolted to hear a subsequent call of four diamonds from North.

What to do now? Five diamonds is no good against a field which will probably be in three no trump. Hoping that partner is 5-4-4 in spades, hearts and diamonds, South took the leap into six diamonds.

West led the seven of diamonds, and North put down the dummy (see above). Step into South's shoes and plan the play. What line will you follow? Here is the full deal.

Diamond With Many Facets

North
♦ K 5 3

West
♥ Q 5
♦ 10 9 8 7
♣ K 9 8 3

East
♠ 10 9 5 3
♥ K J 9
♣ Q 10 7 4

South
♥ A 7 4

Did you let the opening lead ride around to one of South's honors? If so, you sealed your own doom! Leading a second round of trumps also lands you on Boot Hill. You must play to protect against a 4-1 trump split; and, at the same time, trump clubs twice in dummy in order to garner twelve tricks (3 spades, 1 heart, 5 trumps, plus the ace of clubs and two club ruffs). Declarer cannot afford to use the king of diamonds to trump a club.

South found the winning line by taking the first trick with dummy's KD. Next, he led three good spades (discarding two hearts in hand). Then he came to hand with the ace of hearts, trumped a club, trumped a heart, cashed the ace of clubs and trumped another club in dummy.

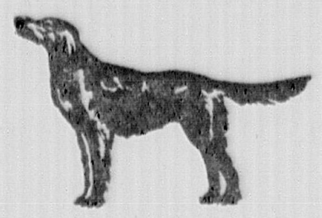
Duffy Promoted

Arthur V. Duffy of 57 Hemingway Street, has been elected as an assistant secretary at the Boston office of James Talcott, Inc., an independent industrial finance company.

Mr. Duffy is a graduate of Northeastern University. He was formerly with Morrissey Brothers Tractor Company of Burlington. He moved into Winchester in November and lives here with his wife and two children.



Discarded Gifts Snapped Up

Trees sparkled with the icy brilliance of diamonds, sidewalks and driveways were gleaming crystal sheets of impassability last Monday when a goodly group of hardy Winchester Auxiliary of M.S.P.C.A. members ventured forth for their popular annual "Silent Auction" of unwanted or non-fitting Christmas gifts. Master-minded this year by Mrs. George Connor and Mrs. Alfred Pywell, the auction was a success both in fun and finance. Mrs. Joseph Gibson's spacious home on Wedgemere Avenue was the locale.

The gay and amusing afternoon of "brousing" was climaxed by a delightful social hour around the sandwich plates. Mrs. Clifton McNeill and Mrs. Marshall Bassford of the tea committee were assisted by Mrs. Bert Reese. Mrs. John Gilbert and Mrs. Roland Carter poured.

Baptist Fellowship Plans Winter Retreat

The Junior High Youth Fellowship of the First Baptist Church planned a Winter Carnival at Grotonwood for Saturday and Sunday, January 19 and 20. The program has been planned by Fred Josephson, Martin Garnis, Jean Riker, Janet Butterworth, Sharon Butterworth and Prudy Ward, and Farrell Keen. The committee has worked out exciting activities which include skating, sledding, hiking, indoor games, and dancing. the theme the young people have planned is "The Meaning of Worship" where they will participate in group discussion and a corporate communion service for themselves. The leaders who will be attending the retreat are: Mrs. Noah New, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Josephson, Mr. Ted Robbins and Miss Mary Ann Skruta.

Transportation

During the first week of operation there were some reports of overcrowded trains. The railroad has assured the MTC that as soon as the railroad can reassign equipment from less popular runs, the situation will be alleviated.

Note: In the public timetables, train 903 at 7:34 a.m. from Winchester to Woburn . . . it should be an f stop at Winchester (weekdays)—instead of the listed k stop (Saturdays and holidays).

The Star is printing the Winchester - Haverhill schedule as a service to its readers because it was inadvertently omitted from the first edition of the public timetable.

Planning For Pre-Opera Festivities

Winchester Elks to Honor Joe Peel Saturday with Appreciation Night

This coming Saturday night, January 19, the Winchester Lodge of Elks will pay homage to Joseph B. Peel, past exalted ruler and honorary life member of the lodge, with an appreciation night. There will be a catered roast beef dinner, followed by a short speaking program, with the rest of the evening devoted to dancing to the music of Bob Fiore and his orchestra.

Since the lodge quarters are much too small to make room for all those who will be in attendance on this night to honor Joe, the appreciation night will be held at the Christopher Columbus quarters on Raymond Place.

Joe, who is as familiar a landmark in the town as the clock on the First Congregational Church, has been a member of the Winchester Lodge of Elks for almost forty years, having been initiated into the lodge December 4, 1923, soon after the the lodge itself was organized.

In that time he has served on many of the committees. As chairman of the blood donor committee blood donations to the Red Cross blood bank reached their peak. He was one of the organizers of the 1445 Club, an organization within the lodge to raise money for its many charities, and served as treasurer of the club since its inception.

Joe lives at 34 Pickering Street with his wife Mary. He is the father of Mrs Marjorie Giuliani and Mrs. Ruth Coakley, both of this town, and of Mrs. Jeanne Burwell of McLean, Va., a lieutenant commander in the Navy Nurse Corps.

Certainly no one has worked as hard for so long as has Joe in furthering the best interests of the lodge. His many friends will be at the dinner in force to do him honor on his day.

Rabbi Levenson At Senior Forum

Rabbi Paul H. Levenson, assistant rabbi at Temple Ohabei Shalom, Brookline, will be the guest speaker at The Senior Forum this Sunday at 9:15 a.m. in Ripley Chapel at the First Congregational Church.

A native of Lawrence, N. Y., he was graduated from Hobart College in Geneva, N. Y. and from Hebrew University, Jerusalem. He was ordained in 1959.

Rabbi Levenson served in the U.-S. Army as chaplain before coming to Brookline. In addition to his regular ministerial duties as rabbi, he has full charge of all youth activities at Temple Ohabei Shalom. With a background of camp work and youth activity during his undergraduate days, he is well qualified to direct the youth work of his large congregation. He has served on the faculty of summer conferences sponsored by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference where he has proved to be a most popular leader with young people.

Rabbi Levenson is married and has two children. Forum is happy to welcome him to speak in its chapel program. Chaplains for the day will be Rich Cooper and Vance Belliston. Doug Carpenter and Porter Mulford will be deacons and Scott Cunningham and Vic Lawson ushers.

Forum has planned a roller-skating party for this Saturday night. The group will leave the church by bus at 7:00 p.m. for an evening of skating at the Wal-Lex Rollerway. Carol Brink and Ernie Sackett are in charge of arrangements.

Candidates

Alfred D. Elliott of 5 Chesterford Road East has taken out papers for reelection for a three year term on the three-man Board of Assessors.

For two three year vacancies on the five-man Park Commission, Albert A. MacDonnell of 34 Grove Street and John J. Shanahan of 36 Foxcroft Road are running for reelection, and Edmund A. Williams of 12 Myrtle Street has taken out nomination papers.

Warren J. Taylor of 10 Edgehill Road has taken out papers for a single three year term vacancy on the three-man Board of Health.

Olcott L. Hooper of 228 Highland Avenue is running for reelection to a three year term on the three-man Water and Sewer Board.

For two three year term openings on the five-man Board of Public Welfare, Howard W. Bates of 5 Winthrop Street and Esther P. Borden of 58 Winford Way are both running for reelection.

Ralph W. Hatch of 2 Meadowcroft Road is running for reelection for a five year term as Cemetery Commissioner.

And for two three year vacancies on the six-man Public Library trustees board, Philip P. Wadsworth of 66 Oxford Street is the only candidate who has taken out official nomination papers from the Town Clerk's office.

In general, the majority of the papers taken out by nominees wishing to be candidates in the Town Election are by present office holders seeking reelection.

Lions Thanked By Relief Committee

The Star has heard from Miss Nellie Sullivan, secretary of the Winchester Community Relief Committee, that the Committee omitted by error the name of the Winchester Lions Club from the list of organizations that had contributed to its efforts at Thanksgiving and Christmas. The Lions' help was much appreciated.

Free Classes In Safe Boating

State Director Wilton Vaugh announced that the Massachusetts Division of Motorboats will launch its 1963 program of free classes in safe boating and small craft handling next week at communities along the Connecticut and the Merrimack valleys.

Men and women, boys and girls, everybody interested in boating, whether or not they own craft, will be welcome. There will be no charge of any kind. The instructors, textbooks, movies and colored slides will be provided by the State Division of Motorboats.

The courses will meet one night a week for two hours each night, over a period of six weeks. The registration will be held on the opening nights and the review and examinations will be held on the closing nights. Certificates will be awarded by the State to students completing the courses and passing the examinations.

Here are the new courses: Tuesday, January 15, at 7 p.m. - Springfield, area, Little State House, 235 Chestnut Street, Springfield, for Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts.

Tuesday, January 15, at 7 p.m., Holyoke area, Lawrence Jr. High School, Maple and Cabot Streets, Holyoke.

Wednesday, January 16, at 7:30 p.m. for general public in Holyoke area - Holyoke High School, Pine Street, Holyoke.

Thursday, January 17, at 7 p.m., for Springfield area general public, Little State House, 235 Chestnut Street, Springfield.

Thursday, January 24 at 7:30 p.-m. for Haverhill area general public, Haverhill High School, Main and Summer Streets, Haverhill.

Courses will be conducted by Instructors Frank Nagle of Woburn, Gus Cassaro of Dorchester, John K. Bowler and John J. Brooksbank, both of Holyoke, Charles E. Talbot of Springfield, Willis Warren of Ludlow and Patrick J. O'Connor of Indian Orchard; James A. Croteau, Jr. Newburyport, John Plasteras, Haverhill and Thomas L. Crowley, Lowell.

Ernest Murphy of 1316 Dwight Street, Holyoke, leader of the Sea Scouts and Frank Rohan, Director of Adult Education in Holyoke and Leo Chareth, Principal of the Whittier School in charge of Adult Education in Haverhill are cooperating with the State in presenting the free classes.

The State will give the basic courses in safe boating and urge the graduates to take advance courses with the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and the U. S. Power Squadrons nearest their homes.

County Extension Agent to Speak At Malden "Y"

Mrs. Anna C. Carey, Home Economist of Middlesex County Extension Service will speak at the Malden Young Women's Christian Association, 54 Washington Street on Monday, January 21 at 10:30 a.m. on the topic, "Giving your Home Livability." Homemakers will find this lecture on interior decoration most informative.

This is in conjunction with an all day meeting at the YWCA, 10-a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. when there will be exhibits of various crafts, demonstrations by teachers and an opportunity to register for the new classes which begin the last week in January.

A chowder luncheon will be served at noon by the Young in Heart Club, for which advance reservation should be made.

Residents of Winchester are invited to come and see what the YWCA offers in leisure time activities.

in other parts of the town, thereby making it inconvenient to go to such a location as freqently as they would like to get to their equipment.

William Otis, speaking for the Auxiliary, noted that while the unit is welcome in the center fire station by the regular firefighting force, it would like to have its own area in which to service and maintain its fire engine and from which to operate.

The Auxiliary has asked for $4,500 to reconstruct a pumping station to house their engine and equipment. Mr. Otis said that the auxiliary rarely asks the town for money for anything, and their services at fires are given freely to the town without pay. He added that members of the auxiliary responded to approximately two-thirds of all the fire calls in 1962.

The Selectmen wrote a letter to the Personnel Board requesting an answer as to why that board had not accepted the selectmen's request for a higher job rating for the custodian of the Town Hall. The Selectmen had asked that the rating be equalized to at least that of the custodian in the Junior High School because the Town Hall custodian is in effect the supervisor of the Town Hall with all its responsibilities.

Nellie R. Hottel of 27 Cambridge Street was drawn by the board as a juror for the courts.

Kiwanis Club Officers to Be Installed Jan. 26

The 1963 officers of the Winchester Kiwanis Club will be installed at a dinner on January 26.

MR. JAMES H. RUSSO

The installation will be held at six-thirty at the Summerside Lodge in Malden. Lt. Governor and Mrs. Leroy Hinchcliffe will attend as guests. Mr. Hinchcliffe will install the new officers who are president, Mr. James H. Russo; vice presidents, Mr. Abraham Korn and Mr. Edward J. Rogers; secretary, Mr. Chester R. Johnson, p. p.; treasurer, Mr. Gordo H. Horn, Jr.-p. p.; program, Mr. Richard Coakley. The board of directors will be. Dr. Michael T. Capobianco, John Materson, Kenneth Cullen, p. p.; Thomas Derro, p. p.; James Loftus, p. p.; Romeo Lucontoni, Joseph Peel, Fred Vasalle and Roland Twombly.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Jerome Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell is the director of instrumental music at Saugus High School.

The Kiwanis Club looks forward to a busy and successful year for community service.

End Of Bull Story

It's a sad sequel. But then, that's the way life is, sometimes.

The neighboring yards and greener pastures adjacent to the Gene Rotondi home at 224 Forest Street will never again ring with alarm at the sight of Bimbo IV (sometimes known as Daisy), the Rotondi's pet bull.

The Police Department will face no more the excited calls from that area to the effect that, "There's a big black something out front eating my shrubbery"! It had not yet been reported that the local China merchants were on to Bimbo.

Bimbo, who was about 1,400 walking pounds of intrepid male, genus bos, was offspring of former Rotondi bovines. He was a member of the family and the delight of many neighborhood children. But his future was predestined from the start.

Early this week Gene Rotondi stopped by the Star to show us "something beautiful." The back of his large station wagon was filled to the top with large beef cuts, beautiful indeed.

The deed had been done at the Tewksbury slaughter house. An ignominious end for so noble a beast.

"Bimbo was a steer, not a bull, and a docile steer at that," Gene states emphatically. But the close affection and respect felt by him for his proud and handsome animal was never shared to any great extent by his neighbors, and Gene knew it. Bimbo was big, he was black, he had horns and a ring in his nose and that was enough for them.

"People don't know how to live these days," said Gene, sadly, as he closed up the rear of his station wagon.

Next stop, the Rotondi family freezer.

Through The Rain, Sleet And Snow . . . The Highway Faithful Are Here

The weekend descent of heavy rains, sleet and low temperatures resulted in such icy and perilous road and sidewalk conditions that if it were not for the concentrated effort of the Highway department there almost certainly would have been a number of automobile and pedestrian accidents in the town.

James Wakefield, superintendent of streets, ordered 20 men and a fleet of eleven town trucks out on storm assignments at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday morning. They worked until noon. They were called back out on Saturday afternoon and worked until midnight, with seven trucks covering the roadways with salt while four attended to the sidewalks.

Early Sunday morning, 5:30 a.m. to be exact, the faithful town highway workers returned to the task of making the local streets and sidewalks safe for the hundreds of church-goers who would need safe journey to and from their houses of worship and their homes. They worked steady at softening the treacherous transparent film covering the town ways until about noontime.

Again, later that afternoon, the town workers returned to the extra work-week job that they are always called on to do when storms cut across Winchester. They salted until 10 that night and then returned to work again Monday morning.

Although ice storms are relatively rare in Winchester (the last serious one occurring in the early 1950's), we are in a more dangerous situation as a town when one does come this way because of the numerous hills and inclined slopes in the town. It is for this reason that when storms do threaten the safety and general welfare of the town, its citizens are particularly grateful and appreciative of the services which the Highway department renders.

Hail Guest! If Stranger, Such No Longer Be . . . Concerning A Local Error

Many Winchesterites have had the good fortune to do some traveling. Few, if any, return from faraway places without commenting . . . in between, in, around and among the multitudes of descriptions of places been and things seen . . . about the wonderful hospitality with which Americans are greeted and welcomed abroad.

This is especially true in European countries, where regardless of whether or not one speaks the native national language, through broken and mispronounced verbal and half understood sign language, some measure of friendly communication is passed between the visitor and the visited. It is not uncommon . . . in fact it is very common . . . for visitors in Europe to be received with great hospitality wherever they go. Often it is the offering of half of a homemade sandwich by a smiling seatmate aboard a train from Paris to Rome, or it's the invitation by a shopkeeper in Berlin to visit with his family at their apartment for the evening, and sometimes it's even the offer for a guided tour of lovely Amsterdam by a Dutch student anxious to show you part of the homeland of which he is proud. In any event, returning travelers are always quick to cite the numerous incidents of congenial and sincere hospitality discovered in foreign but friendly lands and people.

The same situation in reverse is often commented upon by foreigners who have traveled to the United States and found the atmosphere here friendly and hospitable. However, this is not true in Winchester.

The fact of the matter is that there is very little genuine hospitality to non-natives in Winchester. How could there be with two living examples who have come to Winchester to spend a year here as our guests . . . and upon our invitation and financial aid to bring them over here in the first place to boot . . . attending our public High School every day as exchange students and yet who have not been shown much hospitality?

The situation is simply this. A Dutch boy, Rob Ten Have of Amsterdam, and an Italian girl, Anna Sant'Elia of Como, came here this fall under the auspices of the American Field Service's Winchester chapter. Families were found for them to stay with during the school year, but there never has been any significant offering of homes in this town to the AFS visitors.

During the school year, you may think, it would appear normal for some of the townspeople to invite these guests from farway places to go to their homes for a Sunday dinner, or for a weekend trip around some of the historic or beautiful scenic spots around Massachusetts or New England, or even for a night at the theater or to church or anything. But you think incorrectly if you think anything of this nature has happened this year.

The local chapter of the American Field Service is not a little embarrassed by the lack of any friendly action on the part of the town or its populace to either welcome these visitors or even to show just a little warm, friendly hospitality. There was no formal town reception or even school reception for the "town-invited" exchange students.

The only expressions of genuine hospitality came from the High School student council, which arranged the Christmas telephone calls from the students' families in Holland and Italy, and a welcome for the Italian girl by the local Sons of Italy organization. The rest was left up to the AFS committee to invite them to their homes for a few dinners. But for the town in general, so far, it has extended its "hospitality" shamefully little.

Even with ten houses of worship in Winchester, and with 52 Sundays in the year, it would appear that very few in the town have ever heard the part in the New Testament that reads: "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers."

The new year has begun, and with it new things are begun. It is not too late for the proud inhabitants of Winchester to invite the visiting foreign students, our guests, to share in a little old fashioned New England hospitality.

APPROXIMATELY 20,000 LINES OF ADVERTISING, sponsored by local merchants, contributed to the success of the recent fund-raising campaign by the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children. Among newspapers participating was the Winchester Star. The local promotion was headed by Edward S. Read, Jr., of 25 Fletcher Street, second from right.

Boston Briefs From Beacon Hill: State News Affecting Winchester

Selectmen's Assn. Spokesman Cites Need for More State Aid Locally

In his preliminary report to the executive board of the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association, Legislative Counsel Charles Davis for that group has asserted that "town meeting is being seriously eroded as citizens find that they have little control over their tax rates."

Increased tax rates Mr. Davis attributed to state "burdens" forced on communities by mandatory legislation. He cited the 1962 act raising minimum pay for teachers, and he estimated the cost in the "millions."

There has never been any state aid to education in Massachusetts from the state's general funds, Davis declared.

Davis reported to his board, "All public school costs are, in reality, raised either by the local property tax rate or by monies substituted therefor."

Whether new taxes come through a sales levy, increased income tax "or some other tax" is not the important issue, Davis maintained.

"The problem of state-local relations must be solved first."

Mr. Davis said people are "discouraged" from attending town meetings because appropriations are fixed by the state. He said that home-owners are burdened and they "unjustly" blame local officials for not controlling the "spiraling tax rate."

Since 1916, he said, when the state passed the income tax law as a replacement tax for the "old property tax on stocks and bonds," distribution formulas have been altered but the amount has not changed.

"It cannot be emphasized too much that not one of these distribution formulae, or all of them together, ever added one cent of new revenue to the cities and towns," Davis said.

While some communities gain in state aid monies temporarily, said Davis, they do so at the expense of their "neighbors."

He called "updating the 1945 equalized valuation" an enticing slogan and commented that it will "not aid cities and towns one iota."

"Without question," Davis continued, "Massachusetts cities and towns need relief for the many state burdens which they must carry."

He said the answer to the tax problem can be found in home rule.

Members of the selectmen's association are currently being polled on their views on taxation.

The association has filed legislation to amend the Constitution to forbid the Legislature to pass a law imposing a financial burden on a municipality or regulate its terms of local employment without a two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate or unless the state will bear the cost.

Hold '63 Spending, Thompson Urges Democrats

Massachusetts House Speaker John F. Thompson asked House Democrats on Monday to exercise a "firmness of control" over expenditures in 1963.

A few moments later, Governor Endicott Peabody reiterated his stand on taxation and declared, "I am still against a sales tax."

He said that the state has at least reached and possibly surpassed the balance between income and outgo of state monies.

"We can make this a great two years for Massachusetts if we understand each other and exercise a firmness of control over spending," Thompson declared.

The Speaker told his party membes that a billion dollars in tax impositions would be needed to accomplish everything which should be undertaken in 1963.

He told Governor Peabody not to be "alarmed" if some Democrats press for local spending. He said that Democratic wins in long-time Republican strongholds across the state will cause the spending proposals, and he reminded the Governor that such stands will be "circumstantial."

"We have to find the solution to our financial problems," said Thompson, and "we must find new revenue."

The luncheon was a harmony parley of top Democratic leaders who split over the speakership fight. Joining hands for party unity, they said, were Rep. Gerard Doherty, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, Governor Endicott Peabody, and Speaker Thompson.

Rep. William A. Connell, Jr. Weymouth Democrat, at the same time issued a statement blasting the House Speaker for committee appointments he made.

Connell was assigned as the fifth ranking member of the committee on power and light.

Connell said:

"The Speaker has described himself as a 'delightful rogue.' Some of us are opposed to all rogues, delighted or otherwise.'

"The Democratic Party should strive for 'no rogues at all.'

"There can be no harmony with tyrants, no compromise with evil.

"Until the Speaker restores the best men to their committees there can be no harmony with honor for his opposition.

"The people opposing Thompson can neither take a 'dive' nor can they 'Take a walk' on this issue."

GOP Loses Bid To Halt an Elections Investigation

The Republican leadership of the Massachusetts House attempted Monday to strip the House Elections Committee of its power to investigate into the votes cast in four Representative fights which have been credited as GOP victories.

The House last Thursday voted to empower the elections committee to call witnesses, issue summonses and conduct an investigation of the four disputed elections.

Without the usual power given the committee whenever elections are contested, the House cannot make findings.

GOP Leader Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield, declaring that Rep. Janet Starr of Belmont should not have been included in the dispute because her winning margin was over 170 votes, asked that the House reconsider its vote to empower the committee.

The membership voted 84 to 118 not to reconsider the vote.

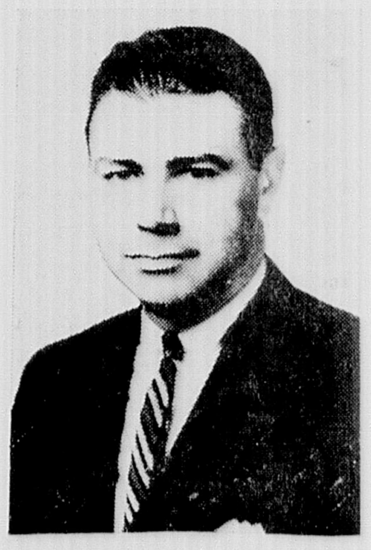
The protests already have been registered with the elections committee.

On the question of reconsidering the vote authorizing the investigation, Rep. Harrison Chadiwck of Winchester voted "yes."

Duran To New Bank Post

Joseph L. Duran of 9 LaGrange Street has been elected an assistant manager in the control division of The First National Bank of Boston at a recent meeting of the bank's board of directors.



MR. JOSEPH L. DURAN

Mr. Duran, who is also assistant treasurer of the First Small Business Investment Corporation of New England, joined The First in 1942.

Mr. Duran is a graduate of Bentley College and has attended Boston University and American Institute of Banking courses.

Mrs. W. D. Barone Hostess At Brooke Induction

Mrs. William D. Barone of 1 School Street, was a hostess at the induction ceremonies for Attorney General Edward W. Brooke held yesterday noon in the House Chambers, State House, Boston.

Mrs. Barone worked for Mr. Brooke during his successful campaign, locally and as coordinator for Public Affairs of the Women's Division.

Happy Birthday To You!

It is a real pleasure for the Star to extend birthday congratulations to our old friend, "Bob" McGuinity, who will observe his 90th birthday at his home in Grand Blanc, Mich. on January 19.

Not too many people live to be 90 years old these days, and few indeed reach this advanced age in as good shape as Mr. McGuinity. He enjoys excellent health and is able to enjoy automobile rides around the country side, come rain or shine, with his daughter, Mrs. Helen Miller.

Mr. McGuinity left Winchester many years ago to work for the Chevrolet Manufacturing Company in Michigan. He retired in 1951 after 34 years in supervision at the age of 78.

Bob has taken the Star for 46 years and still looks forward to its arrival each week though there are few of his old cronies left in Winchester to be written up in the columns of the paper.

Congratulations to one of our oldest subscribers, and may you enjoy many more years of happy retirement. When you come to Winchester do not forget to drop in and greet your old friends at the Star.

Appliance Window Boosts Fontaine

Frankie Fontaine's brand-new record release, "Songs I Sing on the Jackie Gleason Show," presently fills the display window at the Winchester Appliance, 15 Thompson Street.

Al Korn, owner and manager of the store for the past 15 years, is happy to be able to have a Winchester artist out front for the first time.

Frankie, his wife, and 10 of his children reside at 408 Highland Avenue. He is reported to be in very good voice in this record in which he presents some 12 songs.

Building Commissioner's Report For 1962 Shows $3.083.618 Construction

During the year 1962 Winchester saw a total of $3,083,618 in building construction and alterations, according to William B. MacDonald, building commissioner. The building commissioner's office also issued 1,294 permits for the town.

Finger In The Pie

Looking Backward

In our childhood there were three publications that went a long way to ameliorate the pangs of growing up. They were The Youth's Companion, St. Nicholas, and The American Boy. We are sorry for the present generation that they missed the thrill of opening the elongated packages that brought us our monthly installment of dreams and adventures.

In those days, The Youth's Companion was an institution, just as much as buckwheat cakes and Baker's Cocoa. Its declared purpose was both dignified and honorable—"to mould the character of youth for the scenes and duties of a brighter day." It had a distinguished group of authors, including William Dean Howells, Edith Wharton, Ernest Seton Thompson, Jack London, O. Henry, Hamlin Garland, Robert Frost, William James, Walter Camp, and even Theodore Roosevelt. Yet there was something just the least bit dull about it—almost as if it were the kind of magazine your elders thought you ought to like!

The American Boy was lustier than the Companion, had more humor, more adventure—wonderful baseball tales by Ralph Henry Barbour, and exciting tales about a fat boy called Marcus Aurelius Tidd, by a young writer named Clarence Budington Kelland. But it, too, fell on hard times during the depression, and disappeared.

St. Nicholas was unique—a boon to children of all ages. It has been the subject of two retrospective anthologies edited by Henry Steele Commager, ecstatically welcomed by those who devoured it as children. In 1909 its editor was Mary Mapes Dodge, whose novel, "Hans Brinker, or The Silver Skates," gave a whole generation of youngsters an image of Holland which nothing—not even the reality—could destroy. Rudyard Kipling wrote his Jungle Book Stories for it; Palmer Cox created his "Brownies" for it; Gelett Burgess also wrote for it, and Jack London. We still recall our thrill at finding a long row of bound volumes of St. Nicholas in the local library. Alas, it is no more!

Today there is nothing like them. We can truthfully say that they formed one of the truly bright and unforgettable features of those "Good Old Days" about which we hear so much, but to which none of us would really be willing to return.

Board of Health's Time Explanation Of Registration

Editor of the Star:

I would like to take this opportunity through your paper, to inform those people that made an attempt to register for the Sabin Oral Polio Clinic during the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. at the Board of Health office, on Tuesday January 15, only to find the office closed.

Due to an error in publicity, the hours for the Tuesday January 15 and Thursday January 17 registration were printed as being from 7:00 a.m. through 9:00 p.m. instead of 7:00 p.m. through 9:00 p.m.

In the letters distributed throughout the town and in the legal notice as printed in the Winchester Star on Thursday January 10, on page 5C, the correct hours were stated.

Arrangements were made to staff the office from 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, January 15 through 9:00 p.m. and from 7:00 a.m. through 9:00 p.m. on Thursday, January 17, in order that those citizens of Winchester that planned to register during those hours would not find that their trip was unfulfilled.

It is impossible for me to contact all the people that did arrive during the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, January 15 and I know that many left disappointed. Therefore I wish to take this opportunity to apologize to these people for their inconvenience and hope that they understand that the situation was unintentional.

Very truly yours,
Michael D. Saraco
Agent
Board of Health

P. S. The registration hours for Saturday January 19 are 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

Editor of the Star:

Now that we have built so many schools and the large addition to the hospital has been completed, let 1963 see the start for the addition to the library's children's department, which has waited so long for it.

The last plan submitted was excellent, and our present building is so handsome that any addition should be in harmony and good taste with it on such a sightly corner lot.

It is my understanding that there is a heavy circulation of nonfiction books, proving this is an intellectual community. Let us all, individuals, clubs and selectmen, push this program through so that we can have a building of which we can be proud.

Medicare Program Urged as the Best Plan for the Aged

Editor of the Star:

I am writing this little piece on the subject of Medicare.

Oh how it is needed. Take for example a widow on social security. She gets $40 per month. What if she is not well and has to have medicine and doctors. What is she to do?

Your question will be what about relatives, son or daughters, if she has them, with the selfishness of today, they figure they cannot help because they must have appliances, new cars and parties etc.

So what about the old folks. I know many unhappy old folks who have been told by their children not to expect anything from them even a room in their old age.

What can $40 buy today. Not even room rent. So I say this country will have to have some kind of decent living for the old folks in the near future.

There is a lot of suffering and many widows who are not even existing in our fair land, yet we can raise millions for the Cubans in no time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Louise E. Chase

Jaycees Support Adult Oral Polio Program

At the last general meeting on January 8, 1963 the junior Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously to support the town Oral Polio program for adults. Sabin Oral Polio is preventive medicine and is being offered to the adults of Winchester by the Board of Health under the auspices of the town physicians. Being vaccinated against this dread disease is not only an individual responsibility, but almost a community necessity.

As of today, there are two days of registration left, Thursday January 17, 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., and Saturday, January 19, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Be sure to register your entire family.

It has been estimated that less than 10 per cent of the adults in this country over the age of thirty have been vaccinated against polio. This is a deplorable situation considering that injectable Salk vaccine has been available since 1955.

If you have had a series of Salk shots it is recommended that you have the drinks of oral polio. Salk vaccine produces systemic immunity, but in many cases does not prevent the immunized person from being a carrier of the disease. Oral vaccine reduces the chances of an immunized person transmitting the polio virus.

Remember that polio strikes all ages. It is not a child's disease. You owe it to yourself and your community to take advantage of the Sabin, Live, Oral Polio clinics held here in Winchester.

Know Your Auxiliary Police

Jay Killian lives at 8 Walnut Street, a resident of this town for the past eleven years, is married to the former Jean Richardson of Winchester. They have four children, Jay 8, William 7, Stephen 6, and Kevin 4.

MR. JAY KILLIAN

Jay is a commercial artist and designer with the Killian Associates in Winchester, and is one of the most outstanding in this profession having both foreign and domestic accounts in designs and illustrations.

He has served many hours in his ten years with the Auxiliary police a Veteran of the Air Borne Command in World War II with the Para-Medical service.

Questions Asked Board of Health Clinic Answered

The Board of Health has submitted a list of questions most frequently asked by adults registering for the special town polio clinic on January 26 and February 2:

Q. My children received the oral vaccine in May and June 1962 in the Winchester schools. What types did they receive?

A. Type 1 was given in May 1962. Type 3 was given in June 1962.

Q. I am 50 years old. Should I receive the oral polio vaccine?

A. According to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, there is no maximum age for receiving the oral vaccine.

Q. My children and I have received the Salk vaccine injections. Is the oral vaccine necessary?

A. The Massachusetts Department of Public Health recommends that the oral vaccine be received. Time allowance between receiving one and the other is no matter for concern.

O. If my children received Type 1 and Type 3 in 1962, must they start again and receive 1, 2 and 3?

A. No, children who have received Type 1 and 3 will receive Type 2 toward the latter part of March. Whatever type has been received does not need to be repeated.

Q. Type 1 is being given now. When will Type 2 and 3 be given in Winchester?

A. No dates have been set for 2 and 3 but plans will be made for the latter parts of March and May.

The Board of Health rearranged its regular Tuesday and Thursday working day schedule to accommodate the number of persons who inadvertently followed printed publicity errors on the hours that the Town Hall basement office of the board was supposed to receive adults wishing to register for the polio clinic.

On Saturday, the first day of registration, the board registered over 300 Winchester adults. Michael D. Saraco, agent for the board, said that he hopes that by this Saturday every adult in Winchester will have registered for the prolonged polio protection vaccine. (See letters to the editor.)

Planning Board's '62 Subdivisions, Projects Reviewed

The Planning Board has submitted its forty-eighth annual report to the Board of Selectmen. The report, reviewing the board's activities during the past year, read as follows:

The interest of the board in defining our zoning laws and bringing them up to date continued through 1962. Zoning proposals presented to the March 1962 Town Meeting met with varying success. An extension of the light industrial district was accepted, but a program for the rezoning and disposition of town-owned land near Leonard Field was rejected. Later developments indicate that without the disposition feature the zoning proposals may prove acceptable and will be presented to the next Meeting.

The board's study of town-owned lands progressed enough through the year to permit us to bring the first group of proposals to the next Meeting. One of these, an expansion of the Noonan School grounds, we are pleased to be able to sponsor jointly with the School Committee. Others of a recreational nature, such as acquisition of Cox Pond and of an adequate parking area at Winter Pond, we are discussing with the Park Department.

The major part of our time and effort goes into the administration of the Subdivision Control Law regulating the laying out and construction of ways in subdivisions and insuring the proper installation of public utilities. Since 1953 when this law became effective, the board has approved 17 subdivision plans that provide 6.16 miles of roadways and 512 building lots, of which 436 have become eligible for sale in accordance with our regulations.

Our work with the Capital Budget Program continues. Nearly complete 1962 figures show substantial increases over our projections in only four departments, and a total Winchester departmental operation cost about $85,000 under our estimate, an error of approximately 5 per cent. The program for 1963 and the following years will be published separately before the March Town Meeting as soon as final 1962 figures and firm 1963 estimates are available.

There has been no change in the Winchester debt position as charted in the Planning Board report for 1961; we are not repeating this chart in 1962.

The Planning Board was saddened by the sudden death of Mr. Oscar E. Merrow, who was serving the Planning Board and Winchester with distinction.

The Planning Board wishes to express its appreciation of the help it has received throughout the year from Allan Benjamin, planning consultant, Howard Ambrose, consulting engineer, and Mrs. Paul Eberle, clerical assistant.

Crittenton Group In Discussion Of Adoption Laws

On Tuesday, January 8, Mrs. Richard F. Brackett of 25 Central Street opened her lovely spacious home to the Winchester Jr. Circle of the Florence Crittenton League for its winter meeting.

Miss Margaret-Joyce Diamond, executive director of the lawyers reference service, gave a most interesting and informative talk on the legal aspects concerning adoption which was followed by a brief question period.

Mrs. Charles E. Potts, vice president presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Donald J. Fritch. It was announced by the ways and means chairman, Mrs. Galen S. Vincent, that the annual spring formal dance will be held at the Town Hall on Friday evening, May 3.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Emmons S. Ellis and her committee. Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Edward M. McDavitt were the pourers.

Local Chapter Asks Wider Town-AFS Relationship

The Winchester chapter of the American Field Service met last Thursday night at the home of Mrs. William Gustin of 15 Manchester Road, president of the chapter, to discuss some of the problems and achievements of this year's program and to plan next year's project.

The local chapter has been attempting, with only partial success, to get wider community participation in the international student exchange program.

The official committee for the 1963 chapter has been chosen, Mrs. Gustin announced this week. Mrs. Miles Weaver is the member for homes, Mrs. Robert Anderson is the Americans abroad coordinator, Louis Knight is the representative from the High School faculty, Francis Weafer is the finance officer and Mrs. Gustin will continue as president of the chapter.

The chapter is in the process of trying to select a second home for Rob Ten Have of Amsterdam, Holland, for the last half of his stay here in Winchester. Under the plan that Rob is attending Winchester High School, he is supposed to visit with one family for half of his stay, and another family for the other half.

Anna Sant'Elia of Como, Italy, has already started living with a second family.

The chapter is in the process of getting volunteers to house next year's exchange students, and is planning methods to help the visiting students solve the problems of adjustment to a different school system than they are used to.

This is the first year that Winchester has had two exchange students at the High School at the same time.

Mrs. Gustin has application forms for parents of members of next year's senior class who wish to house visiting exchange students. Anyone interested in the AFS Winchester chapter's work should call Mrs. Gustin at PA 9-3530.

Marycliff Pupils To Send Entries To Art Exhibition

For the fifth consecutive year, Marycliff students from Grades 7-12 will send entries to the Scholastic Art Awards Exhibition. Mother Borella, art teacher, has selected 30 samples of student art.

During the past 36 years, scholastic magazines and other regional sponsors have encouraged student achievement in creative art. The Regional Exhibition, under the sponsorship of the Boston Globe, will be held at Boston University, February 7-14.

This exhibit gives students local recognition. Awards are gold achievement keys and certificates of merit. From the key winning pieces, blue ribbon finalists are selected. These works are sent to New York to be judged for the National High School Exhibition.

Previously, Marycliff students have received certificates of merit, gold keys and a Marycliff student, Margaret Toomey '64, received the honor of being a blue ribbon finalist.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and deep appreciation to our relatives, friends, and the Winchester Police Department, employees of Winchester First National Stores, Executives of First National Stores in Somerville, the National Guard of Stoneham, Marilyn Sandal employees, employees of Gildart Chevrolet in Wilmington, and neighbors who by their words of consolation and acts of kindness helped to lighten the burden of our recent bereavement.

For the large number of floral tributes and spiritual bouquets, we are very grateful.

The family of the late Christopher Morris.

Obituaries

Vernon W. Jones

Vernon W. Jones of 10 Dix Street, for many years a real estate broker in Winchester, died Monday night, January 14 at the Winchester Hospital, following a month's illness, at the age of 75.

Mr. Jones was born September 27, 1887, at Mars' Hill, Maine. He was the son of James A., and Elizabeth J. (Shaw) Jones. He got his schooling at Mars' Hill and Monticello, Maine, and came as a young man to Somerville where on September 17, 1921, he married Vivian Colprit of that city.

The Joneses came to Winchester in December, 1924, and from that time engaged in the real estate and insurance business. For 26 years he maintained an office in the National Bank Building, until the bank took over his office when they enlarged their banking rooms in 1953.

As a young man Mr. Jones was involved in an automobile accident in which he was badly injured. His entire life thereafter was circumscribed by the injuries he sustained at that time. Many believed he was never to work again, but he did recover sufficiently to lead many years of useful business life. He was very active in the First Baptist Church of which his wife was for many years a member.

Services were held Thursday forenoon at 11 o'clock at the Norris Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Dover, New Hampshire.

Remi F. Rainville

Remi F. Rainville of Winchester, died Thursday morning, January 10, at the Magoun Manor Nursing Home in Medford after a long illness in his 97th year.

Native of Quebec, Canada, Mr. Rainville came to this country as a young man. He had lived in Winchester for the past 12 years, but previous to coming to this town he had lived for 50 years in Stoneham and was widely known there.

Prior to his retirement 15 years ago Mr. Rainville had been caretaker for the Houghton Estate in Stoneham. He had not been in good health for the past three years.

He leaves his wife, Anne C. (Cullen) Rainville of Winchester; three stepchildren, Mrs. J. Joseph Tansey and Mrs. Joseph E. Flaherty, both of Winchester; and Mrs. Harry Wayne of Pelham, N. Y., also a sister, Mrs. Gilbert D.'Auaoust of Maryville, Canada.

The funeral was held Saturday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with Requiem High Mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

Mrs. Helen Sargent Fay

Mrs. Helen (Sargent) Fay of 42 Robinhood Road, wife of Dr. Robert W. Fay, D. D., died Saturday, January 12, in a Nashua, N. H. hospital.

Mrs. Fay was the daughter of the late Eaton D. Sargent, at one time mayor of Nashua. She was 54 years old and a native of Winchendon, coming to Winchester from Arlington in 1959.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Fay leaves a son, Robert S. Fay of Winchester; a daughter, Mrs. Susan Bash, living in West Virginia; a sister, Mrs. Priscilla S. Condit of Hollis, Long Island, N. Y.; and a brother, Philip A. Sargent of Crescent City, Florida.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Congregational Church in Nashua, N. H.

Eileen A. Cowles

Eileen (Alden) Cowles, wife of William F. Cowles of Greenfield, N. H., formerly of Lexington and Winchester, died on Tuesday January 15, at the age of 59.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, William F. Cowles, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Burton Knight and Mrs. Kendrick Bushnell.

Memorial services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Union Congregational Church in Greenfield, N. H., Memorials may be sent to the American Cancer Society or to your favorite charity.

Mrs Anne B. Pynn

Mrs. Anne B. Pynn of 24 Clematis Street, widow of Franklin Pynn and a long-time resident of Winchester, died Monday, January 7, at the Glendale Nursing Home in Woburn after an illness of three years.

Mrs. Pynn was the daughter of James, and Emma-Jane (Avery) Barrett. She was born September 27, 1892, at St. John's, Newfoundland, was educated there and married in St. John's March 30, 1909, at the age of 16.

Mrs. Pynn came to Winchester in 1911 and continued to make the town her home, taking an active interest in the First Baptist Church and working in the Thrift Shop of the Women's Society during its long existence. She was a member of Victoria Rebekah Lodge but through her entire life she was primarily concerned with her home and family. Her husband died in November of 1961.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Marion Dunbar of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Florence Chase of Winchester; six sons, Ronald of Medford, Woodrow W. of Whitman, Carl Irving of Medford, Robert Bradford, of Guilford, Conn., Russell James of Duxbury and Franklin Pynn, Jr., of Waltham; 18 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter; also a brother, Jacob Barrett of St. John's Newfoundland.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Graham Funeral Home in Woburn with the Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

In place of flowers contributions may be made to The Cancer Fund or The Memorial Fund of the First Baptist Church.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Maguire Was Winchester Native

Monsignor Eugene A. Maguire 86, pastor of St. Rita's Church in Lowell and a native of Winchester, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lowell, Saturday.

Monsignor Maguire was a member of the very prominent Maguire family of Winchester, of which Patrick, a druggist at the Wells Pharmacy in Woburn still survives. Another brother Michael, of Medford also survives.

The solemn funeral Mass was sung at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Rita's Church, Lowell, followed by committal services at the graveside in Calvary Cemetery.

Rt. Rev. Conrad J. Quirbach, pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown, was celebrant; Rev. John E. Murphy of Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale, deacon; Rev. John M. Quirk, director of Donnelly Memorial Theater, Boston, the subdeacon, and Rev. Peter F. Hart of St. William's Church, Dorchester, eulogist.

A requiem Mass was held at St. Rita's Church at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday for children, with Rev. William C. Burckhart, assistant pastor, celebrant.

Interment took place Wednesday at the Maguire family lot in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn, where another brother, a Monsignor is also interred.

Marycliff Hears Noted Monologuist

An alert audience of Marycliff students from grades seven through twelve were entertained and educated by the vivid interpretation of Theodore Besier's "Barrets of Wimpole Street," presented to them last Friday by Mary Louise Hickey, noted monologuist.

With only one break in the program, Miss Hickey gave a sustained presentation of interpretations of characters in the play, which were as meaningful to those unfamiliar with it as to those students who had read the lives of the famous poets.

The play was one of many programs being offered this year to the students in these classes.

Many Thanks

I would like to thank all my neighbors and friends for their lovely Christmas cards sent me. Many thanks. I appreciated it very much while being shut-in.

MODERN SNOW-DRIFT MEN. Ten-foot snow drifts and sub-zero temperatures at Mittersill in Franconia, New Hampshire, over the New Year's cold wave didn't faze young Chucky Birchall of 4 Taft Drive. He and his companion, Ann Crimmins of Middletown, Rhode Island, bundled up in scarves and coon-skin cap, fashioned a tunnel out of the deep piles of snow at the Cannon Mountain ski resort.

McCall Troop In "Cradle Song"

The audience seemed spellbound as the young novices in the Spanish convent discovered the infant left at their door and pleaded with their beloved Prioress to keep the child against the dire warnings of the strict Vicaress. Thus the actresses not only depicted girls and women of various ages and personalities, but also achieved a good quality of ensemble acting in the fellowship of novices and nuns.

Preceding this scene, the troop presented a tableau of the Hebrew Hanukkah, or Festival of Lights, meeting another requirement of the badge. This cast included: the mother, Betty Lee Jones; the father, Susan Mead; and the children, Sydney Blanchard, Ellen James, and Winifred Kelbley. Ann Rozelle accompanied at the piano.

The program was directed by Mrs. Ganson Taggart, assisted by Stephanie Middleton, who thus earned her Producer's Badge. They appreciate the loan of the Junior Choir robes from the Parish of the Epiphany and the Menorah from the Unitarian Church.

Ushering at the event were Edith Crabtree and Nancy Millican, who presented a farewell gift of a nice travel case to the troop's leader, Mrs. Lawrence Kelbley. Nancy expressed for all their appreciation and good wishes to the Kelbley family on their move to California.

Hichborns Return From Trip To West Coast

Combining business with pleasure, they were able to include the East-West Shrine game, Rose Bowl Parade and game, Disneyland, and other items of interest.

While they can not speak too glowingly of these spectacular events, they are happy to be back in Winchester, and state that they have no intention of moving to the Coast in spite of the weather.

Thomas E. Crooks To New Post At Harvard

President Nathan M. Pusey has just announced the appointment of Thomas E. Crooks of 50 Lloyd Street, as master of Dudley House, the center of educational, social and athletic activities for nonresident students in Harvard College. He will succeed Delmar Leighton, who will become master of Dudley House, Emeritus, next summer.

MR. THOMAS E. CROOKS

Mr. Crooks will continue as director of the Harvard Summer School of Arts and Sciences and of Education.

As Master of Dudley House, he will work with faculty associates in guiding the more than 300 students, of whom the majority commute to classes from their homes in Greater Boston. Dudley House men also live in cooperative houses near the Yard and in dormitory space allocated to the House.

Thus, Dudley House combines the residential system of the other Houses and the long-standing association of non-residential students with the College.

The new Master will guide the destiny of Dudley House during a period of relocation. The extension of the new Holyoke Center to Massachusetts Avenue in the near future will require the razing of the present Dudley House Junior Common Room and dining hall. The College is now considering plans for an alternative site.

Mr. Crooks, who lives here with his wife and three children, expects to establish a Master's residence in the vicinity of Harvard Yard during the academic year 1963-64.

The new Master is known to postwar Harvard men as an Assistant Dean from 1949 to 1951, and as director of Student Placement and assistant director of the Summer School from 1956 to 1960, when he became director of the Summer School and Dean of Special Students.

A native of Seminole, Pa., and a graduate of New Bethlehem High School, he is 45 years of age. He entered Harvard after service in World War II as a combat infantryman and experience as a prisoner of war in Germany. At 31, he received the A. B. degree, magna cum laude, in 1949.

Returning to military service during the Korean emergency, he taught for three years in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. He received the M. P. A. degree from Harvard in 1952. He was a personnel officer of the Ford Motor Company in Somerville, for two years before rejoining the Harvard staff in 1956.

Third Family Night At First Baptist

Helen Terkelsen, chaplain of the Florence Crittenton League will speak to the Sr. High Youth Fellowship on her work with unwed parents particularly the women. Her work at the Hastings House deals with the individuals attitude, feelings and decisions where she seeks to apply the necessary therapy to this need. Chaplain Terkelsen will discuss the responsibilities of the church and particularly the church youth fellowship in their ministry to these young people. For the adults Mr. Thomas Moran of the Mass. Prison Association will speak to them on the attitudes, conditions, and rehabilitation program of the persons in penal institutions, and will show the film "From Convict To Citizen."

Miss Barbara Herrod, speech therapist of the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing will speak to the Jr. Dept. on the difficulties children experience with a hearing handicap. She will demonstrate how in spite of these difficulties, children are able to speak and participate with children free from handicap.

This is the third in the series of the Church's Mission and we welcome everyone in the community to share in this program developed by National Council of Churches dealing with problems individuals face due to physical, mental, and emotional handicaps. Following the hymn sing, there will be a buffet supper at 5:30. The program will begin at 6:00 through 7 o'clock.

Opens Art Show In Marblehead

Mrs. Cynthia Cooley of 8 Prince Avenue, has just opened a one man water-color and drawing show in the King Hooper Mansion in Marblehead.

The show is sponsored by the Marblehead Arts Association and is open to the public free of charge every afternoon but Mondays from 2 to 5 p.m. It will run through January 31.

Thirty-five works make up the show, and the subject material is entirely of New England. Mrs. Cooley moved here from the midwest three years ago.

Many Winchester art lovers will remember that last summer Mrs. Cooley was one of ten New England painters whose works were chosen to hang in the Boston Arts Festival under a special grouping entitled, "The Artist Looks at New England." This was a water color, "Boston: The North End" and it hung almost next to an oil by another Winchester artist, Mrs. Elizabeth Lobingier of 4 Manchester Road.

Mrs. Cooley works at home in a studio there. She is married to William Cooley, an assistant professor of Education at Harvard, and is the mother of one son, Warren, aged three.

Lee Dresser To Dance On TV Next Week

Miss Lee Dresser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Dresser, of 83 Cambridge Street, will dance on the Louise Morgan show on Channel 7, January 22.

MISS LEE DRESSER

She will appear with her teacher Mrs. Juanita Cansino of the famous dancing Cansinos, who will be interviewed by Miss Morgan concerning Spain and the Spanish dance.

Lee will dance El Capote', a dance depicting all the movements of a Spanish bull fight.

Lee will also dance with her teacher for the Framingham Women's Club and the Golden Age Club of Mattapan next month.

Thanks Firefighters

Hevey's Pharmacy wants to thank the Winchester Firefighters who came to their rescue on Sunday, January 6, when the fierce winds broke their new display window.

According to Leo Purtle and Jackie Collins, the firefighters responded immediately and covered the hole with a tarpaulin and some plywood braces. The Pharmacy is very grateful.

Thanks To Homefronters From Across The Seas

The Winchester Homefronters wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped to make the Christmas project of sending packages to those from our town who serve in the armed forces such a successful one. The Homefronters are greatly indebted to Mr. Richard Norris for the use of his annex which was used for the packaging of the boxes.

Letters of thanks from the men and women who received these Christmas boxes are being put in a Servicemen's scrapbook which will be placed in the Library so that those interested may read them. Those heard from so far are:

Dear Homefronters,

I was very pleased and grateful to receive a Christmas package from you today. Our ship, a guided missile destroyer, left the States in the middle of November for a seven month cruise in the Western Pacific. We are scheduled to spend Christmas in Okinawa, and it is comforting to know that the citizens of my home town appreciate the loneliness that accompanies spending the Holidays in such a remote place.

I am sharing this package with my fellow missile technicians, who are quite impressed with the public spiritedness of the people of Winchester. I haven't found anyone else on board who ever received a package of this nature. Thanks again,

Fred Ashenden

Dear Winchester Homefronters,

Just received your wonderful gift and would like to express my sincere gratitude to all concerned. I always knew I came from a wonderful town with real swell people to be found everywhere. When I received word that I must report to Key West, Florida, over Christmas, it was indeed an unhappy moment as I had planned on Christmas at home for many months and was looking forward to it.

Your gift has proved to me beyond any doubt that I come from the best of home towns to be found in any state. Many young men must leave loved ones and good friends to serve in the Armed Forces. Most of these men are soon forgotten by their friends, but when you have a home town like Winchester it's just the reverse. You're not forgotten and I'm very grateful to you for it.

When I received the package, several of my "Buddies" happened to be with me. When I explained to them what it was, they were very surprised indeed. Typical comments were "I sure wish I lived in a hometown that cared" and "What fabulous people they have up North"

The contents sure had a wonderful assortment of items and everyone enjoyed them.

I wish to again thank everyone concerned. God Bless You All and A Merry Christmas and Prosperous New Year.

With Gratitude
Charles M. Clifton

Tandem Club Presents "Egad What a Cad"

The Tandem Club of the Parish of the Epiphany will present Egad, What a Cad, or Virtue Triumphs over Villainy! on Wednesday evening, January 23 in Hadley Hall.

It will be an exciting half hour of laughs, howls, hisses for the villain, and applause! For a time it looks as though Constant Hope, our beautiful heroine who is haunted by a tragic past, is about to fall into the clutches of that black-hearted cad, Bertram Oleander.

But by a strange coincidence (?) Manly Rash, our noble hero with the manly bosom, arrives in the nick of time to save Constant from a fate worse than death! Gadzooks what a time the audience will have hissing the villain, and applauding the hero and heroine!

A constant riot of explosive laughter and great fun for the cast and audience alike is in store for all in attendance next Wednesday. Bring your friends!

Cast of Characters
Ursula Greystone - Barbara Buchanan
Fowler - Jessie Salter
Augustus Greystone - Stan Buchanan
Bertram Oleander - John Hill
Constant Hope - Kay McCrillis
Manly Rash - Bob Gallant
Milly Smith - Pat Hall

Produced and Directed by John MacLellan

Chairmen of: Scenery - Arnie Kleinebecker; Make-up - Ellie Horley; Lighting - Bob Cavanaugh Costumes - Helen Hadley and Properties - Pat James.

The play will be preceded by a Sauerbraten Dinner under the supervision of refreshments chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Washburn and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rothermel. Juice at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30. Curtain time will be 8:45 preceded by a Sing-Along conducted by Bill Hopkins and Harry Downs. Reservations must be in by Friday, January 18. Lane in Air Force

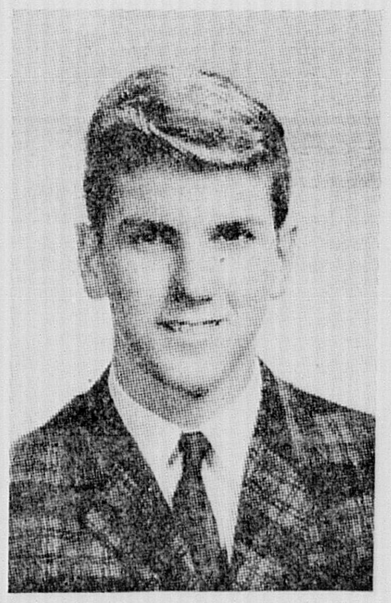
John W. Lane III, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lane Jr., of 5 Orient Street, enlisted in the Air Force this week through the USAF office at 19 High Street Medford Square.



JOHN W. LANE, III

Airman Lane is a June 1962 graduate of Winchester High School and was employed by the Lane Funeral Service of Winchester prior to volunteering for Air Force service.

The new enlistee was active in local sports as a member of the Recreation Club at Winchester High School. He played basketball at the high school for three years and was also active on the basketball squad of the local Police Athletic League. In 1959 and 1960 Airman Lane was on the squad of the local American Legion baseball team.

Airman Lane flew to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas to begin his USAF basic training.

Bridge, Spanish Hold Well In Adult Education

A year ago this month two of the new courses offered to the town by the Adult Education Program were Bridge for Beginners and Spanish Conversation.

As in the case of all Adult Education courses here they were placed on the program in response to expressed interest. Both were experiments.

By this fall the Bridge course had enrolled 54 Winchester adults, and 20 were taking Conversational Spanish, which had been expanded to include Spanish I and II. Both are among the 13 courses which are scheduled to begin the winter term on the evening of Monday, February 4, and both again expect good enrollments along with the other more established courses.

The Bridge course will, this upcoming semester, initiate a new provision which allows enrollees, as they increase their skill, to go on into intermediate and advanced groups.

Spanish Conversation is in the hands of a man and wife team, refugees from Cuba. Initiated by a few who needed the subject for business connections in South America, it now draws a great variety of would-be Spanish linguists.

The course description pamphlets will be around town next week and mail registration for courses is already being accepted at the School Department. Official registration night is Tuesday, January 29 at School Department headquarters in the Lynch Junior High School.

PAL Basketball League

Games Played January 9

In the first game of the evening, Danny Winn's Navy team romped over Frank McNamee's Duke team by a score of 60-26.

Navy's top scorers had a field day, as Richie Rogers, Danny Holland, and Peter Mawn led the attack with 23 points, 19 points, and 10 points, respectively. Navy lacks height, but they have the shooters to make up the difference.

Duke was never really in the game once it was started. Duke could only get support from Bobby Blanche 11 points, and Richy Kidder 9 points, and thus were never really a threat to the Navy shooters.

In the second game of the evening Tony Shields' Ohio State team defeated Bob Thompson and Jake Horn's Holy Cross team by a close score of 30-24. Holy Cross was without the services of their star center Paul Rigney, who was sick. Thus Holy Cross lacked the rebounding and scoring skill of one of their best players.

Brian Collins carried the weight of Holy Cross on his shoulders by scoring 16 points, and Jimmy Mumma also had 4 points in a losing cause. Billy Shields had 13 points and Stan Hewis was close behind with 7 points. While Ken Garvey and Jimmy Appleton had 5 points apiece for the winners.

In the third and first game of the evening Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati team defeated Kevin Mawn's Providence team by a 39-20 score. Providence like Holy Cross was without the services of a star player in Scottie Bennett, who was unable to make the game. This hurt Providence chances of winning the game, from the Bearcats of Cincinnati.

It was the scoring and rebounding superiority of John Doherty with 14 points, and Frank Giacalone and Tom Hewis with 8 points apiece to pace the attack for Cincinnati. Willie Floyd 8 points, and John Martin 7 points were the only scoring threat from Providence and their 15 points were not even half enough for a victory for Providence.

Don't forget admission is free to all games, so why not come down on Wednesday nights and cheer on a team.

Xavier High Open House

Xavier High School in Concord will have an open-house for eighth grade boys and their parents on Saturday, January 26, at 10 a.m.

The scholarship-entrance examination will be administered at Xavier on Saturday, February 9, at 9:00 a.m. Eleven scholarships will be awarded to those taking this examination.

Now in its first year Xavier is the youngest of the fifty college preparatory schools conducted by the Jesuits in the United States. The curriculum is exclusively college preparatory with advanced honors courses in the classics and in the sciences.

The cross-country and basketball teams have competed with neighboring schools and plans have been made to extend the athletics activities each year. The Dramatics Society recently won acclaim for its presentation of Agatha Christie's Ten Little Indians. For a young school Xavier High School has already become well known for both its scholastic and extra curricular activities.

Further information can be obtained by writing the Principal's Office, Route 2, Concord or calling 369-5860.

Badminton Club Wins Opener

In its first team match of the season in the Massachusetts Badminton Association's "D" League, the Winchester Badminton Club played at Needham on Tuesday, January 8, and returned home with six out of a possible ten victories in the various doubles competitions.

The winning Winchester combinations were:

Men's doubles: Lloyd Butterfield and Bob Gallant (12-15, 15-8, 15-8)

Mixed doubles: Al Kajander and Paula Di Iorio (15-7, 15-8); Jay Gottsfeld and Gloria Gottesfeld (15-7, 15-9); Russ Meade and Lois Hersey (18-16, 15-4).

Ladies' doubles: Maxine Kajander and Alison Hersey (15-10, 15-2); Paula Di Iorio and Stella Gallant (15-1, 15-2).

The "D" League this year is made up of two divisions. The North Division comprises Framingham, Maugus, Needham, and Winchester. The South Division includes Canton, Duxbury, Marshfield, and Westwood. Each team will play home-and-away matches with the other three teams in its division. The division winners will subsequently play off for the League championship.

The remainder of the League schedule for Winchester is as follows:

January 22 - Framingham (at home); February 5 - Maugus (at home); February 19 - Needham (at home); March 5 - Framingham (away); March 18 - Maugus (away).

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling League

Rosie D. really started the second half off right. Rose bowled 94, 110, and 97 for a 301 total. Congratulations, Rose, for your second time over the 300 mark. Eleanor's 252 total was second highest for this week. Mary and Phyllis were third with 250 totals.

So many have been discouraged with their bowling, but remember that when you get this far in the season it gets very hard to bring those averages up. Don't be so upset, Magda, your average dropped quite a lot when you were out, but you'll be up near the top again, it will just take a little time.

I think that Lib's 241 average deserves a mention; and so does Eva's 245. Have you people been noticing Marguerite? Marguerite has been doing just wonderful. Your average is up 20 points since the beginning of the year. Stina bowled a beautiful strike. Count 20 next time.

Town Bowling League

After a two week holiday, the league came into its own again, but the two weeks layoff showed up on some of the scores.

The Atlantic Gelatin staved off the Post Office at the last minute and won 6-2. "Tut" Cassidy 314 and Joe Nash 332 led the "Jelly" as "Micky" Donovan with 306 was high for the Post Office. It is good to see him back in form after a long layoff. The Atlantic Gelatin has now won first place and cannot be caught by this win.

Grandma's Teeth strengthened its hold on second place with a win over St. Mary's. E. Robertson with 99-121-123 for 343 was the outstanding bowler in this series. George Snelling had a 304 for the losers, as well as winning the door prize for the evening.

The third place Mill Hillers took Strike Lanes in stride, by a score of 8-0. J. Callahan 307, and Fred Kimball 305, were the deciding factor. H. Richer with 100-112-87 for 299 was high man for the losers.

The fourth place 49ers found the vacation too much for them as the Brothers-in-law started out strong and then fell back. The 49ers have nailed down the fourth spot. R. Buckley 102-105-103 for 310, and B. Lettiere 99-78-130 for 307 for the 49ers, as well as 101-98-115 for A. Fiorilli for the Brothers-in-law made this match close.

The Giant Killers pushed the Converse down from fifth place and took over by winning 8-0, in a match 1366 to 1317 in pinfall. B. Yonaker with 98-127-98 for 323 continues his match for individual honors as he moved to sixth in the individual standings.

Fifth place is yet to be decided until the last week of the first half, coming up this week as the Giant Killers, Converse and J. H. Winn are in contention.

The captain and our treasurer is the proud father of a boy, born this past week; congratulations, Phil.

J. H. Winn stayed ahead of the Hoboes all night and have a shot at fifth place as B. Callahan 304 and Ralph Jury 302 managed to keep the "Winns" on the winning road. G. Duerell has been the most consistent bowler of the Hoboes, but that was not enough to catch J. H. Winn.

The league standing is as follows:

Atlantic Gelatin	116—12
Grandma's Teeth	104—24
Mill Hillers	90—38
49ers	78—50
Giant Killers	60—68

We now have 76 men bowling and 36 of these are over 95 pins per string over the first half and many more will be "up" for the second half which starts in one more week.

Many of our league members have entered in the 1-2-3 Ball Tournament that is going on Thursday evenings at 9 p.m.

This will make better bowlers and more competition in the weeks to come. Come see the fun every Tuesday night at Strike Lanes.

Attention Camels: This is your life this week. Rose DeTeso as captain, you have done quite well. Glad to see you so close to the top of the list.

Emily Buzzotta, don't you know if you followed the orders from all the doctors down at the "Sons" you could be better. Consultation fee $50 an hour.

Angie Tuttle we found out your secret, you are happy. Smile for the birdie. Angie Dattilo, I wish I could have such a sweet and charming smile. What keeps you so happy? Money or your friends.

Peggy Fiore, hear you are not doing so well. We all know with a little encouragement you could find that head pin.

Next week we will pick on the Winstons.

Have you wondered how vaccine differs from antibiotic treatments? Both utilize bacteria to destroy disease-causing germs, but the vaccine contains the identical germs that cause the disease, only in a form harmless to the individual.

Antibiotics, however, contain substances hostile to the disease-causing germs which provide the body with the means to destroying the attacking germs.

Antibiotics are used extensively these days in prescriptions to combat a wide variety of human ailments. You can be sure that your prescriptions, whatever their contents, are filled with care and accuracy at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St., where 24-hour prescription service is available. Free local delivery. Phone PA 9-2700.

S. O. I. Bowling League

Returning to action after a two-week Christmas and New Year's recess, the S. O. I. Bowling League results showed many changes in the standings of the fourteen team league.

Third place Yale approached the line to hand Georgetown a 4-0 shut out. The win moved Yale from third place to the top while Georgetown's loss removed itself from first to fourth. Joe Capone and Captain Richie Bucci with 113-107-98 and 98-107-108, respectively, had much to do with the victorious unit while Chick Vespucci's 107-108-105 and Joe Marrone's 100-109-94 were tops in a losing cause.

Alabama still maintains second place after taking Army 3-1 with the latter dropping from fifth to eighth. Emile Doucette found the range for the winners by rolling 101-102-119 and next in line was correction Fiore hitting for 108-92-109. Army's big guns were Woozy Giacalone with 108-106-88, Captain Tony Saraco 100-110-89 and Johnny Dattilo 84-93-113.

Captain Skitchy Fiore had an excellent night when Bates moved from sixth spot to third after beating B. C. by a 3-1 score. Skitchy certainly had zeroed in while rolling 131-121-119, and just missing the 300 mark was Mario Mascioli with 99-102-98. Big Ted Peluso of B. C. was the only player to reach 300 bowling strings of 105-104-105 dropping his team down one notch to fifth.

Holy Cross leaped from twelfth to sixth after defeating Harvard 4-0 who dropped from seventh to eleventh spot. Captain Moose Bellino led his red hot Holy Cross team with three players hitting over the 300 total. Moose tossed for 111-114-131, Arka Amico 92-121-94 and Rudy Fiore 116-95-93. Despite the fact that Harvard also had three bowlers over the 300 mark it wasn't enough to overcome the rolls of its opposition. Jack MacIsaac had 106-101-111, Babe Tofuri had 106-119-92 and Tony Lentine 94-105-101.

Choppers Gangi, Roundy Fiore, Paul Amico and Tony Chefalo torpedoed well enough for Navy to drown Penn 3-1. Choppers was second highest for the evening for three strings with 366 and just beating him was Skitchy Fiore who had 371. Choppers' three strings were 120-145-101 and giving him a big hand for the victory were Roundy with 110-115-90, Amico 89-88-122 and Tony Chefalo 94-109-87. M. J. Saraco topped Penn's performance with 131-94-87 and next to him was Jeff Gaudioso who had 104-102-83.

Captain Max LaCarubba led his St. Mary's 4-0 win over Notre Dame. The victors climbed from thirteenth to ninth while the losers dropped from eighth to twelfth. Captain Max hit for 102-80-126 and was helped immensely by Mingy Frongillo who had 82-105-111 and Joe Major Ciarcia who finished up with 105-97-93. Notre Dame's top man was Johnny Frongillo who hit for 99-103-105 and behind him was Dickie Tofuri who scored 91-98-106.

Even though California defeated Maryland by a 3-1 score, the team dropped one notch to tenth while Maryland still holds last place. Carl Bertolucci hit for 104-101-111 for the winners to lead his group. Captain Sonny Mistretta of the losers was third highest bowler for the night by rolling a total of 362 with strings of 120-111-131 but his challenges were not enough to overcome California's intentions. Next highest for Maryland were Maxie DiMambro with 104-90-104, Dan Mistretta 81,-104-105 and Dan Gattineri 93-97-91.

Important matches next time out will be Yale vs California, Alabama vs Georgetown, and Bates vs St. Mary's.

St. Mary's was short a man at the last roll-offs and it was later learned he hurt his back while trying to save a duck from the ice behind the Town Hall. Guess who?

Another mystery! Randy was driving by the Club Hall while on his way to bowling and noticed the building was in darkness but a light showing now and then. Stopping to investigate, he entered and followed two figures one of whom was carrying a Coleman lantern. After challenging the "intruders" Randy learned that they were Boy Scout leader M. D. Saraco and his assistant Boss Dattilo who were replacing a blown fuse.

Winchester, 6-3, Over Stoneham

Winchester's Sachems clung to third place in the Middlesex League standing by defeating Stoneham, 6-3, in their league game at the Lynn Sports Center.

Ed Cutting had himself quite a day, scoring three of four goals tallied in the third period. He now has a total of 12. Barry Johnson boosted his point total to 13 while pacing the Sachems' effort.

Murphy, recently rejoining the team after being shelved with an injury, tallied the other goal.

The summary:

Winchester—Goal, Hills, Connor; Defense, Johns, Lawson, Scherban, McCormack; forwards, Murphy, Cutting, Johnson, O'Callaghan, Eaton, R. Murphy, Howard, Cowles.

Stoneham—Goal, Rose; defense, Berry, Hook; forwards, Pitcher, Sumner, Flynn, Seabury, Sampson, Smith, Lupa.

Airman 3d class Donald S. Abbott, 1 Forest Circle, having completed his technical school training with the U. S. Air Force has been assigned for duty at Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina. Airman Abbott enlisted through the Air Force Recruiting office at 19 High Street, Medford. He is a graduate of Winchester High School.

Winchester Scores Upset Over Belmont, 5-4

Winchester played its best hockey of the year to upset favored Belmont, 5-4, in a Middlesex League game at the Lynn Arena last Saturday.

The teams battled to a scoreless stalemate over the first quarter with Winchester shooting often but failing to connect.

The Sachems exploded in the second period, scoring four times to Belmont's once. Barry Johnson scored three of the four Winchester goals and Cutting got the other.

Johnson scored the first goal at the 50s mark with an assist by Cutting. Viglirolo of Belmont evened the count at 1:12 with assists by Habeshian and Gardiner.

Eddie Cutting broke the tie at 1:26, scoring unassisted. Johnson then scored twice, the first time on an assist by Vic Lawson at 1:56, and the second time on a pass by Cutting at 3:04.

Sullivan of Belmont tallied at 2:70 on an assist by Gardiner, and then as the Arena rocked, Gardiner scored an unassisted goal at 1:43, and then at 6:56 Sullivan knotted the count on a shot after an assist by Viglirolo.

With the score all even the pace stepped up and the teams battled on even terms right down to the 7:40 mark. Here Murphy, who had been controlling the puck at center ice, passed to Cutting in the middle, and the latter fed to Johnson, who slapped a high one over the arm of the Belmont goaler to send the Winchester fans home happy. The summary:

Belmont Spares—Amato, Meehan, Haley.

Concord Upsets Sachems, 51-43

Final Scoring Spurt Falls Short

A final scoring spurt proved to be of no avail last Friday night as Concord once again upset the Sachems, 51-43, in a Middlesex League basketball game at the high school gym. Concord led at the half, 29-22, and Winchester was always near enough to be dangerous.

Scipoletti was out of the game, sick with the flu, and his absence hurt the locals, especially since Buddy Rotondi hurt his nose in the Jayvee game, so was not available for varsity play.

Winchester was in the game all the way, and with the score tied at 43 all toward the end of the game Sachem rooters had high hopes, especially since Papadinis was commencing to hit.

The Sachems could not stand prosperity, however, and with the score tied began to foul and make mistakes that soon put them out of the running.

Winchester's shooting percentage was very poor, the Sachems hitting for only 19 goals out of 66 tries, for 24 per cent. On the other hand Concord tallied 19 out of 51 shots for 37 per cent.

Winchester tried everything, even using an all-court press, but without avail. Everything went wrong for the Sachems, one of the varsity officials being unable to appear because of an emergency. This meant that one of the Jayvee whistle tooters had to work the varsity game.

It was just one of those nights when the ball wouldn't go into the hoop, and the Sachems lost enough "sucker" shots to more than equalize things.

Belmont On Top Of League With Fine Defense

Undefeated Belmont (6-0-1) hopes to take another step towards its first Middlesex Hockey League championship in the North Shore Sports Center Saturday when it faces Lexington (1-6-0) in the loop's feature game.

In other contests, starting at 1 p.m., Stoneham (3-3-1) meets Reading (1-5-1), Wakefield (4-3-0) opposes Winchester (5-2-0) and Melrose (5-1-1) plays Watertown (1-6-0).

Belmont, the pre-season choice to capture first-place honors, has not lived up to expectations as an offensive-minded club, but its defense leaves very little to be desired.

Belmont has scored only 17 goals as the season hit the halfway mark last week. That's an average of 2.4 goals a game.

However, on defense Belmont has yielded but eight goals or an average of 1.1 goals per game.

The main reason for Belmont's fine defensive record has been the outstanding play of goal tender Dave Crisafulli and defensemen Steve McBride and Don Chiofaro. Belmont's forwards have aided the cause by playing a close checking game.

Belmont's last four victories were squeakers. It blnaked Reading, 1 to 0; shaded Winchester, 4 to 3; scored three times in the third period to defeat Watertown; and topped Wakefield, 3 to 2 on a goal by John Lebanara with just eight seconds remaining.

Belmont is expected to break out with a rash of goals in the near future. Bob Gardiner, who led the Middlesex League in scoring last year with 34 points, is due to regain his scoring eye. Gardiner, a potential 30-point player, has registered only two goals and seven assists in seven games.

Belmont's scorers this year have been Labanara 5, Jim Wood 4, Gardiner, Chiofaro and Dave Goldberg 2 each, and Tom McCafferty and McBride 1 each.

Melrose defenseman Paul Hurley continues to pace the Middlesex Hockey League in scoring, but not by as wide a margin as he enjoyed entering last week's round.

Hurley failed to pick up a point in Melrose's 2 to 0 win over stubborn Reading. Hurley has registered nine goals and five assists for 14 points.

Two Winchester wings, Barry Johnson and Ed Cutting, closed the gap considerably. Johnson had four assists against Stoneham last Thursday and now trails Hurley by a point. Johnson has three goals and 10 assists for 13 points.

Cutting clicked for the "hat" trick against Stoneham. Cutting now has nine goals and three assists for 12 points.

Winchester Wins 4th Straight Meet

The Winchester High School track team showing steady improvement, beat Danvers High School, 56-21, in a North Shore League meet at Andover on Monday, January 14.

Dave Bird, in the mile, ran a fine race in 4:54, his best time of the season. Tibor Saddler won the 45 yd. hurdle event in 6.7s. Winchester swept the 50 yd. dash in 5.8s. with Paul Kidder, Dick Rowe, and Austin Garvey finishing in that order.

Dick Lindsey had a breeze in winning the 300 yd. run in 36.5s. Pepper Cunningham, running in his first meet ran 3rd in 38.3s.

In the 600-yard run Bill Thoms wasn't pushed and ran 1:24.2. John Perrault finished a strong 3rd.

Danvers won the 1000-yard run with Dick Baldwin winning in 2:30.8. Jeff Peckham was 2nd and Dick Amoroso was a close 3rd.

Roger Borggaard and Dick Winn finished 1-2 in the shot. The winning toss was 39'11½". The high jump finish was the same with Bill Graham 1st and Bill Thoms 2nd. The height was 5'8".

Winchester's relay team of Klorer, Rowe, Thoms, and Lindsey set a new league record of 2:26.7. The record was short lived as the blistering finish between Lynn Classical and Lawrence Central relayists ran a 2:25.8.

Next week, Monday, Winchester meets strong Wakefield. This will really test the team as Wakefield has lost only to Lawrence Central.

The meet summary:

45-Yard Hurdles—1, Tibor Saddler; 2, Costas (D); 3, Bettincourt (D). Time 6.7s.

Relay—1, Winchester; 2, Danvers.

Relay—Winchester winner over Danvers. Paul Klorer, Dick Rowe, Bill Thoms and Dick Lindsey set a new record of 2:26.7, bettering the previous time of 2:27.4.

League Games On WHIL-FM

In their current coverage of the Middlesex Hockey League schedule for 1962-63, WHIL-FM - 107.9 megacycles - airs four more games Saturday, January 19: The Stoneham-Reading game at 1 o'clock... Wakefield vs Winchester at 1:20... Melrose & Watertown at 3...and Belmont-Lexington at 3:30. The broadcast of this "Double-Double Header," is live and direct from North Shore Arena, in Lynn, with WHIL sportscaster, Al Festa, on play-by-play.

Winchester Gym Team Loses To Andover; Meets Needham Tomorrow

The Andover High School gymnastic team State champions this year, handed Winchester its first loss of the season last Saturday evening, defeating the local group, 132.65 to 117.09 on the home floor.

David March on the parallel bars and Kevin Cullen on the long horse took first place for the home team; but the only one of the seven events which was chalked up to Winchester was the long horse, which was won by 25.03 points over 22.89 for Andover.

Placing for points for Winchester were Mike Hammel, Peter Ring and John Cade, second, fifth and sixth respectively in floor exercise; Reed Lowry, Evan Croft and Bill Gaffney, second, third and fifth on side horse; Hammel, Ring and Tom Puzzo, third, fifth and sixth in Tumbling; March, Skip Hoyt and Peter Burrows, second, fourth and sixth on the still rings; March, Fran Donovan and John McSweeney, first, fifth and sixth on parallell bars; Cullen, Lowry and Rick Halverson, first, second and fifth on long horse; and, on the horizontal bars, March, Hoyt, and Donovan, second, fourth and sixth.

On Friday night at 7 p.m. here in the High School gym, the team will meet the Needham High School group and should be able to get back in the top scoring position.

Badminton Players Form New League

There's a livelier atmosphere these days at those Tuesday and Thursday evening badminton sessions in the high school gymnasium. The Winchester Badminton Club, in order to stimulate and maintain player interest, has introduced an even greater element of competition by forming a new intramural league. The four teams in the league are made up of local players who will match shots on a regularly scheduled basis.

One night each week, two of the four courts will be set aside for an intramural league match. The other two courts will be reserved for general play. Each team match will consist of three men's doubles, two mixed doubles, and one ladies' doubles competitions. Two full rounds of matches, with each team competing six times, will complete the season. Points will be awarded on the basis of individual game scores and bonuses will be gained by the set-winning teams. Total points will determine the club championship.

Feathers: Al Kajander (Captain) Ed Conley, Peter Gove, Alison Hersey, Marjorie Moore, Walt Raleigh, and Ed Williams.

Racqueteers: Bob Gallant (Captain), Lou Dexter, Paula DiIorio, Stella Gallant, Whit Gray, Brad Hersey, and Dan Hritzay.

All those who would like to participate in this newly formed league are cordially invited to drop in at the gym on any Tuesday or Thursday evening.

Accountants' Past Presidents' Night

The 42nd annual Past Presidents' Night of the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants, composed of more than 1000 members, will be held Wednesday (January 16) at the Bradford Hotel, Boston, at 6:30 o'clock. A social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m.

The keynote speaker will be John M. Kempster of Weston, head of the Controller Development program at Bentley College of Boston, and formerly a member of the teaching staff of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Presiding will be Allison L. Campbell of Reading, president of the Boston Chapter, and an executive of the New England Merchants National Bank of Boston.

The general chairman will be Allan L. Spurr of Concord, who is associated with the Arthur D. Little Company of Cambridge.

Among past presidents to be honored will be Robert Weafer, Quincy; Thomas L. Morison, president of Bentley College and Clinton W. Bennett, both of Winchester; James P. Dunphy, Milton; Henry J. Finn, Dorchester; Harold F. Greene and Paul E. Tierney, both of Newton; Gilbert Harvey and Charles W. Tucker, both of Back Bay; Stanley R. Thomas Jr., Dover; Carl E. Thoreson, Melrose; and Norman H. S. Vincent of Belmont.

Library Film Program

Family night at the library on January 18 will feature the prize-winning film "Between the Times." The narration is both imaginative and intelligent, permitting the viewer to share with naturalists the discovery of the silent world of seashore life, animal and vegetable, existing between the ocean tides off the rocky coast of England, and the not-too-quiet habits of the birds who seek these shores for breeding purposes. All this is shown in the clear, vivid technicolor with just the right amount of an appropriate musical score.

Anyone who doesn't know "Andy and the Lion" can here remedy that deficiency with an "Iconographic" film using pictures and text from James Daugherty's picture book inspired by Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion."

"Wind from the West" blends fact and fantasy in the land of the Lapps in northernmost Sweden. Young Nils sits in a schoolhouse, dreamily longing that he might go with the older Lapps on their yearly migration to the mountains. Presently the boy dozes, and in his dream the Wind from the West speaks to him and takes him on a dream-visit to the mountains.

The program will be shown on Saturday morning for school-age children at 10:15.

Nurse Aide Training Course Begins February 4

Once again the Winchester Hospital is offering to qualified persons the opportunity to enroll in a Nurse Aide Training Program with classes scheduled to begin on February 4, 1963.

Successful applicants will receive four weeks of comprehensive training, consisting of classroom instructions, demonstration and experience in patient care under the supervision of Mildred E. Colclough, R. N. After successful completion of the course, trainees will join the nursing staff for either full or part time service with all tours of duty available.

Training will be offered to women who are between the ages of 18 and 55 years, who have a sincere interest in people and their welfare. Appointments for a personal interview will be made by calling the Nursing Office at Winchester Hospital, PA 9-1900, within the next two weeks.

Presidents' Club Met in Malden

The 8th District Presidents' Club met in the First Baptist Church of Malden on January 9, with the Malden Old and New Club as hostess. A luncheon was served prior to the meeting which was presided over by the president Mrs. Philip Bellamy. Mrs. Albert Nelson of Stoneham was at the piano.

Notice was given of the Mid-Winter meeting of the State Federation in John Hancock Hall on January 29.

Awards were given to Mrs. Robert Michelson and Mrs. John Hayward both of Wilmington for the prettiest and most original "Flower Pot Money Tree."

Mrs. Alma L. Forte showed colored slides and told of her trip to Russia which she made alone. These slides showed the country and its people.

Collector's postage stamps and albums now on sale at the Winchester Star on all price levels. An excellent way to give youngsters a sense of geography and history and a constructive hobby.

Barber Shop Sing

Friday night, January 18, 8:30 p.m. at the Stoneham Town Hall, when "The Arlingtones" give a barber shop concert under the auspices of the Stoneham Woman's Club, Mrs. John C. Anderson, president, two surprise additions are to be featured: "The Velvet Tones" quartet from Framingham and "The Bay-Statesmen" from New Bedford, the twice international champion finalist quartet. Come and hear your favorite songs sung in barber shop style, which is "four part vocal harmony sung in true or Diatonic Scale, as distinguished from the tempered or off-pitch scale used by key-board instruments such as the piano." No matter what the definition, barber shop singing is fun. Come and enjoy it. Doors open at 7:45 p.m. Tickets at the door only $1.25 (tax exempt).

Brickley Serving On Board Ship

Marine Second Lieutenant John P. Brickley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Brickley of 25 Winchester Arms, is serving with the First Battalion of the Ninth Marine Regiment aboard an amphibious ship of the Seventh Fleet.

The battalion boarded the amphibious units at Okinawa on December 8, to take its turn as the special landing force of the Seventh Fleet. The force is a vital element of American seapower abroad.

Under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Robert B. Allen, the battalion will engage in landing exercises, demonstrations, and routine training during its tour of sea duty, which will last about two months.

Sunday, January 20
The Apostle Luke's inspiring account of the raising of the widow's son from the dead will be heard at Christian Science services Sunday. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Life."

The Golden Text is from Matthew (4:4): "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include this selection (p. 547): "The Scriptures are very sacred. Our aim must be to have them understood spiritually, for only by this understanding can truth be gained." And continuing on the same page: "It is this spiritual perception of Scripture, which lifts humanity out of disease and death and inspires faith."

UFO Expert To Speak In Woburn Church

President Jack Beaton of the Woburn Trinity Episcopal Church Trinity Men's Club announced this morning that the feature program for the February 5 meeting will highlight an illustrated lecture by a noted U. F. O. expert.

A program of slides, a lecture commentary, and a question-answer period will provide plenty of information on "Unidentified Flying Objects," commonly called 'flying saucers.'

The speaker of the evening will be a nationally known U. F. O. researcher, investigator, lecturer and writer Mr. George D. Fawcett of 9A Warren Avenue, Woburn.

Fawcett, a member of the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena in Washington, D. C. and the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization in Tuscon, Arizona will give a lecture entitled "Flying Saucers-The U. F. O. Story," which tells of his studies over the past 15 or more years.

As president of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Two-State U. F. O. Study Group for Adults for 1962, Fawcett was able to make a first hand investigation into photographs taken of a 'flying saucer' over Burlington on May 25 and of a hovering U. F. O. with background radiation over Woburn on November 1.

"Sightings and photographs of strange flying objects are on the increase worldwide since early 1962 and New England has had more than its share in recent months," Fawcett states.

Tickets for the program, which will be open to the public will be on sale by members of the Trinity Men's Club and will also be available at the door, president Beaton announced.

The program will be held on Tuesday night, February 5 beginning at 8 p.m. at the Trinity Church Hall on Main Street in Woburn.

Schools Visit Science Museum, Weather Bureau

In a recent trip to the Boston Museum of Science, sixth grade students from the Mystic, Washington and Vinson-Owen Schools took full advantage of the opportunities to investigate and experiment in science demonstrations with their teachers.

The trip was planned to reinforce and supplement the science study program at the school in which the youngsters spend an average of two hours a week.

From space ships to dinosaur tracks no exhibit escaped thorough examination and much class discussion. The students tried to lift their own weight, estimate it on the moon, understand the workings of Telstar and put into their mental notebooks such things as the history of tools.

Hair stood on end and lightning crackled as they were introduced to "The World of Electricity," subject of the 10th annual School Visit Program at the Museum, sponsored by the Metropolitan District Commission. Ingenious demonstrations used in the lecture, prepared by the Museum's Education Department, graphically illustrated what electricity is, what it does, and the indispensable role it plays in our lives.

A boy vigorously pumping a bicycle attached to a generator translated his human energy into enough electrical energy to light a 1,000-watt bulb. A stage-length "wire" of magnified atoms showed how electrons flow from generator to electrical outlet in a split second when a switch is thrown. Static electricity was discussed with the help of a Van de Graaff electrostatic generator, capable of giving off one-quarter of a million volts. Winding up the 40 minute presentation was a dramatic electrical display that would do justice to a Fourth of July celebration.

The United States Weather Bureau was the objective of a Friday expedition to Logan Airport by another group of sixth graders at Vinson-Owen. Mrs. Susan Foley, student teacher from Tufts University, directed the trip and expressed the gratitude of the class to the Public Service Department which showed them great courtesy on their visit.

The intricate and elaborate background for the terse weather reports heard on radio and television came alive for the students as they observed weather map facsimile machines and saw how teletyped reports keep the weathermen up to the minute on conditions in other areas. The forecast maps and the many instruments used held much of the interest for the pupils.

St. Mary's in 2-2 Deadlock With Arlington

Superb goaltending by Kevin O'Connor enabled Saint Mary's of Winchester to hold St. Agnes' of Arlington to a 2-2 tie and thus taint the previously unblemished record of the division leaders.

Still burning after last week's 5-2 drubbing at the hands of East Boston, an inspired Saint Mary's team wasted little time in jumping away to a 1-0 lead on the strength of Frank Hession's rising shot from the left-wing boards. Saint Agnes' had a golden opportunity to tie up the contest when they were awarded a penalty shot as a result of a St. Mary's player throwing his stick in an attempt to thwart a scoring attempt.

As the Arlington player moved in on the Winchester goal, Connor moved out to cut down the angle and then made a larcenous stop of a shot that seemed to be labelled for the far corner.

Saint Agnes' had a slight edge in play during the middle frame, but some solid backstopping by Kevin Connor, coupled with two sliding saves by defenseman Dennis Griffin, succeeded in keeping the opposition off the scoreboard.

As the seconds ticked away in the final period, Saint Mary's clung tenaciously to its lead, but with four minutes remaining a long bomb from the blue line sizzled into the Winchester net and knotted the count one all.

St. Agnes' lapsed briefly after this goal and St. Mary's once again stepped into the driver's seat and at exactly 8:00 of the period Skip Fucillo moved in from his point position and drilled in what appeared to be the winner.

St. Agnes' was not to be denied, however, and with only 35 seconds showing on the clock an Arlington defenseman took a long slapshot which clicked off the post to Connor's right and skidded into the open portion of the cage, thus stalemating the game at 2-2.

In the remaining 35 seconds Arlington controlled the puck and had set up a possible goal which was prevented only by a sensational sliding save by Captain Dennis Griffin.

Next Saturday at 12 noon Saint Mary's faces off against Saint Catherine's of Charlestown in the initial game of a C.Y.O. League double header.

K. of C. Bowling League

The first week of the second half produced low scores on the average and a few upsets. The first half winners, the Red Sox, were taken 6-2 by the Yankees. Leading the way for the winners was Dick Fiore with a 317 total. Ernie Cantella rolled a 301 in a losing cause.

The Athletics took the measure of the White Sox. Again the score was 6-2. Pat Tofuri was high for the winners with a 289 total. Frank Rolli led the losers with 291.

The Senators, led by Jim Grant and Bunty Kimball with identical 271 totals, outlasted the Tigers, also by a 6-2 score. Ed Thompson at 296 and Tom Mullaney with 291 couldn't make up for a dummy score for the Tigers.

The Twins and Indians split 4 and 4. The Twins took a 52-pin lead in the first string and limped in to take the total by 15. Bob Fiore of the Twins with a 305 and Jim Caulfield of the Indians led their respective teams.

The Angels pulled a mild upset by splitting with the Orioles 4-4. Capt. Dick Tofuri's 302 led the way here for the Angels. Charlie Doherty's 277 and Danny Callahan's 276 led the Orioles. The surprise here was that the Orioles, who lead the league in pinfalls, were tied by a team who had a dummy.

Attendance was excellent this week, with 48 bowlers on the scene. The attendance prize was won by Bob Taylor.

PETITION FOR LOCATION

BOSTON EDISON COMPANY
General Offices, 39 Boylston Street,
Boston 12, Massachusetts

To the Metropolitan District Commission:

Respectfully represents Boston Edison Company, an electric company under Chapter 164 of the General Laws: that it proposes to construct a line for the transmission of electricity to connect its generating station in the City of Everett with its substation in the City of Woburn passing through the Charlestown district of the City of Boston, the Cities of Somerville and Medford, and the Town of Winchester, for the purpose of supplying electricity in bulk; that public convenience and necessity require locations for said line: to wit, two steel pipes with the necessary wires and cables therein, under and across the Aberjona River and a portion of the Mystic Valley Parkway in the Town of Winchester, a boulevard in the care and control of the Metropolitan District Commission substantially as shown on Plan S-4295, signed by F. M. Staszesky, dated October 31, 1962, and filed herewith.

On the 20th day of December, 1962, the Department of Public Utilities in case No. D.P.U. 14097, a copy of which is attached, on the petition of your petitioner entered an order adjudging that the above described locations were required by public convenience and necessity.

WHEREFORE, your petitioner respectfully prays that your Commission may by order grant to your petitioner a location for said steel pipes with the necessary wires and cables therein.

BOARD OF HEALTH

NOTICE OF TYPE I ORAL POLIO VACCINE CLINIC SCHEDULE AND PROGRAM

January 2, 1963

The Winchester Board of Health announces the following Type I Oral Polio Vaccine Clinic schedule and program:

PRE-SCHOOL—(three months to six years of age)
THIS CLINIC IS FOR THOSE CHILDREN WHO DID NOT RECEIVE TYPE I AT THE MAY, 1962, CLINICS HELD AT THE WINCHESTER SCHOOLS.

Place: Winchester Board of Health clinic room, Town Hall basement.

Time: Tuesday, January 22, 1963 — 1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P.M. Parental request forms must be signed by the parent or guardian at this clinic.

SCHOOL AGE—(through grade 12, except those children that have already received type I) Clinics will be held throughout the schools during the weeks of January 28 and February 4, during regular school hours.

ADULT CLINIC—(all persons not covered by the above program and with no maximum age limit)

Pre-Registration: All adults intending to take part in this program MUST be registered in advance of clinic dates. This must be done in order to assure an adequate supply of vaccine. NO ADULT will be registered on the clinic days.

Schedule of Registration: All registrations will be held in the Board of Health clinic room, Town Hall basement, as follows:

Saturday, January 12—8:00 A.M. to 12:00 Noon
Tuesday, January 15—7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M.
Thursday, January 17—7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M.
Saturday, January 19—8:00 A.M. to 12:00 Noon

Costs: In order to meet the expense of this town-wide adult program, it is necessary that a fee of 50c per clinic be charged. The sum of 50c will be paid at time of registration for type I. Notice will be given at later dates for clinics for type II and III. The 50c fee will be paid at the time of these clinics.

Clinic Dates: Saturday, January 26—8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.
Saturday, February 2—8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Place: Board of Health clinic room, Town Hall basement

The Board of Health urges all townspeople to take advantage of this opportunity for prolonged immunity against all types of Poliomyelitis. It is unlikely that this program will be repeated. PLEASE NOTE: Adults who do not pre-register cannot be accepted at any of the clinics.

Will your bank lend me money?

It costs nothing to find out. We welcome applications for low-cost loans and prefer to say "yes" to sound borrowers. PLANNING A GALA MARDI GRAS BALL FOR FEBRUARY 8 are the above members of the St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club. The ball plans to bring New Orleans right into St. Mary's hall on that Friday evening. Left to right are committee members Mrs. Oscar Baerenwald, Mrs. Samuel Reid, Mrs. Edward Sanford, Mrs. Charles Newton, Mrs. Leo Roche and Mrs. Charles Mahoney.

Mardi Gras Ball Planned Here For February

Who hasn't dreamed of joining in the festivities, the fun, the gaiety of Mardi Gras? To swing down Canal Street with the throngs, to dance to the tempo of Bourbon Street, to savor a snack at Antoines. Yes, this is the delightful way to close out the cold winter in anticipation of the Lenten season ahead with spring not far behind. And this year your dreams will come true on Friday evening, February 8, when the Mr. and Mrs. Club of St. Mary's holds its Mardi Gras Ball at St. Mary's hall with dancing from 9 to 1 a.m. to the scintillating swing of Ken Reeves' jazz.

Costumes, of course! So, scour the attic, set your imagination to work. Yours may be a prize winner. (For the glamor boys who must look like Jean LaFitte, there are always the costume shops!) Even if you are a conformist, be sure to come. Just an eye patch. Voila—you are Hathaway! The gourmets will drool at the open buffet, laden with delicacies. So, if you don't dance, come and eat.

Hard-working committees have planed to make this a pleasant evening you will long remember. Ably assisted by their spouses, the following members are working to insure you a wonderfully gay evening: Mrs. Samuel Reid, general chairman; Mrs. Leo Roche, tickets; Mrs. Oscar Baerenwald, decorations; Mrs. Charles Mahoney, refreshments; Mrs. Charles Newton and Mrs. Edward Murphy, prizes.

Remember, keep Friday evening, February 8, open, and don't forget: Grand March at 10 p.m., followed by judging of costumes, awarding of prizes and election of King and Queen. Don't forget! Come to the Mardi Gras!

Niblock to Speak At Conference

Howard Niblock, principal of Winchester High School, will speak at the 50th anniversary conference February 1 and 2 at Mount Hermon School's Schauffler Memorial Library. His topic will be "The School Administrator Looks at the Library."

The theme of the conference is "The Library of 2013 A. D." Other speakers will be Dr. Thomas C. Mendenhall, president of Smith College and William H. Cix, librarian at Princeton University.

Portrait By Mrs. Waters In Dedication

A life-size portrait of the late Mary Hartigan, painted by Mary Waters Jacobs of Winchester, was presented to the operators of the restaurant bearing her name by members of the Massachusetts Bar Association in Dedham recently.

The presentation was made by Raymond F. Barrett of Milton, former president of the Association, who also served as chairman of the six man portrait committee voting to select the local resident from among contemporary New England artists.

The portrait was accepted by Miss Hartigan's niece, Mrs. Ralph Whelan of Dedham, at a brief ceremony attended by Justice Paul C. Kirk of the Supreme Judicial Court and a number of Superior and District Court judges.

Mrs. Jacobs is well-known throughout the New England area for her work in the portrait field and holds the 1961 Mitten award for portrait excellence in the annual Jordan Marsh competition.

Hello Como, Hello Amsterdam!

The holidays in America were certainly more exciting than anticipated for two new residents of Winchester.

Anna Sant'Elia of Italy and Rob Ten Have of The Netherlands, the High School's foreign exchange students, each received a telephone call home as a gift from the student body at the school.

The Student Council's newly formed Foreign Student Committee arranged the phone calls early in December, attempting to surprise both of them with their unusual gifts. Although numerous complications made Rob's phone call impossible to keep as a surprise, Anna's was a complete success in that respect.

A letter written by the committee and graciously translated into Italian by Mr. Anastas, one of the High School's new English teachers, was sent to Anna's family to insure that they would be home to receive the call.

At noon on the day before Christmas the phone rang at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lemay of 10 South Gateway where Anna resides with one of her classmates, Kay Lemay. Anna's friends, visiting her at the time, could not describe Anna's surprise and delight when, after being hurried to the phone, she heard her mother and sister along with many relatives gathered at her home in Como.

Rob also made his telephone call home on Monday from his Winchester home with the Archibald family of 5 Penn Road. Both reported that it was wonderful to talk with their families.

The Student Council was glad to be able to do this for Anna and Rob and hopes that all the townspeople, in and out of the High School, will make a point to meet both students and find how fortunate we are to have them with us.

Aldrich A Chairman Of Heart Fund Drive

The appointment of Nelson W. Aldrich, distinguished architect and cultural leader, as special gifts chairman for the 1963 Massachusetts Heart Fund was announced today by Jerome Rosenfeld, state general chairman.

As special gifts chairman, Aldrich will direct a concentrated statewide drive to encourage greater Heart Fund support from among those individuals and organizations willing to make a substantial contribution.

A partner in the Boston architectural firm of Campbell and Aldrich, he has been responsible for design of many of the outstanding structures in eastern scholastic and governmental building programs. He is consulting architect to Radcliffe and Dartmouth Colleges and Bradford Junior College, and participated in the design of the projected Boston City Hall.

Aldrich is a co-founder and board chairman of the Boston Arts Festival and president of the Metropolitan Boston Arts Center and, in these and other capacities, has made a major contribution to Boston's cultural life.

He has been chairman of the Boston Art Commission since 1954 and has served as president of the Institute of Contemporary Art.

He is a trustee of Radcliffe College, the Garland School, the Museum of Fine Arts, and the Rhode Island School of Design; a member of the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges; a director of the Harvard Alumni Association; and an incorporator of Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals and the Roxbury Institution for Savings.

He holds honorary degrees from Tufts University and Emerson College. Married and the father of four children, he lives at Peach's Point, Marblehead.

Accepting the appointment, he declared:

"It is a privilege as well as a responsibility to help serve the vital cause of human life and health through the Massachusetts Heart Association. I am confident that the people of our Commonwealth will participate generously and on a wide scale in the effort to conquer our Number One health problem."

The campaign will be conducted through February and will be climaxed on Heart Sunday, February 24, with a statewide, house-to-house canvass.

Friendship Guild

The Friendship Guild of First Congregational Church will have the members of Fireside Guild as their guests this month, and as always all interested women are very welcome to attend.

The meeting will be held in Chidley Hall on Tuesday evening, January 22, at 7:45 and the speaker will be Mrs. Walter Dobler, a member of the Massachusetts Conference Fellowship Committee for Family Life.

Mrs. Dobler's subject will be "Christian Family Living," a topic which will certainly involve each person listening and lead to questions and discussion afterward.

There will be refreshments served at the end of the meeting so that guests may have a chance to meet each other.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Winton Club Cabaret "Follow The Fun" Is On Next Weekend

How far to fun? Which way to fun? Winchester residents have only to travel to their own Town Hall on the evenings of January 30, 31, and February 1, and 2, to the annual Winton Club Cabaret "Follow The Fun".

News has leaked out that this cabaret will give one the idea of what it is like to be at a winter carnival: skaters skimming over the ice, skiers shooshing down the hills, and a beautiful coronation ceremony for the Queen of Moosehead College. The apres ski scenes at the fraternity houses with good singing and dancing will delight even the least non-athletic person in the audience.

Rain, icy roads — with hazardous driving—failed to daunt the many hardy souls who appeared Sunday evening at the tryout party for the many dancing and singing parts in the show. Jud Davis of Cargill Associates of New York, with great patience and pride, will whip the show together in three short weeks. Sharing Jud's pride in the cast is Winton Club's smiling, efficient chairman, Mrs. Malcolm Burr.

Rehearsals are in full swing! Every morning at 9:00 a.m. sixteen Winton Club members of the traditional drill team step off smartly to execute many intricate patterns. They no sooner march off the floor than the "curlers" sweep their way front and center. Evening rehearsals are a beehive of activity. Dance routines are learned as various committee members filter in and out of rehearsals—each with a job to do to insure the success of the Cabaret.

All this on stage, but a quick peek behind scenes revealed this interesting fact. A beautifully designed eight-panel revolving set was executed by two presidents, a vice-president and one surgeon—namely; Malcolm Burr, John Lyman, Hank Porter, and Warren Taylor. Mrs. John Lyman and her artistic elves are busily at work painting northern snow scenes for sets.

No Winton Club show would be complete without mention of the attractive costumes made especially for Winton Club by Mrs. Percival B. Metcalf. "Ruthie," as she is known to the girls, is trying a change of pace this year and instead of the usual drill costumes, she is designing Tyrolean costumes for another number. We are eagerly looking forward to seeing these completed artistic costumes.

Reservations for this gala event have been steadily flowing in and the "sold out" sign (except for balcony seats) is posted for Friday and Saturday nights! There are still some remaining for the Wednesday night Dress Rehearsal and the Thursday Theatre Night. Remember, all seats are reserved.

Hit-Run Drivers; Stolen & Looted Cars Busy Police

An Everett man is scheduled to appear in Woburn District Court, Criminal Sessions, on Wednesday, January 30, in connection with charges of leaving the scene after causing property damage in an auto accident on Main Street on January 14.

Winchester police said a truck had collided with a car, owned by Arthur Oliver of 24 Hinds Road, while it was parked beside the Winchester Theater.

The driver of the truck left the scene of the accident without stopping. Damage to Mr. Oliver's car was estimated at $666.

Prompt police investigation through the registry the following day traced the alleged vehicle to a Henry J. McCarthy, Sr. of 24 Dean Street in Everett. Police said Mr. McCarthy's truck was damaged along the entire right side, the door was ripped open and badly dented, and there were traces of blue paint on the dark green color of the suburban type Chevrolet truck.

Mr. McCarthy told police he had gone to the Atlantic Gelatine Company in Woburn to check on workmen on that day. He told police he lost control of the truck and struck a cement post. He said he struck his head in the accident and didn't remember anything until the next day. He did not report the incident to any police department, he told police.

Post Office Plans A Mail Section Center Located In Woburn

Plans to acquire a new Woburn-Winchester Sectional Post Office Center in Massachusetts have been announced by Postmaster General J. Edward Day.

"The new building," Mr. Day said, "is designed to carry out the Post Office Department's objective of providing newly constructed postal units where they are most urgently needed in the interest of more efficient postal service and improved working conditions for postal employees.

"The emphasis in our lease construction program will continue to be on adequate space for postal operations, not only for current needs but for the foreseeable future," Mr. Day said.

Winchester Postmaster Thomas Gilgun said yesterday that plans for a new building had been discussed for two or three years, and he is happy that definite plans for the new service are on the road.

"When I first came to this job in 1948 there were around 15,000 persons in town," Postmaster Gilgun said. "Now it is closer to 21,000, and although we have a fine office here in an ideal spot, there is no place for us to expand the building," he said.

"Next week the temporary procedure for handling incoming parcel post...which have been in effect for over two years...will be moved from Shore Road up to the Bruno Building on Main Street," Mr. Gilgun said. All incoming parcels will be received and dispatched around town from this new location.

"The department's policy is to use existing buildings where they can be suitably altered or remodeled to meet the needs of the ever-increasing volume of mail. As circumstances dictate, we will also consider moving our postal operations into more spacious quarters if they are available," Mr. Day said.

"Where neither of these conditions is feasible we will authorize the construction of new postal units, such as the sectional center at Woburn," he added.

"The construction program is being concentrated in those areas where the need is urgent and suitable space cannot be obtained

Winchester Star Wins Six Awards In 1962 N. E. Weekly Press Contest

The Winchester Star received six awards at the annual Awards Banquet of the New England Weekly Press Association on Saturday night, January 19, at the Hotel Statler in Boston.

The Winchester Star won a 1962 General Excellence Award, second place, in the highest circulation division (weekly newspapers of over 5,000 circulation). The Hamden Chronicle of Connecticut won first place for the third consecutive year.

The Star won an honorable mention for its editorial page, judged on a weekly basis throughout the year.

The Star won first place for the Best Editorial Award for "The Voices of Hate and Fear," for the Best Feature Story Award for "Your Senate Candidates," for the Best News Story Award for "Controversy on Tufts Road," and for the Community Service Award, also on the "Controversy on Tufts Road."

Judging the contest entries from all the weekly newspapers in the six New England states were the Nieman Fellows of Harvard University, the staff of Boston University's graduate school Division of Journalism, and Brooks W. Hamilton of the University of Maine Department of Journalism.

The awards were received on behalf of the Star by Richard A. Hakanson of 4 Kenilworth Road, publisher of the Star. Also attending the fourteenth annual winter conference of the New England Weekly Press Association was David C. McLean, the new editor of the Star.

It was the third N. E. W. P. A. convention at which the Winchester Star was entered as a contestant and at which it was honored. In 1961 the Star won a Community Service Award, a Best Feature Story Award, and a special editorial page citation. In 1960 it won first prize for its editorial page and second prize for General Excellence.

League Sponsors Int'n'l Relations School Wednesday

The 1963 School of International Relations - the 41st sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts - presents "Canada in a World Context" at Kresge Auditorium (M. I. T.), Wednesday, January 30, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Because of the public interest in the "emerging nations," "underdeveloped countries," Soviet blocs, "belligerent neutrals" and the dramatically recurring crises that these terms bring to mind, one of our stanchest political allies and northern bulwark has been neglected in favor of these critical flamboyant developments. It is now time to take a more penetrating look at our strong quiet neighbor to the north in relation to the shift in balance of power and the restlessly expanding world economy.

The Massachusetts League of Women Voters has invited a group of experts to discuss that neighbor, Canada, and her relationship to the United States in a total, global economy.

Following a welcome by Mr. Stuart D. Hemsley, Canadian Consul General, Mr. George V. Ferguson, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Star will discuss "Canadian Political Attitudes." Mr. Ferguson was graduated from the University of Alberta, and was subsequently a Rhodes Scholar. He worked briefly on the London Times, the Winnipeg Free Press, and in 1946 became editor of the Montreal Star. In 1947-48 he was Canadian representative on a United Nations' sub-committee on freedom of information, and has appeared as political commentator and panelist on radio and television.

Following Mr. Ferguson's presentation, Mr. William Diebold, Jr. will speak on "Canada in a World Economy." Mr. Diebold is presently research consultant, Council on

Town Meeting Warrant Lists 64 Articles, 2 Referendum Votes; 28th Is Nomination Deadline

The Board of Selectmen received and approved articles for the Annual Town Meeting Warrant on Monday night. The articles were presented by Vincent Clarke, town counsel, who had been going over the legal wording in the construction of the articles since the closing of the warrant on January 7. The selectmen sent a copy of the approved articles to the Finance Committee for the committee to review and consider recommendations, and to attach price tags onto the articles requiring town monies.

The 64 articles in the warrant were inserted by the selectmen, town officials and boards, and by groups of ten or more interested citizens who signed warrant petitions on particular items.

Incorporated within the warrant are articles representing acquisitions by the town through purchase or eminent domain ten privately owned properties for municipal conservation and school purposes; three amending changes to the town's zoning by-laws; the acceptance by the town of three private ways and one section of a state highway; renovations of the Town Hall and the Washington School, an addition to the Noonan School, and the construction of a new fire station and a memorial town honor roll; the altering of the shape of the Winchester-Lexington boundary line; to rearrange the existing separation of power set-up between the Personnel Board and the Finance Committee by stipulating that one man be a member of both boards; changes in the Personnel Board's wage and salary policy guide; the creation of a Stabilization Fund, a Board of Public Works, and an Advisory Home Rule Committee; the establishment of a building committee for all municipal construction and renovation, a school building study committee, and a building committee for the Noonan School; appropriations for Chapter 90 state-county-town highway maintenance; an increase in policemen's pay, and in effect, the same for firemen if their work week is reduced without a cut in pay; and the transfer of the care and control of land owned by two town departments to the selectmen.

Aside from the regular departmental budgets, which have not been made public yet, and the 64 articles—two more than last year's warrant contained, the Town Meeting will elect 20 town officials and vote on two referendum issues.

Town Election candidates are reminded that nomination papers for town officers and town meeting members of the six precincts must be submitted to the Board of Registrars of Voters in the Town Hall before 5 p.m. on Monday, January 28.

The following Monday, February 4, is the last day for filing with the Town Clerk of nomination papers certified by the Registrars of Voters.

Tuesday, February 5, is the last day for candidates who wish to withdraw submitted nomination papers.

Chadwick's Bill For Comptroller To Have Hearing

House Bill 1130, an act which would establish the office of comptroller in the town of Winchester, will be heard in a public hearing before the Committee on Towns in Room 433 at the State House on Tuesday morning, January 29, at 10:30.

The bill, if passed by the Legislature, would abolish the post of Town Accountant in Winchester and create the post of Town Comptroller, as authorized by the Town Meeting on March 29, 1962.

A Comptroller would be appointed by the elected five-man Board of Selectmen, would be directly responsible to them, and would have absolutely no independent policy making power. He would be removable from office by the selectmen upon evidence of cause.

The Comptroller would act as the chief accounting officer for the town, and it would be his principal duty to assure the most efficient use of personnel and material in the administration of the town government and to maximize the efficiency of the accounting procedures in the town.

Winchester Rinks Win 2 Of 3 Trophies At Curling Bonspiel

Two out of three Winchester Rinks won first places in the invitation mixed Bonspiel last weekend at the Winchester Country Club, keeping two of the three trophy events in the hands of the host club.

Competition in the four day event was keen among the 24 rinks which brought curlers to Winchester from Canada, Connecticut, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont as well as across the State. (BONSPIEL, continued on page 5)

25% of Town's Adults Register For Polio Clinic

Approximately 25 per cent of the town's adult population took advantage of the special town-wide polio clinic registration last week as 2,500 signed up for the prolonged immunization vaccine to be given on Saturday, January 26, and Saturday, February 2, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Registrations gained momentum as the four registration dates moved along. On Saturday, January 12, about 300 signed for the clinic. On both Tuesday and Thursday evenings about 400 persons appeared at the Board of Health clinic room. And last Saturday approximately 900 signed up. In addition, some 350 more have registered during the regular Board of Health work-hours.

On Tuesday morning the one-day registration and actual clinc held this week for pre-school children, age 3 months to school age, about 140 names were added to the 2,600 children in this bracket who were registered and immunized last May.

The Board of Health has issued a notice that parents whose children were unable to attend on Tuesday may receive their initial dose of the vaccine on the first day of the adult clinic, Saturday, January 26.

Mrs. Elizabeth T. Mitchell

Mrs. Elizabeth T. Mitchell of 13 Winchester Place, wife of the veteran Winchester barber, Frederick S. Mitchell, died Saturday night, January 19, suddenly at her home. Her death was wholly unexpected although she had been for some time in failing health.

Mrs. Mitchell was the daughter of Frank Luke. She was born March 5, 1893, in Halifax, N. S., but came to this country as a child of six and for the past 53 years she had been a resident of Winchester.

Her husband was prominent in Legion affairs and she had been twice past president of the Auxiliary to Post 97, the American Legion. She was also active in the Victoria Rebekah Lodge and was a member of the Winchester Grange. She took a great interest in wild life in the district and often called the Star when she observed some rare bird or unusual animal.

Besides her husband she leaves two nephews, whom she had raised from young boys, John S. Mitchell of Medford and David Mitchell in the service, stationed at Fort Benning, Ga.; a brother, Frederick Luke of East Boston and two nieces, Mrs. Valerie Croccetti of Stoughton and Mrs. Olive McGovern of Brockton.

The funeral was from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home with services at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church at 2 o'clock on Wednesday. The pastor, Rev. H. Newton Clay, officiated. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Norman Ash

Norman H. Ash, 55, a retired regional field director of the Veterans Canteen Service, died Sunday, January 13, at his home, 7201 Brennon Lane, Chevy Chase, Md., after a long illness.

Mr. Ash was the son of the late Horace W., and Dorothy L. Ash. He was born in Winchester and grew up in town, attending the Winchester schools and graduating from Winchester High School in the class of 1924.

He was graduated from University of Pennsylvania in 1928 and thereafter spent two years with a highway construction firm in Cuba. During World War II, in 1942 he went to Officer Candidate School at Fort Belvoir and was commissioned in the Army corps of engineers.

Mr. Ash served in the European Theatre and participated in the planning for the Normandy invasion.

After his discharge with the rank of major Mr. Ash took the Veterans' Canteen Service post, in which he administered the operation of exchange stores in Veterans Administration hospitals in eight states and the District of Columbia. He retired as regional field director in 1960. He was a member of All Saints Church in Chevy Chase.

Mr. Ash leaves his wife, Katharine; a daughter, Mrs. Charles P. Duvall of Bradford, Conn.,; two grandchildren; a brother, Dr. Donald W. Ash of Oakland, California; and a sister, Mrs. Richard K. Caldwell of Center Harbor, N. H.

Services were held at 11 o'clock Wednesday forenoon in the chapel at Fort Meyer, Va. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Edith Johnson Hersey

Mrs. Edith Johnson Hersey of 147 Highland Avenue, widow of J. Albert Hersey, for many years in the hardware business in Winchester, died early Wednesday morning January 23, at the Winchester Hospital after several months illness.

Mrs. Hersey was the daughter of Charles H. and Martha Ellen (Junkins) Johnson. She was born October 14, 1878, in the Charlestown section of Boston and was educated in the Boston schools and at Bryant & Stratton Commercial College

She worked for Nason & Proctor Boston attorneys from 1895 to 1933, and then for Arthur Coolidge also an attorney, from 1943 to 1955. She came to Winchester in 1911, was a member of Purity Rebekah Lodge No. 94, and was active in the First Baptist Church for many years.

Mrs. Hersey's husband died February 10, 1932, and her only survivor is a nephew, Charles Johnson of Longmeadow.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon, January 25, at the Norris Chapel with the Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Wheelock College Alumnae to Meet

The mid-winter meeting of the Longview Club of the Wheelock College Alumnae Association will be held at the home of Mrs. George K. Bramley of 12 Canterbury Road on Thursday afternoon, January 31 at 2:30.

Members are asked to bring an article or item of food for the silent auction which is included on the program.

Floyd E. Lever

Floyd E. Lever of 23 Franklin Road, president and treasurer of the Artlee Hardware and Supply, Inc., of Woburn, died suddenly Thursday, January 17. He had worked as usual during the day and his passing was a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Lever was the son of the late Floyd E., and Mary (McCaughin) Lever of Milton. He was born August 12, 1912, in Dorchester and shortly afterwards moved to Milton, where he graduated from Milton High School in 1930. He later graduated from Bentley College of Accounting and Finance.

He was employed by the Modene Paint corporation as purchasing agent and later became a director and assistant treasurer of the corporation.

He then joined the Carpenter-Morton Company as trade sales manager and later became director and vice-president of the company and also of the Hilo Varnish Corporation of New York.

In 1958 he resigned his position to devote his full time as president and treasurer of Artlee Hardware and Supply Inc. of Woburn.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church, the Woburn Royal Arch Chapter, the Beauseant Commandery, William Parkman Lodge, Aleppo Temple, the Elks, and was a former member of the Woburn Rotary.

He was a past president of the New England Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association and a member of the executive committee; also a member of the New England Paint Salesman's Club.

On February 24, 1940, he married Jean E. Shallise of West Somerville and they moved to Winchester in 1941. Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Gail J. and a son, Floyd B., a senior in High School; a sister, Mrs. William DeLong, and a brother, William Lever both of Milton. Services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Gaffey Funeral Home in Medford with Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

John J. Sullivan

John J. Sullivan of 41 Holland Street, a life-long resident of Winchester and for many years a plumber, died Sunday morning, January 20, at the Massachusetts General Hospital after a short illness at the age of 75.

Mr. Sullivan was the son of Timothy, and Mary (Leary) Sullivan. He was born March 1, 1888, in Winchester and grew up in town, spending his entire life in Winchester.

As a young man he worked as a plumber for P. T. Foley, and later for H. H. McKinley and was well known to many in town. More recently he had worked for his son, John H. Sullivan at the Stoneham Welding Company.

He was a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society and a former member of Winchester Council, 210 Knights of Columbus.

Besides his son in Stoneham he leaves his wife, the former May A. Harrold; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Feeney, associated with her husband in the florist business in Lowell; four sons, Joseph B., of Woburn; Comdr. Richard F., of Woburn Post, American Legion; Officer Timothy P., of Woburn Police Department and James C. Sullivan of Winchester; 24 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. Another son, Charles Sullivan is deceased; also a brother, James Sullivan of Medford and a sister, Mrs. Grace Stowers of Everett.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 8:15 from the Lane Funeral Home with Requiem High Mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Allison Promoted

Mr. Richard C. Allison of 42 Water Street has been notified of his promotion by the F. W. Woolworth Company to the position of store manager of the new Woolworth store in the Fresh Pond Shopping Center in Cambridge, which is to open in the spring.

Mr. Allison has been for 14 years with the Woolworth Company and is presently manager of the Woolworth store in the Fellsway Plaza Shopping Center in Medford.

"A Shade Of Difference" Is Reviewed For Local DAR

Mrs. Charles O. Nichols, regent, was hostess at her home on Jefferson Road last Monday January 21, for the monthly meeting of the committee of safety chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Conrad Benson, regent of the Rumford chapter, Concord, N. H., was graciously welcomed as guest of the afternoon.

Following a social hour with dessert and coffee served by Mrs. Michael MacDonald, Mrs. Raymond Terhune, and Mrs. Harold Twombly, Mrs. Nichols called the business meeting to order. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Herbert Darling. Mrs. William C. Cusack reported on the State Board meeting held last Friday at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel in Boston, and Mrs. Carlton Strong read an interesting message from the president general of the National Society as well as several articles of interest from the D. A. R. magazine.

It was announced that the 72nd Continental Congress will be held in Washington, D. C. the third week in April. Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Cusack will attend as delegates and chapter members elected Mrs. Francis Carlson, Mrs. Herbert Darling, Mrs. Michael MacDonald and Mrs. Clifford Sundberg as alternate delegates.

Mrs. Nichols then turned the meeting over to Mrs. William W. Goodhue who presented a most enjoyable and timely program. As chapter chairman of the National Defense committee, she described the policies of the National committee in regard to the Youth Federalist Movement, the National Guard and freedom of the press. Then turning to a lighter vein she gave a colorful review of Allen Drury's newest book "A Shade of Difference," which, although only recently published has given every indication of becoming as popular a best-seller as his previous book "Advise and Consent." Although it is a work of fiction the characters and situations appear well within the realm of possibility. Mrs. Goodhue's excellent review made it seem an entertaining and thought-provoking book and one everyone would enjoy.

An error was made in a recent published report on the Massachusetts fall state convention of D. A. R. in which it was stated that the delegation had adopted a reolution "to support" the United Nations Children's fund program. The correct wording as it appears in the actual resolution is "to study and analyze" the program.

Dallin—DeMarco

At the home of her parents on the evening of Friday, January 18, Miss Joan Jodrey De Marco, daughter of Mrs. Frank DeMarco of Gloucester and the late Mr. De Marco, became the bride of Crombie Sawyer Dallin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dallin of Chatham, formerly of Winchester. The Reverend Forrest G. Clark of the Riverdale Methodist Church officiated at the ceremony.

MRS. CROMBIE S. DALLIN

The bride was gowned in an imported Italian custom suit of bone color with gold accessories. She was given in marriage by her grandfather, Everett R. Jodrey.

Mrs. Harry Cutts, of Wellesley Hills, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor at the ceremony. She was gowned in an emerald green silk sheath, with matching accessories. Mr. Cutts served as best man for Mr. Dallin.

Mrs. DeMarco wore a turquoise peau de soie custom suit with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Dallin was gowned in beige lace over green peau de soie with green accessories.

The bride was graduated, Phi Theta Kappa, from Colby Jr. College in New London, N. H. and was formerly employed by the Cryovac division of W. R. Grace and Company in Cambridge, and also in Duncan, S. C. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett R. Jodrey of Gloucester and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeMarco also of Gloucester.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Hebron Academy and Tufts College and is presently employed as an Instrumentation Engineer at the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corporation. He is also a member of the Thames Valley Flying Club. He is a grandson of the late sculptor Cyrus E. Dallin and Mrs. Dallin of Arlington, and of Mrs. Ralph U. Sawyer of Winchester and the late Mr. Sawyer.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dallin will be residing at 191 Brandegee Avenue, Groton, Conn.

Lt. Murphy was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point last June, and went on to Fort Sill after his graduation.

Senior Forum To Hold Class Night

The Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church will hold a Class Night this Sunday beginning at 6:00 p.m. in Chidley Hall. A discussion play will be presented, book-in-hand style, and then the classes will meet separately for conversations about the issues raised in the play. This type of meeting affords opportunity for good discussion under the leadership of the class representatives and advisers. They are, for the seniors Margie Purvis and Dean Ericson with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Millican; for the juniors Elizabeth Jackson and Dan Brink with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keppler; for the sophomores Sally Worthen and Russ Osgood with Mr. and Mrs. Jenness Eugley. Following the discussion period there will be refreshments in Chidley Fireside.

At the 11:00 o'clock service Sunday morning the following will assist in the Forum at Church service: Dave Bird as chaplain; Reed Lowry, Bruce Carpenter, Bill McConnell, Bill Keeton, Vic Lawson and Jeff Russell as deacons; Larry Archibald, Steve Emery, Bruce Hamilton, Al Kimball, Pete Sewall, Rick Stockwell as ushers. The Forum Choir will sing. Dr. Cart's sermon will be on the subject, "What Is Happening to Morality?"

A meeting of the Advisory Council will be held on Wednesday, January 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Forum superintendents. The balance of the Forum year's activities will be discussed.

Families of Forum members are signing up as hosts for International Weekend which comes February 9-10. Arrangements are being completed by Janet Niles and Scott Erskine with Mr. and Mrs. H. Kimball Archibald as advisers.

First Baptist Family Night

The First Baptist Church will have as their guest speaker Dr. Dwight Smith, general secretary of the John Milton Society which provides a variety of religious publications in braille and talking book forms without charge to blind readers in all 59 States, most of the Provinces of Canada, and some seventy-five lands around the world. Dr. Smith is a graduate of Yale Divinity School where he received his B. D. in 1927 and his Ph. D. in 1936 from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

For the Junior High and Senior High Departments the guest speaker will be Lt. John Elliott of the Winchester Police Department who will speak to the young people of the disrupting forces which effect young people today in relation to authority, responsibility, and discipline and the church's responsibility to this problem. The discussion will open with a film, "What is Juvenile Delinquency?"

The children in the Primary Department will view the filmstrip, "Eyes for Ears" which will be shared by the John Milton Society. This is the last in the series of mission study developed by the church concerning "Persons in Special Need."

The program will begin at 5:00 with a hymn sing, led by Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell followed by a buffet supper and study from 6:00 - 7:00 p.m. All members and friends of First Baptist are urged to attend this experience of fellowship for the family.

A Special Occasion

A BEAUTIFUL ANNIVERSARY CAKE was only part of the 50th anniversary celebration last week for Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gillotte of 12 Cedar Street.

Dominic Gillottes Celebrate Their 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gillotte who have lived at number 12 Cedar Street ever since their wedding day 50 years ago last week, had a very special celebration of the day.

Parents of four children, three of whom live in Winchester, and of 12 grandchildren, the Gillotte family gathered at Polcari's Restaurant in Boston for the occasion, and then repaired to their home for a late buffet supper.

Giving the event a very particular flair was the fact that the wedding gown worn by Mrs. Gillotte at her Haverhill wedding in 1913 was modelled for the evening by her granddaughter, Pauline Puma. Also the extra special cake was made by her daughter, Mrs. Salvatore Puma.

The party, which was enlivened by many cards, gifts and good wishes from friends and relatives, was attended also by Mr. Cortese, brother of Mrs. Gillotte, Mrs. Cortese, and daughter Kay.

The four Gillotte children who attended are Mrs. Anthony Manie of Woburn and Mrs. Puma, Mrs. Frank Ehrgott and Mr. Anthony Gillotte, all of Winchester. Another son, Michael was killed in World War II.

Youth Hockey Week U. S. A.

Editorials:

For Whom The Bell Tolls . . . It Also Tolls For The Brother's Keeper

Undoubtedly yesterday you heard a bell chime. Was it any the less significant because it was a chime on an impersonal radio or television set announcing the hour,-and time for the local, national and international news to be broadcast? Or did the message that a courageous man had failed in his valiant and honorable attempt to make right an existing social injustice pass through your ears like so much inconsequential wind?

On Tuesday, James Meredith packed his bags, filled up his beaten car, stepped quietly into it, and drove not so quietly away from the University of Mississippi campus. He was followed "out of town" by about 30 horn-tooting cars containing jeering and catcalling southern plebians.

Meredith said he would not indicate whether he would return for the second semester until after the mid-year recess, but clearly he had no intention of going back "for more learning." Obviously, he had "learned" all he thought he could take.

Specifically, Meredith learned first hand that even in a democracy when one is a member of a minority or a suppressed group, education can be merely the process of driving a set of prejudices down your throat.

Meredith arrived on the university campus full of ideas and ideals. Primarily motivated by a determination to rebel against an established social arrangement - that Negroes just don't go to all-white southern universities - he found that no man serving as an island could possibly hope to effect real changes in the main continent. At least the lone island would not be able to directly affect the main without employing the separating streams to its advantage in some way. But "the atmosphere" was not very conducive to bridging, as Meredith found out, due to the intensified nature of the social situation and pressures under the regional and national spotlights.

Under the American principles of the Declaration of Independence, Meredith was justified in seeking to further educate himself and advance his intellectual learning. If it was necessary for him to ram the bulwarks of a stinking social injustice to get that education he wanted and had a right to pursue, then he was only exercising his right by natural law to rebel against the existing "authority," or old order which should have changed long before these centennial years of the fighting of the Civil War. And that "authortiy" continually forfeits its claim to obedience every time it violates the principles upon which the nation is founded. As Thomas Jefferson put it, we should "swear eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

Meredith's idea to bring the American ideals of freedom and the inalienable right and dignity of man to pursue lawful happinesses and goals a little closer to being a reality for him and his people failed. But he did not fail entirely. He is to be admired, honored and respected for the valiant attempt he made to exercise his right. Others will take example and take his place. And ultimately this problem, like many others in the long history of intersocial living, will be overcome and equitably resolved, when man learns to live under the laws which he makes. In the meantime, the bells will continue to count off the passage of time and incidents like this one - affecting a few directly, but everyone in some way, for we are all our brother's keeper.

When one is being educated one is taught what is right and what is wrong. It is very easy then, because parents and teachers, churches, and the laws of the land clearly dictate the proper thing to do. However, mature living teaches that without the overseeing guardian, where the standards and principles are not decided by someone else and only to be followed but must be individually encountered, there are in fact many areas which are often referred to as "grey spots."

There are no ready-made guides to policy or action furnished for the "grey spots," and for that reason men are not too harshly judged for their decisions or activities within the "grey areas" of life. However, the original standards and principles that are learned should in some measure point out the better course to follow—for want of a better description the inclination could be called a sense of taste in the judgment exercised.

In the present dash of local aspirants to acquire a long list of names for nomination papers it might seem understandable that the most expeditious method for obtaining the greatest quantity of names would appear all right. And certainly there is nothing illegal or morally wrong in having nominees leave their nomination papers in the Town Hall offices to be signed.

On the other hand, there are those nominees who are earnest in their desires and efforts to get persons to support their candidacy and who "go out and get the signatures," either through their own labor or through the agency of a friend.

In these days of unfortunate widespread apathy and complacency in getting worth-while candidates to run for the almost thankless jobs of public offic, it is probably a mistake to criticize some of the methods used by those who care at least enough to run for a public service office. However, in looking at the above two situations—where one candidate merely leaves his papers in the Town Hall offices to be signed by anyone who passes through the door just because he happens to be there, and the other who thinks seriously enough about the job in the beginning not only to take out papers but also to put some hard work into getting the qualifying signatures—one cannot help but feel that it is the latter candidate who has exercised the better judgment as far as taste is concerned in managing his affairs, and therefore, by this indication or example, probably is the candidate who would most successfully manage the affairs of the town in good taste and with personal application to the duties of the office.

A System Of Mass Public Transportation . . . Is It A Necessity?

Winchester is participating in a very unusual and exciting experiment. The nature of this experiment conducted by the Mass Transportation Commission is to discover mainly if a system of mass public transportation for Greater Boston is feasible as an efficiently coordinated going operation. Secondarily, but no less important, the design of the experiment is to test the actual public response and uses in having such a system around.

Without either one of the experimental designs, the other would be meaningless. What the commission is attempting to do is prove through a full year of research and testing that such a huge and costly system of mass transportation is not only a possible solution to the commuter problem and the traffic problem in the metropolis of Boston itself, but also it is seeking to contribute to the "new and better Boston" by showing what a complete and adequate mass transportation system could mean to the developing city.

Many interested persons in the towns affected by the new train and bus services are looking to the future—next year when the experiment will be discontinued.

Many towns have committees of either individually initiated or appointed groups who are studying the affects of the increased transportation service in their towns and who are analyzing the possible ramifications.

The following towns in the Greater Boston area have already established committees to study the experiment: Concord, Lexington, Wakefield, Wellesley, Reading, Framingham, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Natick, Norwood, Saugus, Quincy and Whitman.

A spokesman for the Mass Transportation Committee said that a number of Winchester residents have expressed to the commission an interest in studying the experiment as it affected Winchester, including John Sexton, selectman, Joseph Gray, chairman of the planning board, and Joseph Derro, police chief.

The Star would recommend that everyone interested in serving on a committee to study the affects of the MTC experiment and its ramifications in Winchester should notify the Board of Selectmen and submit their names as volunteers for such a project.

Bogey Of The Best Seller List

By Katrine C. Laban, Winchester Public Library

A list of best selling books should be a record of what people want to read. There is a waiting list in lending and public libraries giving all the titles. In fact, the list seems to be a status symbol of what people think they ought to read—but by what criterion?

In essence, a book should be read either for pleasure or profit, if not for both. Do you know of anyone who got either or both from Katherine Anne Porter's Ship of Fools? This book headed the best-seller lists for months, but I have yet to hear anyone say he "liked" it. The same holds true for Tropic of Cancer. If you read it - to prove you would not be dictated to by censors, if for no other reason - would you return to it for emotional, spiritual or esthetic food on a rainy Sunday?

Both books seem to hold a message in craftsmanship for writers and critics, but does the weekend yachtsman speak the same language as the boat builder? The best seller list appears to be controlled by book critics and publicity agents with the advantage to the latter. Time and time again in libraries we hear the plaintive cry from patrons with "best sellers" under their arms, "Hasn't anything 'good' been written lately?"

Good books have been and are being written, and responsible critics are reviewing and recommending them, but some alchemy all too often prevents them from making the grade as "best sellers." This is so true that some discriminating readers refuse to bother with any book that has made "the list."

Apparently an author's name, based on previous popularity, and controversial subject matter are potent factors today in "selling" a book. This need not be so. Do you realize that YOU, as a reader, are your own best guide to reading? Why read books that bore, offend or humiliate you? Others may get a message from a book which leaves you cold, but that is no discredit to you. Any book may have diametrically opposing reviews from equally qualified critics.

A library which buys books on the strength of not one but many reviews is generally hard put to it to decide on the purchase of other than run-of-the-mill books because of divergent opinions. But where a library may feel obliged to buy a book because of reader demand (after all, it does offer a public service) it does not recommend any book by the mere fact of having it available. YOU need not read any book you do not like - and please don't! There'll be another one around you will like.

The most enjoyable books of 1962, in my opinion, never made any best selling lists, though they were praised by individual critics and mentioned as "best reading." Foremost of these is George - an early autobiography by Emlyn Williams. This book is superbly written - compelling, fascinating and fantastic - and it leaves a nice taste in your mouth.

Then there is Prince Reynold's A Long and Happy Life. Why it never achieved the popularity of To Kill a Mocking Bird to which it has been compared, I cannot imagine. Again we have the South of simple people faced with the usual problems of living - all so well done that you are there. And Niccolo Tucci's Before My Time with his impossible Russian grandmother riding roughshod over Europe and her family should interest both those who remember the turn of the century and those who just like interesting people.

There are many others - well-written and worthwhile. If you take the time, you are certain to find satisfying fare.

The League Presents Our Lawmakers

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS WAS HOST to State Senator Philibert Pellegrini of Arlington and Representative Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue. Some 70 interested citizens heard the lawmakers define their own jobs as they relate to their constituents and discuss some of the bills which will be going through their hands at the State House. Left to right, Mrs. Leonard Mead, chairman of the League legislative committee; Mr. Pellegrini; Mr. Chadwick; Mrs. Ernest Dieterich, League president; and Mrs. O. Petition Is Filed To Delay Conflict Of Interest Law

The somewhat expected move to throw a monkey wrench into the new conflicts of interest law scheduled to go into effect May 1 became a reality on Monday.

Rep. Cornelius J. Murray (R) of Beverly is attempting to file legislation to postpone the effective date of the act until January 1, 1965.

The petitioner is the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association.

Object: to allow more time to study the ramifications of the law which the selectmen's group contends, as do others, is "hopelessly confused."

The House of Representatives was to refer the question of admitting the bill to the Rules Committee last Tuesday, January 22.

The sponsoring group feels the House leadership will be "most cooperative."

The new law, regarded as a confusing statute by many Beacon Hill organizations and legislators, has been the subject of much speculation during recent weeks. Communities' interpretations have varied.

According to the selectmen's association many town officials are doubting whether or not they can run for local office in elections during February, March and April.

The City Solicitors and Town Counsels' Association appointed a study committee to probe the law's ramifications on January 16.

The bill, if admitted, would test the sentiment of the 1963 Legislature in the conflicts area. A sizable group of legislators feel the new law was enacted in a "fit of righteous hysteria."

Rep. Chadwick of Everett Avenue, however, feels that the bill should go into effect as scheduled on May 1.

"I see no reason why the law should not be kept intact and go into effect as scheduled," Rep. Chadwick said. "In some aspects it is overly rigid," he added, "and some amendments ought to be made to eliminate unintended hardships.

"But basically it is a good law," he said, "and it is needed in the Commonwealth."

Ed. Dept. Asks To Extend 180 Days School Year Law

Local school departments should be given incentives to go beyond 180 days of regular school year session, Owen B. Kiernan, commissioner of Education told the Legislative Education Committee last Thursday.

Communities often regard the minimum requirement of 180 school days as a maximum, Kiernan said. He would extend the law by abolishing exemptions to high schools.

His proposed legislation would offer communities 1/180th state aid for each day schools remain open beyond the required minimum.

Similary, it would penalize them at the same rate for failing to meet the requisite.

The Education commissioner reported to the committee that Massachusetts is one of the few states which refuses to set a penalty through state aid for failing to meet the law on minimum school days.

Some 16 states, he explained, provide no state aid or education reimbursement to communities who fail to meet the law.

The state department og education "feels that we in Massachusetts should go beyond the 180 days minimum, and this bill would provide an incentive for that purpose," Mr. Kiernan said.

The cost of setting up the program he estimated at "less than $250,000 a year." He added that offering incentive is more important than enforcing penalties.

The legislation would eliminate exemptions on high schools from the 180 days provision.

Opposing the bill was William J. Cunningham, assistant superintendent of schools in Boston.

He argued that communities should be allowed to decide what days schools will be open without aid from the state.

"We are quite satisfied with the present law," said Mr. Cunningham, "and we see no need for making it mandatory or holding a gentle club over our heads."

Communities, he said, "do not want mandatory penalties and they do not want a mandatory bonus."

Favoring the legislation was Rose S. Morris representing the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs.

Senate Denounces "States" Move For "Court of Union"

The Massachusetts Senate has denounced any move on the part of states to revamp the Federal system of checks and balances.

Senate President John E. Powers, Boston Democrat, asked for and received a unanimous vote to kill a resolution calling for procedures to establish a "Court of the Union" to sit in judgement on Supreme Court decisions.

The Senate leader explained he had introduced the resolution in the hope it would be killed. He said "This will be the most meaningful vote you have ever been called upon to cast."

Ramifications of the vote, he said, will have meaning both nationally and internationally.

The Resolutions were based on resolutions adopted by Governors' Conferences, seeking a court of appeals above the Federal Supreme Court, constituted of members who are chief justices of the highest courts in each state.

Five state legislatures could review high court judgements regarding rights reserved to the states under the Constitution.

Massachusetts, said Powers, should take the lead by denouncing the proposal and giving a vote of confidence to the "basic law of the land."

By vote of 37 to 0 the resolution was killed.

Not voting were Senator Della Russo of Revere, Sullivan of Norwood and Parker of Taunton.

Myopia Club Had Its Beginnings In Winchester

PART I

Travel along Cambridge Street and opposite No. 76 you will pass Myopia Road, running from Cambridge Street to Arlington Street. Few in Winchester know that the famous Myopia Hunt Club of Hamilton, with its hunting and horse shows, polo, tennis, golf, trap-shooting and lawn tennis had its beginnings in Winchester, on Wedge Pond, and started as an athletic club with the emphasis, first, on boating.

The headquarters of the club in those days prior to 1876 was at the Prince Cottage on Wedge Pond, the domain of the Prince brothers and their friends.

Ringleaders in the organization were the four Prince boys, Gordon, Charles, Morton and Frederick, sons of Frederick O. Prince, one-time Mayor of Boston and Massachusetts senator and representative.

It is difficult to visualize that the hunting of foxes in those early days took the hunters through such thickly settled towns as Winchester, Woburn, Arlington, Stoneham, Belmont, Lexington, and Medford, but in those days much of the territory through which the hunts went was farm land and open country.

The main Prince house, or homestead on Wedge Pond was called "Gawky" Cottage on account of the Gothic style of certain of the window casements. It was built for the pastor of the First Congregational Church, but when his parishioners saw the style of architecture and the gaudy appearance of the dwelling they would have none of it for their minister, and the estate was bought by Mr. Prince, who had no qualms about the rococo style employed by the architect.

Three Epochs

Myopia in Winchester falls into three special epochs; the boating and tennis period, the baseball period, lasting about three years through 1879, and finally, the hunting period, which was the club's leading sport during the years 1880 to 1883.

Later, when the club became quite large, it was decided to locate nearer Boston and acquired the "Clyde Estate" in Brookline, where "The" Country Club as we know it now was formed by a group of Myopians originating in Winchester.

To quote the words of one of the Prince boys, Charles, "The early sporting craze was for a boat," and under the Prince leadership it wasn't long before there were 25 rowing and sailing craft on Wedge Pond toward the close of 1870. Dominion over the other boats in those days was exercised by the Prince boat, "The Red Rover," and this dominion was maintained as long as the sport flourished.

There was at that time quite an enthusiasm for rowing, especially pair oars, and one of the achievements of which the Prince boys were especially proud was the winning of a cup for defeating the championship ice-house pair from Woburn by Charles and Morton Prince. It was later discovered that the ice-house champions were really semi-professionals brought out from Boston to lower the colors of the Prince boys.

Tennis at Wedge

In the realm of tennis the ancient Myopians played a prominent part. Frederick and Morton Prince went down to Nahant to assist Dr. Jim Dwight in marking out what was then believed to be one of the first tennis courts in America. The game took hold immediately in Nahant and the Princes ordered a court to be constructed on the Prince lawn in Winchester. So it was that very probably the second tennis court in the country was constructed on Wedge Pond, not more than three or four hundred yards from the fine present-day Packer Courts on Palmer Street.

All these activities, boating and tennis were sponsored by the Myopians and it is to this rising young club that credit for them belongs.

Tennis in Winchester quickly assumed the popularity it achieved at Nahant with many prominent Bostonians coming out to Winchester on week ends to see the new game.

Baseball came next and it was in connection with Myopia's preoccupation with this game that the name, "Myopia," came into use.

Myopia Is Named

On one occasion (the exact date is not known), the club members proposed to accept a challenge from the well-known lawyer and trustee, Frank (Francis C.) Welch, for a game to be played in Lexington. It was necessary that the newly formed Winchester club have a name and it was decided that because the four Prince boys were nearsighted the name Myopia would be appropriate for the team on which they were to play. A large red banner with the name "Myopia" in black letters was hung out at the game, but because of the excellence of the lunch at the Lexington Centennial House and other extra-curricular activity it is doubtful just who won.

The name "Myopia," however, dates from that time, and W. Delano Sanborn, D. N. Skillings' son-in-law, was generally credited with having been responsible for naming the club.

Years later a team of West Side boys, including Sanford Ames, Bobby Foster, Bill Mason, Dana Wingate and "Buster" Barta, played a lot of very successful baseball under the Myopia banner.

Short Work Week For Firefighters Is Thought Fair

Editor of the Star:

Town representatives must decide at the coming meeting in March whether or not they will accept the 48 hour week proposal sponsored by the firefighters of Winchester.

The problem of a 48 hour week offers no easy solution. Nearly everyone with whom I have spoken agrees that the 56 hour week needs adjusting. Everyone takes pride in the efficiency of the department, the dedication of the men, and in their 100 per cent response to off-duty alarms. All support the premise that department heads should be in position to compete with industry for the best qualified candidates. Nevertheless, too many of our townspeople are reluctant to take a positive step toward correcting this problem.

At the next annual town meeting representatives of the various boards - Selectmen, Personnel, Finance, Planning - will present their recommendations relative to this problem. In addition, we will be subjected to a barrage of speeches from well intentioned citizens, which will cloud rather than clear the issues. But is it not strange, on questions dealing with labor relations, we rarely hear from those who are directly involved? Feeling this group seldom had its complaints fully aired, I interviewed many of the firefighters and this is their story.

Here is one speaking: "Winchester firefighters are the only employees of the town now working a 56 hour week. The Highway, Park, Water & Sewer departments all work a 40 hour week. Employees of some administrative departments are asked to work no more than a 35 hour week. Such a discrepancy in working hours, regardless of the nature of the work, serves to undermine the foundation upon which the town of Winchester has achieved an enviable reputation- fairness and justice to all employees."

And another: "The startling increase in the number of towns and cities which have reduced their working hours from 56 to 48 or 50 per week emphasizes the position of Winchester: Stoneham 50, Arlington 48, Watertown 48, Milton 48, Melrose 48, Saugus 48, Needham 50, Natick 50, Medford 48, Woburn 48, Newton 48, and Dedham 48. Note closely the surrounding towns and cities - mutual aid towns and cities where we fight fires in one large integrated unit. Our mutual aid associates - Stoneham, Woburn, Medford, Arlington, all have accepted the national labor standard of what constitutes a fair work week."

A veteran captain argues: "The Personnel Board, I am sure, fully appreciates this problem. Every year we have been reminded of our relative standing when compared with a group of sixteen towns and cities which possess community characteristics similar to the town of Winchester. Our position, approximately speaking, has been a middle one. We have been advised that our position is, measurably speaking, a fair one. However, in recent years, this conclusion is no longer valid; we have plummeted from the middle to the bottom grouping."

Twenty years of experience lies behind this observation: "If we secure a 48 hour week I will have three weekends out of seven with my family. At present I get one out of seven. This situation furnishes a real challenge to any fire department head since young, able men balk at the prospect of such an unattractive proposition - yet this is only one of the undesirable features of the job.

There are many others. For example, all candidates must take a Civil Service examination the results of which are not disclosed for a six months' period. Furthermore, in the event the candidate is successful, he must face a six months' probationary period before he can be classified as permanent.

Add to these liabilities the most sobering of all: firefighters receive seven times as many injuries on the job as workers on other occupations; furthermore, the odds on being killed are three times greater. Our own department reflects the validity of these statistics since six men have been forced to retire within the last few years as a result of disabilities incurred in the line of duty. Do you wonder why qualified candidates are few in number? In the last examination given in June, 1962, six men took the examination; only two qualified.

Now a final comment from a member of the firefighters' house committee: "It will take six additional men to put the 48 hour schedule into effect (based on the same station coverage we now have) with 12 men on duty at all times. Certainly the morale uplift is worth a great deal more than the cost to the town of an additional six men.

Unfortunately, the representatives are not going to be faced with this issue alone. We have been advised that this is the year when the voters will be asked to consider the merits of the long delayed construction of a West Side Fire Station.

Again we can envisage the problem of a reduction in hours becoming enmeshed in a web of circumstances over which we have little control. The timing of this proposal will probably result in the postponement of a reduced work load. To put it bluntly the firefighter will be asked to continue working a 56 hour week, to pay a disproportionate share of the eventual cost of the project, and to assume some portion of responsibility for the original mistake in failing to construct years ago."

This town, in my opinion, should vote to reduce the work load in the Fire Department. Whether it is established at 50 or 48 is a matter for the Board of Selectmen to decide. We have been confronted with this question perennially; this is the time to eliminate a strong source of discontentment.

Sincerely
J. Joseph Tansey

Retarded Children Fund Drive Chmn. Thanks Citizens

Editor of the Star:

As 1962 chairman of the Fund Drive of the East Middlesex Association for retarded children, I wish ciation for Retarded Children, I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many residents and merchants of Winchester for their help in making this past drive such a highly successful one. A total of $3100 has been contributed with donations still coming in. This represents an increase of over 60 per cent above the total donations of 1961.

I am deeply grateful to the many people who gave so willingly of their time and effort in the door-to-door solicitation, the precinct chairmen for their invaluable assistance in organization, the citizens who gave their dollars to help these young people find a place in society, the merchants for their donations and permission to place posters and canisters in their stores, and the Star for its excellent coverage.

With such a willing and helpful citizenry, your gifts have made possible; special classes, workshops and education; rehabilitation; guidance; clinics; and research into causes, cures, and prevention of Mental Retardation.

Sincerely,
Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr.

Former Editor Of Star Praised For Good Journalism

Editor of the Star:

We want to express our grateful appreciation for the contribution made to Winchester, and to the Star, by your former editor, Paul Wilson Sullivan. Although with us for a relatively brief time, his influence will be lasting for many because of his high standards of journalism, and his strong sense of social justice and moral right.

For those of us who believe that the concept of the brotherhood of man cannot be separated from our attitudes on local, national, and international matters, Paul was a constant source of support, and also a stimulus to our consciences.

He wrote well, and he wrote without fear on issues, no matter how controversial, which he felt were important, and which he felt should be discussed openly. Many of his editorials drew an unprecedented community response in the form of "Letters to the Editor," a healthy provocative to our general lethargy.

We thank the Star for providing Winchester with a paper devoted to such a high level of journalism. We wish Paul well in his present work, and we extend to the new editor our warmest welcome.

On Medicare

Editor of the Star:

It is about time that some of the incorrect stories that are being spread in relation to socialized medicine be exposed for what they are. Last week you received a letter from a sincere but misinformed woman. The wool is being pulled over the eyes of the American people and it is an alarming sight.

President Kennedy wants two things from his proposed legislation; one, he wants the votes of the usually conservative, usually republican older people; and secondly he wants more power. If he wanted to help the older people he would have proposed a good medical plan instead of the monstrosity that is now pending its debut in congress.

In the letter of last week the writer said "What if she (a poor widow) is not well and has to have medicine and doctors?" This is an example of what I mean. Obviously this woman has been deluded by Kennedy and his propagandists into thinking that his bill will take care of their problems.

What is actually true (this can be verified by simply writing to Washington for a copy of the King Anderson bill) is that she would receive nothing toward her prescriptions or doctor bills and if she was operated on the cost of surgery would not be paid.

Furthermore while in the hospital she has to pay $10 a day for the first nine days. Suppose she is in there for eight days, she pays eighty dollars for her hospital room and this is added to the doctor's bills and medical costs. Kennedy's bill is actually a trap and many of the people are falling for it. Listen to both sides, get the facts, and then write to your congressmen and tell them to vote against this monstrous fraud when it comes up before them.

Sincerely yours
Joseph Albiani

The winning Winchester rinks proved strong throughout. They were skipped by Dr. Paul J. Sheeran and Robert E. Roundey.

The Sheeran rink took the Farnsworth trophy by defeating a rink from Utica, New York. Curling with Dr. Sheeran were his wife, Lorraine, third, George DeVries, second and Betty DeVries, lead.

The Roundey rink was made up of Jean Roundey, third, Arthur Rogde, second, and Isabelle Rogde, lead. It won the Neiley Trophy by defeating a rink from the Brae Burn Country Club of Newton.

The third trophy, the Barton Trophy, was won by a very strong team from the Border Club in Vermont, which included Mr. and Mrs. Perry Fitch and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pocock. They defeated a rink from Nashua, N. H.

The two Winchester teams had earned the honor of curling for the club by first defeating ten other local rinks in a playdown. Not mentioned in last week's story, but competing in the Bonspiel at the last minute to replace a visiting team which didn't make it, were a third Winchester rink skipped by Gerald Y. A few tools found on Main Street near the accident were claimed by Mr. McCarthy at the Winchester Police Station, police said.

A 20-year-old Winchester youth was fined $20 in Woburn District Court, Juvenile Sessions, on Monday by Judge James Henchey on charges of leaving the scene of an accident after causing property damage.

Police said the youth struck a car owned by John D. Edward of 178 Mystic Valley Parkway at the corner of Lawson Road and Main Street. The youth left the scene, police said, and drove up Main Street to Mt. Pleasant St., where he turned up and went to Highland Avenue. When the youth crossed Highland Avenue he came in close contact but did not damage a police cruiser. The youth apologized and then apparently decided to return along Highland Avenue to Lawson Road and go down to the scene of the accident, at which time he informed Mr. Edward that he had been the driver that had struck his car earlier.

Police insisted in court that if the youth had not had the near accident with a police cruiser on Highland Avenue he would not have returned to the scene but would have continued toward his home. Police established that the youth could easily have turned around at any of four other streets nearer than Pleasant Street, or simply have stopped after striking the other car to identify himself to Mr. Edward.

In a third incident during the past week involving runaway drivers in property damage accidents police reported that Dennis McManus of 83 Brookside Avenue discovered that an unknown driver had run into his parked car in front of his house. Damage was minor in this case, police said.

STOLEN CARS

During the past three days two cars have been stolen and a third ransacked in Winchester.

Mrs. Donald Birchall of 4 Taft Drive reported to police that her 1962 Chevrolet had been stolen from in front of 70 Yale Street, where she was visiting a friend.

Arthur F. Cann of 4 Sheffield West told police that his Chevrolet had been stolen from in front of his house. The car was later found at the intersection of Sheffield Road and Church Street.

Mrs. Arnold Anderson of 19 Cox Road informed police on Tuesday that someone had ransacked her 1962 Ford.

In other car thefts over the week end a car stolen in Woburn was found by police at the end of Laurel Hill Lane with the engine still running, and a car stolen from Melrose was found parked on Dartmouth Street.

except through new construction," Mr. Day said.

The building in Woburn will be located on the Draper Street Extension. The department holds an assignable option on this site. Postal space on the eastern side of Draper Street will be released for other purposes.

The Postmaster General said the building will be constructed under the department's lease construction program, which utilizes the resources and investment funds of private enterprise for needed postal buildings.

The department's capital investment, Mr. Day said, will be limited to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership while leased to the federal government and the owner will pay local real estate taxes.

Plans and specifications for the new building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the post office department will advertise for bids. The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the department on a long-term basis.

Middlesex Canal Slides Are to Be Shown on Jan. 27

The Middlesex Canal Association will present a program of stereoptican glass slides of the Middlesex Canal on Sunday evening, January 27. These slides were taken in the 1920's by Leon Cutler, J. Payro and Morrison Merrill to record the passing of a way of life and later donated to the Wakefield Historical Society, and the Middlesex Canal Association has them on loan for the evening.

The meeting will be at Potter's Ice Rink, 189 High Street, North Billerica. Take the Boston Road (Route 3A) to Pollard Street; and High Street is off Pollard. There will be two showings of the slides at 6 and 7:30 p.m.

Everyone interested in the Middlesex Canal, its past and its future, is cordially invited to attend or contact the association at 36 Concord Road, Billerica.

Aberjona Auxiliary to post 3719, V. F. W. will hold a barter party on Monday, Jan. 28, at 8:00 p.m. at the post home, 15 White Street.

Mary Thorne is chairlady of this event. The public is cordially invited. We welcome you and your friends to an evening of fun. Refreshments will be served.

Cadet B. S. Cullen Scores High At Air Force Acad.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cullen of 82 Bacon Street have heard from the United States Air Force Academy officials that son Brian Stuart Cullen, in his second year at the Academy, has again rated the three top achievement lists at the Academy.

The lists are the Dean's List, for High scholarship, the Commandant's list for military achievement and the Superintendent's list for those cadets who have rated spots on both lists. Cadets who merit this last honor are entitled to wear a silver star encased in a silver wreath on their left sleeve.

Republican Club Plans Lunch For Saturday, Feb. 2

Richard S. Bowers, president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, announced today that Attorney Gen. Edward W. Brooke and Senator Philip A. Graham, Senate Minority Leader, will be the principal speakers at the Club's 72nd Annual Meeting, a noonday luncheon at the Harvard Club, Boston, on Saturday, February 2nd.

Mr. Bowers further stated: "The Republican Club will continue to actively help rebuild the Party within the next two years. It is the Club's responsibility in these trying times to keep the torch burning for brighter days to come."

The Nominating Committee will present a slate which includes to be elected Ralph H. Bonnell of Winchester as director.

Foreign Relations of the Rockefeller Foundation. He has devoted 25 years of study to foreign economic policy, particularly Western European integration and more recently to U. S. relationship to Africa. He is a graduate of Swarthmore, has done post-graduate work at Yale and the London School of Economics, and is occasionally visiting lecturer at the school of International Affairs, Columbia University.

Opening the afternoon session, Mr. John Wendell Holmes will discuss "Canadian External Affairs." Mr. Holmes is currently president of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. He has held innumerable postitions in Canadian Government service, among them special wartime assistant, Department of External Affairs; Charge d'Affairs, Canadian Embassy, Moscow; and has represented Canada at the United Nations as well as at many international conferences.

Mr. Holmes, Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Diebold will then appear as panelists to explore the major theme of the meeting, the discussion to be moderated by Dr. Laurence W. Martin, associate professor of Diplomacy, School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University and Research Associate, the Washington Center of Foregin Policy Research. Dr. Martin, too, has an impressive background in international relations. He has taught international politics at Yale and M. I. T.; he was Rockefeller fellow for Advanced Research, 1958-1959; Social Science Research Council fellow, 1960 to 1961; and consultant to Twentieth Century Fund Study of Civil-Military Relations, Institute of Defense Analyses.

Following the panel discussion, there will be approximately an hour for questions from the audience. This year, a new innovation will be wandering microphones to permit live questions instead of the written questions of past years. Since the question period is usually the most exciting part of the day, the changes in programming this year - longer time for questions, wandering microphones, and fewer speakers - should make this School of International Relations the most stimulating and successful ever.

A bus has been chartered to transport members of the Winchester League and friends to the meeting. For tickets and information, please call Mrs. Chester Dawes at PA 9-2122.

Evangelist From India Will Speak

Monday January 28 will be International relations day for members and guests of The Fortnightly in the Social Hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Mrs. Joseph Burgatti and Mrs. Salvatore Scalesse and their committee will serve refreshments at one o'clock.

Business meeting will convene at two o'clock.

The program chairman, Mrs. Harold Given will introduce Mr. David J. Christopher Duraisingh of Dornakal, South India, who will present India and its family life. The Fortnightly's first vice-president Mrs. Charles E. Potts, Jr., will lecture on "Glimpses of India." Both speakers will show pictures of outstanding interest on India.

Mr. Duraisingh, the speaker, was born in 1938 and brought up in a committed Church of South India presbyter's family. Later he found it a privilege as well as a responsibility to lead the various departments of church life among youth and children like the Student Christian Movement, Vacation Bible schools, Indian Sunday schools, etc.

In 1958, soon after graduating from the University, he took up the work as an Evangeslist in an indigenous missionary society. In 1959 he was commissioned and sent forth to the field, the Dornakal Diocese. Mr. Duraisingh's lecture will portray in pictures his evangelistic work among the Hindus and showing the need for further equipment both in mind and spirit.

Democrats Note March Date For '63 Winter Social

Chairman Bee Wilson of the Irish Night Social is reasonably sure that Sunday evening, March 17, will be the date of our important winter gala.

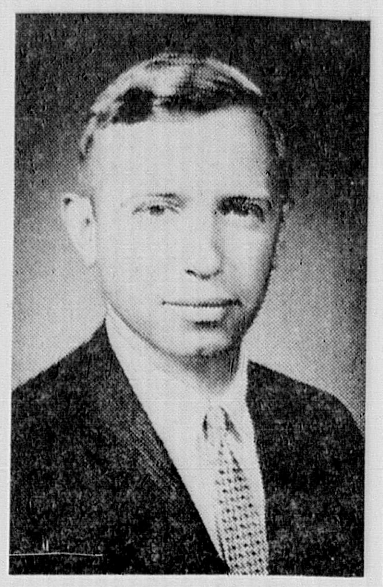
Chairmen of the several sub-committees have been chosen and, as soon as the date will have been set, house meetings will be in order for the subcommittee groups.

The chairman of our local Democratic Town Committee, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, and Mr. McDonald, attended the large dinner and reception tendered to Senator James Long of the 7th Middlesex district at Blinstrub's Village in South Boston Sunday evening at 6:30.

Also in attendance were Jack Costello, secretary of the Mass. Committee on community colleges, and his brother Jim, Winchester's town auditor. The attendance at the Dinner - Reception numbered 1500.

Edward Duffy Is Head of New Bank Board in Arlington

Mr. Edward J. Duffy, Jr., of 21 Mayflower Road, chairman of the board of directors of the newly chartered Suburban National Bank of Arlington announces the opening of the bank's offices at 856 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington, on Friday, January 25.



EDWARD J. DUFFY

Mr. Duffy a resident of Winchester, said that residents and businessmen of Winchester are cordially invited to inspect the new banking quarters on Friday from 8:30 to 3:00 and 5:30 to 8:00 p.m.

For the past several months the new bank building has been under construction and will bring to the general area the most modern banking facilities available. A drive-up tellers window with a heated driveway will insure convenient and weather free banking services. Drive-in parking 24 hour depository service, a plentiful supply of the most modern safe deposit boxes, checking accounts, savings accounts and general loan services will be supplied by the new "one stop" bank.

Audition Date For Piano, Voice And Violin Announced

The Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs announces March 9 as the date of the State Young Artist Auditions. New England Conservatory's Jordan Hall will be the scene of these auditions sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

The award is $1,500 - or $1,500 toward a debut recital with various supplementary awards. Classifications for the auditions are men's voice, oratorio, piano, violin and woman's voice. The National Federation of Music Clubs has added the award in oratorio to stimulate interest in this field.

Violin and piano entrants must be between the ages of 20 and 30; voice entrants between 23 and 35. Military service time may be added to the above ages. State and district winners must proceed to the next audition.

For further information write to either the chairman, Mr. Harold Sandstrom, 130 Mt. Vernon Street, W. Roxbury or the state president, Mrs. Andrew Dougald Maclachlan IV, The Anchor, 420 Beacon Street Boston.

Capt. Frank Amico Demonstrates To Scout Troop 524

Scout Troop 524 was given a most interesting demonstration of fire fighting techniques by Captain Amico of the Winchester Fire Department at their regular meetnig on Thursday January 10.

He instructed the scouts in the correct procedure on alerting the Fire Department in case of fire in homes or in public buildings. They learned about spontaneous combustion, and also the difference between a localized fire and one in which poisonous gases permeate the air. In this instance, Capt. Amico actually demonstrated the use of gas masks, and the scouts had the opportunity to examine the gas masks he had brought along.

All in all, it was a most interesting and informative hour for the troop, who, one and all, would like to thank Captain Amico once again for the time and effort he put into his talk.

Dartmouth Women Plan Food-Tasting For February 6

Mrs. Percy E. Gleason of 13 Pine Street a charter member and past president of the Dartmouth Women's Club, is among those planning a special event to aid the Club's scholarship fund.

On Wednesday, February 6, a Food-Tasting will be held at the Church of the Epiphany at 12 noon. Luncheon will be composed of many taste treats, as each member adds to the buffet table her own specialty which she has prepared for the occasion - a casserole, salad, bread or dessert. Recipes will also be available.

Psychologist To Speak Here To Unitarian Youth

On Sunday evening, January 27, at 6:30, Robert G. Greenway will speak to the Metcalf Union, Unitarian high school youth group, on "You and Psychology."

Mr. Greenway is a member of the Winchester High School faculty where he teaches a course in psychology and he lives here at 2 Myrtle Street with his wife and four children.

Mr. Greenway also teaches psychology at Brandeis University, and the Eliot Pearson School at Tufts University. He is a graduate of the University of Washington and is working on his Ph.D. at Brandeis.

His talk will cover the field of psychology as a profession, teenage problems from a psychologists viewpoint and will touch on such subjects as drugs and hypnosis.

Discussion will follow the talk as will an innovation at Metcalf Union, an "unbirthday" party, planned with the consultation of a few A. A. Milne characters.

Citizen Commends School Custodian On Sanding Job

The Star had a call this week from a Madison Avenue resident who wished publicly to commend Mr. Richard Fiore, custodian at the Mystic School, for the "above and beyond the call of duty" sanding job he did last week Friday in the interests of protecting the Mystic School children on their way to school.

It was one of those mornings when the rain was freezing on the street as it came down and it was impossible for the town highway trucks to keep up with the job.

The lower part of Madison Avenue coming into Main was glare ice and any car coming down the hill would almost certainly not have been able to stop, to keep from hitting a child. Mr. Fiore hand-carried buckets of sand and salt and was able to get a covering on the lower third of Madison Avenue before the children began to cross.

Fox Patrol Goes On 5-Mile Hike

Scoutmaster William Krupsky assisted by Mr. Donald Thayer took the Fox Patrol of Troop 524 on a 5 mile hike on Saturday, January 19, starting at South Border Road in Winchester through the Fells Reservation till they arrived at the site of Soap Box Derby Track.

The weather was perfect for a day in the outdoors, and they had an opportunity to do map and compass reading, and tracking. They chopped wood, built their own fires and cooked their midday meal in addition to spending some time on nature study and field work. The hikers were as follows:
Frank Clare, John Farley, Wayne Krupsky, John Lima and Albert Thayer.

College Club Study Groups

The Winchester College Club met last week Monday evening at the Crawford Methodist Church for the annual dinner of the 1963 evening study groups program. A Swedish meat ball dinner was enjoyed as well as sociability with friends old and new.

Mrs. James Hollinshead, president, reminded those attending that the evening study group program is the only remunerative project of the club. Contributions to the Winchester Scholarship Fund and the Mary B. Davis Award are given from the College Club treasury and it is urged that all participants in the evening study groups who are eligible join as full members of the College Club.

Mr. Miles Weaver, co-chairman of the evening study groups, was host for the evening entertainment. The Triads, a girls trio of song and close harmony, substituted for Professor Korol, the scheduled speaker who was hospitalized due to a sudden illness. The Misses Mary Mouradian, soprano, Gail Snelling, second soprano, and Sally Worthen, alto, presented four popular songs in their own delightful and musical manner. Mr. Weaver next introduced the five study group leaders in turn.

Mr. Joseph Taylor explained the Books Group. Six books pertaining to the human predicament will be read and discussed in the course of six meetings on alternate Mondays. The first meeting will be January 21, 8 p.m., at the Taylor's home, 33 Oxford Street.

Mr. Malcolm Boggs introduced the Great Decisions Group which will study U. S. foreign policy in conjunction with the 8 p.m. program on TV Channel 2 guided by the World Affairs Council pamphlet. Commencing February 7 this group will meet at 7:30 p.m. for eight consecutive Thursday evenings, place to be announced later.

Mr. Norman Duehring outlined the plan for the Investment group and cautioned that even 25 cents plus an interest might lead a member to simulate the theme of the recent book, The Sophisticated Investor. Investments will meet five alternate Tuesday evenings beginning January 29, 7:30 p.m., at the Duehring's residence, 81 Bacon Street.

Mrs. Lawrence Shepard invited play readers to meet six alternate Mondays beginning January 28, 7:45 p.m., at her home, 380 Highland Avenue. "The Raisin in the Sun" will be read. Mrs. Shepard pointed out that dormant talent may be unearthed when one discovers "the play's the thing..." to catch the consciousness of the art of drama.

Mrs. Chester Dawes will welcome the Travel Group at her home, 74 Wedgemere Avenue, Monday evening, 8 p.m., January 28. Miss Constance Trickett will illustrate the Experiment in International Living a co-ed venture for college students managed in Putney, Vt., which she accompanied to Bergamo, Italy last summer. Five interesting evenings are planned for alternate Mondays when views of Asia, the Middle East, Greece and the Orient will be shown accompanied by background material to present a more comprehensive study.

Each study group withdrew for an informal meeting. Those present were enthusiastic to learn details of plans for the winter season. Interested persons are welcome to contact the study group chairmen for further information about the meetings.

Arthur L. Johns To Directorship Of Woburn Bank

At the annual shareholders meeting of the Woburn Bank and Trust Company on January 16, Arthur L. Johns of Winchester was elected a director of the bank. Mr. Johns resides at 38 Glen Road with his wife Lorraine and their 6 children, Thomas, Michael, Lisa, Chiara, Patricia and Arthur, Jr.

ARTHUR L. JOHNS

Mr. Johns is a graduate of Medford High School, Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard College, 1939, and Harvard Law School, 1942. At Harvard in his senior year he was captain of the baseball team. The Johns family has resided in Winchester since 1946.

After his admission to the Bar in 1942, Mr. Johns spent 3 years in Naval Aviation before returning to the practice of law. He is presently engaged in the trial of cases for Factory Mutual Liability Insurance Company of America, which company he has represented since 1946.

In town-wide affairs Mr. Johns has been chairman of the Finance Committee and is now serving his second term on the School Committee of which he is currently chairman.

Many will recall his connections with Winchester Little League and the March of Dimes. His son Tom, a senior at Winchester High School is this year's captain of the successful hockey team.

Other Winchester men who were re-elected to serve the Woburn Bank and Trust as directors were: Leo Donovan, of 12 Dartmouth Street, Dr. Paul Kelliher of 117 Church Street and Charles Murphy of 145 Pond Street.

Annual Meeting Of New Hope Baptist Church

The Annual meeting of the New Hope Baptist Church will be held on Thursday, January 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the vestry of the church. There will be the reports of the out-going officers and committees, election of new officers, and other pertinent business. Rev. Jackson urges all to be present.

On Sunday January 27, which is Officers' Day, Mr. William Robinson will be in charge of the morning service. He is bringing a guest speaker. All are welcome to attend.

Named Director Of Charitable Irish Society

Charles A. Murphy, a widely and favorably known business man of Winchester, has been elected a director of the Charitable Irish Society of Boston.

The Charitable Irish Society was founded on March 17, 1737, in Boston, by several gentlemen, merchants and others of the Irish nation residing in Boston and New England for the purpose of "bringing relief to those of Irish descent who might be reduced by sickness, shipwreck, old age and other infirmities, without any design of not contributing toward the provision of the Town Poor in general as usual."

Quietly, consistently and true to its purpose, the Society has been a channel of Irish generosity. At present the Society has a membership of approximately one thousand members, business and professional men, whose loyalty to American principles is genuine and whose membership is a dignified expression of pride in their Irish blood.

Three Presidents of the United States, Jackson, William Howard Taft and F. D. Roosevelt, have been members of the Society and the present Chief Executive, President Kennedy, is a member.

Through the years a number of Winchester gentlemen have held membership in the Charitable Irish Society and one of the town's best known citizens, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, was honored with the presidency of the Society at one time.

Mrs. J. Donahue Heads Unique Pre-Opera Plan

Mrs. John Donahue of 3 Myopia Road is serving as general chairman of the Boston Opera Group's most unique project.

The energetic lady is whipping up enthusiasm for the "Eating Away The Deficit" idea that is being offered by the Opera Group Guild in its planning for the success of the OG's productions of "The Barber of Seville" February 1 and 3, and "Faust" February 15 and 23 at the Donnelly Memorial Theater.

Mrs. Donahue is inviting all opera goers to participate in the Guild's unusual prior to performance project.

Several of Greater Boston's leading restaurants have agreed to contribute to the Opera Group a substantial percentage of the price of a delicious pre-opera dinner. The menus (featuring Greek, French, Italian, Chinese and American cuisines, among others) have been carefully planned to appeal to a wide range of tastes and purse. In each case, the price of the dinner includes the complete meal, tax and tip- all of which assures relaxed, uncomplicated dining.

Mrs. Donahue who is also a trustee of the Opera Group, is making the arrangements for the various dinner parties.

Would You "Bee" Interested?

The Middlesex County Beekeepers are conducting a free "Bee School" for those interested in keeping or learning about bees. It will consist of four sessions beginning January 26 at 8 p.m. and ending April 27, with the installation of a live swarm of bees into a bee hive. The sessions will be held at the Waltham Field Station on Beaver Street, Waltham.

Present beekeepers in Winchester are Dr. H. Anderson of 184 Ridge Street and Mrs. Dora Hadley of 193 Forest Street.

Stowell Symmes In Conference On Economic Ed.

Stowell Symmes of 270 Lawrence Avenue, No. Plainfield, N. J., and formerly of Winchester, was one of two high school teachers who took part in a National conference on economic education at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York from December 3 to 5.

The conference sponsored by the joint council on economic education covered the role of personal economics and its function in the framework of economic education.

Symmes is head of the social science department at Watchung Hills Regional High School and has been appointed coordinator of economic education in the regional district.

He attributes his appointment to the conference to his article published in the October issue of the monthly news letter of the joint council on economic education entitled, "Teaching About the Role of Profits in the American Economy."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Symmes, formerly of Winchester, who now make their home in Winter Park Florida.

Mr. Symmes is married to the former Janice Lynch. They have two children Stephanie and Jeffrey.

Joe Peel Appreciation Night Draws Large Gathering of Elks and Friends

The Winchester Lodge of Elks held an appreciation night last Saturday, January 19, at Columbus Hall, Raymond Place, to honor Joseph B. Peel, past exalted ruler and honorary life member of the lodge. A group of about 150 member and friends of Joe filled the hall to capacity.

It was a night of surprises for Joe, the most overwhelming of which was the appearance of his daughter Jeanne to greet him at the entrance to the main hall. His emotion on seeing her was markedly visible. Jeanne and her husband, Captain George Burwell, had traveled from their home in McLean, Virginia; and their planned appearance had been a well-kept secret from everyone except Joe's youngest daughter Ruth.

Toastmaster Newt Purington, secretary and past exalted ruler of the local Elks, presented the head table guests, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coakley (Ruth Peel); Captain and Mrs. George Burwell (Joanne Peel); Mr. and Mrs. John Giuliani (Marjorie Peel) and son Jay; Joe and Mary Peel, the guests of honor; Creighton Horn, exalted ruler of the Winchester Elks; Warren Cox, past exalted ruler of Woburn Lodge, a long-time friend who had presided at Joe's induction as exalted ruler in 1946; Father Herbert K. A. Driscoll of the Immaculate Conception Parish, who gave the invocation; and Ernie Steed, P.E.R. of the Cambridge Elks and past district deputy.

After a few short speeches were made extolling the role Joe has played in Elks affairs in his forty years as member Creighton Horn presented him with an appropriate gift on behalf of the lodge.

All had a wonderful time. After a catered roast beef dinner during which the Bob Fiore Trio played appropriate music, there was an evening of dancing. The trio consists of Skitchie at the drums, Angelo Gentile of Woburn at the accordion and Billy Ellis of Woburn at sax. The Bob Fiore trio produces an amazing amount of music for a trio. Angelo and Billy provided the vocals.

Joe became a member of the Winchester Lodge of Elks on December 4, 1923, and was put to work immediately making up sixteen Christmas baskets for the needy. He has been serving on some committee or other ever since, usually two or three at a time. He was a trustee for several years, and helped organize the 1445 Club of the lodge, a fund-raising organization to produce revenue for the many Elks charities, and has been its treasurer for fifteen years.

Although it was ostensibly Joe Peel's night, it was as much a night for his wife Mary. For, as one of his daughters put it, how much could Joe have accomplished for the Elks if Mary hadn't let him out all those nights!

Historical Group Will Hear About Covered Bridges

The regular winter meeting of the Winchester Historical Society will be held at the Rich Room at the Library on Saturday afternoon, February 2 at 2:30 p.m.

The speaker will be Mr. Wyman S. Randall of Melrose, whose subject will be "The Romance of Covered Bridges." Mr. Randall is vice-president of the Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges.

In his lecture Mr. Randall speaks of the various forms of covered bridges, their interesting construction as well as mentioning the many early builders of this type of span which was so much a part of the countryside between the years of 1800-1900. His colored slides range from New England's picturesque covered structures to those to be found in some of our southern and western states.

An invitation is extended to anyone interested in this subject to attend this meeting.

Rev. Brownville Elected to Serve Evangelistic Assn.

The Reverend Dr. C. Gordon Brownville, of 60 Lake Street, has just been elected to serve the Evangelistic Association of New England as a director for a two-year term.

Dr. Brownville who is pastor of the Tremont Temple Baptist Church in Boston, was one of thirty-two clergymen from the area elected to serve in this position.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Leaping into the limelight at master point night on Wednesday, January 16th, were the Blacklers and Butterfields who far outdistanced the fields in Section A and B, respectively. We had seen Lloyd Butterfield look impressive on the court at Badminton Club just the night before, and his power and finesse must have been equally in evidence at the bridge table as he and Gloria dissected the birds in Section B one feather at a time!

Here are the overall winners, based on a 63 average in the ten table Section A and a 110 average in the 12 table Section B:

SECTION A
North - South

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson	79
Roy Long and Blair Hawley	79
Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet	69½
Martin Weiss and Stephen Haseltine	69

East - West

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	84
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	74
Frederick Gove and Henry Morgan	67½
Helen Mahoney and Ann Murray	65
Fredna Perkins and William Duryea	64½

SECTION B
North - South

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Butterfield	140½
Gerry Lawrence and Florence McGattigan	130½
George Coffin and Alexander Oszy	124½
Barbara Sawyer and Marjorie Hakanson	118½
Guy Mingolelli and James Bradley	114½
Elizabeth Slade and Robert Haskell	114
Mary Campbell and Helen Nutter	111½

East - West

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Root	133½
Rose Zola and Raphael Franks	133½
Jane Renz and Lolly Smith	124
Barbara Marino and William Molla	123
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gartner	119
Martha and Herbert Wood	114½

Toward the latter part of the evening, the draw was made for the Club's annual member-guest knockout team of four tournament. An eight team event in 1962, the entries swelled to 20 for this year's series of matches. Here are the pairings:

First Round: Root vs Wood, Sullivan vs Gartner, Sawyer vs Atkinson, Habicht vs Devaney.

Second Round: Cade vs Murray, Haseltine vs Kimball, Hawley vs Smith, Wheelock vs Bradley, Butterfield vs Dean, Redpath vs Watson.

The dynamic growth of interest in duplicate bridge in the Winchester area has encouraged the WDBC to establish permanent Challenge Bowls for each of its annual Club Championship events. We are proud to report that the following Winchester business organizations have very generously agreed to sponsor and donate not only the permanent trophies but also the replicas which will be awarded each year:

Anderson's Jewelers - Women's Pairs

Bowman Real Estate - Open Pairs

Chitel's - Men's Pairs

Hevey's Pharmacy - Mixed Pairs

Winchester Appliance - Summer Series

Winchester News - Individual

Winchester Star - Team of Four

It is a fine reflection on the stature of our Club that this project was enthusiastically received and unanimously supported by every single organization contacted!

Our hand of the week has been selected from the action in Section A. South was dealer with neither side vulnerable.

West led the KC, East played the 8C and, when West continued with the AC, the defense collapsed. Who was to blame? East with his dull and all but featureless hand! (Actually, the hand positions have been rotated to protect the guilty and to show "South" as declarer.)

On this board, five pairs bid and made four hearts. One table got to five hearts and was down one. A gambling contract of three no trump, reached at one table, never had a chance.

The main point of the board, however, involves a delicate and effective defensive maneuver which should have been employed by East to set four hearts. Many successful tournament players follow the practice of throwing the queen under partner's king in a situation like this to ask partner to UNDERLEAD HIS ACE ON THE NEXT LEAD.

If his queen were singleton, of course, he could trump the continuation while partner still controls the suit with his ace. But by playing the queen from a suit holding of two or more cards, he is announcing possession of the jack and at the same time strongly suggesting that there is a mighty good reason why he should be placed on lead immediately.

When East gets in with his JC on the second lead, he will promptly shift to spades (which his partner had bid) and the contract is doomed. We hope that Winchester players will add this weapon to their arsenal!

The poem included below has been composed by Jim Byrne in friendly reply to the bridge article by Ann Dean in a recent issue of the Star.

AN OLD PRO "ALIBIS"

If you can execute the Deschapelles and the Bath Coups
And know how to Count and False
Card as the experts do;
If you know Trump Echo and when to lead high or lead
low
My friend, you are also classed
as an Old Pro.
If you can make a Pseudo or a
Backward Squeeze
Bringing your opponents to their knees;
If you know how and when to Finesse,
And can do this with the smallest guess;
What to unblock and what not to throw
My friend, you are also classed
as an Old Pro.
But we all take the systems of Gerber, Goren, Sheinwold and lesser churls
And throw them in the trash can when our opponents are two pretty AMATEUR girls.

"One man's food is another man's poison."

This comment made over 2,000 years ago by a Roman philosopher, Lucretius, was spoken in reference to one of mankind's most persistent ailments—allergies.

What Lucretius did not realize, however, was that one man's soap, pet, garden, money and mattress, along with literally thousands of other everyday items, can also be another man's poison.

Allergies spring from five general groupings: Food—any and all kinds; plant and animal emanations; animal dandruff; objects of contact and bacteria.

No one, however, is allergic to the high standards of quality we maintain at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY. All drug items and all prescription work are of the highest order for your benefit at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY. 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700 for 24-hour prescription service.

Washington School Hears Discussion Of New Education

At a meeting on Wednesday, January 16, sponsored by the parents of the George Washington School, a panel of school leaders discussed several facets of modern elementary education.

Members of the panel were Miss Leonor Rich, principal of the Washington School, Mr. Joseph Forte, principal of the McCall Jr. High School, Mr. Albert Sutula, principal of the Parkhurst School, and Miss Rosella Gallagher, principal of the Harvey Elementary School, Arlington. Mr. Samuel Jones, of the Washington Dads' Club was moderator.

Miss Gallagher and Mr. Forte described the new mathematics developed by the School Mathematics Study Group of Stanford University. This program has only recently been developed for use in the elementary schools. It makes use of traditional arithmetic, but emphasizes less drill and more attention to modern concepts such as sets, number theory, lines, limits and elementary geometric figures.

Mr. Sutula described the Team Teaching experiment at Parkhurst. This program groups the teachers and students of several grades, permitting teachers to concentrate each in his strongest subject, and the individual student to work at his partciular level in each subject.

The last speaker was Miss Leonor Rich. Speaking on the philosophy of elementary education, Miss Rich stressed the progress at Washington School in some of the new ideas, while emphasizing the fundamental contributions of the home and the teacher in developing the minds and talents of the child.

Following a lively exchange between the audience and the panel, refreshments were served by the Social Committee of the Mothers' Association.

Behavior Problems To Be Discussed By Parkhurst Panel

The Parkhurst Parents Association extends a cordial welcome to all Winchester parents and friends to attend their winter meeting on January 29th at 7:30 p.m. in the Parkhurst School auditorium.

The association is most enthusiastic and honored to present a distinguished panel whose members will be Dr. Donald E. McLean, pediatrician; Sgt. Lee McIlhenny, Woburn juvenile officer; the Reverend Joseph E. O'Donnell, minister First Baptist Church; Mr. Lane McGovern, lawyer and parent; Miss Leonor Rich, principal of Washington School. The purpose of the panel discussion is to appraise and rationalize behavioral problems at the elementary school level.

This evening has been planned for you parents and is an outgrowth of the many similar discussions we have had among ourselves as concerned parents. Realizing the number of questions raised by such a discussion, a sufficient amount of time has been set aside for questions and opinions from the audience.

This promises to be both stimulating and rewarding for all those who attend.

Conn. College Club Meeting

A regional meeting of the Connecticut College Club of Boston will be held Tuesday evening January 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Kenneth C. Willard, 76 Townsend Road, Belmont. All alumnae are cordially invited to attend. Dessert and coffee will be served.

The program for the evening will be a discussion of Elspeth Huxley's current book on Africa, "A New Earth." Mrs. Joseph B. Miller of Belmont, the president of the club, will lead the discussion.

Mrs. Arch Dooley of Lexington is the Regional chairman of the club. Other members of the local area committee are: Mrs. Harry Hood, Jr. of Winchester, Miss Ruth Canty of Concord, Mrs. Robert R. Russell of Arlington, Mrs. Julius Ritter of Lexington and Mrs. William C. Stewart of Belmont.

Antiques Group Hears Lecture

Old Charlestown was the subject of the Rev. Mr. Wolcott Cutler when he addressed the members of the Winchester Antique Study Group at the home of Mr. Robert Holmes on Lakeview Road at the January meeting on the 15th.

It was a subject he was thoroughly familiar with, as for 36 years he was rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Charlestown. Retired two years ago, he now lives in Cambridge. During his pastorate he became increasingly conscious of the changes that were taking place around him and realized the importance of recording the past as one landmark after another disappeared before the onslaught of modernization.

Mr. Cutler chose about one hundred slides to show. From old prints, drawings, maps, paintings, photographs and pictures taken with his own camera, he surveyed the complete story of Charlestown from 1630, its founding as a part of the Boston colony under John Winthrop, to the present time.

He reminded his audience that Winchester was part of the original Charlestown and that here were the farm grants made to John Harvard and the Converse farm. Now the name Charlestown is reserved for the neck, the towns out through Woburn having been lopped off it.

Mr. Cutler's running commentary on the historical, economic, and social background of the pictures showed a mastery of his subject, and his genial and warm personality was revealed in his sympathy with it. Emphasis on the development of the subject was first on the earliest days, the topography of Boston Harbor, clearing of the land and relations with the Indians; then on the events of the 17th of June, 1775, the Battle of Bunker Hill; and finally on nineteenth century survivals and losses.

The town was completely destroyed by British bombardment at the time of Bunker Hill. All the old buildings of Charlestown are post-Revolutionary - most of them Federal and Victorian. And what are left are not what they used to be and may disappear at any time. Who can say at this time whether Charlestown is to have urban renewal, and if it does, whether it will destroy or preserve the past? There was a survey under Mr. Whitehill last year for the Boston Historical Conservation Committee.

At least Mr. Cutler has done a great deal to preserve the record, although he cannot do anything to restore the glories of Old Charlestown or even retard the disintegration. His talk brought home to those who are interested in the past how rapidly conditions change. One who passes through Charlestown today, unless reminded, is not likely to think of it as the bustling, attractive city of 40,000 people that it was a hundred years ago.

The next meeting of the Antiques Study Group will be on February 19 in the Rich Room of the Public Library at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Clarence Blake will speak on "Pressed Glass."

Annual Meeting For C.P.A.'s

The 63rd annual dinner meeting of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants will be held Monday, January 28 at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, at 6:30 o'clock.

The president of the Society, Ernest Berg of Springfield, will preside.

William G. Casey of Needham, a widely known CPA in Boston, will be the moderator.

The general chairman of the program is Rae D. Anderson of Winchester, Dean of Bentley College of Boston.

Two keynote speakers will be Thomas H. Healy of Newton, associated with the firm of Peat, Marwich, Mitchell & Co., of Boston; and Fred G. Harr of New York City, an executive of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery.

There will be an election of officers following the report of the nominating committee headed by Ernest Berg.

The committee planning the event, in addition to Chairman Anderson includes Robert Boyer, Daniel G. Covan and Paul E. Tierney, all of Newton; Roscoe E. Irvin Greenwood; Paul F. Masterson, Oxford; George W. Pierce, Hingham; and Thomas L. Raleigh Jr., and John S. Swift, both of Winchester.

Temple Shalom Winter Education

The Adult Education Committee of Temple Shalom, Medford has completed the format for its Winter Education Institute. The Institute will consist of three courses and eight lectures, which will be offered in an eight consecutive week period on Monday nights starting January 28, and ending March 18, at the Medford Jewish Community Center, 475 Winthrop Street.

The courses which will be given at 8:00 o'clock, are: "Hebrew Reading," Cantor Charles Lew, Principal, Temple Shalom Religious School; "Major Trends in Jewish Thoughts," Rabbi Alexander M. Goldstein; "Judaism in the Home," Mr. Harvey Goldberg, PhD. Candidate at Harvard University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

The lecture series which will begin at 9:00 o'clock, are: January 28, "The World of the Prophets," Dr. Nahum N. Glatzer, Professor and Chairman, Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies, Brandeis University; February 4, "The Rabbis - Heirs to the Prophets," Dr. Baruch Levine, Instructor, Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies, Brandeis University; February 11, "Maimonides: A Scholar With An Impact," Rabbi Herbert Rosenblum, Temple Emunah, Lexington; February 18, "The Crisis of Judaism at the Time of the Enlightenment," Dr. Jacob Katz, Visiting Professor of Hebrew and Jewish History, Department of Near Eastern Languages and Literature, Harvard University; February 25, "The Growth of Reform, Orthodox, and Conservative Judaism," Rabbi Alexander M. Goldstein, Temple Shalom, Medford; March 4, "The Ideology of The American Jew," Dr. Harold Weisberg, Associate Professor and Chairman, Department of Philosophy, Brandeis University; "Traditional Modernism - What One Jew Believes," March 11, "What Is This Jewish Tradition," and March 18, "How We Can Live According to this Tradition Today" Rabbi Alexander M. Goldstein.

Further information and brochures may be obtained by calling Temple Shalom, 475 Winthrop Street, Medford.

The Adult Education Committee consists of Dr. Sidney S. Sher, Chairman; Mr. Abraham Morochnik, Co-Chairman; Dr. and Mrs. S. Martin Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Bloom, Rabbi Alexander Goldstein, Mrs. Abraham Morochnik, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Norman, Mrs. Sidney Sher, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shohet.

V-O Parents Hear Principal

On Tuesday January 15, the Vinson-Owen Parents Association held its second general meeting of the school year. A large turnout of parents heard the Vinson-Owen principal, Dr. Clare Corcoran speak on "Teaching Today's Child to Read."

The problems which children face in learning to read were made vividly clear through a "Parent's Primer" which told a story in symbols as unfamiliar to the parents as our English letters are to beginners in the schools. Although the story was finally worked out, many a parent was glad that no report card was given for his effort. Dr. Corcoran then demonstrated a large number of aids used by our teachers today. It was a most enlightening and interesting evening.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. John McElwee and her social committee.

Science Secrets. Educator approved Science Lab Kits, for boys and girls ages 5-15 for $1.00 each, or a cabinet set for $9.50. At the Winchester Star.

Opportunities In Army Better

Results of a recently-completed Department of Defense study reveal that the United States Army soldier is better educated, better trained, and more professionally competent than at any time in the Army's 187-year history.

According to Sergeant Jack Bateson, Army recruiter at 49 High Street, Medford, figures in the report show that 59 per cent of the enlisted men in the Army have completed high school, the national figure is only 26.3 per cent. In addition, he said, the report shows that more than fifty per cent of all Army officers are college graduates, compared to the national figure of 4.5 per cent.

These almost astounding figures reflect the Army's policy of encouraging all of its members to continue their education, even though most men are unable to attend school full time, last year more than 12,000 studied on their own time to complete high school credits; 27,000 studied at the college level; 547 received bachelor's degrees; and 232 received graduate degrees.

Sergeant Bateson said that the number of men listed in this report does not include those men who are currently studying in the Army's own school system. "We have more than 100 courses available, in almost any field you'd care to mention," he said, "and there are probably about another 50,000 men receiving this specialized training."

To fill the ever-increasing demands of the Missile Age there is an ever-increasing number of men enrolled in the Army's schools. For information about your chances of receiving "Guaranteed before Enlistment" training, visit Sergeant Bateson's Medford office, or call EXport 6-5777.

Mothers of Twins Initiation

A candle-lighting initiation ceremony of new members will highlight the next meeting of the Founding Chapter, Mass. Mothers of Twins Association, Inc., to be held at 8 p.m. Monday, January 28 at the Tender Loving Care Nurseries, 70 Salem Street in Medford.

Among the new members being honored at this meeting are Mrs. Joseph Flynn, 47 Winford Way and Mrs. Fred Schultz, 542 Washington Street.

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon this Sunday at all Christian Science churches.

The Golden Text is from Psalms (43:2,-3): "Thou art the God of my strength:... O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles."

Readings will include this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 174): "The thunder of Sinai and the Sermon on the Mount are pursuing and will overtake the ages, rebuking in their course all error and proclaiming the kingdom of heaven on earth. Truth is revealed. It needs only to be practised."

Children's Dental Problems Defined

Massachusetts children have a high rate of tooth decay, except in areas where the public water supply has been fluoridated for several years. A kindergarten child in the Commonwealth averages five decayed teeth. A senior high school student averages over ten decayed teeth.

Tooth decay is the result of acid attacks on the enamel. Bacteria present in the mouth act on fermentable carbohydrates, especially sugar, to form these acids. Brushing, or at least rinsing with clear water, helps to remove the sugar before it is converted to acid.

Teeth require daily care. This means eating a balanced diet low in sweets and always brushing your teeth immediately after eating. A child should visit a dentist at age three or as soon as he has all his teeth. In addition, regular dental examinations should be initiated so that any dental problems that do develop can be taken care of promptly.

During the years the teeth are being formed (from about five months before birth to the age of eight years), an adequate supply of calcium and phosphorous is needed for hardening of the tooth structure. Once the teeth are fully formed and calcified, the enamel does not need any more calcium and cannot absorb any more.

While a good diet does play a part in the development of sound, healthy teeth, only fluorides have been proved to develop decay-resistant teeth. Children who, from birth, drink water containing one part per million fluoride, have up to sixty per cent less tooth decay than might otherwise develop.

Malocclusion (failure of the teeth to properly meet), in a child may interfere with chewing, put a strain on the jaw joints and muscles, be a factor in causing emotional problems, and aid in forming decay between the teeth.

Children who accidentally have teeth knocked out should be taken to a dentist immediately. Many times the dentist can sterilize the tooth and replace it in the jaw. The sooner the tooth is replaced in the jaw, the longer it is likely to remain in the mouth.

Problem Drinkers' Family Group To Meet Here

The Al-Anon Family Group is primarily for you who know or have known a feeling of desperation concerning the drinking problem of someone very near to you. Other Al-Anon members have traveled that unhappy road, too, and found the answer with serenity and peace of mind.

When you come into the Family Group you are no longer alone, but among true friends who understand your problem as few others could. We will respect your confidence and anonymity as we know you will respect ours. We hope to give you the assurance that no situation is too difficult and no unhappiness is too great to be overcome. Through knowledge one becomes more objective and this results in greater happiness in the home. In many instances, this encourages the problem drinker to seek help for himself.

We invite all families of problem drinkers and all those who can help carry this message of hope to the sick family to attend an open meeting at the First Baptist Church, corner Washington and Mount Vernon Streets, Winchester, on Fridays at 8:30 p.m.

The program is anonymous and there are no dues or fees. Come with an open mind and see for yourself. For further information regarding the Al-Anon Family Group please write to the Al-Anon Family Group Council, 261 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass., or call COpley 7-8390.

New England '62 Economy Is Active In Performance; Growth Rates Are Fluctuant

The economy of New England performed at a high level of activity during 1962, according to a year-end review of regional business activity reported in the monthly Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

This was so, the bank said, even though New England growth rates were in some instances moderate, erratic or negative, and even though the region's available resources of manpower and productive capacity were not fully utilized.

In November, nonmanufacturing employment was 0.9 per cent higher than a year ago, the report stated. Manufacturing employment slipped slightly below the total of a year ago. Within the manufacturing segment, durables industries averaged a 12-month gain of 1.3 per cent, while nondurable goods industries averaged a decline of 1.9 per cent.

Total nonfarm employment gains were strongest in New Hampshire, with a November 12-month gain of 2.6 per cent. Maine and Massachusetts showed practically no change, and Rhode Island experienced a 1.0 per cent decline.

Estimated unemployment in the six states ranged between 5.0 and 5.7 per cent of the labor force, on seasonally adjusted basis, during the first 11 months of 1962. Average workweeks for factory workers ranged during most of the year between 40.6 and 40.9 hours on a seasonally adjusted basis. A drop of 39.8 hours in November, however, yielded the lowest figure since February. Total man-hours worked by factory workers showed little net change during the year, in contrast to the rather steady expansion during 1961, but remained above the year-earlier level until October.

Capital expenditures by New England manufacturers for new plant and equipment do not appear to have been much disturbed by stock market behavior, international crises, or talk about imminent recession, the report said. A survey made by the Reserve Bank in late August and September showed that 1962 expenditures will probably exceed those of 1961 by 10 per cent.

New England department store sales, aided in part by rising personal incomes, set a new record in 1962 about 2 per cent above the 1961 level.

Registrations of new automobiles in the six state area through November were 11 per cent ahead of the 1961 pace, the bank said, and dealers were occasionally unable to meet demands for either 1962 or 1963 models from existing stocks.

New England vacation business operators had another generally good year. The ski season started slowly but ended up with a 13 per cent increase in overnight guests over the previous season. Guest occupancies at resorts during the summer season just about equalled the performance of the record 1961 season. Registration at boys' and girls' summer camps scored further advances. Measured attendance at miscellaneous types of tourist attractions during the summer season was 7 per cent in excess of the comparable 1961 total.

Prices were much more stable than in many recent years, they expanded rapidly despite the iscreased rate of consumer spending. In December reporting Federal Reserve System member commercial banks in New England showed an annual growth rate of 13 per cent in savings deposit balances, followed by representative mutual savings banks with a gain of 9.7 per cent.

New England's primary and fabricated metals operations in early 1962 were much improved from the depressed condition of a year earlier, but the margin of improvement narrowed as the year progressed. By fall, workstaffs had dropped below year-ago levels, and workweeks had been cut about 5 per cent.

During most months through July, expansion of workforces at the region's electrical machinery industry exceeded that in any other manufacturing industry. In October, however, total employment slipped below the level of a year earlier, although average workweeks remained relatively long.

The nonelectrical machinery industry fared relatively well among New England industries in sustaining an improved level of business through the year, the bank said. October showed a 2.8 per cent annual growth rate in employment, compared with a growth rate of 1.9 per cent for the year to date.

In the region's transportation equipment industry, total employment in October was slightly more than a year earlier. But within that total, the report added, a 5.6 per cent gain in Connecticut must be balanced with a 12 per cent decline in Massachusetts.

Employment at New England instrument manufacturing plants registered steady gains over a year ago, measuring 5 per cent in October. Individual plants reported a rising backlog of orders, and decisions to increase productive capacity.

New England furniture producers were very busy, the report said, and hopeful that 1962 might set a record for volume of business. Industry employment held at least equal to 1961 from January onward.

New England's textile industry continued in its long-term downtrend. October saw daily average consumption of cotton at New England mills down 20 per cent from a year ago, and daily average spindle hours in pure cotton operations down 40 per cent.

For New England apparel manufacturers, 1962 was a good year, but not record-setting. In the shoe industry, production advanced in 1962 to close to 205 million pairs, but was still below the 1959 record of 215 million.

The manufacture of rubber and plastic products provided one of the fastest growths among New England industries in 1962, the report said. Employment ran consistently above 1961, averaging a 5.6 per cent gain through October.

The influence of the business cycle weighs heavily in the measurement of 1962 performance, the bank report concluded. The early months of 1961 witnessed a mild recession, and were followed by a period of rapid recovery. Since the comparative analysis of regional business is usually based upon the preceding 12-month period, growth rates for 1962 were in some cases quite large during the first quarter, but grew progressively narrower as the year advanced.

For example, the bank said, in January, 1962, total nonfarm employment showed a gain over the preceding year of 2.3 per cent. By November, the gain narrowed to 0.5 per cent, although the 3,802,000 nonfarm payroll employees reported for November exceeded the number reported for any previous November. The decreasing statistics, then, do not truly indicate an adverse employment trend in 1962, the bank said. Seasonally adjusted, employment actually varied very little during the year. But it measured against an upward recovery trend in 1961.

Charles Butler Treasurer Of '63 Heart Fund

Treasurer of the 1963 Heart Fund in Winchester will be Charles Butler, it was announced today by Frank E. Greene, general chairman of the month-long February campaign.

Mr. Butler is associated with the Winchester Trust Company, 35 Church Street. He has served as treasurer for the past six years.

Through the Heart Fund, conducted annually here and across the state and nation, major programs of research, education and community service are made possible.

As treasurer Mr. Butler will undertake a vital role in the drive, which will be climaxed with a four-day house-to-house solicitation from Thursday, February 21 to Heart Sunday, February 24.

Community-wide participation in the campaign, the chairman declared, will help insure continuation and expansion of programs which saved many thousands of lives already, and which hold great promise for the future.

Heart and circulatory disease account for more deaths here than all other causes combined.

We have a complete selection of artists' oil colors in tubes, also jars of linseed oil and turpentine. All at the Winchester Star.

Two From Here Will Serve The Desk and Derrick

Mrs. Roberta F. Logan of 166 Forest Street, immediate past president of the Bay State Desk and Derrick Club, has been appointed representative for region I, Public Relations committee, for the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America. Region I consists of all states within the borders of Virginia, Ohio, Toronto and Montreal.

The Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America is an organization of women in the petroleum and allied industries whose purpose is to promote through informative and educational programs, a clearer understanding of the industry which they serve.

The Bay State Club is holding their annual industry appreciation night and installation of officers today at which Miss Frances Dinneen of Medford, formerly of Winchester, will be installed as president for the coming year. Mrs. Logan has also been appointed as editor of their publication, "The Bay State News and Views."

Six Local Youths Apply For Air Force Enlistment

Twenty-two youths, including six from Winchester, applied for USAF enlistment during the past week at the local Air Force office, 19 High Street, Medford.

M/Sgt Thomas Kearns, local USAF recruiter, stated that interest in the USAF in this area appeared to be at an all-time high. On Monday night the applicants were given the two-hour USAF Aptitude Test at Medford High School, rather than at the Air Force office, as the Medford office could not accommodate the applicants.

Sergeant Kearns has been provided 23 enlistment training vacancies by his Boston headquarters for local youths desiring to join the Air Force in January, and who wish to depart for basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, before February 1.

Young men from the Winchester area desiring February enlistment should contact him as soon as possible, Sergeant Kearns cautioned. First step in processing for enlistment is completion of the two hour Aptitude Test, which discloses what type of USAF training the enlistee will receive.

Noonan School Brownies Invested

There are 26 brand new Brownies in the troop that meets at the Noonan School. An investiture was held Wednesday afternoon, January 16 in the school auditorium.

Many mothers and younger and older brothers and sisters watched as the girls presented a pantomime play of The Brownie Story complete with a moon that really did rise and shine.

A few girls will be invested at a later date, but these girls were among those who made their promise last Wednesday: Cynthia Allison, Linda Breen, Laurette Bunzel, Diana Cabral, Janet Collins, Cynthia Drown, Linda Fraser, Catherine Haggerty, Jayne Haggerty, Barbara Higgins, Rosemary Lane, Virginia Lane, Arlene Lieberman, Michele Lombard, Laurie McGonagle, Melissa Melzar, Betty Morandi, Debby Morgan, Karen Neergaard, Ina Pollack, Carol Pratt, Leslie Rae, Barbara Scholl, Mary Lou Sullivan, Diane Waszak, and Debbie Wood. Karen Bell, Barbara Lieberman and Robin Rae helped welcome the girls into Brownies and leaders Mrs. R. Bunzel, Mrs. R. McGonagle, Mrs. T. Wilber and Mrs.

Following the ceremony the girls illustrated part of the Brownie promise to be especially helpful to those at home by serving punch and cookies to mothers and brothers and sisters.

Air Force Enlistments Up

The Air Force Recruiting office at 19 High Street, Medford, continues to set a brisk enlistment pace during the current fiscal year that began last July. MSGT Thomas E. Kearns, Jr. reports that 71 young men from this area have been voluntarily enlisted for the USAF service to date. The eight enlistment vacancies given to the local office for young men desiring enlistment in January were filled on the eleventh of this month according to MSGT Kearns. He is now accepting and testing applicants planning enlistment in February and March. The sergeant explained that enlistment training vacancies for local youths are distributed nationwide by Air Force Recruiting Service. Enlistment vacancies for each month cannot be exceeded without prior approval from higher headquarters, which means that local enlistments must be on a first come, first serve basis.

The Air Force Aptitude test is administered through the Air Force office at 19 High Street, Medford, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and enables a young man to learn exactly what type of USAF training he will receive. Details on USAF enlistment processing may be obtained by contacting MSGT Kearns at EXport 6-5109.

Commonwealth Announces '63 Scholarship Programs

The State's Scholarship Boards have just issued a bulletin defining their scholarship assistance plans available to students who are Massachusetts residents in the academic year 1963-64 under five different programs.

The programs are extensive and students are advised to contact the guidance counselors in the secondary schools or the student aid officers at the various colleges and universities for amplifications of the information.

Five years in the field, the Board has awarded approximately 2,740 awards so far from appropriations totaling $650,000.

Programs are defined under the following headings: Board of Educational Assistance; Medical, Dental and Nursing Scholarship Board; Higher Education Loan Plan; National Defense Student Loan Program and National Defense Graduate Fellowship Program. Some of the information applicable to each program is published here.

Board of Educational Assistance:

This Board is authorized to grant one quarter, one half, or full tuition scholarships to needy and academically worthy, full time day students living in the Commonwealth and pursuing a program of higher education.

Applicants may attend accredited publicly supported or private collegiate institutions in Massachusetts, as well as accredited private out of state collegiate institutions.

This program is available at all collegiate levels except in the fields of medicine, dentistry and nursing. High school seniors must have taken the College Entrance Examination Board test (S. A. T.) and must have been accepted by the college of their choice.

These awards are renewable for no more than four years, provided the students academic standing is satisfactory and that his need is continuing.

Applications for these awards will be distributed in the spring of 1963 to all secondary schools, public colleges and accredited private collegiate institutions in Massachusetts.

Specific enquiries regarding this program should be addressed to:

Executive secretary,
Board of educational assistance,
200 Newbury Street,
Boston 16, Massachusetts,
Telephone CO 7-9650

Medical, Dental and Nursing Scholarship Board

This board is authorized to make awards to needy and academically wothy, full time day students, who pursue a course of study in medicine, dentistry or nursing.

The awards do not apply to premedical, or pre-dental students, nor to students in the fields of practical nursing, medical, dental or X-ray technology. Students in these fields, if attending accredited institutions, should apply to the board of educational assistance.

Awards are applicable toward the recipient's expenses incurred at the institution at which he is enrolled. Applicants may attend accredited, publicly supported, or private institutions in Massachusetts, as well as accredited, publicly supported, or private out of state institutions.

All applicants must have resided in Massachusetts for four consecutive years immediately prior to the acceptance of an award.

Specific enquiries regarding this program should be addressed to:

Executive secretary,
Medical, dental, and nursing, scholarship board,
200 Newbury Street,
Boston 16, Massachusetts,
Telephone CO 7-9650.

Higher Education Loan Plan:

Organized in 1956, under a special act of the Legislature, by a group of educators, bankers and businessmen, the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation has for its purpose making bank credit available to college students on more favorable terms than have ever before been feasible.

Under the Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP) students beyond the freshman year who are living in Massachusetts may obtain up to $500 a year, to a total of $1,500 in three years.

Full information and the required application forms may be obtained from any of the national banks, trust companies and mutual savings banks in the state participating in the program. The address for further information is:

Executive director,
Massachusetts higher education, assistance corporation,
604 Statler Building,
Telephone HA 6-4185.

National Defense Student Loan Program:

The National Defense Student Loan Program provides for the creation, at accredited American colleges and universities, of loan funds which needy undergraduate and graduate students may borrow on reasonable terms.

Recipients of loans are to be selected by the institution itself The law requires that each borrower be a full time undergraduate or graduate student; that he be in need of the amount of his loan to pursue his studies; and that he be capable of maintaining good standing in his chosen courses of study.

Special consideration in the selection of loan recipients is to be given to students who express a desire to teach in elementary or secondary schools, or whose academic background indicates a superior capacity in science, mathematics, engineering, or a modern foreign language.

A student may borrow in one year up to $1,000 and during his entire course a maximum of $5000. Repayment of the loan begins one year after the borrower ceases to be a full time student and must be completed within 10 years therafter.

No interest on the student loan may accrue prior to the beginning of the repayment schedule, and interest thereafter is to be paid at the rate of three per cent per year. Up to fifty per cent of the loan may be cancelled in the event the borrower becomes a full time teacher in a public elementary or secondary school. Such cancellation is to be at the rate of ten per cent a year up to five years.

Specific enquiries regarding this program should be addressed to the institutions to which the students have applied or which they are attending.

National Defense Graduate Fellowship Program:

The National Defense Graduate Fellowship Program directed to assist in the preparation of prospective college and university teachers. This program establishes fellowship grants to permit full time graduate students to pursue advanced studies at qualified institutions in the United States.

For the academic year 1963-64 Congress has authorized 1,500 fellowships for the graduate training of college or university level teachers. These grants are allocated among applicant institutions.

A graduate fellowship may be used by the recipient for three years. It amounts to two thousand dollars for the first year of graduate study, $2,200 for the second year and $2,400 for the third year. An additional amount of four hundred dollars is paid every year for each of the recipient's dependents.

Badminton League Matches

The first round of matches has been completed in the newly-formed intramural badminton league, comprised of Winchester Badminton Club players. Team standings are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Points
Shuttles	1	1	144
Woodshots	4	2	74
Racqueteers	2	4	51
Feathers	1	5	12

On Thursday, January 10, the Shuttles piled up 144 points while winning five out of six doubles matches from the Feathers. Winning combinations for the Shuttles were Lloyd Butterfield - Jay Gottesfeld and Lloyd Butterfield - Paul Surette in the men's doubles; Jay Gottesfeld - Gloria Gottesfeld and Ray Jenkins - Aggie Bixler in the mixed doubles; and Aggie Bixler - Gloria Gottesfeld in the ladies' doubles.

Walt Raleigh - Peter Gove, in winning the third men's doubles match for their team's only victory, accounted for the 12 points earned by the Feathers.

On Thursday, January 17, the Woodshots took the Racqueteers four matches to two. Winning Woodshot pairings, as their team took over second place in the standings with a score of 74 points, were Russ Meade - Bill Macneill and Russ Meade - Tom Smith in the men's doubles; Tom Smith - Nancy Atkinson in the mixed doubles; and Maxine Kajander - Lois Hersey in the ladies' doubles.

The Racqueteers, in accumulating 51 points, scored their victories when Brad Hersey - Lou Dexter won the third men's doubles and White Gray - Paula DiIorio triumphed in the remaining mixed doubles match.

Thursday, January 24 - Shuttles vs Woodshots

Thursday, January 31 - Racqueteers vs Feathers

Thursday, February 7 - Feathers vs Woodshots

Thursday, February 14 - Shuttles vs Racqueteers

Thursday, February 21 - Shuttles vs Feathers

Thursday, February 28 - Racqueteers vs Woodshots

Tuesday, March 12 - Woodshots vs Shuttles

Thursday, March 14 - Feathers vs Racqueteers

Thursday, March 21 - Woodshots vs Feathers

Tuesday, March 26 - Racqueteers vs Shuttles

These league matches have kindled considerable enthusiasm among the players and have heightened their enjoyment in the sport. Anyone who would like to play badminton, regardless of his or her experience and ability, and who can be present on a reasonable number of nights when matches are scheduled, is sincerely urged to join in the fun of league competition.

S. O. I. Women's Bowling League

Speedy recovery to Polly Giacalone. We need you this week. Oops, that was a nasty one, Polly Ceruli. Loretta, doesn't that one pin standing throw you?

Terry Walsh! What can I say. I know the girls haven't stopped laughing yet. Remember, a stitch in time saves nine. We all loved your little apron.

Well, now, this is the week to pick on the Winstons. Are you ready? Captain Ginger Maggio has so much "get up and go" she should bottle it. I think everybody's left arm is sore. Terry Walsh, I've said enough already. Never lose your charm. Jennie Amico, I have never seen anyone get so excited so quietly. Polly Lifare, glad to see you're not so nervous. Oh, boy, what an understatement! Mary Fiorelli, you have such a dry sense of humor. I mean that as a compliment. Remember, "be happy."

Well, next week the Alpines will be under fire. Are you prepared?

Is everybody ready for the banquet? Heard it's going to be a smash. Shop early and get the originals, girls.

Our 100 Club is getting better, but I'm still waiting for those 98-99 bowlers to make it.

Wakefield Ends Winchester Indoor Track Skein, 47-30

Wakefield ended Winchester skein of victories in the North Shore Interscholastic Track series at the Andover Cage Monday afternoon, turning back the Sachems, 47-30 in a meet that showed some good performances by both teams.

Paul Klorer in the dash, Bill Thoms in the 600, Bill Graham in the high jump and the Sachem relay team won firsts in the meet.

Dick Lindsey, hampered by an ankle injury sustained on last week's slippery walks, came within 3/10ths of a second of winning the 300, leading at the last turn where he was nosed out by the thickness of his body by two Wakefield boys, in the final sprint to the wire. It was Lindsey's first loss of the season.

Tibor Saddler, Winchester's exchange student turned in a 6:5s time in the hurdles, but lost at the post to Watson of Wakefield who was 1/10s faster.

Dick Amoroso and Dave Bird picked up thirds in the 1,000 and mile, the latter a torrid race taken by Loomis of Wakefield in 4m 49.7s. Failure to judge pace better hurt both Sachem runners. Steve Wardwell got the shot out 39ft. 10 in, but could do no better than second.

Bill Thoms was Winchester's star, winning the 600, placing third in the high jump and running a leg on the winning relay team. The relay team of Paul Klorer, Dick Rowe, Bill Thoms and Dick Lindsey, wasn't pushed and won going away in 2m 32.8s.

Next Monday Winchester will meet an up-and-coming Lynn Classical team at Andover and Coach Knowlton is hoping his boys get back in their winning stride for this one.

St. Mary's Wins Over Charlestown In Hockey

Pepper Cunningham led the St. Mary's hockey team to a stunning 7-0 victory over St. Catherine's of Charlestown at McHugh Forum last Saturday.

It was a case of Cunningham making the puck disappear off the sticks of the Townies and reappear on the stick of an uncovered linemate.

Twice, Frank Manzie was the recipient of Cunningham's largesse and twice the speedy winger sent the puck whistling by an overworked Charlestown goal tender. Then as the green and gold clad St. Catherine's moved to double team Manzie, Capt. Cunningham found his right wing, Gunner Stabile alone and waiting in front of the net.

To capitalize on this situation was the work of but a moment for St. Mary's and before Charlestown could reorganize its shaken defense, Stabile had lit the lamp twice more as the period came to a close.

The second stanza saw St. Mary's continue to flash their best form. A scintillating, ice spewing, rink length dash by Skip Fucillo resulted in the fifth Winchester score.

Then, as if to show his versatility, Fucillo demonstrated the wisdom in goal tenders wearing masks by launching a rocket from the blue line that screened into the twine over the right shoulder of the Charlestown goalie who had been badly screened on the shot by his own defense.

Midway of the period, Coach Falla removed his starry goalie Kevin Connor in favor of Paul McCarthy who his teammates have dubbed "The Poor Man's Gump Worsely." The sobriquet was well earned as McCarthy demonstrated his amazing ability to absorb pucks, sticks, skates, and players in any or all parts of his body as he turned away several dangerous rushes with headlong dives and splits with complete abandon, and preserved the shutout.

St. Mary's rooters needed only one more incident to put the frosting on their cake, and they were rewarded when Frank Hession scored at 7:51 of the third period to keep his remarkable goal a game record intact.

Coach John Falla was all smiles after the game, brought on no doubt by the excellent defensive efforts of Bob Naneen, Don Amico and Ken Church.

St. Mary's faces Our Lady's of Belmont next Saturday at 12 noon and any continuation of their present form would seem to indicate a very busy afternoon indeed for Belmont.

On Long Trip

Navy Lieutenant John J. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sullivan of 30 Wildwood Street is serving aboard the fleet oiler USS Waccamaw, scheduled to complete her Mediterranean deployment in March. The Waccamaw is part of the Sixth Fleet while she is in the Mediterranean. She replenishes combatant and supply ships and she has visited ports in France, Greece, Italy and Spain.

Sachems Lose Overtime Thriller

Stoneham's guard Jack French scored a lay up with 30 seconds to go in overtime to give his team a come from behind victory over the Winchester High School basketball team Tuesday 58-55.

The Sachems jumped out to an early lead with Mike O'Dair hitting three straight shots to give the Sachems a 12-6 lead. Jack French of Stoneham hit for two straight as his team closed the gap to 20-15, as the quarter ended.

Junior Vic Papadinis put the Sachems' lead to ten points, hitting for three straight baskets as the second quarter got underway. Stoneham fought back, led by Jack French and Eric Ageirsson, fought back and closed the Sachems' lead. The Sachems hit a cold streak and Stoneham jumped ahead 39-38. The two teams exchanged baskets as the quarter ended with the score 42-40.

The Sachems took the lead as the fourth period got underway and held until the four minute mark, when Jack French put his team in the lead again 46-44. The Sachems then tied the lead again at 46-46 on baskets by Jim Devaney. Scully put Stoneham ahead 48-46 with 3 minutes left on a jumper from the right corner.

The Sachems then hit for six straight points led by Pete Fahey, to take a 52-48 lead. Both teams then exchanged foul shots as the score was 53-49 with 1:30 seconds left. Jack French hit a jumper with 1:00 left to make the score 53-51. The Sachems then froze the ball until with 40 seconds left when the Sachems lost the ball out of bounds.

Stoneham then set up center Eric Ageirsson and with 18 seconds left he hit a jumper to tie the game at 53-53. The Sachems tried to set up a shot but missed as the time ran out in regulation play.

The Sachems scored first in the overtime on a jump shot by Jim Devaney to make the score 55-53. Eric Ageirsson tied it for Stoneham, with 1:30 seconds left. This set the stage for the game winning basket. The Sachems missed their attempt to score and with thirty seconds left French drove down the middle to go ahead 57-55.

The Sachems again missed their opportunity to score from close in, and with 9 seconds left Eric Ageirsson sank a foul shot, clinching the come from behind victory.

Eric Ageirsson and Jack French led the visitors with 21 and 20 points respectively, while Vic Papadinis had 21 points for the Sachems.

Barbara L. Buchanan of the Kirsten Travel Advisors of Winchester has just returned from a familiarization tour to Bermuda, where she inspected hotel facilities. In a somewhat wider scope of travel, Mary M. Glasshoff, another member of the staff, just returned from an 83-day cruise around the world.

Jr. High Hockey Team Record Is 4 Won, 2 Lost

The Winchester Junior High School hockey team won their fourth game in six starts last Saturday in a Junior Suburban League hockey contest, defeating Wakefield 7 to 2.

Captain Dave Rowe led the scoring with two goals and two assists. This puts the local boy up near the top of the leading scorers in the league. Other scorers for Winchester were Chuck Swim with two, Leo Chandler, Eddie Grant, and Paul Collins.

The local team lost their first game of the season to a strong Melrose team by a score of 1 to 0. They then rolled off three wins in a row in league competition, defeating Lexington Diamond 2 to 0, Belmont 4 to 1, and Reading 7 to 0, before bowing to league leading Stoneham 5 to 1.

In non-league competition Winchester has wins over the Andover Hockey Association 5 to 4, Belmont Hill 2 to 1. They lost in overtime to Melrose 3 to 2 and tied Andover Academy 2 to 2.

While Dave Rowe and Chuck Swim have been the offensive stars of the team, Peter Thorpe has been equally outstanding on defense. John Shanahan, John Dolan and John Kimball have also contributed to Winchester's fine defensive record. Laurie Kelly and Paul Tierney have split the goal tending duties and both have performed exceptionally well.

The last game of the league season will be played on February 2 against Muzzey Junior High of Lexington.

Town Bowling League

The halfway mark has been reached and positions for the playoffs have been won.

The strong Atlantic Gelatins subdued the Giant Killers 8 to 0. O. Lovgren displayed fine form in rolling a 103-128-125 for 356 and high man for the night. Bud Nash had a 309.

Grandma's Teeth bowled over the Brothers-in-Law through the efforts of Joe Consalves with a 119-128-103 for 350. A. Fiorilli rolled 98-127-99 for the losers.

The Mill Hillers sneaked by J. H. Winn to hold on to third place. Converse and the Hoboes tied 4-4. Harold Faulhefer had a 97-104-117.

The 49'ers held on to fourth place, getting by Strike Lanes 1358 to 1334.

The first five teams are as follows:

1. Atlantic Gelatin, Bud Nash, capt.; Points 124 to 12; Pinfalls 27203; Team high single 606 (an all-time alley record; High team triple 1680 (an all-time alley record).

2. Grandma's Teeth; Bill Sipp, capt.; Points 112 to 24; Pinfalls 25535; High team single 549; High team triple 1578.

3. Mill Hillers; Jim Callahan, capt.; Points 98 to 38; Pinfalls 24931; High team single 553; High team triple 1539.

5. Converse Market; Harold Faulhefer, capt.; Points 62 to 74; Pinfalls 23539; High team single 528; High team triple 1480.

The above teams will have a chance to play in the playoffs in May. They will be pitted against winners of the second half.

Library Film Program

The family film program for Friday, January 25, will take you worlds away.

To Australia where Coral Wonderland shows the coral growth of the Barrier Reef Islands coming to life under the microscope and the reef's unique fishes and underwater creatures.

To Italy for the May music festival in Invitation to Music. The preparations include a dress rehearsal of Il Trovatore, routines by the ballet company of the Royal Opera House of Rome, a string-quartet practicing a Mozart piece, a chorus rehearsing Verdi, and individual musicians practicing at home.

To Africa where African Girl-Malobi, who dreams of some day becoming a school teacher, gives a sensitive portrayal of every day village life in Nigeria.

S. O. I. Bowling League

Alabama moved up a notch to lead the league by taking four points from Georgetown. The losers dropped from fourth to sixth. Four members of the winning team hit 300: Joe Petitti 95-111-116, Dom Provinzano 108-106-99, Correction Fiore 97-97-117, Bill Fiore 104-115-91. For Georgetown Capt. Dick Trabucco hit for 109-98-101.

Yale dropped from first to second in winning over California 3-1. Yale's Joe Capone had a 100-106-112. For the losers Capt. Muskie Tofuri rolled 97-105-104.

B. C. jumped from fifth to fourth by beating last-place Penn. Capt. John Mangano really zeroed in on the pins with a 125-126-111. Mike J. Saraco hit 92-104-120 for the losers.

Capt Moose Bellino and Rudy Fiore helped Holy Cross to a 3-1 win over Navy by rolling respective scores of 108-110-92 and 99-112-114.

Important matches this week are Alabama vs Bates, Yale vs Penn, and B. C. vs Georgetown.

Hoop Team Faces Real Assignment

Winchester High School's basketball Sachems face the stern assignment of winning all their remaining games if they wish to play in the championship playoffs at the Boston Garden.

With Wakefield coming up Friday night and a date with defender Melrose at Melrose Tuesday, it can be seen that Winchester's task is by no means an easy one. However Coach "Jimsy" Phillips feels that his team has the potential to win its remaining games in the Middlesex League and needs only a little nod from Lady Luck to break into the winner's charmed circle.

Winchester has been hurting for guards all season, with first O'Dair and then Schipellite on the sick list. The guards in the Winchester system are very important in setting up plays for the team and keeping the attack rolling. Schipellite showed in the Concord game that he is back and ready to help the team the rest of the way.

The Sachems have not been shooting well thus far, and there will have to be improvement in this important phase of play if the team is to win consistently.

No team in the league is unbeatable, and Winchester has shown the ability to knock off the leaders if they play ball. Each team has two or three boys that have to be stopped. It is not like the old days when one or two teams, generally Winchester and Belmont, spread-eagled the field and won their games going away.

The Sachems cannot afford to make the mistakes they have made over the first half of the season, but Coach Phillips believes his boys will commence to play winning basketball from here in.

Wakefield at Winchester Friday night should provide "Jimsy" with a good test of his team. If Winchester can win this one and set back Melrose Tuesday the Sachems ought to be right "in there" for a playoff post.

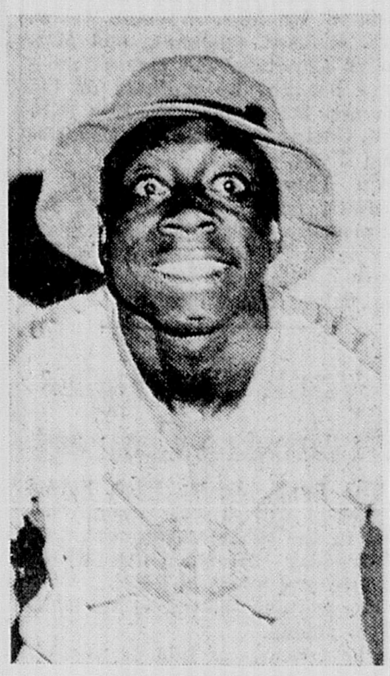
Winchester High School Varsity Club To Sponsor Harlem Diplomats

Basketball's internationally famous Harlem Diplomats will play here at the High School (Gym) on Saturday, February 9th at 7:30 p.m. The Diplomats who are rapidly becoming world renowned, recently played in Mexico, Cuba, Jamaica, Nassau, Brazil and Venezuela where they were labelled the "funniest team ever."

The team features two of basketball's great comedians, Dick Harvey and Goose, Jr. Also there is a bright new sensational dribbler and ball handler, Pete Russell. Jim Scott standing almost 7 feet is the tallest player with the team.



GOOSE TATUM, JR.

The Diplomats will present basketball's most spectacular magic circle. Parts of this unique circle is done in darkness; only visible objects are the hands, shoes and a glowing basket ball. The tricky ball handling will precede the game.

The team is believed to have the greatest group of razzle-dazzle ball handlers ever assembled. While playing before 200,000 fans last season the Diplomats compiled a 173-4 win and loss record respectively. At present the team is undefeated. The game promises to be one of fine basketball mixed with delightful comedy.

Bruno on Army Hockey Team In Europe

Sp/4 Anthony V. Bruno of 24 Chester Street, currently serving as a finance clerk in the finance section of the 8th Infantry Division, U. S. Army in BadTolz, Germany, has been selected to play for the United States Army hockey team in Europe.

SP/4 ANTHONY V. BRUNO

Mr. Bruno played right wing for the Rhine-Main Rockets before being chosen to play on the U. S. Army team in the early part of December. During the months of February and March he is scheduled to play in France, St. Moritz in Switzerland, and in England.

A graduate of Winchester High School, where he was a member of the high school hockey team, Mr. Bruno went to Newman Prep School in Cambridge for a year before going into the Army.

He went to Germany in 1960, and is scheduled to finish his three year enlistment in June.

Miss High School Of Massachusetts Beauty Pageant

The Miss High School of Massachusetts Beauty and Talent Pageant is now preparing to select the young ladies of high school age who will be participating in the semi-final competitions to select the Miss High School of Massachusetts Beauty Queen and Talent Queen for 1963. The preliminary competition for eastern Massachusetts will be held in Brookline Sunday, March 3.

These competitions are arranged for Sundays as the prime object of this pageant is to encourage girls to attain an education beyond high school. This can only be done by focusing attention on the fact that nothing is to interfere with their school commitments. Therefore, by having the competitions on a Sunday afternoon and evening they have not jeopardized their education.

Competitions are held in talent (dancing, singing, vocal or instrumental) and in beauty (in gowns). There is no bathing suit competition. The girls who compete will be judged on natural talent and beauty, poise, personality and charm. There will be six girls selected from the eastern Massachusetts competition to represent this portion of the state in the finals to be held in June. The winners of the state pageant will receive many valuable gifts including: a college scholarship, a scholarship to the Academie Moderne (the foremost finishing school) a week end in Asbury Park, New Jersey for the national competition and other valuable prizes.

Girls interested in competing must be between 13 and 17 years of age and regularly attending high school (grades 9-12) with a "B" average or better. For an application please write to Miss High School of Massachusetts, 5 Woodsedge Road, Medford. Applications must be returned not later than February 15 so send for your application early.

Attractive desk accessories, pencil holders, letter holders, envelope openers, stamp dispensers and desk pens. These items can be purchased at the Winchester Star.

P. A. L. Basketball League

Games Played January 16

As the fourth week of P.A.L. basketball got underway, Kevin Mawn's Providence five romped over Dan Winn's Navy team by a 44-22 score. Providence playing with only five men the entire game, still managed to trounce Navy by a large margin of 22 points.

Big Willie (the stilt) Floyd scored 22 points, Brian LaPointe 9 points, John Martin 6 points, Gustin Barrett 4 points and little John Lanzillo 3 points paced the attack for Providence. Using a zone defense Providence kept Navy's hotshots outside and thus Navy lacked the long bomb and could not overcome Providence scorers.

Little Johnny Lanzillo was the spark for Providence as he stole the ball time and time again and set up his players, instead of scoring himself. Willie Floyd blocked at least a dozen would be Navy baskets, and also bossed the backboards hauling down most of the rebounds.

Rich Rogers playing with a sore hand still managed to score 14 points, while Dan Holland had 7 points and Pete Mawn scored the other Navy point.

In the second game Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati team won a thriller 23-20 over Bob Thompson and Jake Horn's Holy Cross team. In this game both teams played great defensive games, thus keeping the score down. Tom Harris and Frankie Giacalone with 7 points and 6 points respectively, led the attack for Cincinnati, while Paul Rigney and Jimmy Mumma had 6 points and 5 points respectively for the losers.

Cincinnati held a slim 10 to 9 lead at halftime. And Cincinnati managed to stay ahead the second half to win by 3 points. This was the fourth victory, in as many games for Cincinnati, and they lead the league with a 4-0 record.

Providence and Holy Cross have a 2-2 record with Ohio State 3-1, Navy 1-3, and Duke has yet to win with a 0-4 record.

In the final game Tony Shields' Ohio State team trounced Frank McNamee's and Alan Hodge's Duke team by a 36-14 score. Billy Shields had 24 points, Mark Sullivan 5 points, and Ken Garvey with 4 points paced Ohio State. Ricky Kidder was the only thorn in Ohio State side as he scored 12 points, but this was only one-third enough points.

VFW Auxiliary Bowling League

It finally happened, in the match between the Clubs and Diamonds; the third string ended in a tie. Two of the bowlers were in such a hurry to get home that they didn't wait for the final tally and this resulted in a lot of unnecessary confusion in deciding the winner of the string.

Nellie, you've finally done it, you passed the 200 mark and with an 82 string as well. Our special congratulations to you.

Lee, we hope your broken foot heals up fast and you will be able to bowl again soon.

Eva and Rose will be leaving soon for sunny California. Hope you have a wonderful vacation, enjoy yourselves, but don't stay too long. We'll miss you. Don't forget to send us a pretty picture post card.

High scorer this week was Rose with 269, Phyllis was second with 260, and Eleanor third with 255. High single string went to Rose and Eleanor, 93 each.

Winchester Leads Lexington, 66-54. In Front All the Way

Winchester High journeyed to Lexington last Friday evening, where the Sachems outscored the Lexington Minuteboys, 66-54, to win its Middlesex League basketball game going away.

The Sachems took a lot of shots against Lexington and are commencing to hit on some of them. For the first time this year the team looked loose and did not press, working their offense well.

The team shot 26 out of 72 tries for an average of 37 per cent, first time the Sachems have been out of the twenty per cents. Vic Papadinis hit on 9 out of 21, Watson, 4 out of 7, and O'Dair, 4 our of 7.

Schipellite who has been out of the game with sickness, returned to action and had the big percentage of 5 out of 7. It really helped to have Schipellite back, for he set up the ball well and kept the offense rolling.

Lexington had a good shooting record, making good on 23 out of 52 shots for a percentage of 44. Glennon, Egan and Whittemore were the big guns for the losers.

The Minuteboys beat Melrose last week so they are not a shabby outfit at all. Lexington led at the quarter, 17-15, but the Sachems staged a rally in the second period that doubled Lexington's score and put Winchester out in front to stay. The score at the half was 35-27, and though the game was closer in the second half Winchester held on to its advantage.

The Winchester seconds lost the preliminary game, 47-42. The score was 43-42, with only a short time remaining, fouls and Winchester errors making the difference. The varsity summary:

Wakefield Upsets Winchester In Hockey, 5-2

The Wakefield Warriors scored first in their game with the Winchester Sachems last Saturday at the Lynn Arena and the local boys just never could catch up though they outplayed Wakefield for most of the game.

Wakefield got away to a good start at 1:58 of the opening period when Fitzgerald took a faceoff in the zone and slapped the puck past Hills. At 3:56 the Sachems knotted the count. Ed Cutting swung the net and passed out to Barry Johnson at the post and Barry quickly tucked the puck past the astonished Wakefield goaler.

This ended the scoring in the first period and the second period was 4 minutes and 26 seconds along when Theodore scored on an assist from Coccuro. This was a long shot from the blue line that eluded Hills.

Once again Johnson scored the equalizer. Murphy took the puck at center ice and passed in to Cutting, driving in on the left. Cutting pushed along the disc to Johnson who faked the goaler beautifully and slapped the puck by.

At 7:51 Wakefield went ahead when O'Keefe of the Warriors scored from a scramble at the left of the net, the assist going to Theodore.

The final period had moved along for seven minutes before Curley scored on a 30 footer from the blue line that bounced off Hills' glove-hand. Once again Theodore got the assist.

At the eight minute mark Coach Finigan pulled his goaler in an attempt to catch up and Wakefield's Lilly scored on a long shot that went the length of the ice.

The Sachems kept trying but never could pull up. Winchester actually outplayed Wakefield most of the game and played really fine hockey for two periods.

Cutting brought the Winchester supporters to their feet when he carried the puck the length of the ice, on a solo dash only to have the Wakefield goaler make a miraculous save. The summary:

Wakefield Spares — Fitzgerald, Curley, McShane, Barry.

Winchester Spares—O'Callaghan, Eaton, P. Murray.

Winchester Wins Over Needham In Gym Meet

In a meet which might have gone either way, they clinched the lead in the still ring event and came out on top, 115.71 to 110.87. This was their third meet of the season and their second win.

The team took four firsts, with Croft, Hammel, March, and Hoyt placing at the top in side horse, tumbling, still rings, and horizontal bar, respectively.

Hammel, Gaffney, March and Cullen took the number two spot in floor exercise, side horse, parallel bars and long horse, and Lowry, Ring, Buros, Sweeney and again Lowry took third in side horse, tumbling, still rings, parallel bars and long horse.

The next scheduled meet is Saturday, February 2, at 7:00 p.m. in the home gym again, against Framingham.

Collector's postage stamps and albums now on sale at the Winchester Star on all price levels. An excellent way to give youngsters a sense of geography and history and a constructive hobby.

Lincoln Mothers Hear Publisher On School Texts

Many Lincoln School mothers were present to hear a very interesting, humorous, and informative talk about textbook publishing on Tuesday, January 15, in the school auditorium. After a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Rushton Harwood, the program chairman, Mrs. Philip Parsons introduced John Wiggs, executive editor of Allyn and Bacon, textbook publishers, whose subject for the afternoon was "From Author to Schoolroom."

Mr. Wiggs described the incredibly long process it takes to prepare a textbook.

From locating the author to the final product is a matter of almost four years, during which time various editors and departments contribute to the completed book. He illustrated his talk with samples of the various stages of textbook assembly. Mr. Wiggs said that the test of a good book is that (1) it must be readable (2) there must be something in it of value, and (3) it must stand on its own merits.

Afternoon tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting by Mrs. Robert Millican, social chairman, assisted by Mrs. William Tobey, Mrs. Richard Spellman, and Mrs. John Crysdale. The refreshments were brought by mothers of the 4th and 5th grades. Pourers were Mrs. George Goethals and Mrs. Roland Nault.

On Thursday, January 24, a morning coffee is being held for all mothers, with opportunity given to discuss the pros and cons of 6th grade dancing and any other issues that might be of interest.

Lynch Jr. High's Orchestra Concert

The Lynch Junior High School orchestra will give its annual concert in the school cafetorium next Wednesday afternoon, January 30 at 1:45 and again at 2:30.

Parents and the public are invited to attend.

The concert by this 35 member organization will be the first group public performance under the direction of John R. Woodworth, instrumental supervisor, who is in his first year with the Winchester school system. Mr. Woodworth came to Winchester from work in the Framingham schools.

The Lynch musicians will open their concert with the James "Professional March." They will follow with Oakland's, "I'll Take Romance," the Huntsmen's Chorus from Weber's "Der Freischutz," and an arrangement of "Greensleeves." They will conclude with Richard Rodgers' "Oh What A Beautiful Morning."

Middlesex League Hockey

League leader Belmont (7-0-1) and second place Melrose (6-1-1), the defending champion, square off in the game of the season in the Middlesex Hockey League at the North Shore Sports Center, Lynn, Saturday afternoon.

In other pairings, starting at 1 p.m., Watertown faces Stoneham, Wakefield meets Reading and Winchester opposes Lexington.

Belmont, seeking its first Middlesex League title, hasn't posted a win over Melrose in two years. In their first meeting last season Melrose won, 7-0. When they met a second time last year they played to a 3 to 3 tie. The tie was the only blemish on Melrose (20-0-1) while it was annexing the league, State and New England titles.

In the only meeting of the two formidable foes this season, they played to a 1-1 tie. Belmont led, 1 to 0 going into the final minutes of play on a second period goal by Dave Goldberg. But, Melrose defenseman Paul Hurley scored on a 45-foot slap shot with a minute and 33 seconds to gain the tie.

A Belmont victory would give the league leader a four point lead over Melrose and put it in an excellent position to capture league honors. If Melrose should win, they would be deadlocked for first place.

Melrose's sole loss this season was a 2-0 decision to Wakefield. That loss snapped Melrose's 26-game undefeated streak.

The game also matches two outstanding goal tenders against each other. Belmont's Dave Crisafulli has allowed 9 goals in eight games for a 1.1 average. Bob Quinn, Melrose net minder, has been scored against only 9 times for a 1.1 average.

Melrose holds an edge on Belmont offensively. Melrose has scored 30 goals while Belmont has 22. Belmont's biggest scoring output came last week when it defeated Lexington, 5-1.

Winchester wing Barry Johnson scored two goals last Saturday and moved into a tie for first place in the Middlesex League scoring race with Melrose defenseman Paul Hurley. Johnson has registered five goals and 10 assists for 15 points. Hurley, who scored one goal in his last outing, has 10 goals and five assists for 15 points.

Placement Tests For Peace Corps Applicants Jan. 26

A new battery of Peace Corps Placement Tests will be given throughout the nation on Saturday January 26, at 8:30 a.m.

The tests will be held at 823 U.-S. Civil Service Commission testing centers, almost doubles the number of testing facilities previously used. The greater Boston testing center will be at Memorial Hall at Harvard University, Kirkland and Cambridge Streets, in Cambridge.

Those who take the tests will be considered for many new Peace Corps projects in Latin America, Africa, the Far East, and in the Near East and South Asia.

Peace Corps opportunities cover hundreds of different kinds of jobs. Most of them falling into the major fields of education, agriculture, health, construction and community development.

Applicants must be American citizens who are at least 18 years of age. There is no upper age limit. Married couples without dependent children may apply providing both qualify for Peace Corps service.

Interested persons who have not yet filled out a Peace Corps questionnaire may take the tests on a space-available basis and complete the questionnaire after the tests.

Two types of placement tests will be given. One is for men and women who would like to teach in the Peace Corps at the secondary school and college levels. For this, a bachelor's degree is usually required, although the applicant need not be an accredited teacher. The general examination is for all other Peace Corps assignments. However, an applicant who chooses the test for teachers may take an additional test in the afternoon in order to be considered for other positions as well.

While many projects require technical skills, some do not. Liberal arts graduates, for example, are often assigned to community development work after special training, or to teach English at the elementary school level. People with general farm backgrounds might be assigned to agricultural projects without being highly skilled in any of the many agricultural specialties.

Outdoor Camping Defies Recent Zero Temps

It was sunny but cold on Saturday January 19 as scouts of Troop 524 of 2nd Class rank and above, started out for Breakheart Reservation in Saugus to take part in the annual Minuteman Council event, the Polar Bear Campout.

CHRIS BARLOW

The scouts were well equipped for the expected zero temperatures, with sleeping bags padded against the rigors of winter outdoor sleeping on the frozen ground, despite a drenching rain that started in the early hours of Sunday morning, they remained cheerful and undaunted, for these scouts have been hardened by the excellent all-year, all-weather camping program instituted by the camping committee of Troop 524.

As a result of their preparedness and skill, the scouts and their leaders decided that this had been their most successful campout to date, as they had accomplished their assigned tasks of pitching tents in the frozen ground, chopping firewood, fetching water, preparing and cooking four meals, and participating in recreational activities.

And as a result of this campout, each scout who took part will receive and be entitled to wear the official, extremely colorful Polar Bear Patch.

Adult Art Class In Winter Term At High School

The Winter term of the adult art class sponsored by the Winchester Art Association will begin on Monday, February 4, at 7 p.m. in the Art Room in the Winchester High School. King Coffin, who also teaches at the Museum School and at the DeCordova Museum, will continue as instructor.

The class is open to high school students who are interested in furthering their artistic abilities. Students may choose any medium, but if the student has had no work at all in drawing, the first few class meetings will be devoted to elements of drawing and design.

In the fall term, pencil, water colors, oils, and pastels were used. A model is available for those who wish to use one. Since there is a limitation on the number of students who can be accomodated, and since many of the first term students will return to the two-hour class sessions, a reservation should be made at once.

For reservations and additional information, telephone Mrs. Herman R. Sweet, the education committee chairman at EX 5-6062, after 6 p.m.

Mrs. Blackham To Speak Today To Reading Group

Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr., of 33 Canterbury Road, will address the Women's Republican Club of Reading today.

Mrs. Blackham is the membership chairman of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women and a member of the speakers bureau of the Republican state committee. She has traveled state-wide speaking on "Membership Extension" and "Woman's role in Politics Today." She will take as her subject "How to Revitalize Party Membership."

A reception is planned in her honor prior to the meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Howland of Reading.

Preached In Woburn

Dr. Albert J. Penner of Highland Avenue president of the Massachusetts Congregational Christian Conference, was the preacher last Sunday at the 11 o'clock service of the First Congregational Church of Woburn.

Sunday afternoon at 4:30 Dr. Penner presided at the dedication exercises of the new parish house of the First Congregational Church of Stoneham.

Lillian J. Kane Is Honored By Business Group

Lillian J. Kane, prominent businesswoman and beautician and a native of Winchester received an award for community leadership at a series of programs presented at the 30th annual convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association at the Statler Hilton Hotel. The award recognizes Miss Kane as a leader in not only the profession, but an outstanding citizen in her present community, Boston.

LILLIAN J. KANE

Miss Kane, in private life Mrs. Arthur F. Sullivan, was the first president and organizer of the Mass. Cosmetologists Association and has served continuously on the Board since its inception in 1930. Mr. Sullivan is a lawyer and consultant on Social Legislation for the blind, and an instructor at St. Paul's Rehabilitation Center for newly blinded adults.

Miss Kane served before Legislative Committees and the Governor's Council on all matters pertaining to the field of hairdressing. She has been an ardent fund raiser for the Salvation Army, the Catholic Guild for the Blind, the Cardinal Cushnig Charity Fund, as well as Our Lady of Victory Church, St. Francis Xavier Chapel, St. Anthony's Shrine, and the Nazareth Home for Children.

She is a member of the Massachusetts Council of Organization for the Blind, and of the Business and Professional Woman's Club and the Zonta Club of Boston, and for fifteen years, has served on the Board of the Trade School for Girls in Boston and the Henry Peabody Trade School for Girls in Norwood. She is a member of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

For the past 21 years, Miss Kane has conducted a summer shop at the Oyster Harbors Club on Cape Cod, in addition to her business in the Berkeley Building, which she has owned for the past 48 years.

"Winter Cheer" Is Home And Garden Theme

The Winchester Home and Garden Club chose "Winter Cheer" as its theme of the month for January and this was indeed the spirit that prevailed at last Wednesday's meeting at the Crawford Memorial Church Hall.

The afternoon began with refreshments served by Mrs. Edmund Wright and Mrs. Herbert Morris and their committee. Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro, president, with Mrs. Granville Gilpatrick, Mrs. Austin Gibson and Mrs. Linford Fitzpatrick, presided at the tea table which had been arranged by Mrs. James Mason and featured a lovely centerpiece of carnations. Two very original arrangements interpreting the theme of the month were "A Small Gift Arrangement for Bedside Table" by Mrs. Charles Ungerman and "An Arrangement of Plant Material from Yard or Flowerpot" by Mrs. Dudley Kimball. Both were much admired and were a compliment to two very talented members.

Twelve new members introduced by Mrs. Russell P. Pearl, were graciously welcomed. They were: Mesdames Ben R. Schneider, Walter Degnan, Fred W. Greer, Leo Pistorino, Thomas Magoun, Carl Purrington, William F. Labadini, Benedict Ventura, Leonard Branneman, Philip Tesorero, Hiram L. Smith, Jr. and Richard E. Keating.

The business meeting conducted by Mrs. Vaccaro, was a most informative one. She expressed appreciation to Mrs. Clifton MacNeill for her lovely Thanksgiving and Christmas decorations at the Home for the Aged, and to Mrs. Ray Brown and Mrs. Robert Baylies for their service to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Bedford. On the second Friday of every month, these ladies bring flowers for the enjoyment of the patients, and their own "Winter Cheer" is especially meaningful at this time of year. Mrs. Vaccaro added that a great many flowers and greens are needed and asked that members having some to contribute to this service may call Mrs. Brown at PA 9-4183.

Mrs. Arnold Kleinebecker reported on the success of the Christmas Greens Sale which makes possible many community services of the Home and Garden Club.

Mrs. Vaccaro announced that a gardeners' workshop and clinic, sponsored by the East Middlesex District of the Garden Federation will be held at the Waltham Field Station on February 7.

The seven divisions of the workshop will be presented in two periods, the first from 10 to 12 a.m. and the second from 1 to 2 p.m. They will include Conservation, Planting for Outdoor Living, Herb Gardening, Plant Propogation, Lilies, Pest Control and Designs for Flower Arranging. Members needing transportation may call Mrs. Vaccaro at PA 9-3196.

Mrs. Leonard Branneman and Mrs. Clifton Shea were appointed ticket chairmen for the Spring Flower Show which will be held at Wonderland Park March 16 to 24. Tickets will be available to club members at the February meeting.

Mr. Daniel J. Foley, landscape architect, was guest speaker of the afternoon. His talk on "An Easy Approach to Home Landscaping" accompanied by beautiful colored slides, brought a special kind of "Winter Cheer" to the afternoon's program. It was spiced with humor and a great deal of good sense. Today's gardens should be simple, Mr. Foley said, with everything chosen for ease of maintenance. He cautioned against hiring transient "landscrape" gardeners who prowl the streets in the spring looking for gardens to ruin, and said that it is easy to tell a good landscape gardener, for he is one who "doesn't cut the grass too short and never digs around the rhododendrons!"

Troop 524, B.S.A., Court of Honor On For Tonight

On Thursday, January 17, the following boy scouts of Troop 524 were examined by a Board of Review and qualified as 2nd Class Scouts:

Christopher Barlow, David Cincotta, Dana Hanson, Craig Heindel, Wayne Krupsky, Harry Mueller Scott Moulton, Richard Nelson, Jay Rondeau and Albert Thayer.

These scouts will receive their 2nd Class badges and pins at a Court of Honor to be held this evening at the Parkhurst School Auditorium. Since this is a most interesting and worthwhile meeting, it is hoped that all scouts in this troop along with their parents will be present.

Open Somerville Auto School

The Pleasant Auto School of Revere, has just had a gala grand opening of their new modern office classroom at 112 Bristol Road (Ball Square) Somerville.

Mayor Bretta of Somerville was present, also Mr. Clement A. Riley the Registrar of Motor Vehicles of Massachusetts, who cut the ribbon for the occasion.

The Pleasant Auto School is operated by Charles Greenstein, president, who is also Driver Education teacher at Revere High School, and Mr. Jerome Port, treasurer. Also present was Mr. Henry Giles, president of Driver Education Association of Mass., and many police and registry officials.

The reputation of Pleasant Auto School which is well known throughout the north shore, has now extended their unique Driver Education Training Methods to Somerville, and all surrounding cities. Courses at The Pleasant Auto School are offered to youngsters under 25, for substantially reduced auto insurance premiums, and they offer complete Driver Education Courses every month. They also conduct comprehensive Adult Courses, plus brush-up lessons.

The instructors have been State Trained, and individually trained by Mr. Greenstein, and are extremely patient and courteous. Their slogan "Pleasant drivers are better drivers" certainly means just that.

Two Housebreaking Burglars Get 5 - 10 Year Prison Terms

The two housebreak burglars caught on Priscilla Lane on Friday, December 14, by Officers Thomas C. Parsons and Mario A. Buzzotta, were found guilty and given prison sentences on seven charges of breaking and entering and six charges of larceny by Judge Gourdin in Cambridge Superior Court, Criminal Sessions, on Tuesday afternoon.

Alton E. Hanscom, Jr., 28, of Charlestown was ordered by the court to serve a sentence of between five and seven years in the Walpole State Prison. Robert D. Wyman, 26, of Somerville, Hanscom's partner in the Winchester housebreaks, was sentenced to a term of between eight and ten years at the Walpole prison.

Wyman's term of imprisonment was longer than Hanscom's due to additional counts brought against him by the Medford Police Department for jumping a $5,000 bail in September for similar charges of breaking and entering into Medford homes last June.

The Winchester Police Department was represented at the criminal session trial in Cambridge by Sgt. John P. McHugh and Officers Buzzotta and Parsons.

Local Veterans To Receive Insurance Dividends: $43,200

About 660 former GI's residing in Winchester are being sent special Government checks as the result of steps taken by President Kennedy. Most of the checks will arrive sometime this month, the remainder in February.

The local vets will be sharing in a $327,000,000 melon that comprises GI insurance dividends of $237,000,000 and an extra, one-time dividend of $90,000,000.

The payment is being made under a speeded-up timetable, the purpose being to put more money into circulation and thus give the economy an added push forward.

The action affects more than 5,200,000 of the nation's 22,500,000 veterans. They will get $63 apiece on the average. The amount depends on how much insurance they hold.

The 660 estimated to be on the receiving end in Winchester represent nearly one-fourth of the local veteran population, which numbers 2,879.

Most of the recipients are holders of National Service Life Insurance policies, issued for service in World War 2. The others, who were in the first World War, have U. S. Government Life Insurance policies.

In Winchester, the checks add up to approximately $43,200. Most of it, it is expected, will be spent soon in local retail stores.

The final effect of the new money on local business, because of its circulation and re-circulation, should be several times that much.

The Veterans Administration, in announcing the size of the distribution, pointed out that previous payments of dividends, when they occurred, were on the anniversary dates of the individual policies.

LWV to Hear Rep. Speak Wed. On Const. Revision

Mary Newman, representative of the 2nd Middlesex District (Cambridge) will speak on "Constitutional Revision" in the Rich Room at the Library on Wednesday evening, February 6, at 7:45. The League of Women Voters of Winchester has invited Mrs. Newman to speak at their General Meeting, which will be held at this time, because of the growing public interest in re-evaluating the Massachusetts Constitution relative to changing concepts as to the role of government in modern society.

Mrs. Newman was president of the Cambridge League of Women Voters from 1948-1950, and served on the state board of the League as legislative co-chairman. She became state vice-president in 1950, during which time she initiated a League study of Massachusetts Government. The results of that study were subsequently published by the Harvard University Press entitled "Massachusetts State Government — A Citizens' Handbook" which has since become the classic

Local Merchants Plan Feb. 22 Sale

The biggest organized Washington Birthday celebration in the Town's history is being planned this year by 51 Winchester Merchants' Association members who are planning to keep their businesses open, offer special sale prices, and give prizes of 22 silver dollars to each of ten lucky winners at store drawings.

The theme of the association's special program is aimed at starting the first of a series of promotional events to take place throughout the year.

And the Merchants Association is already active in promoting the special one-day event. All the association members are contributing $5 toward the cost of the Washington Birthday prizes, ten prizes of 22 silver dollars to persons who have deposited tickets for the drawing in association member store boxes during the day.

Elimination Of Poll Tax Proposed

Senator Joseph D. Ward (D) of Fitchburg has asked that the Legislature ratify a proposed amendment to the U. S. Constitution to dismiss payment of a poll tax as a requisite for voting.

Senator Ward said he thought an "overwhelming" majority of the people favor the proposed amendment. He noted the "strong position" the administration in Washington has taken on the poll tax.

"We should have nothing to prohibit the rights of a person to participate in government," Senator Ward told the committee.

He said he understands no other state has yet ratified the amend-

JUST TWO DROPS IS ALL IT TAKES to begin the polio immunization program, as Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson, Mrs. M. Evelyn Mason, nurse, Miss Rita Plummer, director of the Visiting Nurse Association, and Mrs. Albert Parker prepare the vaccine drinks for the adult clinic in the Board of Health office in the Town Hall last Saturday. Next clinic will be this Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Polio Immunization Clinic Will Cover 25% Of Town's Adults

Last Saturday, 1,569 Winchester adults received their Type I vaccine at the Board of Health's polio clinic in the basement of the Town Hall. The board expects an even larger number of adults to show up at the second clinic this Saturday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Michael D. Saraco, agent for the board, said that the board estimates approximately 25 to 30 per cent of the town's adult population will have taken advantage of the special public health immunization program.

"This is both a good and a poor turnout," Mr. Saraco said. "It is good in comparison with other towns and cities, whose programs have met with smaller percentages of adults taking part in the state-wide drive to eliminate the dread disease from Massachusetts." "On the other hand," Mr. Saraco pointed out, "a turnout of 25 per cent is not very high for such an important immunization program as this polio clinic is."

About 50 persons walked in on Saturday who had not registered as the Board of Health had requested but who wanted the vaccine drinks. The board accommodated them and allowed them to register and take the drink.

In its desire to immunize as many of the adults as possible, the board has announced that it will have a special receptionist on hand this Saturday to handle walk-ins who desire to register and receive a drink. But, the board emphasized, they will not hold up lines of those who have already registered properly for the clinic.

At last Saturday's clinic the lines became heaviest at around 11:00 o'clock, with persons coming through the clinic doors about four every minute.

The members of the Visiting Nursing Association, who are under contract to the Board of Health for their nursing work, worked as volunteers in doing the clerical processing work and preparing the drinks of vaccine.

The doses were an "attenuated polio virus" which come in vials of a hundred doses each. There are two drops of vaccine in each dose, given in about a third of a cup of water. Looked at in the light of the portent of the disease, the publicity and the impact of the words "polio," the actual taking of the drink seemed anti-climactical to most of the participants in the clinic program.

Dr. Wildasin, chairman of the board noted that the state-wide clinics planned so that every town and city has it on the same day, therefore people all over the state are going to be carrying this virus in a small way right now, infecting the many who did not attend. This would be especially true within families.

Higher Police Pay Is Sought By Patrolmen

Four police officers and four patrolmen appeared before the board of selectmen at its Monday night meeting to state their case for an across the board ten percent increase in patrolmen's salaries. The present Winchester minimum is $5,252.

Highlighted in the appeal for better pay for the local force was their strong concern for the maintenance of the prestige and morale of the force, their present employment problems due to the lack of enough qualified candidates in competition for present and future vacancies, and the rapidly falling relative spot they hold on the list of 16 towns to which Winchester is usually compared salarywise.

A police salaries committee, made up of Lieutenants Edward Bowler and John Elliott, Sergeants Andrew Crawford and John Dolan and Officers Richard Beaton, Robert Elliott and James Flaherty, represented the force.

Prior to the appearance of the police committee, John Lyman presented to his fellow selectmen a graph of police salaries related to the present scales of the other 16 towns, the conclusion of which was that at this point Winchester salaries are about in ninth place, slightly below the average salaries of towns such as Arlington, Brookline, Concord, Hingham, Lynnfield, Needham, and Shrewsbury.

Lt. Bowler pointed out that although Winchester is now 8th or 9th on the list, it will soon be 13th or quite possibly 15th, if no pay increase comes through this year.

He based his contention on the fact that pay raises have been promised or strongly indicated in many of these towns. He stated that in many of the towns Personnel Boards have given their backing to police department salary raise requests early in the fall which has allowed these departments the time to go to their town meetings better prepared for the request.

In answer to a question by Paul Dunn as to whether the committee had cleared their raise request through the Personnel Board, Lt. Bowler replied that they might do this but had not yet done so and gave as one reason that a request to the Personnel Board from the Winchester sergeants relative to a salary adjustment point had been before the Personnel Board for about a year and still had not been acted on.

Sgt., Crawford said that all but one of the 17 towns are asking for an increase, and in answers to questions from Mr. Lyman stated that the Wellesley force, which is asking for a $6,300 minimum patrolman's pay, has been told that they would get this; that Melrose and Natick, both asking increases, have no commitments yet; and that Wakefield is almost assured of a $6,100 base pay.

Lt. Bowler and Lt. Elliott, both put great emphasis on the present lack of healthy competition for jobs on the force and expressed concern that this picture is likely to become worse if sufficient salary inducement is not added.

Lt. Bowler pointed out that many fine local police candidates are joining departments with better pay, such as the state, M.D.C., Registry, and New York City police forces.

"The lack of candidates is in great contrast to when most of us older fellows won our place on the force," said Lt. Elliot, "and it is a worry to all of us.

Local Democrats Told State Party Needs '64 Reform

Representative Michael S. Dukakis (Dem-Brookline) told a group of local Democrats Tuesday night that "the job of reforming the Democratic Party in Massachusetts will not be finished until we have a top-to-bottom reform of the Democratic state committee and Democratic town and ward committees in 1964."

Rep. Dukakis made the statement at a meeting of local COD members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid of Winchester. The meeting was attended by members of the Democratic reform group from Arlington, Winchester and Medford.

The first stirrings of reform within the Massachusetts Democratic Party have just begun, Rep. Dukakis said. A reform-minded Governor and a new and vigo-

Legislative Hearing For Town Comptroller: Hewis Argues Idea Supported By Local Officials

State House, Boston, Jan. 29—Arguments before the Joint Legislative Committee on Town's public hearing Tuesday that an office of town comptroller would eliminate costly duplication of effort and machinery and modernize the accounting structure of local government in Winchester did not go unchallenged.

Offering testimony supporting the comptroller bill sponsored by Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Ave. was Arthur H. McKinnon, director of the State Bureau of Accounts and former comptroller of Brookline.

Mr. McKinnon told the committee he strongly supported offices of comptroller in every Massachusetts town and he likened the duties of a comptroller to those of a city auditor rather than a municipal accountant.

Paul Dunn, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, met an argument when he declared the town could experience more savings by coordinating accounting practices under the control and supervision of an appointed full-time comptroller. The standardized supervision of a comptroller over all town accounting matters is a progressive step forward in the organization of town government, Mr. Dunn said.

Mr. Hewis, referring to Dunn's earlier assertion that a comptroller would be "worth more" on a salary scale than the present town accountant who receives about $8,100 a year, estimated a comptroller's pay at around $10,000 a year and asked, "Where are the savings?"

He declared the town would not be able to realize savings from a $2000 payroll increase.

Mr. Hewis based his opposition on an argument that the legislation to abolish the post of town accountant and set up a consolidated control office is illegal.

By law, he told the committee, town accounts must be kept in duplicate.

Despite a section of the bill to assure compliance with general laws, he said, elected boards and department heads could stand "hard and fast" to prevent intervention into their duties to maintain accounting records.

Mr. Hewis added that without accounting machinery in departments now required to keep the records, employees would be dropped from the town rolls, and he suggested the proposed bill would violate statutes that allow the town departments to appoint personnel.

"You would be creating another Simon Legree who would go around stalking the corridors of the town hall and telling the town employees what to do," he said.

Rep. Chadwick cited background for the legislation which was supported "overwhelmingly," he said, by a voice vote of the town meeting membership based on the report of the committee of methods and procedures set up following a fiscal survey team established eight years ago to probe the town's fiscal and accounting problems. If the bill is passed it will come before the town meeting again for ratification.

Rae D. Anderson, chairman of the methods and procedures committee, said the group's findings indicated a lack of efficiency under the present accounting set-up because of the limited authority of the town accountant.

Appeals Board Gives OK To Rocky Ledge Farm Greenhouse

The Board of Zoning Appeals has rendered an affirmative decision to the petition of Paul J. Mahoney to construct a commercial greenhouse on a 49-acre land tract off Cambridge Street in a Single Residence District.

The action by the board is the result of a three year hassle over the permitted use of the residentially zoned district in which the building commissioner refused a building permit, the board concurred with the commissioner, the Middlesex Superior Court supported the appeals board decision, and finally, upon further appeal by the petitioner, the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth reversed both the lower court's and the appeals board's rendering of the case.

Excerpts from the new decision by the Board of Appeals follow, showing the reasons given by the board in reaching its opinion.

In its 1960 decision the board held that the proposed Mahoney greenhouse would be "injurious to the neighborhood" and "detrimental to the public welfare" because it would be, in effect, an expansion of Mr. Mahoney's farm stand business contrary to the long-range single residence planning envisioned for this area. This is in substance what the residents of Pond Street are contending in the present proceeding also. On appeal, however, the Supreme Judicial Court found that the board was not justified in denying the greenhouse on this ground. After noting that the area, although zoned for residence, "has not really become residential," the court stated that the contemplated greenhouse "would allow convenient use of the premises for farming purposes in a manner which can have no substantial effect upon the public welfare at the present time." It added that the greenhouse "would have no tendency to change the present character of the neighborhood."

In view of this clear language by the court, we would not be disposed to repeat the board's 1960 finding unless the evidence presented on this question in this new

Scholarship "Share" Drive Begins Monday

Rising costs of higher education and the increase in high school age population has given new impetus to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation as its 1963 drive opens Monday.

Neil H. Borden, chairman of the drive, at a recent meeting of solicitors, called for greater town-wide and individual participation in the 18th annual campaign for scholarship funds. The first purpose of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, he explained, has always been to assist qualified and financially deserving Winchester High School students to attend the colleges or special training schools to which they have been admitted. For the first time last year financial aid was also made available to upper classmen who otherwise might not have been able to continue on in school.

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation also functions to provide an efficient method for citizens and community organizations to contribute effectively to these students. It establishes a fair procedure through its Scholarship committee for selecting worthy candidates and at the same time protecting confidential information supplied by their families. Lastly, it serves to stimulate scholastic excellence and other outstanding merit at Winchester High School.

Since 1945 the Winchester Scholarship Foundation has raised $103,000 and awarded 260 scholarships. This year's committee intends to sell "shares" in the Foundation to match and exceed past records. As in past years "shares" may also be obtained at the Winchester Trust Company, the Winchester National Bank, The Winchester Savings Bank and the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

This week's goal is 100 per cent participation of local businesses, service organizations and retail merchants. Next week the citizens will be asked to give.

Starting out Monday to solicit the interest and contributions of 282 Winchester businesses and organizations, big and small, are the following members of the Finance committee with Levon K. Boodakian, chairman and John H. VanDyke, vice chairman: George L. Billman, Ralph H. Bonnell, Jr. John K. Colony, James Costello, John F. Doherty, Gerard Donahue, Alfred D. Elliott, Robert Elliott, Frank J. Grabiec, James F. Henry,

Paul Ryan Aids School Project For Wilbraham

Paul Ryan of Winchester, is one of many Wilbraham Academy students who are returning to their own communities this weekend to solicit funds for the school's annual student project, student scholarships support and a contribution to the Berlin Freedom Fund.

The project, now in its 15th year is operated by the students under the direction of a faculty adviser. When it was organized in 1949, its principal purpose was to aid a postwar German school with contributions of food and clothing. In succeeding years scholarships were made available to American and foreign boys. Students from Holland, Japan, Finland, Norway, Southern Rhodesia, Germany, England, Hungary, Korea and Denmark have come to Wilbraham by this means. Plans for the coming year call for bringing students from Jamaica, Finland and Ireland to the Academy.

Since 1955, in addition to the scholarship program, the project has sent $1,000 each year to maintain and enlarge the Wilbraham Academy Berlin Freedom Fund, which is used, on a revolving loan basis, to make it possible for East German students to study in West Germany, free from communist influence and domination. Several of these loans have already been paid back.

In recognition of its efforts, the Student Project Association has been awarded a plaque by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge for "outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American way of life."

Marycliff Honors To 27 Students

First and second honors were awarded this week to students at Marycliff Academy. Recipients of the first honor awards were Nancy Collins and Jeanne Derba, Seniors; Corrine Coakley, Diane Bouley and Judith Maselli, Juniors; Gail Reynolds, Sophomore; Johanna Barrett, Cecelia Iandoli, Lorraine Nardini, and Margaret Flanagan, Freshmen.

Obituaries

Mrs. Margaret Blake Hadley

Mrs. Margaret Blake Hadley of 1 Lewis Road, widow of Dwight W. Hadley, rector emeritus of the Church of the Epiphany, died Thursday, January 24, at the Baker Memorial of the Massachusetts General Hospital after a short illness. She was 72 years old.

Mrs. Hadley was the daughter of Charles and Louise (Walker) Blake. She was born in Bellows Falls, Vermont, and spent her early life there, being educated in the Bellows Falls schools. In October of 1916 she married Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, who was for 17 years rector of Grace Church in Medford and then served as rector of the Church of the Epiphany for 21 years, being elected rector emeritus upon his resignation.

She was a woman of high character as well as of great thoughtfulness and kindness. Constantly supporting and sustaining her husband in his work as rector of the parish, she was widely known and universally esteemed, not only by his parishioners but by the entire town.

Mrs. Hadley is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Martha H. Rockwell of Fairfield, Conn., and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Church of the Epiphany with former Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill and the rector of the church, Dr. John W. Ellison, officiating. The Rev. John Hill, curate, also participated. The following group of Wardens and Vestrymen served as bearers:

Robert A. Nyere, R. Alan Page, Maxwell McCreery, William M. Hopkins, Stephen G. Nichols, Gerald Y. Hills, John K. Colony and Herbert W. Kelley.

Burial will take place during the spring in Oak Hill Cemetery, Bellows Falls, Vt. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made in her name to the Parish of the Epiphany Chapel Fund.

Edward C. Kelley

Edward C. Kelley, 72, of 37 Pierrepont Road, retired Brookline town engineer and past commander of Brookline Post, American Legion, died Wednesday January 23, at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Mr. Kelley was born in Brookline, and for many years prior to his retirement served as a town engineer there. He moved to Winchester two years ago, also maintaining a summer home at Point Shirley in Winthrop.

Mr. Kelley was an Army veteran of World War I, a member of the Brookline Legion Post and a charter member of Stephen F. Rutledge Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was also a member of Brookline Council, Knights of Columbus.

He leaves his wife, Rose A. (Brennan); a son, Dr. Edward C. Kelley, Jr., of Milton; a brother, Frederick A., of North Hollywood, Florida, a nephew, Dr. Thomas J. Ford of Newton Center; and a niece, Mrs. Mary L. Kane of Winthrop. Four grandchildren also survive.

The funeral was held from the George J. Lacy Funeral Home in Brookline Saturday morning. Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary of the Assumption Church at 10 o'clock. Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Francis W. Gerbick

Francis W. Gerbick of 66 Sylvester Avenue, died at the Winchester Hospital Wednesday morning, January 23, after a short illness. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Gerbick was the son of Marin, and Rose (Hume) Gerbick. He was born July 7, 1901, in Cambridge and had lived in Winchester for the past 25 years. Employed by the DiNatale Floors & Co. of Boston, for 28 years, he travelled extensively installing floors in gymnasiums throughout the district. He was a member of local No. 40 of the Carpenters' Union of Boston.

Mr. Gerbick leaves his wife, Mrs. Pauline E. (Harrington) Gerbick; a son, Francis W. Gerbick, Jr., of Silver Springs, Md.; two daughters Mrs. Frank Comita of Stoughton and Mrs. Neil Cotter of Nashua, N. H.; and John W., Stephen J., and Mary Ellen Gerbick, all of Winchester. He also leaves his stepmother, Mrs. Henrietta Lyons, a stepson Francis Dodge of North Woburn; and six stepsisters, Mrs. Allan MacIntyre, Mrs. Winifred Campbell, Mrs. Gertrude Cummings, Mrs. Marguerite O'Connell, Mrs. Lillian Simoneau, and Mrs. Beatrice Fitzgerald.

The funeral was held Saturday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 o'clock. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Charles S. Livingstone

Charles Snow Livingstone of 8 Brooks Street, and Red Beach, Maine, died Sunday, January 27, at Red Beach after a long illness. He was until his retirement ten years ago vice president and a director of the Dellumoid Company of Worcester, manufacturers of gaskets and packing for engines.

Mr. Livingstone was the son of James, and Julia (Roberts) Livingstone. He was born May 26, 1884, in Calais, Maine and spent his early life there, attending the Calais schools. He left school while in the fifth grade and went to work in a shipsmith's shop at the Calais ship yards.

Later he was employed by the Dellumoid Co. of Worcester and worked his way up to vice president in charge of sales and a member of the board of directors. In all he spent 35 years in the company's employ.

Mr. Livingstone was a member of the former Metropolitan Driving Club of Cambridge and a member of the University Club. Special action had to be taken by the club to admit him because of his lack of formal education. He was a member of the St. Croix Historical Society and of the St. Croix Boating Club, both of Calais.

Mr. Livingstone's wife, Mrs. Hildegarde Brandegee Livingstone, died several years ago. He is survived by three sons, Philip B., of Winchester; David, of New York City and Charles B. Livingstone of Lancaster, N. H.; a brother, Guy P. Livingstone of Winchester and two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Haley of Milltown, N. B.; and Mrs. Sophia Scoboria of Bedford, N. Y.; also by six grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Knight Memorial Methodist Church with the Rev. Herman Grove officiating. Cremation followed at the Fern Hill crematorium at St. John, N. B. Burial will take place at a later date in the Red Beach Cemetery.

Willard P. Kellough

Willard P. Kellough of 233 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington, formerly of Winchester and brother of the late Mrs. Albion L. Danforth, died Monday, January 28, suddenly at his home.

Mr. Kellough was the son of Thomas, and Anna (Kenny) Kellough. He was born March 21, 1891, in Boston and grew up in that city, attending Boston Latin School and business college. He came from Boston to Lakeview Road many years ago and left town at the time of his retirement 10 years ago. Prior to his retirement he was associated with the firm of Stone & Webster.

He was a Mason and a member of the New England Association of Fire Chiefs.

Mr. Kellough leaves two nieces, Mrs. Everett P. Stone of Boca Raton, Fla., and Mrs. Robert C. Scott of Winchester; also two nephews, Roscoe, and John Bicknell both of Grafton.

Services will be held this Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Kimball Chapel with Dr. Robert A. Storer, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

Mrs. G. Bachmann Dies in Halifax

Mrs. George Bachmann, who passed away last week in Halifax, Nova Scoita, was a sister of Dr. F. Milne Blanchard of Winchester. A number of friends will remember her as having visited in Dr. Blanchard's home at various times.

ment and suggested that Massachusetts be the leader because it has "always been the symbol of civic rights."

The Governor has also asked for "speedy ratification."

In a statement submitted to the committee the Governor said: "The poll tax is still used in five southern states as an obstacle to the exercise of the voting franchise of many citizens. Massachusetts can be one of the first of the 38 states which must ratify the proposed amendment, to make it the law of the land."

Valentine Tea And Fashion Show For Fortnightly

The Fortnightly Valentine Tea will be held on Monday, February 11 at two o'clock in the Social hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Mrs. Charles E. Potts, Jr., the Club's first vice president, is in charge of the Spring Fashion Show which will present the spring collection of Winchester's Peck and Peck branch store.

Miss Helen Niedringhaus, program chairman, will introduce the commentator, Mrs. Richard Miano, manager of Peck & Peck. The models will be many attractive young ladies to be attired in bathing suits, coats, dresses and suits all so well selected from Peck's spring collection.

Following the Spring Fashion Show tea will be served by Mrs. Harold Bergquist, chairman of the Club's Social Committee and the members of her committee.

The Fortnightly members with their guests will find it an entertaining afternoon as will the public who are cordially invited. Tickets will be sold at the door. Membership tickets must be shown at the door.

First Church Adult Lecture Series Presented

The religious educational committee is presenting the second in the adult lecture series in Ripley chapel at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, February 6. The public is invited to hear Rev. Robert Holtzapple, chaplain in the ministry to Protestant students at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Holtzapple will speak on the subject, "The Christian's Relationship to Men of Other Faiths." At the close of the lecture there will be opportunity for questions and discussion.

Stiff Penalties Asked for Drink And Drive Minors

A delegation from Essex County Monday headed a troop of witnesses advocating strict penalties for unlawful possession of alcoholic beverages by minors.

Rep. Morrow (R) of Haverhill told the committee on legal affairs that the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission had to come into Haverhill and "put an end" to teen-age drinking.

The Haverhill Republican said the bill to set up a $50 fine for a minor knowingly having alcoholic beverages in a vehicle he is operating and requiring a suspended driver's license for from one to three months would help the situation "because we can't have the ABC everywhere."

The Mass. Police Chiefs Association favors the bill, said Rep. Morrow. He added police officers are "helpless" to do anything about minors with alcohol in their cars because the law lacks teeth.

One of the prime movers in the Mass. Police Chiefs Association who urged the advocacy of the bill to put some teeth into the teen-age drinking and driving law was Joseph Derro of Winchester.

Chief Derro said yesterday he feels police officers should be credited with enough intelligence not to go infringing on the rights of persons in enforcing such a law. However, he added, something should be done along this line to aid officers in combating the chronic offenders who continually and deliberately violate the present ineffectual law.

Chief Derro said that the problem in Winchester is small now in comparison to what it was just two years ago, when it was a serious local problem.

A similar bill was reported favorably by the legal affairs committee last year, but died on the floor of the Legislature.

Also supporting the bill, representing Registrar Clement Riley was Joseph F. Walsh. The policy of the Registry, he told the committee, is founded on the belief that young people have a "very good sense of reason" in most cases, and that the proposal would benefit the reasonable group.

Back to School Monday Night For Adult Education

At the conclusion of the Tuesday night pre-registration evening for the winter term courses of the Adult Education Program, some 142 Winchester citizens had signed up to begin classwork Monday night, February 4, in classrooms at the senior High and McCall Junior High Schools.

Registration is still being accepted at the office of the assistant superintendent, Richard E. Desjarlais, director of adult education, and is expected to go higher than the present figure.

Of the thirteen courses offered in the large categories of general education, general interest and homemaking and crafts, two are in some danger of being cancelled because of light enrollments. These are the follow-up Spanish conversation course, Spanish II, and the Rotary-sponsored course in Developmental Reading. Enrollments in the other courses are holding up to average.

Beat the Cold: Join the Army In the South

Well, there's one way to beat the weather we've been having up here lately - join the Army.

Sergeant Jack Bateson, Army recruiter at 49 High Street, Medford, announced this week that all young men qualifying for enlistment during the month of February will be sent to South Carolina for their first eight weeks of basic training.

He also revealed that young men able to qualify for the special February "feature" Army Aviation, will remain in the South for their advanced training. He said that aviation mechanic and pilot training classes are conducted in either Virginia or Alabama.

According to Sergeant Bateson, high school graduates who can qualify for the rapidly-expanding field of light aviation will proceed to Fort Eustis, Virginia, or to Fort Rucker, Alabama.

For the young man who doubts his chances of getting into such a desirable training program, Sgt Bateson states that the Aviation Mechanic School at Ft. Eustis, alone, turned out more than 3,000 graduates last year. And Army Aviation is expanding more rapidly than ever before.

So, to misquote Horace Greeley-"Go South, Young man:" in addition to less snow, you might well find your future. For additional information, call Sergeant Jack Bateson at EXport 6-5777, or visit his Medford office.

Local Heart Fund Committee Seeks Volunteers' Aid

The Winchester Heart Fund is making preparations for its annual house-to-house heart Sunday canvass on the weekend of February 22 to 24, and is seeking volunteers to aid in the drive.

Frank E. Greene, local chairman for the heart fund, said that captains are needed in precincts 1 and 3.

Mr. Greene said he hopes this year's results will exceed those of last year by a substantial margin. "Not only did we lag behind other communities of comparable size and income," Mr. Greene said, "but we fell far below our own 1960 and 1961 totals by over a third."

The lifeblood of the fight against heart disease is the heart association, Mr. Greene emphasized, and the association must depend upon volunteers and contributions to do research, support persons afflicted, and to educate the public. Volunteers may call PA 9-6065.

Hearing

Towns with a comptroller office, including Wellesley, Scituate, Dedham and Brookline, were visited by the committee. The experience of these communities, said Mr. Anderson, "is that they feel the change was a step forward."

Proponents told the committee on towns they intend to empower the comptroller with control and supervision over all accounting records and procedures, except that he would not have jurisdiction over school department business machines.

Chairman Dunn asserted, "We feel that this would be a definite step forward in town administration, particularly in meeting the duplication of paper work." It was unanimously endorsed by both the Selectmen and the Finance Committee.

The committee should regard the matter as home rule, he said.

When questioned by Committee Chairman Senator Paul H. Benoit (D) of Southbridge, Mr. Dunn declared the town accountant could be kept on as comptroller, but pointed out that there was no provision in the bill to require it. The comptroller would be approved by the Selectmen and could be removed by the Selectmen for cause. A comptroller would be subject to the supervision and control of the Selectmen.

School committee representatives spoke in favor of the bill during debate in Winchester earlier, John Lyman, a member of the board of selectmen, pointed out. He was chairman in 1962 of the town finance committee.

Two town departments possess accounting machinery now and they work on a part-time basis, said Arthur Hills, a certified public accountant and member of the early study committee.

He added there is "much duplication of town department accounts."

Mr. Hewis, concluding his arguments, suggested that the town should consider revising the town charter to accomplish a structural reform rather than individual changes.

He also advocates that the issue be put on the ballot at the town election, rather than provide for acceptance by the town meeting.

The Legislative committee took the bill and the results of the public hearing under advisement.

reference work for legislators and civic groups interested in our governmental structure.

Mrs. Newman's first elective term began in 1952 when she represented Cambridge at the State House. In 1954, she worked as legislative assistant to the Republican Floor Leader; in 1955, she was appointed to the Parole Board by Governor Herter; in 1957, she resigned to run in a special election as representative to the House from Cambridge.

Mrs. Newman has had a long-term interest in Constitutional Revision. She is a strong supporter of a 4-year term for governor, but has consistently opposed the so-called "popular convention" method of change. The present Constitution contains two specific provisions for amending itself — by Legislative Amendment and by Initiative Amendment, both of which require the action of the legislature meeting in joint session.

Since this is a complex and highly controversial problem concerning all voters, the League cordially invites not only members of the League and their husbands, but the public as well to hear Mrs. Newman and to ask pertinent questions. Many excellent League publications on the subject are available, and can be obtained from Mrs. William Dawson, PA 9-6392.

Dade, McDonough, Stewart Are Elected to Serve Winchester Trust

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Winchester Trust Company was held in the Church Street office on Monday, January 21, followed by a meeting of the board of directors.

The stockholders elected Dr. James F. McDonough, of 71 Wildwood Street, and Robert B. Stewart, 35 Foxcroft Road, as new directors of the bank. The directors subsequently elected Ernest B. Dade of 68 Hillcrest Parkway to the office of vice president.

Mr. William L. Parsons, chairman of the board, called the meeting of stockholders to order at 4:15 p.m., with 18,818 shares of the 20,000 shares outstanding represented in person and by proxy.

DR. JAMES F. McDONOUGH

Dr. James McDonough is a native of Woburn and was graduated from Boston College in 1935 and from Tufts Medical School in 1939. He served as resident obstetrician and gynecologist at Boston City Hospital and Cambridge City Hospital from 1939 to 1944. Upon his discharge from the U. S. Army in 1946, he opened an office for the practice of obstetrics and gynecology in Winchester. A fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, he is presently affiliated with Winchester Hospital, Choate Hospital, Woburn, Lawrence Memorial, Medford, Symmes Hospital, Arlington, and St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton.

Dr. McDonough is a member of the board of directors, Boston College Alumni and Development Fund, Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Society, and the Winchester Country Club. He resides here with his wife, Mrs. Marie B. McDonough, and their four children.

Robert B. Stewart, a West Virginian, is dean of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University, having served in this capacity since 1945.

His degrees include: B.A. 1931, M.A. 1932, University of Kentucky; M.A.L.D. 1937, The Fletcher School; Ph. D. 1938, Harvard University. He has studied abroad as a Carnegie Fellow in International Law and is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. Stewart has served with the Department of State, Division of European Affairs, and as assistant chief, Division of British Commonwealth Affairs, 1938-1945. Also, he was a member of the staff of the American delegation to the International Civil Aviation Conference at Chicago, 1944. His duties as assistant executive secretary at San Franciscan Conference, 1945, enabled him to take an active part in the founding of the United Nations.

He has been a visiting lecturer in government at Harvard University, a consultant to the Department of State, and a public member of the Foreign Service Selections Board.

In June, 1962, Mr. Stewart was the recipient of an honorary LL.D. degree, conferred by the University of Kentucky. He lives here with his wife, Mrs. Charlotte F. Stewart, and their family.

ROBERT B. STEWART

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors, held immediately following the stockholders' meeting, Ernest B. Dade was elected to serve as one of the two vice presidents of the bank.

Mr. Dade is well known in Winchester, and his long service to the town has been indicative of his civic-mindedness and keen interest in the affairs of the community. He was a member of the town Finance committee, a former chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and a former chairman of the Board of Assessors.

He is a past president of J. O. Whitten, Inc., Winchester, and his many directorships include: Winchester Hospital, Newton Theological Institution, J. H. Winn, Inc., Winning Farm Home, Woburn, and C. & B. Metal Stampings, Inc., Stone Park, Illinois.

Mr. Dade is chairman of the board and treasurer of J. H. Winn, Inc., Winchester, president of Gilford Marina, Inc., Gilford, N. H., executive vice president of Potter-Chamberlain, Inc., Gilford, N. H., executive vice president of C. & B. Metal Stampings, Inc., and vice president of Parkview Electronic Park, Inc., Winchester.

ERNEST B. DADE

A graduate of Wakefield High School, Mr. Dade has attended Wentworth Institute, Bentley School of Accounting, and Northeastern University. He is a member of the Winchester Country Club, William Parkman Lodge, A.F.&A.M., and the Golden Rule, Lodge, A.F.&A.M. He is a member and past president of Winchester Rotary Club.

The present officers of the Winchester Trust Company are:

President, Vincent C. Ambrose
Vice President, Ernest B. Dade
Vice President, Don S. Greer
Treasurer, Charles W. Butler
Asst. Treas., Roland R. Carter

The following nine members at present constitute the Board of Directors: Vincent C. Ambrose, Ernest B. Dade, Don S. Greer, Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, Horace H. Ford, James F. McDonough, John S. Morgan, Jr., Robert B. Stewart, and Fred F. Stockwell.

Editorials:

Earth To Earth, Dust Claims Dust . . . And A Great Poem Has Died

His life was lived as his works were read - poetically. And with the passing of life from the great poet, Robert Frost, America, and particularly the New England region, mourns the loss of a significant cultural voice from the American literary scene.

Without question the best poetic interpreter of rural New England life and philosophy, he etched the New England countryside and people, making their parables the world's. Stalwart in his belief and fight for the sanctity of the individual to pursue truth, Robert Frost sought and found clarifying principles in man's living experience and intuition of nature. He symbolically raised them to universal applications, and gave those experiences and intuitions significant meaning.

For the rare and appealing ability he had in delivering his sentient messages with typical restrained, carefully measured, and "tight-lipped" lyrical verse, Robert Frost was the winner of the coveted Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1924, 1931, 1937, and again in 1943. He also received a quantity of honorary degrees from colleges and universities; yet he was not a graduate of any of the higher educational institutions.

But it took time for the poet to develop and master his talent. Success in poetry was not wholly an inherited characteristic for Robert Frost. He was inclined to feel that mastering and being the master of poetry was his unmatured talent, and it took 20 years of striving to perfect his way with the forms he sought to communicate with before he was recognized as an important poet (and even then only after several famous English poets made a big splash about his artistry, persuading American critics to take another look at his different kind of realism).

Latent talent, developed by a persevering and thinking man, combined with a basic, ingrained, powerful New England philosophy of life and nature; all three concentrated into one man's work produced probably the most articulate and colorful descriptions of the New England heritage that this region has yet seen.

A realist in the realm of nature, Robert Frost is quoted as saying, "There are two types of realist. There is the one who offers a good deal of dirt with his potato. And there is the one who is satisfied with his potato brushed clean. I am inclined to be the second kind. To me the thing art does for life is to clean it, to strip it to form."

An arguer against the collectivist thinking of unthinking minds, he once qualified his approach to poetical philosophy this way: "Instead of realist—if I must be classified—I think I might better be called a synecdochist, for I am fond of synecdoche in poetry, that figure of speech in which we use a part for the whole." And Robert Frost was a good example of a synecdochist. It is said that one needs but a moment of bliss to know what bliss is—but one needs that moment. Robert Frost was referring to this when he wrote: "The fact is the sweetest dream that labor knows."

He believed that a poem should have two elements, the image and the afterimage, the dramatic experience and the truth that comes afterward. Choosing precise sense impression materials from the New England countryside, he etched them into created "poetic bonfires," which suddenly blazed in lyrical bursts of bright understanding—the symbolic revelations of elevated understanding of universal meanings—and then died.

Like his poetry, Robert Frost lived as a poetic bonfire to New England. Bringing the sparkle of New England out of everyday experiences and intuitions, he brought out the life and nature of the region in their true local colors.

Robert Frost in death will lie beneath the New England countryside he loved and poeticized on in life. But his passing from the country scene will not mean he does not still reside there. His heart is there, his soul is there—And his poem is there. While the man is gone, the poem lives, and will continue to live so long as there are readers of the lyrical and dramatic pastoral poetry—the poetry of Robert Frost.

THE VANTAGE POINT

If tired of trees I seek again mankind,
Well I know where to hie me - in the dawn,
To a slope where the cattle keep the lawn.
There amid the lolling juniper reclined,
Myself unseen, I see in white defined
Far off the homes of men, and farther still,
The graves of men on an opposing hill,
Living or dead, whichever are to mind.

And if by noon I have too much of these,
I have but to turn on my arm, and lo,
The sun-burned hillside sets my face aglow,
My breathing shakes the bluet like a breeze,
I smell the earth, I smell the bruised plant,
I look into the crater of the ant.

Public Health In Winchester . . . Some Adults Don't Think About It Much

"Do as I say, not as I do," otherwise known as the adult's creed, is proving this week to be a very accurate and true measure of the type of thinking most adults love to indulge in.

When it comes to kids, nothing but the best in community school, library, police and fire protection. And other protective measures like public health? It's the same thing. Every school and pre-school-age child had to get his polio vaccine to safeguard his health and that of his fellow age-mates.

Now the Board of Health has gone to a great deal of work and borrowed $10,000 from the town's Reserve Fund to make an adult clinic for prolonged immunization from polio available to the adults of Winchester.

To the children it was "you must have your polio vaccine." But when it comes time to participate themselves in a polio preventive clinic only 25 to 30 per cent of the town's adults will have received their doses after this Saturday's clinic unless more of them realize that this is a town-wide as well as a state-wide effort to eliminate polio from this area.

It would take only about five minutes this Saturday for those who have not already planned to go to the adult polio clinic to register and receive immunization doses of the Type I vaccine. Then, the same in March for the Type II and in May for the Type III doses, which are also necessary for the complete coverage from the various kinds of polio virus strains.

This time it would be wise for the parents to heed their own advice to their children, and do as they do—get the polio vaccine doses while they are available to prevent the dread crippling disease from striking in Winchester.

Thoreau Refused To Pay It . . . The Legislature May Abolish It

The celebrated American philosopher, Henry David Thoreau, was once jailed for refusing to pay a poll tax. And now, almost a hundred years later, the joint Legislative Committee on Taxation is considering abolishing the poll tax in Massachusetts.

Abolition supporters argue that the cost of processing the collecting of the poll tax does not justify the receipts. At one time the poll tax revenue represented one-third of local government support. Today, however, it represents less than one-third of one per cent in almost every town and city in the Commonwealth.

In 1962, of the total taxes raised in the state, $778,652,000, the poll tax brought in only $2,907,-458, or .0025 per cent of revenue. The time spent correlating abatements, processing and collecting the poll tax make it a very uneconomical tax to maintain.

The clerical staffs in municipal offices could better use their time in collecting more money from more profitable tax sources than the poll tax.

Also entering into the picture is the fact that although it is a minor element in the voting process, it still is an obstruction to the complete freedom of the right of individuals to vote. (The significance of this fact is borne out by the way many southern states use the poll taxes, along with other methods, to hinder the free voting rights of southern Negroes.)

The Legislative committee is somewhat split on whether to abolish the poll tax completely or make it more realistic.

The best thing for the Commonwealth would be to eliminate the poll tax, both to completely safeguard the Constitutional voting right and also because of its inefficiency as a means of tax collection and in its inconsequential tax revenues realized. Like some of the Blue Laws, it is definitely outmoded.

House Refuses To Reprimand GOP

Republican Rep. Theodore J. Vaitses of Melrose last week labeled a House resolution to reprimand Republicans for questioning the honesty of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's campaign expenditures report "the most laughable thing I've ever seen introduced in this chamber. It is common knowledge, I repeat, common knowledge, that from two to two-and-a-half billion dollars was spent last year or in 1952" to get a Kennedy elected to the U. S. Senate.

House Republicans answered the leadership's resolution that the House assure its confidence in the character of the Kennedy "Family" by referring to at least two cases in which the U. S. Senate refused to seat an elected member because the amount spent during the campaign was too high. The amounts for contests in Pennsylvania and Michigan, the GOP contends, were in the $1 million category.

By roll call vote of 64 to 148 the House refused to adopt the resolution of the House Leadership stating the Tuesday night GOP resolution about "rumors and allegations" that Edward Kennedy may have violated the provisions of the full disclosure law were politically inspired and that the House go on record as disapproving the GOP action by giving the Senator (Kennedy) and his whole family a vote of confidence.

Rep. John F. X. Davoren of Milford, House Majority Leader said the Republicans were attempting to "drag the name of the Kennedy through the muck and mire."

Referring to reports of the Republican gathering of Tuesday, Representative Davoren accused the GOP of making "an attempt to unseat the great Democratic Senator from Massachusetts based on rumors and allegations, not based on any report of the Attorney General who is a member of the same political party as the minority and not based on any facts, but they have the affrontery to dare to attempt to unseat him based on rumors and allegations."

House Republican Leader Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield said in answering the Milford Leader, "As best I can recall there was no reference last night at the meeting of the Republican State Committee to the family of Mr. Kennedy. The only question was whether or not Edward Kennedy had violated the Corrupt Practices Act. We only asked for an investigation. There was a great deal of spending in the campaign for the U. S. Senate. There was a question as to whether or not the amount reported by Mr. Kennedy adequately met those expenditures."

Rep. Curtiss then reminded the House Democrats that "If I recall, Mr. Kennedy said he was running for the Senate only on his own merits. If that is so, I think he should be judged accordingly.

"If seats in the United States Senate are for sale I think we should know about it, and I don't think they are, and if they are not, then we should know."

Later Rep. Curtiss declared outright that Edward Kennedy's spending for the Senate seat was "excessive."

Rep. Vaitses suggested that members of the House "just take the evidence of what he spent and add it up and you may get the surprise of your life." He said it was "really funny" the leadership was trying to "justify the obviously excessive amount spent to get him elected."

On the question of adopting the Leadership's resolution, Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue voted "no."

Mandatory Courses Opposed By Educators

Massachusetts school officials have registered strong opposition to proposals that would make mandatory the teaching of various subjects in the public school system.

Haskell C. Friedman of Newton, speaking for the Mass. Association of School Committees urged the Legislative Committee on Education to leave to local school authorities decisions to add courses of study.

The committee had been requested to require teaching of ethics and human behavior, public speaking, American history, comparative modern government and economics, communism and the effects of tobacco.

The Winchester school system now offers an elective course in psychology, which deals with human behavior and touches on some ethics; a course in public speaking, which used to be a requirement but now is an elective course; a required course in American history, and an elective course in modern problems, which is similar to a comparative governments course. There is no course taught on economics specifically, but economics is treated in the American history and modern problems courses. An elective course in communism is planned for the curriculum next year by the School Department, and is currently before the School Committee for its consideration. Such a course would deal with both the iron and bamboo curtain countries and the principles of communism. The effects of tobacco are currently discussed in physical education courses and athletic programs in the high school but there is no course taught on the subject.

"All of these seek to take away from local control the decision as to what should be taught," Mr. Friedman stated, adding that "every community runs its schools to meet local conditions and our programs reflect what the communities want in their schools. Local communities are aware of the interests and demands for specific programs."

Speaking for the Mass. Teachers Federation, Hugh Nixon pointed out that schools now teach ethics and human behavior: "Although not taught from books, they are sometimes taught by staying after school.

Rep. Lorenz F. Muther, Jr. (R) of Newton, in advocating the teaching of comparative modern government and economics said "It has been said in this field that we are graduating economic illiterates and that our present courses are spongy and inadequate. Such a mandate from the Legislature would encourage a laggard school committee to take a new look at these courses."

Owen B. Kiernan, state commissioner of education said his department "supports vigorously the principle, but just as vigorously opposes the mandatory aspect of the legislation.

"Our feeling is that the 'isms' should be taught with an understanding of western and non-western cultures, but to make such teaching mandatory would be to play into the hands of the Kremlin.

Opposing the bill Mr. Friedman said education should be produced by "evolution - not fiat."

And Mr. Nixon protested there would not be enough teachers available now to give proper education in the field.

Widespread opposition was voiced to an American Legion proposal to require teaching of communism when Philip J. Gavin, Jr., Legion spokesman, said it was necessary to get the courses into schools not teaching it now.

Gerald Berlin of the N. E. American Jewish Congress said schools should "show the superiority of democracy and not attempt indoctrination as is done by Communists."

Mr. Friedman said 75 per cent of schools touch on the subject.

Also opposing the measure were the Americans for Democratic Action and the Civil Liberties Union.

Rep. Edward S. Morrow (R) of Haverhill supported a bill to install a supervisor of nutrition education in schools to advise students on the values of foods as an adjunct to the physical fitness progress.

Earlier, the committee was urged to provide state aid for students for an "in-training" program to equip persons for governmental service.

Richard T. Moore of Hopedale, sponsor of the bill, said the training would assure clean government and end the threat of scandals.

Hearing to Delay Law on Conflict On Interest Tues.

The legislative committee on judiciary will hear testimony Tuesday morning on postponing the effective date of the conflict of interest law from May 1, 1963 to January 1, 1965.

The legislation, admitted as a late petition last week by both the House and Senate, was sponsored by the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association.

Spokesman for that group, Charles W. Davis called the proposal "an emergency which affects all levels of government in Massachusetts."

He said the statute scheduled to go into effect is "unworkable," and that time is needed to study the legislation and recommend "clarifying amendments."

Davis, the association's legislative counsel already has stated that selectmen in many areas are weighing thoughts of not entering candidacies because of a possible conflict of interest under the new law.

He pointed out that Gov. Endicott Peabody "will have a hard time selecting a new tax commissioner."

If he chooses one from a leading law or accounting firm, Davis believes, the firm would be "out" of state tax business for the duration of the appointment plus two years, and Davis suggests, "no man could put himself and his partners in such a position.

The judiciary hearing is scheduled for 11 a.m.

Last week Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue said "Basically it is a good law and it is needed in the Commonwealth."

"I see no reason why the law should not be kept intact and go into effect as scheduled," he said. He added that certain amendments ought to be made "to eliminate unintended hardships."

Book Reviews

By Katrine C. Laban, Winchester Public Library

George Orwell wrote A CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER in the early 1930's but it seems older than that. It is a very old-fashioned book indeed (just now republished in this country). In place of forthright, four letter words, there are solid dashes! You must choose your own profanity and pornography and if you are not very adept in the English idiom, you can always ask a friend to help you. Somehow the book seems not to have lost by this discretion.

Even the plot is quite straightforward and uninvolved. Dorothy Hare, the 28-year-old clergyman's daughter, so fills her time with good works in her disagreeable fathers parish that she collapses from utter exhaustion and develops amnesia. She finds herself in a London street, dressed like a street-walker. How she got there is never explained. She has no idea who she is and has great difficulty in picking her own face out of a crowd in a mirror in a store window.

Two young boys and a girl, "on the bum" and feeling that Dorothy must be, too, join forces with her for the sake of the half-crown in her pocket and the four set out for the country to pick hops. Dorothy and one of the boys find a job and the description of hop picking is liable to develop an aversion to beer in any reader.

Back in London again, Dorothy faces starvation. There is a really dramatic scene in Trafalgar Square at night and a very dramatic description of a third-rate school where Dorothy finally finds a job.

The writing throughout this book is quite uneven, switching from straight exposition to tracts on education, but somehow remaining enjoyable — to me, at any rate. There are some very good descriptions, some very naive character analyses, some quite incredible people — all of which add up to entertainment in, as I have said, an old-fashioned sort of way.

No one should miss 1962's THE UNCLE by Margaret Abrams. This very perceptive little book is written consistently and intuitively throughout. The author never leaves her subject for world politics — a relief in itself. Her abstract ideas are definitely related to the particular and the whole tale revolves around a 7-year-old boy who is suddenly faced with the mysteries of living — procreation, death, justice, love.

The book may not sound attractive to men, but I think it will be. They were once 7-year-old boys themselves with the same problems to face and resolve.

The book is not in the least sentimental, but a great deal of feeling is generated in it. The writing is so well done that in about ten years someone is going to "find" it and make it a must.

Myopia Club Had Its Beginnings In Winchester

PART II

Francis C. Welch, who captained the Lexington team, was a widely known hitter, who even in those days was hitting "the long ball." He was a giant of a man, who made up for his slowness afoot by the long distance he hit the ball.

Baseball was all the rage in Winchester and elsewhere at the close of the Civil War, so much so that the Winchester correspondent for the Woburn Journal worried about getting in too many accounts of games to be handled by his paper. The Winchester paper complained about the players not letting the grass grow on the vacant lots around town.

The Centennial House, mentioned by Prince in his accounts of the game played at Lexington, was formerly the Massachusetts House of the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition and was moved to Lexington, where it was famous for its fine foods and Roman Punch, which was very popular with sleighing parties at that time.

After the historic baseball luncheon and from Prince's account it must have been a lively one, the two ball teams repaired almost directly opposite the Centennial House to Lexington Common, or "The Old Battle Ground." No score was kept of this first contest entered by Myopia under that name. The earliest Myopia lineup recorded against Menotomy of Arlington June 15, 1876, included Skillings, Houston, Spicer, Winsor, Sanborn, Havey, C. Prince, F. Prince and Carter. Myopia won 9-7 in eight innings when Menotomy quit because of injuries to their third baseman and catcher. The Myopias at the time had three men on bases and only one out.

Myopia's First Quarters

"The Myopia Club's first headquarters were established in a small cottage at the entrance of my father's place in Winchester, entirely given over to "us boys" as bedrooms for ourselves and our friends. No invitation was needed for lodgement . . . Our first sport was baseball, and our goggles were a distinguishing feature of our uniforms. The matches were mostly arranged with nines from Medford, Concord, or with kindred spirits from Boston."

Still another letter from the pen of Charlie Prince told of a tug-of-war in which the Myopias participated at the Fresh Pond Hotel in Cambridge.

Tug of War

"Here is an amusing feat that our tuggers accomplished; We had played a baseball match in Lexington and had arranged a dinner at Fresh Pond Hotel. It so happened that the celebrated Mike Doherty had arranged for a feast at the same place and time, and after dinner a match was arranged between his Hibernians and our team in the bowling alley of the hotel. The Myopias always carried a rope with them wherever they went. Now, we had an enormous advantage over our adversaries because we wore rubber soled shoes, and the boards of the alley were very slippery. In consequence we could pull our opponents at will, even when there was as many at the end of the cable as there was room for a hold. The final round was a hard one and we could not gain an inch, when as the result of a last desperate move there was a crash and most of the ceiling came down, covering us with plaster and laths. The Dohertyites had taken a turn around a pillar that supported the roof and we had heaved it out of place.

Joseph E. Gendron, who played against a Myopia team in 1879 at the opening of the Myopia's new clubhouse, was afterward a well-known resident of Winchester and very active at the old Calumet Club on Dix Street, now the Professional Building.

Myopia Clubhouse

David N. Skillings built the Myopia Clubhouse on Myopia Hill in 1879, and before it was formally opened invited many of his friends to a picnic at the house. Mr. Skillings was one of the pillars of the Congregational Church, but he had his enemies in town, and his invitation extended to the congregation of the church was indignantly refused. "We will go to a holier and purer place," said they and so they went off to Revere Beach, leaving the Skillingsites alone in their glory.

"Joe" Gendron, at the request of Charlie Prince, got together a baseball team to play against Myopia during festivities that surrounded the dedication of the newly built clubhouse on "Everett Heights near Cambridge Street." Exercises consisted of reading an original poem by C. A. Prince, a song by Gordon Prince and an address by the club president, M. K. Abbott, and the depositing of a box under the cornerstone, containing the seal of the club, records and a pair of glasses. Repeated search has failed to locate the stone, so that the contents of the box were never recovered.

The clubhouse was dedicated on Decoration Day, May 30, 1879, and the game between Myopia and the team recruited by Mr. Gendron was played on Bacon Field toward Wedgemere where in those days there was a common. The present Bacon Street was near the field.

Firemen Write In Support of a 48 Hour Work Week

Editor of the Star:

The "committee for 48 hours" would like to express their gratitude to the residents of Winchester for the support given them through the medium of "The Winchester Star" in previous issues.

Mr. Joseph Tansey wrote an excellent letter last week giving the latest developments and facts regarding the shorter work week in surrounding communities with which we have mutual aid agreements.

The picture is constantly changing however with the sixteen cities and towns that the various boards compare us with, in relation to a shorter work week. Melrose, Stoneham, and Natick have been granted a shorter work week during the past year.

In the January 27 issue of a Boston newspaper an article appeared that should be of interest to the Town Meeting Members.

The headline read: "Andover Firemen Seek Shorter Week."

The article stated that the firemen of that town were requesting a reduction from a 56 to a 48-hour work week.

The facts speak for themselves. We sincerely feel that the firefighters of Winchester deserve a 48-hour week.

Kerr-Mills Law Is Claimed Superior To "Medicare"

Editor of the Star:

In the Star of January 24, a Letter to the Editor says "The wool is being pulled over the eyes of the American people, and it is an alarming sight." The writer was talking about the misinformation and falsehoods being spread around by the power seeking politicians in relation to the so called "Medicare" program for the aged. How right he is!

In the first place, the problems of the medical care of aging persons was definitely settled by the passage of the "Kerr-Mills Law," Anderson Bill" in the last Congress. gress.

Notwithstanding, the power seeking politicians are deliberately suppressing the Kerr-Mills Act to boost their own King-Anderson bill knowing full well that their bill could not stand up before the merits of the Kerr-Mills Law as an aid to the medical care of aging persons.

The Kerr-Mills act is now the law. And as implemented by Chapter 781 of the Acts of 1960 of the Mass. Legislature, it is completely adequate to provide for the medical needs of all persons over 65 who have not the resources to carry the burden.

These services include the services of physicians, dentists, hospitalization, prescriptions, nursing homes, etc. The law prescribes the amount of resources which shall be excluded in considering the applicant's eligibility for aid, and these amounts are fair and reasonable. More information can be obtained from the Bureau of Old Age Assistance in the Town Hall.

With such a good law on the statute books, why let the politicians sweep the Kerr-Mills law under the rug, and increase your Social Security burden, while at the same time reducing the amount and kind of medical aid that can be requested? The amount and kind of medical aid for a person over 65 of limited means could be complete and prolonged. You cannot play politics with human suffering.

The Winchester Star always eager to promote the public welfare, could now greatly help our aged persons by publishing, editorially or otherwise the facts of the Kerr-Mills law as implemented by Chapter 781 of the Acts of the Mass. Legislature for 1960, letting the people know what aid is available to them now. They do not have to wait for another "Kennedy Jamboree" in Madison Square Garden or for another fight in Congress. They do not have to settle for a program such as the King-Anderson bill, which is, as Mr. Albiani writes, a "monstrous fraud."

Hospitality Shown Foreign Visitors Neighborly Policy

Editor of the Star:

Your editorial of January 17 encouraging residents to extend hospitality to our Dutch and Italian high school students was commendable and we are sure of positive results from it.

We are also sure that Winchester is a neighborly, friendly town eager to welcome strangers when aware of the opportunity to do so.

And there is the opportunity- as the Boston Council for International Visitors will be glad to attest.

The Council, established in 1961, serves the very special and significant purpose of providing a bridge or liason between the many sponsored foreign visitors and the greater Boston community.

Revealing an insight into the deeper implications of providing hospitality and services to visitors, the council works hard to arrange programming for State Department visitors and those under the sponsorship of other Federal Departments and professional organizations.

In its one year of existence, the Boston Council for International Visitors served almost a thousand individuals from 94 countries, arranging home hospitality 951 times, driver escort service 684, and professional appointments, 687.

The response of foreign guests is gratifying, to say the least. Although most have only a short period of time in the Boston area, they gain lasting impressions of friendly good-will.

The Council welcomes the support of Winchester residents who wish to further international understanding by sharing in this venture of "personal diplomacy."

For further information, the Council address is 55 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston 8, Mass.

Police Pay

"It is hard for some people to keep in mind that our recruiting problem in a residential town like Winchester is bound to be more than average in difficulty," he said, "as compared to a city like Lawrence." The officers all felt that if the townspeople were more aware of the problem and its portent for the future, they would be more receptive to the pay raise request.

In an exchange of statistics on a per capita comparison, Mr. Dunn said that the present costs for police is about $13.80 as against around $10 for many other towns. And Sgt. Dolan, agreeing that this is true, pointed out that this derives from the basic single house character of Winchester. In Arlington, Sgt. Dolan said, one police beat might well cover three times the number of persons due to double and triple-decker homes. Whereas here the officer covering the same mileage is taking care of fewer people but still cannot physically cover more space.

Sgt. Dolan also presented one of the strongest pleas of the evening in reminding the town, through the selectmen, that the fine image of Winchester comes as much from its excellent police force as from its fine library and schools. He said he was concerned about an intangible feeling he has felt developing in the town during the past 15 years that the prestige of the police has been falling off among the townspeople. Lt. Bowler had stressed this point in his initial words, and the committee members each agreed and expressed worry about this trend.

Dunster Lane Dog Is Restrained By The Selectmen

By a vote at their Monday night meeting the Board of Selectmen put a restraint on a Dunster Lane dog reported to have bitten three children, one twice, in incidents occurring in September and this month.

William Ryerson, dog officer, presented the complaints against the dog and a report of the incidents, including excerpts from police records.

Mr. Arthur Reinold of 49 Dunster lane, appeared for his family in defense of the dog, a black male mongrel.

The Selectmen, who had the authority to confine or to destroy the dog, voted to confine the dog to its home or other impenetrable enclosure on the Reinold property and oredred that if tethered or leashed off the property the dog must be muzzled.

In addition, the Selectmen agreed wtih Mr. Reinold to review the case of this dog subsequent to a training program he outlined for the animal but not before the lapse of three months.

THE OLD BRYANT HOME ON IRVING STREET was posted after Christmas by the Board of Health in accordance with Chapter III, Sections 128B, 128D and 128F and Article II of the Sanitary Code of the Massachusetts Department of Health. One of the signs posted reads that it "is hereby condemned, by reason of being unfit for human habitation." The situation, which has arisen due to uncertainties in ownership, opens the way for the local board to have the building demolished if its orders are not complied with.

Junior Prom At The High School Handsome Success

"A Winter Wonderland," the junior prom held at the High School last Saturday night was one of the most successful dances held there in a long time according to partisan reports.

Against handsome winter backdrops created by the committee, to transfer the gym, a large and enthusiastic turnout had one of the "dancingest" formal evenings seen and heard in recent years to the music of Ken Reeves' orchestra. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of class rings.

Receiving the guests as the official hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ford, of Forest Street, parents of the class president; W. Howard Niblock, principal, and Mrs. Niblock; Thomas A. Morse, assistant principal, and Mrs. Morse and John J. Waite, junior class advisor, and Mrs. Waite.

Class officers, Thomas Ford, president; Robert Branley, vice-president; Susan Wallace, secretary and William Grant, treasurer, wish to thank the following committee members whose hard work contributed to the large success of the evening: Ellen Richardson, decoration chairman; Lynn Anderson, refreshment chairman, Elizabeth Yuill, ticket chairman.

"The Fellow To Watch"

"You watch the fellow who drives ahead
And the fellow who drives behind.
But the fellow you really have to watch,
Is the fellow behind the fellow ahead,
And ahead of the fellow behind."

If you keep this in mind each time you drive
Our accident rate will be lower.
And the posted speed is the speed to drive,
But for some this means faster, not slower.

For all posted speed zones from twenty or more
Are there to abide by and not to ignore.
We have obsolete speeds in many locations.
Until they are changed control your frustrations.

Stop signs mean nothing with no one in sight;
And this is quite true on that big red light.
To acquire a habit of flaunting these laws
Is a breakdown in safety, and accidents cause.

The morons and clowns on our highways today,
Who can whet their own ego in no other way,
They pass on the right and then weave in and out.
As for courtesy, this they know nothing about.

One half doing right and the others all wrong,
Something must give, so the same old swan song,
Car crashing, bone cracking, head crushing, too,
And the total goes higher each year when it's thru.

When big things are done, we do them right here;
And route ninety-three had the crash of that year,
Not only a record for this misunderstood state,
But a record from here to the far Golden Gate.

We can all have a crash from an illness or failure;
And look out for that bird who closely will tail you.
This is so true on that rat race and rush home at night
With so much out of order, all wrongs look right.

I hope this gets thru to you real loud and clear
If you're one of those who are spreading this fear.
Our highways were built for our pleasure and joy,
And not for some screwball with a high-powered toy.

This may all sound corny, and not of the best,
But many truths stated we all can digest.
Keep all this in mind each time you are driving
And our death rate will drop, it's for this we are striving.

If the coat doesn't fit then don't put it on;
Just read, some thought, then pass it along.
Let us all strive together in one God-fearing try,
So that day never comes when you just stand and say WHY.

Clinic

These first two clinics are both for the administration of Type I vaccine. Clinics for the Type II will follow in March and for the Type III in May.

The clinic is being conducted in three ways simultaneously: preschool, school, and adult. In this way maximum community immunization will result.

If, for any reason there are preschool children who were unable to attend the clinic for them last week, the board urges their parents to bring those children to the second Type I clinic scheduled for this Saturday.

The Board of Health has announced that they have been informed by their supplier (Wyeth in Malden), that he can furnish additional vaccine from his warehouse. Therefore, the board is now in a position to open the clinic this Saturday to those who have not pre-registered. They are, however, encouraged to come in the early hours of the clinic. And those who pre-registered are notified that their registration has reserved vaccine for them and that there will be no delay in their receipt of the vaccine on Saturday.

The following volunteers from the VNA worked hard last week to contribute to the efficient distribution of the vaccine, the Board of Health announced:

From 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Mrs. Frank D. Hawkins, Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Mrs. Albert Parker, Mrs. Bradford M. Bentley, Mrs. Charles L. Moore, Mrs. Richard Chase, and Mrs. Leslie J. Scott.

From 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.: Mrs. Edward Little, Mrs. Roland Moody. Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham, Mrs. Robert Mulford, Mrs. Robert Nyere, Mrs. Howard Bates, Mrs. E. A. Tutein, Jr., Mrs. Roswell Harding, and Mrs. Eugene M. Pollard.

Democrats

rous Democratic State chairman have injected new life into what has in too many cases, been a tired and lifeless party organization.

What is happening in these early months of 1963 will fail, however, if reform-minded candidates are not elected to the Democratic state committee and to Democratic town and ward committees across the state, the youthful Brookline legislator and COD director said.

Rep. Dukakis discussed with local COD members the COD campaign for these party offices in 1964. COD hopes to run COD candidates for state committee seats in every state committee district in the Commonwealth and, in addition, reform slates wherever the existing local Democratic organizations have been unable or unwilling to organize themselves and their communities effectively on behalf of the Democratic cause.

COD members in Arlington, Winchester and Medford will soon begin to select candidates for these positions. Tuesday's meeting was one of a series of COD meetings which are now being held across the state in preparation for the COD campaign in 1964.

Merchants

Each participating store will display colored window banners, will have tickets for the drawing as well as standard boxes for depositing the tickets, and a full-page advertisement in the Star naming the stores that are running the Washington Birthday sale.

Thrifty and faithful town buyers will be sure to turn out for this big Washington's Birthday sale in Winchester, sponsored by the association that represents local business.

Rocky Ledge

proceeding proved significantly different and stronger than that presented before. That is not, however, the case. The prospective greenhouse is located only a few feet away from several presently existing floral greenhouses of the Winchester Conservatories. Thus it is fair to say, we believe, that this single new greenhouse will change the character of the immediate neighborhood very little. It will be situated approximately 215 feet back from Cambridge Street at a point opposite the Purcell farm. It will be a considerable distance away from the entrance to the residential area beginning at the intersection of Cambridge and Pond Streets and extending to the east. It seems clear that the mere fact that the greenhouse will be located in a Single Residence District (Single Residence District A) is not, in and of itself, sufficient under our By-Laws to warrant making a finding that it will be "injurious" or "detrimental to the public welfare."

If it appears strange to some that the Town's By-Laws do not flatly prohibit the building of commercial greenhouses and the raising of livestock and farm animals in our Single Residence Districts, the agency for effecting a change is not the board; it is the Town Meeting.

We find that the following conditions and limitations upon the manner of using the proposed greenhouse are necessary to protect the neighborhood and the Town and to insure conformity with the spirit and intent of this By-Law:

> No products may be displayed or sold in the proposed greenhouse (or within 50 feet of any part of the greenhouse) other than agricultural products of the Mahoney premises. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing prohibition, no display or sale may be made in said area of any of the following: rakes, hoes, tools, garden equipment, mowers, hoses, sprinklers, flower seeds, grass seed, vegetable seeds, preserves, pottery, Christmas trees or wreaths purchased for resale and wood purchased for resale."

The Supreme Judicial Court held that the word "greenhouse" in Zoning By-laws should be interpreted in accordance with the common and approved meaning of the word —i.e., "a building principally constructed of glass wherein plants, flowers and sometimes vegetables are raised for purposes of sale." This definition, plus the By-law's use of the word "commercial" in conjunction with the "public display" of certain products, lead us to believe that Section 2C9 contemplate selling activity of some sort in the greenhouse. But, as the court has observed, "sales from a greenhouse ordinarily are of the produce of the premises"—whereas those of a florist are not.

The condition or limitation spelled out by us is simply a means of making sure that the precise limits of the permitted use are not overstepped. A greenhouse operated in a certain manner is permitted by the By-Law; a retail store is not.

The construction of a greenhouse is not "expansion of land" used for agriculture, horticulture or floriculture; the site of the proposed greenhouse is part of land which is already used in this manner.

The commerical greenhouse must be constructed within two years to comply with the normal time limit of the building permit, which was issued after several appeals by the petitioner.

Elks to Honor Exalted Rulers Tuesday Night

At the coming meeting of the Winchester Lodge of Elks Tuesday, February 5, the lodge will observe Exalted Rulers' Night.

At this meeting the past exalted rulers will occupy the various stations of the lodge to induct two new members and conduct the business of the evening. They will hold the following stations:

Exalted Ruler—Nicholas J. DiZio

Leading Knight — William H. Holland

Loyal Knight—Francis P. Allen

Lecturing Knight — William E. Dailey

Secretary—Newell W. Purington

Esquire—Pasquale R. Ferraina

Inner Guard—Joseph B. Peel

Trustees—All P.E.R.'s present

This is an annual affair at which the lodge members honor their past exalted rulers; and it is hoped that a goodly gathering will be in attendance.

At this meeting it is anticipated that the long-awaited plans for the new building will be available.

Saturday, March 9, the lodge will celebrate its 40th anniversary at the Woburn Country Club. By meeting time details of the event will be given to the members. It will be a gala affair, and all will want to attend.

Lobsters are at their best this time of year, as members who visit the club quarters Friday nights are finding out. Lobsters, steamers and stuffed quohogs are available until 9 at a nominal price. Where can you get a better deal than that?

Mrs. H. K. Archibald of Penn Road, an alumnae class president, will attend the 91st meeting of the Simmons College Alumnae Council on Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2, which brings to the Brookline Avenue campus nearly 200 members from New England and other parts of the country.

What Goes Down, But Rarely Goes Up?

The answer could be rain or even water, but in this case it's rugs.

Once you put down broadloom carpeting or ever an Oriental rug you very seldom move it. The purchase of rugs or carpeting is a very important one and therefore should be taken very seriously.

If you are in the market for broadloom carpeting or Oriental rugs, we can show you one of the country's largest selections, right in our showroom. We know what will suit your needs. Whether it will be wool or nylon broadloom or a Kerman Oriental from Persia, we have it.

If you are price conscious, you'll be happy to know that we have something in both broadloom and Orientals to fit every budget.

Whether you have to "go down" or "go up" to see us . . . make sure you do, before you buy.

Dividends

This time, all payments that would have been made in 1963, together with the extra of $90,000,000, are being made now, irrespective of anniversary dates.

The regular dividends are primarily a return to the veterans of part of their premium payments, made possible by the fact that the mortality rate among GI policyholders has been running lower than expected.

As to the special dividend, it was declared after it was found that the reserves in the insurance trust funds were greater than necessary.

Marx — Welden

Against a background of white gladoli and mums, Miss Mary Welden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Welden of 41 Emerson Road, became the bride of Mr. George Vincent Marx, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George V. Marx of Stamford, Conn., on Saturday, February 2, in St. Bede's Church in Williamsburg, Virginia. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Father Leo P. Creamer.

MRS. GEORGE V. MARX, JR.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bouquet taffeta and alencon lace. The bodice of lace featured a high sabrina neckline and three quarter length sleeves, with an empire waist of taffeta. The flat front skirt was styled with fullness at the side and back, which was accented by streamers flowing gracefully into a chapel length train. Her elbow length veil of imported English illusion fell from a bandeau of taffeta trimmed with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and eucalyptus.

The maid of honor was Miss Sue Comer of Arlington, Virginia. She wore a dress of sapphire peau de soie, with a scoop neckline, three quarter length sleeves, and an empire bodice with tucks accented with a bow in the front and a full skirt with unpressed pleats at the sides and back. Matching hat and shoes completed the ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, red and white carnations, and ivy.

Mrs. Edward Gerry of Boston, Mrs. Thomas Guthrie of Yorktown, Va., and Miss Joan Ruth of Arlington, Va., were bridesmaids. They were gowned identically to the maid of honor and carried hand bouquets of red and white carnations.

Mr. Thomas Moyles of Williamsburg, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Thomas Guthrie of Yorktown, Va., Mr. Nathaniel Withers of Williamsburg, and Mr. Michael Kutner of Williamsburg.

Mrs. Welden, mother of the bride, wore a dynasty red, French lace dress, with a sweetheart neckline, belled skirt and scalloped hem. She wore matching hat and shoes, and a corsage of red and white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of pure silk, French brocade of Dalton blue, with a sweetheart neckline, high bracelet sleeves, and a draped skirt. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of cream cymbidium orchids.

The bride graduated from the College of William and Mary in January and is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

The groom attends the College and is employed by the United States Post Office in Williamsburg.

Afte a weeding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple will live in Williamsburg.

Anti-Segregation Leader Will Speak In Lexington

Martin Luther King, Jr., nationally known leader in the non-violent movement against segregation, will speak at the Lexington High School on Monday evening, February 11, at eight o'clock.

Reverend King, until recently, when he moved to Atlanta, was pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama. Montgomery, it will be remembered was the scene of the first highly organized demonstration of non-violence in the United States. Protesting segregation on city buses, the Negroes of Montgomery refused to use public transportation. This boycott, which lasted from December of 1955 to December of 1956, was so complete that it forced desegregation of the buses.

Martin Luther King, as one of the leaders in the movement, insisted that passive resistance was preferable to violence. In his book, Stride Toward Freedom, which describes the bus boycott in Montgomery, Reverend King credits Thoreau's essay on Civil Disobedience with having been the inspiration for both the boycott and the non-violent technique employed in carrying it out.

An outgrowth of the bus protest was the formation of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which is dedicated to the principle of non-violence. This organization, led by Reverend King, has become the spearhead for desegregation movements throughout the South.

Reverend King's talk is being sponsored by the Lexington Civil Rights committee. Emmons Ellis, president of Winchester's Fair Housing Association, has announced that the association is co-operating in every way with the Lexington committee. Members and friends of the Winchester Fair Housing Association are urged by Mr. Ellis to support this event both because it affords a rare opportunity to hear one of the nation's outstanding leaders and because the proceeds will be used to further the aims of the Lexington Civil Rights committee.

Mrs. William B. Harvey, Jr., of 55 Yale Street (PA 9-3980) is in charge of ticket sales in Winchester. Checks should be made out to the Lexington Civil Rights commitee. Some car pools are being arranged, and transportation problems may be discussed with Mrs. Harvey.

Reverend Shedd To Assist At Methodist Church

The Rev. G. Vaughn Shedd, former pastor of the Melrose Methodist Church, has been added to the staff of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. He will assist the minister, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, on the pastoral work of the parish and will be known as the Minister of Visitation. He will be in the Crawford Memorial Parish about two days each week and also on most Sundays.

REV. G. VAUGHN SHEDD

Rev. Mr. Shedd served Methodist Churches in Walpole, Quincy and Newton before going to Melrose. Following the Melrose pastorate he was made district superintendent of the Bangor District in the Maine Conference. Since 1950 he has been the general secretary of the Lord's Day League of New England, from which position he recently retired.

Throughout his ministry Mr. Shedd has been known as a successful pastor and administrator. He has served on many special commissions and committees of the church and at one time was Dean of the Youth Institutes at Lasell Junior College and also at Asbury Grove. He will bring a warmth and world of experience to his new work in the Crawford Memorial Church.

Dr. Donald Horley Chairs Panel Of Optometrists

Dr. Donald W. Horley of 3 Webster Street, optometrist practicing at 476 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington, served as chairman for the annual educational meeting of the Alumni Association of the Massachusetts College, held yesterday, January 30.

He will also head a distinguished panel of speakers in his capacity of chief of the Contact Lens section at the Massachusetts college of optometry.

Drawing, Painting Classes Open For Adults Next Week

The adult art class sponsored by the Winchester Art Association begins its winter term on Monday, February 4, at 7 p.m. in the High School art classroom. King Coffin will continue as instructor.

Mr. Coffin, who teaches drawing and photo-lithography at the Museum school in Boston, has been experimenting with new techniques in photo-lithography.

"I'm constantly impressed with the necessity for a good basic design," he said in a recent interview. "For that reason, we will continue to emphasize design in both drawing and painting and also in color. People don't commonly think of color as a part of design, but it is, and we will emphasize it in our portrait class. We may even undertake an abstract portrait, to emphasize the basic design and color relationships in the human head.

"Many of our students are well along in the study of portraiture. I am delighted that we have such interested, able students. I think all of the Winchester art class students have learned that it's possible to learn to paint if the student is willing to learn, and to work. It's a genuine pleasure to teach such interested people."

Elementary and advanced drawing, still life and portrait painting are available to class members. Since enrollment is limited, persons interested should phone for further information, or to register in advance. Phone Mrs. Herman Sweet, EX 5-6062, after 6 p.m.

Dr. Kaufmann Speaks To WVNA At Annual Meeting

The fact that "the doctor has more than one head" is why Winchester physicians are contributing so greatly to the health and welfare of their community, said Dr. Gustav G. Kaufmann in his talk at the sixty-third annual meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association held on January 25 at his home on 8 Wedgemere Avenue.

DR. GUSTAV G. KAUFMANN

Dr. Kaufmann, who is Chief of Medical Service at the Winchester Hospital, spoke of the behind-the scenes interchange of information and ideas helping physicians to diagnose and treat various illnesses.

The visiting nurse, also, Dr. Kaufmann said, by her close observation of the patient in home surroundings often helps the doctor to evaluate his patient's progress. Thus, by this free exchange of specialized knowledge among professional colleagues, Dr. Kaufmann concludes that "the doctor has more than one head."

Miss Rita Plummer, executive director, in her annual report, said that during 1962 the staff spent about 47 per cent of its time on bedside nursing, 34 per cent on School Department nursing, and 19 per cent for the Board of Health.

The staff participated in a training program for Boston College and Simmons students who gained their public health field experience here. During the year the staff attended many professional meetings, and Miss Plummer said that she has recently been appointed a member of the Professional Advisory Council of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association.

Annual reports were given by Mrs. Bradford M. Bentley, president; Mrs. Roland H. Moody, recording secretary; and Mrs. George O. Farrar, treasurer. Mrs. Frank D. Hawkins, chairman of the nominating committee, proposed the slate for 1963; and the new officers were elected.

Officers for 1963 are as follows: president, Mrs. Bradford M. Bentley; vice-president, Mrs. Gordon L. Sidebotham; recording secretary Mrs. Roland H. Moody; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ernest O. Dieterich; treasurer, Mrs. George O. Farrar; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Charles N. Sweetser; personnel committee, Mrs. Howard Bates, chairman; Mrs. Eugene M. Pollard, Mrs. Arthur L. Watkins, Mrs. Albert Parker, Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson, Mrs. Edward W. Little; finance committee, Mrs. Charles N. Sweetser, chairman; Mrs. P. S. Cooke, Mrs. Harold Given, Mrs. Paul C. Dunn; education committee, Mrs. Kern E. Folkers and Miss Helen Niedringhaus, co-chairmen; Mrs. Roswell Harding, Mrs. Gustav G. Kaufmann, Mrs. Crosby B. Kelley; public relations, Mrs. Arthur R. Hills, chairman, Mrs. Theodore M. Atkinson, Mrs. Robert A. Nyere, Mrs. William M. Hopkins; nominating, Mrs. Otto E. Schaeffer, chairman; Mrs. Frank D. Hawkins, Mrs. William J. Speers; medical advisory committee, Dr. Nelon C. Fontneau, chairman, Dr. Harold J. Wheeler, Dr. Phillip J. McManus; business advisory committee, Austin Broadhurst, Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, Wade L. Unemployment Fund Drain Cost Employers Millions

Massachusetts employers will be forced to pay many additional millions of dollars in Employment Security Taxes this year, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce warned today.

A report made by the Chamber's Lobor-Management Committee, headed by Frank A. DeSilva of Bethlehem Steel Company, found that a combination of factors threatens to place unreasonably high demands upon the Unemployment Compensation Fund. The Fund was refinanced by employers in 1961.

"The refinancing," the Chamber reported, "cost Massachusetts employers $39 million due primarily to the failure to plug the many loopholes which drained the fund." The employers' cost rose from $88 million before refinancing the more than $127 million in 1962.

The Chamber report pointed out that "Labor leaders with pre-campaign support of the Governor who endorsed Labor's program 100 per cent, are demanding enactment of legislation to increase benefits and create new drains on the fund."

Labor proposals include:

(1) Payment of unemployment compensation by employers to workers on strike and to increase benefits from 10 per cent in some cases to 33 per cent in others.

(2) "Idle pay" for workers who refuse employment in the same line of work for the same firm if it involves a different shift from that previously worked.

(3) Benefits for employees who are sick or injured off the job.

The report termed the proposals "silly bills" and that enactment "would fulfill Labor's intended goal of effectively destroying the basic purpose of the fund which is to insure temporary income for workers unemployed through no fault of their own. It is not vacation pay, as Labor would like to have it."

The Chamber report emphaszied the "widespread misconception" of the Employment Security Law.

"Unemployment compensation is solely financed by employers, not employees, and is intended to assist the bona fide members of the working force who are unemployed through no fault of their own," the Chamber asserted.

Attractive desk accessories, pencil holders, letter holders, envelope openers, stamp dispensers and desk pens. These items can be purchased at the Winchester Star.

Admitted to NAA

The Board of Directors of the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants announced their approval of the application of Edward Ray Hearn for membership in the organization. The Boston Chapter is composed of 1,000 area accountants and is one of one hundred seventy-two chapters and twenty accounting groups enrolling over 52,000 members in the United States and over sixty foreign countries.

Mr. Hearn lives at 15 Wildwood Street, and is employed as Manager for Price Waterhouse & Co. of Boston.

Membership in NAA is comprised of men and women representing a wide variety of occupation in nearly every field of economic endeavor. Included are corporate officers; executives, auditors, controllers and accountants in industry; accountants in public practice; industrial and management engineers, general office personnel; and teachers and students of accounting. Membership is available to any interested person by contacting Ray F. Sundstrum, director of membership, Bentley College of Accounting and Finance.

Crawford Youth Visit Everett Youth Fellowship

The Senior High Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methosist Church will make a fraternal visit this Sunday night to the Youth Fellowship of the Glendale Methodist Church in Everett, returning a visit that group made to Winchester early in the fall. The visitation will be in charge of the Rev. and Mrs. Donald R. Hoff. This program is part of the observance of National Youth Week.

Starting Sunday February 10 the M. Y. F. will make a study of Crime and Rehabilitation covering three Sunday evening programs of the group. All young people of high school and college age are invited to this group.

Week at a glance appointment books showing day and time schedules. Excellent for professional people. At the Winchester Star.

Country Fair At Marycliff Acad. February 8th

Marycliff students, their parents and friends are again planning to attend the Annual Country Fair to be held at Marycliff Academy Friday evening, February 8, starting at 8:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served and there will be prizes for all ages with a special table featuring toys for the small fry.

Mrs. Frank Inserra and Mrs. Santo Cannava of Winchester will co-chairman this "fun for all ages" event. They will be assisted by Mrs. Herbert Molinari, Mrs. Timothy Hennigan, Mrs. Frederick Ricci, Mrs. Ferdinand Martignette, Mrs. Antonio Boshetti, Mrs. Leo Russell, Mrs. Vincent Savarese and Mrs. Edwin McGrale.

Better Service

Here's how you can get better service from your Internal Revenue Service according to Alvin M. Kelley, Boston business director.

Closely follow the instructions accompanying each return, bill or notice which you received in the mail.

Be certain you enclose with your remittance the properly completed form, or the director's copy of the bill or notice. It's a good idea to paper clip - not staple - these to your check or money order.

When your account number is stated on a bill or notice, enter it on your check.

Type or print your name and address wherever required.

Mail your remittance and papers to the proper Federal Internal Revenue Office early, and don't forget that the final date for filing that 1962 individual income tax return is April 15.

Citation to Davis'

Dr. and Mrs. William L. Davis of 3 Central Green were awarded the coveted Gold Medal of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society by the Society's Committee on Gardens for the year 1962. The garden citation reads as follows: "A series of well planned, mature gardens, mostly in the shade, nestled under tall trees on a rather steep slope. The combination of different gardens, formal and informal, connected by sloping path or steps, is living evidence that these have been worthy examples of good planting for many years."

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST, WINCHESTER

114 Church Street

Sunday Service at 11:00 a.m.

Sunday School is held at the same time as the Church Service.

Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock.

Reading Room, 5 Winchester Terrace (off Thompson Street). Open daily except Sundays and holidays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sunday, February 3
The divine answer to humanity's most perplexing problems will be stressed in a Lesson-Sermon on "Love," to be heard this Sunday at the First Church of Christ Scientist.

Highlighting the Bible readings will be this passage from I John (4:7): "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (p. 340).

"One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself;' annihiliates pagan and Christian idolatry,—whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed."

Supplying Account Numbers To Payees

Do you own securities or have a savings account?

If so, you are going to be requested by the organizations paying you dividends or interest to furnish them your federal tax account number, Alvin M. Kelley, director of Internal Revenue for Boston District, said recently.

For an individual, this is his social security number, or a similar number assigned for tax purposes.

Some corporations and savings institutions already have asked their shareholders or depositors for their numbers, Mr. Kelley said. Others will make such requests in the next few months in order to comply with a new law requiring use of the account numbers of income recipients on information reports to Internal Revenue.

Mr. Kelley emphasized that the law requires the payee to supply his number to the payer when asked for it.

Requests for account numbers should be honored promptly, Mr. Kelley said, in order to facilitate bookkeeping changes by the paying organizations.

Any shareholder or depositor who does not have a social security number should follow the instructions for obtaining an account number included with the request form, Direcor Kelley said.

The account number also must be shown on income tax returns filed for 1962 and subsequent years.

Perfection Of Returns

Taking note that tax time is at hand again, Alvin M. Kelley, director of Internal Revenue, has given this early advice to taxpayers in the Boston District.

"In 1963, accuracy and completeness in filling out Federal income tax returns is more important than ever!"

He said Internal Revenue's conversion to an electronic computer maintained account system precludes manual correction of deficiencies in returns, which may have been acceptable in the past.

Mr. Kelley emphasized these points for both individual and business taxpayers.

All applicable items on the return form must be filled in and in the proper sequence. This means totals from attached schedules must be carried forward to the face of the return.

If schedules in the return are not sufficient for the needs of the taxpayer, substitute schedules must follow the official format, contain all the required information, and be attached in the same sequence as on the tax rteurn.

Returns or schedules reproduced by copying machines and other devices should meet the standards of paper quality and legibility of the official forms.

Taxpayers receiving pre-addressed forms should use these forms where possible to minimize chance of error in identification.

Week at a glance appointment books showing day and time schedules. Excellent for professional people. At the Winchester Star.

Interested In Young Adults?

If you are interested in meeting and mixing with young adults between the ages of 18 and 35, why not come down to a meeting of the Christian Crossroads Club, a nonsectarian religious-social group.

We meet at 8 p.m. on the second and fourth Sunday nights at the First Baptist Church on Mt. Vernon Street, Winchester.

Please come alone or with your friends for we would like to get to know you.

All young adults are invited to attend our meeting on February 10 at 8 p.m. at which Miss Constance Trickett, Girls' Guidance Counselor at the Winchester High School will show slides of Europe and speak on the Experiment in International Living. Refreshments will follow the discussion.

Please come and get acquainted with the young adults from Winchester and other surrounding suburbs.

Scouting In America's Future

The Boy Scouts of America observes its 53rd anniversary during Scout Week, February 7 to 13. Since 1910, more than 36 million Americans have been identified with its work. There is scarcely an American family that has not felt its influence.

In 1916 Congress recognized that Scouting's development and promise of usefulness to the future of the country warranted federal protecion. The federal charter it granted gave a legal foundation for Scouting and stated that its purpose "shall be to promote, through organization and cooperation with other agencies, the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others, to train them in Scouting and to teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance, and kindred virtues."

How well Scouting has measured up to the expectation of Congress may be seen in some comments of President Kennedy and America's first astronauts.

President Kennedy, himself a former Boy Scout at Bronxville, New York, for two years, says, "Training and associations of Boy Scout life are invaluable to the individual development of young men and to the quality of community life. It has been a most valuable influence in our nation's life, and I know that future energies of the Boy Scouts will add even more to the vigor and strength of our nation."

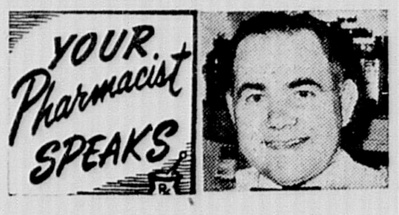
Five of the seven astronauts were Boy Scouts and the sixth was an adult leader.

"One thing Scouting can do to help boys most in the future," says Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, Jr., "is to build up confidence. Boys can get this confidence by joining Cub Scout packs and Boy Scout troops, by earning merit badges, by learning to live indoors and outdoors, and by accomplishing things themselves."

"Participating in Scouting taught me to rely on myself and to handle all small situations early, to take care of all small problems while I was young and learning, before the big ones came along," said Astronaut Virgil I. Grissom. "I know what a force for America a Scout-trained man really is. In a few short years the young men now in our homes, our schools, and our Scout troops will be taking our places, and the legacy we pass on to them will determine whether America as we know it will live or die."

Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., and advisor to an Explorer post, feels, "We must have even finer people to show us the way to to be the leaders of tomorrow. The mental, moral, and physical aspects of our lives that Scouting has given you I hope never leave you as you grow up. I hope you will carry on these high standards into your adult lives. Along with this if you keep in your lives a spiritual center which gives you direction and purpose, we certainly need look no further for the leaders of tomorrow."

In this area we have 16,315 boys and leaders in the Minuteman Council of the Boy Scouts of America who find that Scouting is a game, but that it is also preparation for adulthood and participating citizenship. We wish the Boy Scouts a happy 53rd anniversary!



By: Fred McCormack

Although the layman generally thinks of microbes with fear and revulsion and would greet their total destruction with glee, the simple truth is that mankind could not live without microbes, at least not for long.

Certain microbes are scavenging purifiers that break down noxious and noisome wastes and return them beneficially to earth. Then, too, microbial colonies at permanent stations in our body wage an unceasing war against fantastic numbers of germs which attack our systems almost constantly.

We must also remember that it was the microbes which gave us a welcome arsenal of miracle drugs to aid in mankind's battle for life and, just as importantly, reintroduced us to the most efficient drug-maker of all—nature.

Annual Charity Duplicate Bridge Friday Feb. 15

Plans are well under way for the annual Charity Duplicate Bridge, sponsored by the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club, to be held on Friday, February 15, at 7:45 P.M. in Hadley Hall at the Church of the Epiphany. Co-chairmen Mrs. William M. Wheelock and Mrs. Ralph M. Atkinson urge you to make up a party or come by yourself; all are welcome. For tickets, call Mr. Ralph L. Gartner PA 9-5730 or Mr. Ralph M. Atkinson PA 9-2903.

These charity games are being held throughout the country, under the sanction of the American Contract Bridge League, for the benefit of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Institute of Logopedics.

Frederic W. Kinsley, chairman of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's Massachusetts Chapter, states that the entry fees of bridge devotees will be aiding medical research and patient services. "The more players, the more our Society's work will benefit," said Chairman Kinsley. The Society was founded in 1946 to combat this disease of the central nervous system for which cause and cure still remain unknown. It's twofold program of research and community patient service is constantly expanding.

The second charity benefited, the Institute of Logopedics, is the largest residential speech and hearing center in the world. It is dedicated to continued research, clinical service for the ever increasing number of children and adults who must acquire or reacquire the gift of speech, and the training of competent therapists to carry on this work all over the world.

The directors for the tournament will be Mr. Carl J. Sittinger, coming down from New Hampshire especially for the occasion, Mr. Richard M. Smith, and Mr. Darrell A. Root.

The Winchester Garden Club

Mrs. Philip P. Wadsworth graciously opened her home for the January meeting of the Winchester Garden Club.

It was one of the coldest days of the winter, but inside this lovely house spring had made its appearance.

In the living room there was a beautiful flower arrangement of white carnations, yellow snapdragons and acacia in a white vase.

In the sun room were jonquils in a green bowl and many African violets. At the end of this room there was a greenhouse filled with plants in bloom, the loveliest being the Christmas cacti, the freesias and the chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Edward V. French presided at the coffee table. The centerpiece, Bountiful roses, heather and eucalyptus in a pale pink vase, was arranged by Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick.

The president, Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, conducted a short business meeting.

All took part in the program. The members asked horticultural questions of a panel composed of Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini, Mrs. William W. Goodhue, Mrs. Edward B. Mansfield and Mrs. Charles M. Vanner. Not only were there many questions and rewarding answers, but there were, also, stimulating discussions about house plants and garden problems.

Lt. Col. Conlon Of Marine Air Reserve Calls For Marines With Aviation Skill

MARINE RESERVE LT. COL. THOMAS W. CONLON, the CO of Marine Attack Squadron 322 and the holder of two Distinguished Flying Crosses and eight Air Medals as a combat pilot, stands beside a Douglas A-4B "Skyhawk" fighter. It is the 16th type of aircraft which he has qualified to fly.

A veteran Marine Reserve combat pilot, commanding officer of Marine Attack Squadron 322 based here, has put out a call for former Marines with aviation skills.

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas W. Conlon of 57 Lake Street, holder of two Distinguished Flying Crosses and eight Air Medals, said that the newly authorized strength increase for the Marine Air Reserve has made the recruiting drive possible.

"We have openings for jet mechanics, avionics men, radar technicians and helicopter mechanics," the veteran pilot said.

Col. Conlon, who was appointed superintendent of the Water and Sewer Department at the first of this month, recently qualified to fly his 16th type of aircraft, the Douglas A-4B "Skyhawk" jet fighter with which his squadron is now equipped.

"We are New England's only Marine Air Reserve units," he said. "Members of our squadrons have made outstanding records in both combat and peacetime. We fly jet fighters for close support missions, helicopters, and we also have a Marine Air Control Squadron. Some of our members come from as far away as New York but the majority are Massachusetts men."

In addition to VMA-322, Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 771, Marine Air Control Squadron, 21, Marine Air Reserve Group - 4 and Volunteer Training Unit 11 are based at South Weymouth.

"We particularly need former Marines with aviation skills in order to keep our readiness level at top proficiency," he commented. "We are considered one of the best outfits in the Marine Air Reserve and we set a record the past few months for drill attendance, an indication of our high morale."

Former Marines in the Winchester area may contact Lt. Col. Conlon at his home or by calling 729-4430. Additional information may be obtained from the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment at South Weymouth either by letter or by calling EDgewater 5-5600, extension 236.

The 10 per cent increase in enlisted strength authorized the Marine Air Reserve goes into effect the end of May. Members of the South Weymouth-based squadrons attend drill one week end a month and spend two weeks on active duty each summer at a Marine Corps Air Station.

Attends Dance Teachers' Meeting

Mrs. Noreen Johnson Connell, teacher of the dance, attended the February meeting of the dance Teachers' Club of Boston at the Hotel Somerset on Sunday January 20.

Guest instructors for the days session were Mr. Charles Hughes, popular Modern Jazz dancer and choreographer from New York and Miss Thalia Mara, ballet mistress at the New York Academy of Dance.

Miss Johnson took the class instruction from these teachers. She has been an active member of the club for the past three years, and is on the faculty at the Boston Conservatory of Music of which she recently played an active part in the coreography and production of the favorite ballet "The Sleeping Beauty."

In addition to this she is an instructor in the Adult Education program here in Winchester and conducts her own classes of the dance.

Nursing Scholarships

Since 1950, the Women's Auxilary to the Middlesex East District Medical Society has awarded nursing scholarships to deserving girls of this area. We are very pleased to announce that this year the Women's Auxiliary will offer three scholarships in the amount of $250 each for a three year nursing program.

These scholarships are available to girls residing in and attending school (public or parochial) in one of the following towns: Burlington, Melrose, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn.

There are many attractive opportunities open to the graduate nurse today with a constant need for her services. Her training is a satisfying and rewarding experience which will prove useful through her entire life.

Complete information may be obtained from the office of the principal or guidance director of your high school or by writing to Mrs. John W. O'Grady of 21 Sheffield West, chairman of the Nursing Scholarship Committee.

Houlding Elected Drama Head

Masque and Gown, the Bowdoin College dramatic organization, today announced the election of J. Alexander Houlding of 19 Yale Street as president.

Mr. Houlding, a member of Bowdoin's Class of 1964, has been an active participant in Masque and Gown work during the past two years. He has appeared in such productions as "The Visit," "The Taming of the Shrew," and Bowdoin's annual one-act play contest.

He was most recently seen as Clive Harrington in the last Masque and Gown production, "Five Finger Exercise," and will play a major part in the organization's next play, "Thieves' Carnival," which will be presented on the campus February 16 and 18.

Mr. Houlding prepared for college at the Worcester Royal Grammar in Worcestershire, England, in Canada and at the Winchester High School, where he was a graduate of the class of 1960.

Art Association

The February 5 meeting of the Winchester Art Asociation will be held in the Rich Room of the Library at 7:45 p.m. We are most fortunate to have Dr. Max Loehr, Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Professor of Oriental Art at the Fogg Museum, Harvard University, speak to us on "Painting in the Far East". Dr. Loehr will discuss great Chinese painters and their works with a view to historical change and development.

Professor Loehr was associated with the Sino-German Institute and Tsing-Hhu University in Peking, China from 1940 to 1949. He returned to Munich, Germany, to become curator of Asian Art at the Munich Museum until 1951, when he came to this country to teach at the University of Michigan. In 1960 he came to the Fogg Museum at Harvard University.

Mrs. James D. Hume, of 29 Canterbury Road, arranged this fine program for our benefit. All members and friends of the Asociation are cordially invited to attend.

On exhibit in the west reading room of the Library, through the courtesy of the Shore Galleries, will be watercolors by the late Chinese artist Mong Q. Lee, who was born in China and educated in the United States. His paintings reflect his Oriental background and feeling, and his wife graciously lets us have them for the month of February.

Another exhibit of interest will be the famous Crawford Collection of Oriental Art at the Fogg Museum from February 25 to April 21, 1963.

Library Film Program

February 1 will offer three color films for Family Night at the Library. Children must be accompanied by adults, but please note that older students and all adults are very welcome. Many of these films have a special appeal for people of varying interest - such as bird-watchers, students of Indian lore or wild-life and seashore enthusiasts.

In Land Of The Pink Snow an Indian recalls tales of legendary lakes in the Bear Tooth Mountains. A camping party going into the same wilderness finds the landmarks which prove the legends fact not fancy.

Three soldier heroes walk straight out of the pages of Stone Soup. They trick the stingy peasants into providing a meal fit for a king and leave them none the wiser but themselves very well fed.

Animal Homes shows where animals live - in trees, on the ground, in the water. Both exterior and interior scenes are shown. Featured, among others, are the trap-door spider, squirrel, raccoon, skunk, woodchuck and wood-mouse and surely there must be a beaver house.

The program will be repeated Saturday morning at 10:15 for grade school children only.

National Youth Sunday At Crawford Church

National Youth Week will be recognized at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church this Sunday. At the morning worship service at eleven o'clock the Rev. Donald R. Hoff, student minister in charge of the youth program at the church, will preach on the subject, "When We Worship."

The pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, will preside and the Rev. G. Vaughn Shedd, minister of visitation, will offer the pastoral prayer.

Music will be by both Youth Choirs and the Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Mrs. Gloria Maifeld.

MSPCA Appeal For Blankets

Mr. David S. Claflin, administrator of the Mass. S. P. C. A.'s Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, Boston, recently issued an urgent appeal for bedding for the hospital.

At the present time, the supply of blankets and sheeting is at a very low point. There is a vital need for bedding in all the wards of the hospital - the contagious wards have the greatest need, however.

Mr. Claflin asks all animal lovers who have any clean discarded blankets or sheets which can be spared to send the materials to the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, 180 Longwood Avenue, Boston. All donations will be gratefully received and promptly acknowledged.

It has been our privilege to serve members of nearly all religious organizations. Some require certain specific details in connection with the funeral service. We are familiar with these requirements.

Also we have had many personal requests bearing upon the nature of the funeral service.

We consider these matters highly important. In most instances, they represent the wishes of the deceased. We respect these wishes, always.

Social Agencies Group Has Served Community 15 Years

For fifteen years the Social Agencies Group has been providing an opportunity for health and welfare organizations to exchange ideas, to understand each other's functions, to introduce new staff to community resources, to help identify community needs, and to cooperate in achieving needed programs.

In 1948 the members of several health and welfare organizations in Winchester met to discuss the formation of an inter-agency council to establish a means of communication and cooperation between agencies in order to provide better family and community service.

It was decided that the objective could be met by forming an informal council called the Social Agencies Group.

The present members of this group are the Winchester Hospital, Visiting Nursing Association, Public School Guidance Department Public Welfare, Mystick Side Girl Scout Council, Minute Man Council Boy Scouts, Police Department, Public Library and the Red Cross.

During the fall of 1962 the Social Agencies Group realized the need to broaden the membership. The Florence Crittenton Senior and Junior Circles, Mystic Valley Mental Health Association, Council of Ministers, St. Mary's Church, Immaculate Conception Church, Park Department, Recreation Committee and Board of Health were invited to send a representative to the January 16th meeting in the Rich Room at the Public Library.

The response from these organizations was enthusiastic, almost every group was represented. The program for the meeting was planned to provide an opportunity for the invited representatives to become familiar with the goals and objectives of the Social Agencies Group.

Mrs. Wallis Moulding, executive secretary of the local Red Cross and president of the Social Agencies Group, introduced Mrs. Mary Lyng, social worker for the Welfare Department, who gave a brief history of the formation of this group.

Miss Rita Plummer, director of the Visiting Nursing Association, explained the organization and functions of the generalized public health nursing program. This type of program provides effective and efficient community family service. Winchester is one of the 51 communities in the U. S. that is benefiting from the synthesis of public health nursing resources.

Mrs. Eleanor Shinnick, field director of the Mystick Side Girl Scout Council, explained the new regionalization and combination of girl scout councils to provide more efficient use of professional staff, voluntary personnel and facilities. The field directors are now able to give more direct service to the troop leaders and groups.

Miss Constance Trickett, supervisor of the Senior High School Guidance Department, discussed the guidance and counseling services available to all school children and their parents. The counselors provide help in personal, educational and vocational problems.

The discussion at the end of the meeting indicated that the representatives of the invited organizations were interested in participating in this group. Broader community participation in an inter-agency group will increase the effectiveness of the goals and objectives of the Social Agencies Group.

Brownie Troop 523 Has Gala Month

Brownie troop 523 which meets at the Parkhurst School has enjoyed a particularly fun-filled January. In addition to regular Thursday afternoon meetings, the troop held a skating party and appeared on television.

On Saturday, January 5, the Brownies had a skating party at the MDC rink in Belmont. Fine weather, good ice, and refreshments and music in the warming house all contributed to a gala morning of skating.

Troop 523 was the guest of WHDH-TV for the Bozo Show on Wednesday, January 16. All Brownies were seated in view of the cameras to watch the show's attraction "in the center ring."

Miss Gina Greco, of 7 Blossom Hill Road, was chosen as one of three children to participate in a chair-roping contest and became the "TV Star" of the troop. She won a giant animal balloon and four tickets to the Sportsman's show. All the Brownies came home with Bozo goodie bags, the feeling of being celebrities, and some knowledge of the production of a live television show.

"Why I Chose A YMCA Career"

by G. D. Fawcett
Physical Director
Woburn Area Y. M. C. A.

Many times I have been asked the question "Why did you choose a YMCA Career?" But few times during the past 10 and one half years of YMCA work in N. C., R. I. and Mass. have I really taken time to ponder this question seriously. But this is a project that I decided to undertake on the advent of National Y. M. C. A. Week (February 20-27).

Looking back over the years, I can recall many pleasant memories from working with every member of the family, boys and girls, men and women on various problems and programs. Opportunities for Christian service while directing camp, gym classes, fellowship clubs, special interest groups, hobby endeavors, dances, committees are always present.

Aside however from conducting successful programs in the YMCA the most important aspect of YMCA work as a career is the effect that such activities have upon the many people with whom you come in contact. The primary job of the YMCA is that of "developing Christian personality and building a Christian society, worldwide."

As a "Y" secretary one gets a great deal of satisfaction in seeing others grow in "Mind, Body and Spirit" and in this process of serving and working with others the "Y" secretary is blessed ten-fold in return. The YMCA is a unique non-denominational and non-sectarian organization.

There are many types of YMCA jobs available in the United States today for those who would like the job of working with people to help make a better world, and who are willing to prepare for such work while in College. YMCA work is hard, the hours long, but opportunities and satisfaction outweigh the responsibilities in innumerable ways. The YMCA was organized in England 118 years ago and in Woburn 73 years ago. Today the YMCA fellowship extends to 78 different nations with world headquarters located in Geneva, Switzerland.

I sincerely hope that more young people will consider the YMCA for their lifetime career; I can assure you first-hand, you'll be needed and you won't regret your choice! I haven't, because YMCA keeps me happy and busy!

Cost Of Unemployment In Massachusetts Is Studied

High unemployment costs in the 1950's and estimated costs in the years ahead are the subject of a year-long study entitled "Financing Unemployment Insurance in Massachusetts, 1951-1970."

The purpose of the study is to point up the cost of unemployment benefits in Massachusetts between 1951 and 1960 and to project average costs to 1970 under the current Massachusetts Employment Security Law and under certain proposed revisions. The projections also show the probable effect of these costs on Massachusetts unemployment fund reserves in future years.

Highlights of the report are as follows:

(1) There was a shrinkage of $133 million in state unemployment fund reserves in the four years 1958 through 1961 due to the high unemployment levels of that period.

(2) Massachusetts will need 191,000 additional jobs in the 1960's if it is to keep pace with an anticipated 9 per cent increase in the labor force; projections indicate that practically all of this gain may be realized.

(3) Beyond the 191,000 jobs needed to keep pace with the labor force growth, thousands of additional jobs will be needed in the years immediately ahead if the state is to reduce unemployment below the high levels of recent years.

(4) All of the gains in new jobs projected for the 1960's will come in nonmanufacturing industries, with an estimated loss of 2,000 manufacturing jobs during the period.

(5) There was a net increase of 140,000 jobs in Massachusetts during the period from 1951 to 1960 in spite of a decline of 22,000 in manufacturing employment.

The study also shows a comparison of unemployment costs in Massachusetts with 14 other industrial states, including the 13 largest in terms of covered workers. they are: New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Texas, New Jersey, Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Florida, North Carolina and Connecticut.

The comparison also reveals that

(1) Massachusetts ranked 10th in the ratio of reserve in its unemployment fund to total taxable wages for the year.

(2) Average weekly wages in covered employment were lower in Massachusetts than in any of the 14 other states except North Carolina, Florida and Texas.

(3) The average weekly benefit amount during the year was higher in Massachusetts than in all but four of the other states - Wisconsin, Ohio, California and New York.

(4) Massachusetts ranked 2nd in the ratio of benefit amount to average weekly wages, a result of its relatively high benefits and relatively low wages.

(5) The 30-week maximum potential benefit duration in Massachusetts is longer than that found in 12 of the other 14 states, although 5 of the 14 provide for some extension during periods of heavy unemployment.

The average unemployment tax rate during the year was higher in Massachusetts than in 9 of the other states; estimates indicate that this would also be true in 1962.

While the report makes no predictions, it projects unemployment fund income and expenditures in the period to 1970, and also the unemployment fund balance at September 30 of that year.

The estimates are made on the basis of three alternative average unemployment rates, using related average cost rates as estimated by the U. S. Department of Labor. There are also indicated the contribution rate schedules which might be effective between the present year and that date.

The projections indicate that with the current law unchanged during the period, and under the most optimistic assumption as to the average unemployment rate, the unemployment fund balance might rise to nearly $400 million by 1970; under the median assumption it might increase to $277 million, and under the least optimistic assumption it might amount to nearly $220 mllion on that date.

The study in Massachusetts unemployment was conducted by the Bureau of Business and Economic Research of Northwestern University at the request of the state Division of Employment Security.

Holy Name Plans Communion Supper

Plans are being formulated for St. Mary's Holy Name Society's communion supper under the guidance of spiritual director Reverend Martin J. Dolphin who is honorary chairman of the affair.

The communion supper will take place on Thursday evening, March 14, with Rev. Martin J. Dolphin celebrating Mass at St. Mary's Church at 7:00 p.m., following which a catered roast beef dinner will be served in St. Mary's Hall. The guest speaker for the program will be the Rt. Rev. Francis J. Lally, editor of the "Pilot." The subject on which he will speak will concern his recent trip to Rome for the Ecumenical Council.

Co-chairmen for the communion supper are James F. Henry, society recording secretary and Vito Giarrizzo. They will be assisted by Richard M. Hines, president; John M. MacDonald, vice president; John T. Looney, treasurer; Robert J. Costello, corresponding secretary and Gregory F. Sacca, program chairman.

In the near future, all members will receive tickets by mail and will be contacted by members of the committee to confirm reservations. Anyone not receiving tickets may contact any of the above committee.

Woman's preoccupation with beauty is as old as mankind itself. The ancients of Israel, Egypt and Babylon weren't exactly strangers to the art of paint and makeup and countless attentions to their tresses. In fact, the notorious Queen Jezebel is generally conceded to have been a pretty racy number who relied on more artificialities than any female in history.

At any rate, we are going to look into the business of beauty in the weeks ahead. We will see how the search for beauty has progressed down through the centuries and take a quick look at some of the artful and not-so-artful dodges that have graced this popular feminine pursuit. We hope you will like our efforts.

We hope, too, that you ladies will think of WOODY'S HAIR STYLES in most matters pertinent to personal beauty and good grooming. We specialize in the finest hair coloring obtainable. In fact, for any attention to your hair, you can't go wrong at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St. Phone PA 9-3065.

All Good Children Go to Heaven … or

"Arithmetic is seven eleven, all good children go to heaven, or five six a bundle of sticks.

"Arithmetic is numbers you squeeze from your head to your hand to your pencil to your paper till you get the answer."

These and other lines from Carl Sandburg's "Arithmetic", were only a small part of "Poetry Sampler", a sixth grade Noonan School assembly last week presented to schoolmates, parents and friends by the pupils in Dr. Marie Fagerland's class.

The Sandburg satire, one of thirteen poems chosen by the children to present from the stage, was introduced by Elaine Pratt and recited by Elaine with Judith Leavitt, and Diane Rae.

Christine Collins introduced the whole program, which included a variety of themes and authors, telling her audience how a "true" poet uses words as other artists do paints and notes of music to tell stories, paint pictures, express feelings.

Then, in sequence, the following poems were introduced by one student who described the authors and themes briefly, and then recited:

Sandburg's "Makers of Speed" was recited by all the boys in chorus after an introduction by Peter Lane, and his "Manual System" presented by all the girls together after an introduction by Carolyn Roundey.

Gerald Costello recited "The Liberty Bell", by George L. Kress, after a stirring introduction by Russell Richburg. James Aldo presented a poem about a boy's feelings at the change of seasons, entitled "Contentment", by Arthur Guiterman. All the girls next presented two choral readings: "Rain In Summer", by Longfellow, and "Snowy Morning", by Frances Frost, introduced by Patricia Allen and Elizabeth Wingate respectively.

"Christopher Robin" and his topical sneezles and wheezles, by A. A. Milne, came next, described by Diane Rae and presented by her, Christine Hulbert and Christine Lawton. This was followed by the real nonsense verse, "Elephony", by Laura Richards, recited by Virginia Johnson, then "Arithmetic", and then Robert Frost's "The Runaway", presented by Patricia Cataldo.

The program concluded with a series of poems, again introduced by Miss Collins, the authors of which were expressing their feelings about how we can live better.

They were: "One Step More", by J. D. Freeman, presented by Anthony Sousa, Andrew Donohue and John Higgins; "Prayer For Tolerande", by Vivian Volk, recited by Erwin Nurnberger and "At the End of the Day", by Ellen Morrison presented by Christine Collins, Patricia Allen and Jo Ann Cotrone.

The last poem, selected by the youngsters for their finale, was "I Will Teach You", by W. L. Stidger. It was recited by Carolyn Roundey and it left the audience in its mood, "I like to go to school to God. I hear such strange, revealing things, He talks to me where rivers ring and where a skylark soars and sings."

Hospital Friends Extend Welcome To New Members

Who are "The Friends" and what is their purpose?

The Friends is a non-profit organization devoted to the service of the Winchester Hospital. It is open to newcomers and all residents of Winchester and surrounding communities.

With the new wing and alteration program of the hospital well under way, more volunteer workers are needed. Even with the best of medical care in the finest of hospitals, patients crave the extra warmth and friendship which only volunteers have the time to give. If you have but a few hours weekly to devote to the hospital, you will be welcomed by the Friends.

Inside the hospital, volunteers may work on the following services: book basket, central supply, children's hour, coffee cart, hospital coffee shop (day or evening), gift cart, messenger service, patient's flowers and the television project. Work outside the hospital includes clerical assistance, favors for patient's trays, mending and the unique "Winnie the Puppet" for sick children.

Anyone interested in joining the Friends, please call Mrs. James Hollinshead, chairman of volunteers: PA 9-1526: Mrs. Persis Gow and PA 9-1052 Mrs. Harold Pyne, PA 9-1128 vice-chairmen of volunteers; Mrs. C. Dennis Smith, chairman of junior volunteers, PA 9-5995 or Mrs. David Mears, co-chairman of junior volunteers, PA-9-4935.

Morgan Memorial Offers Emergency Sign as Bonus

One of the best auto safety devices which has been developed in recent years is being made available to friends who donate $3 or more to the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries to aid the handicapped and needy.

The three-way sign kit, for use in road emergencies, is light-weight of simple construction and durable and literally worth its weight in gold.

Printed in large letters, the sign reads on one side, "Car Stalled;" and another side, "Please Help;" and on panel three are the scientific traffic colors, urging caution, and is visible at 200 feet to oncoming cars.

The new sign is a safety must for every car. Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries will mail one free to each new giver of $3 or more and to regular givers.

Electronics And New Kindergarten Programs Heard

Speaking in Lynnfield and Canton, respectively, Dr. Clare Corcoran, principle of the Vinson-Owen School and Joseph Aversa, electronics instructor in the High School, told audiences in these towns of two of Winchester's recent curriculum innovations.

Dr. Corcoran, who has previously served as president of the Boston University School of Education chapter of the national honor association of women in education, Pi Lambda Theta, this past Saturday served the group as chairman of a kindergarten discussion group at its 14th annual teachers conference held at the Lynnfield High School.

Dr. Corcoran led the kindergarten discussion for many of the more than 900 teachers from all over New England who attended the conference. She presented to them a picture of the new program of "upgrading" kindergarten work which was initiated in the seven elementary schools here this year.

Mr. Joseph Aversa, who has been in charge of the electronics program at the High School since its inception some five years ago, spoke before the Canton Council for Public Education last Wednesday evening.

The panel topic for the evening was "Today's Education for Tomorrow's Technology", and Mr. Aversa not only described the now well established electronics program in the Winchester schools, which commences in the eighth grade, but told of departmental hopes to augment the present predominantly theoretical approach with a course which would give greater stress to the mechanical phases of electronics for those students whose mathematics ability is more qualified.

Enjoying Myopia Reminiscences

Among those enjoying the Myopia reminiscences appearing weekly in the Star is Roland E. Simonds, former chief engineer of the fire department and a life long resident of Winchester.

Roland tells us he remembers the old Prince House with its stained glass windows and unusual window casements. It was located on the present Wedge Pond Road substantially where the house of Mr. Winthrop Palmer is now located, in a stand of pine.

After Mr. Prince went to Boston to live the place was unoccupied and gradually fell into disrepair. Young people in the neighborhood used the grounds to walk in during the evening because of their wooded nature.

Finally the house burned down, amidst great excitement in the 1890's.

Roland tells us he also remembers the old Myopia clubhouse on Myopia Hill overlooking Mystic Lake. Often as a boy he walked through the clubhouse grounds and around the building.

The clubhouse was square and entirely surrounded by a piazza. It was well built by old D. N. Skillings, and was nicely appointed to serve as a sporting club for those who held membership.

Mardi Gras Ball Plans Completed For February 8

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reid, chairmen of St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club Mardi Gras Ball Committee announced yesterday that arrangements for the ball are substantially complete and that it remains only for club members and their friends to buy their tickets, bedeck themselves in imaginative costumes and ramble on down to a bit of transformed New Orleans at St. Mary's Hall on Friday evening, February 8.

Ken Reeves' Orchestra wlil provide music from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and at 10 p.m. the Grand March will take place after which prizes for the outstanding costumes will be presented and a King and Queen will be selected to reign over the ball.

Mrs. Reid urges couples who desire tickets to the gala pre-Lenten carnival to call Mrs. Leo F. Roche, Jr., ticket chairman, at PA 9-2340, or any of the following members of her capable committee:

Mrs. Mary Maloney, Mrs. Mary Keith, Mrs. Midge Pazolt, Mrs. Mary Brennan, Mrs. Madeline Sullivan, Mrs. Maxine Glynn, Mrs. Erbie McDonough, Mrs. Rosalie Fiske, Mrs. Gertrude Rooney, Mrs. Ann Pearce, Mrs. Grace Fay or Mrs. Pat Waite.

Mrs. Reid and her committee also noted that while the Ball Committee hoped that everyone would attempt some masquerade, all were welcome, whether or not in costume.

Troop 524 Holds Court of Honor

At a candlelight court of honor ceremony, during which William Krupsky scoutmaster of Troop 524 lighted a candle for each of the twelve points of the scout law as recited by First class scout Bill Elliott, the following scouts received badges and awards:

Tenderfoot Class: John Farley, James Farley, Peter Majahad, Anthony Martignetti, Steven Swanson, Richard Anderson and Nathan Huston.

Eagle Scout - Gold Palm: Ted Cook, Jr.

The following promotions were also made:

John Eames, Star scout, to senior patrol leader. Steve Burnham, Robert Pierce and Charles Weedon, all Star scouts, to assistant senior patrol leaders. William Elliott, First class to quartermaster, and Neil Suneson, Second class to scribe.

At the conclusion of the presentation of Polar Bear and Minuteman Council patches to those of Second class rank and above who had participated in the Polar Bear Campout of the previous weekend. Dave Burnham, chairman of the camping committee, presented the Troop Committee chairman, Reid Weedon Jr. to Mrs. Frank Bower, president of the Parkhurst Parents association, sponsoring body of Troop 524.

After a graceful expression of their pleasure in sponsoring such a fine and ambitious troop, Mrs. Bower, in behalf of the Parkhurst Parents Association presented to Scoutmaster Krupsky, the troop's charter for the year, and a special gift of a beautiful, nylon 50 star American flag.

Many interested parents were present at the colorful ceremony, and the mothers of the scouts received an added bonus, a small duplicate gold pin which they will wear with pride. Refreshments were served to all.

Tax Return Signers Are Responsible

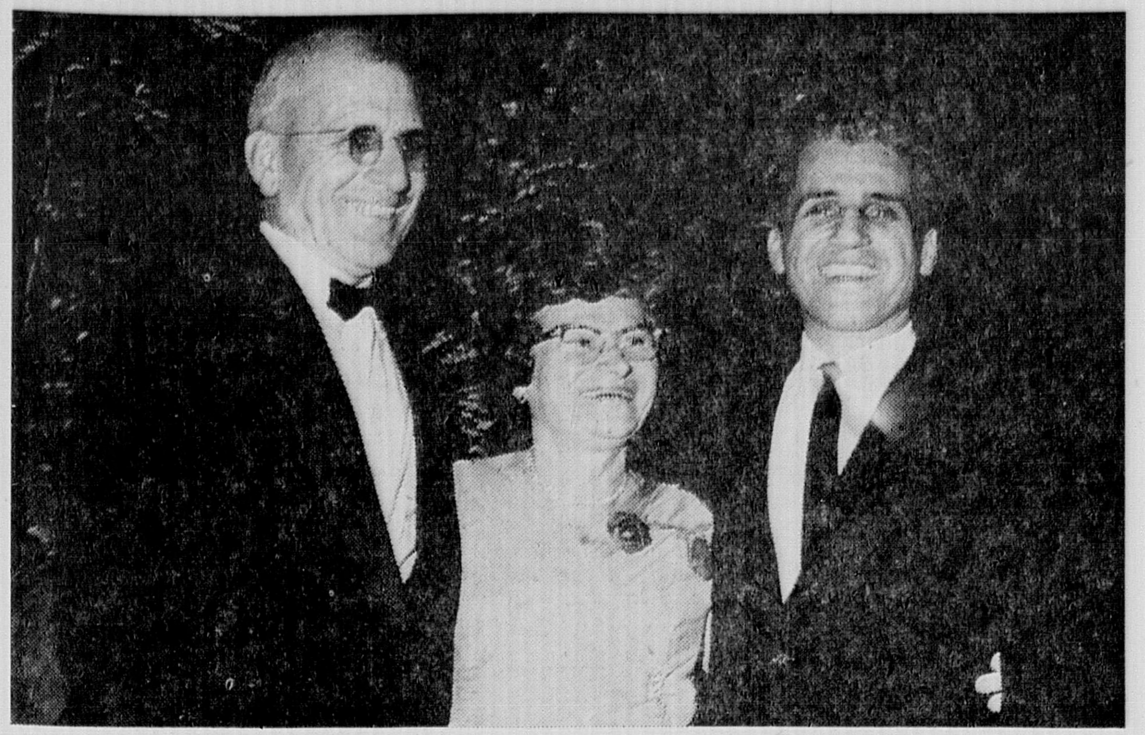
Each Federal income taxpayer is responsible for the facts and figures entered in the return he signs. This is true even if it is prepared with the assistance of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service, District Director Alvin M. Kelley said today.

In advising taxpayers of this responsibility, Mr. Kelley, said, we must remind them that they are responsible under law for all entries and all supporting documents in their returns no matter who prepares it.

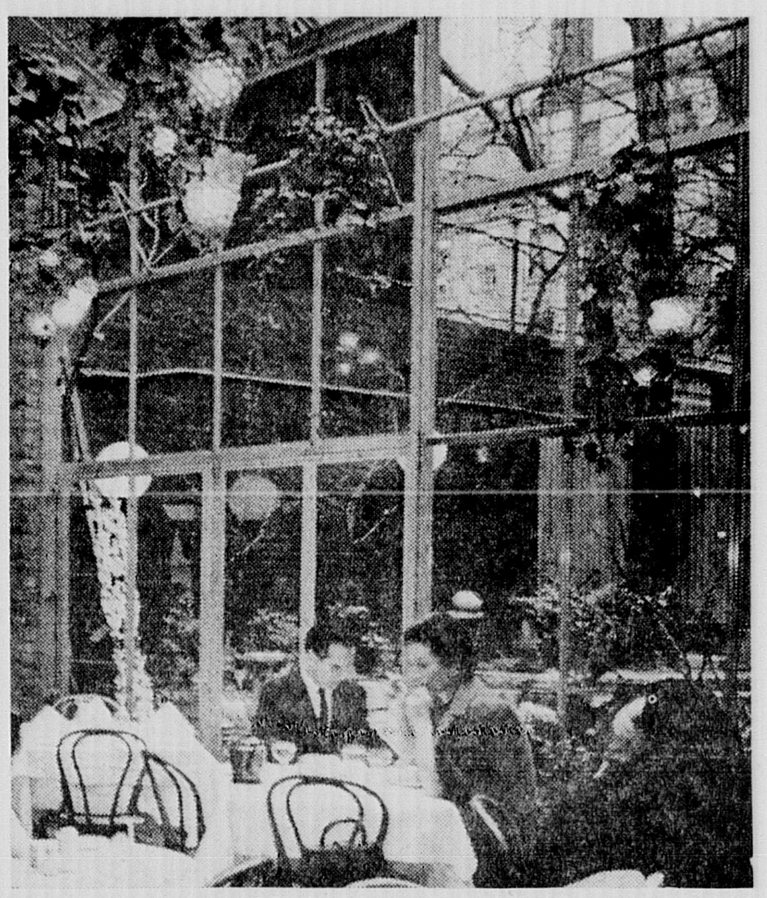
The Internal Revenue, he said, welcomes returns prepared by competent professional persons, but such assistors in many instances can only rely upon information provided by the taxpayer.

The taxpayers themselves are the persons primarily and finally responsible, he said.

Santo Opens Chic New York Restaurant "Sign Of The Dove," - - - Distinctive



HAPPY SANTOS. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Santo of 10 East Street and their son, Dr. Joseph B. Santo of New York City. Dr. Santo, a dentist, recently opened a fashionable restaurant in New York called the Sign of the Dove, which has had photographs in several national magazines and is frequented by New York's smart set.



THE GREENHOUSE IS A DINING ROOM. Looking across to a corner in one of the four distinctive dining rooms at the Sign of the Dove Restaurant, with the Summer Patio on the other side of the glass wall, a young couple arrive to partake of an early fete in the distinctive decor of the Greenhouse Room before an evening at the theater.

Dr. Joseph Santo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Santo, 10 East Street, Winchester, is hardly the type of man to rest on his laurels or in his dentist chair between patients. A highly successful New York DDS, Dr. Santo recently realized a lifetime ambition by opening New York City's most unusual restaurant, located at 65th Street and 3rd Avenue, Manhattan.

He reached into the pages of history for a name of his restaurant and selected Sign of the Dove, which, strangely enough, was the same name of a way station (for carriage trade during the 18th Century, prior to 1763) located on the identical spot.

The Sign of the Dove is already a pet of high fashion photographers in New York and of the chic magazines. It is divided into four rooms, each is as attractive as its neighbor.

The Greenhouse Room is exactly that - a replica of a greenhouse, complete with scores of panes of glass and hundreds of plants.

The Cafe Expresso, a beautiful combination of brick and wood, is lighted by real gas jets.

The Smoking Room is novel in that one wall is covered with the siding of an old barn, containing an advertisement proclaiming the virtues of mail pouch tobacco.

The Garden is primarily for al fresco dining during warm weather and is indeed a work of art, set off by a huge Parisian horses watering trough in its center.

Dr. Santo attended grammar and high school in Winchester. He received his degree in dentistry from St. Louis University and set up his practice in New York City where he immediately developed a large following, including some famous personalities.

The Sign of the Dove was opened during the fall of 1962 and was an immediate success among blase New Yorkers, who are constantly on the search for new surroundings and atmospheres.

Photographs of the Sign of the Dove have appeared in many magazines, including Harpers Bazaar, Vogue, and Glamour.

Dean John Munro To Address Forum

Dean John U. Monro of Harvard College will be guest speaker Sunday at the 9:15 a.m. chapel service of The Senior Forum at First Congregational Church. His subject will be "What Can I Do?"

Dean and Mrs. Monro were Forum superintendents in the 1958-59 season prior to their moving to the Dean's residence at Harvard. They continue as active members of First Church here.

Dean Monro went to the Harvard staff following service in the Navy. A graduate of Andover and Harvard, he assumed responsibilities first in the Veteran's office and was then appointed director of the Financial Aid office.

Under his administration major changes in scholarship and loan policies were introduced at Harvard. Having been on scholarship himself at both prep school and college, Dean Monro knows from first hand experience what students are up against.

He has served on many committees throughout the United States, advising on such programs as the National Merit Scholarships, the General Motors Scholarships, the Peace Corps, the fund for Negro students. At Harvard he has assumed the deanship of the college and continues to teach Freshman English.

At the time of their moving to Cambridge it was said that the Monros have a permanent affection for Winchester. Forum has a permanent affection for them, too, and will be happy to welcome Dean and Mrs. Monro on Sunday.

Serving as chaplains for the service will be Margie Purvis and Chris Cooper. Ruth Beckley and Sherry Changaris will be ushers.

Science Secrets. Educator approved Science Lab Kits, for boys and girls ages 5-15 for $1.00 each, or a cabinet set for $9.50. At the Winchester Star.

Boy Scout Week Will Feature An Exposition

Many Winchester Boy Scouts are among the 1800 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, and adult volunteer leaders of the Musket District of the Minuteman Council who will begin a one week observance starting February 7, of the 53rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Anthony Toto, district scout executive said today that the highlight of the anniversary will be the "Adventure Thru Scouting" exposition that will be held at the Woburn Armory, Saturday, February 9, 2:00-6:00 p.m.

"The exposition" Toto said, "will reveal the excitement of our three programs to parents of members and to their neighbors and friends. The program has been planned to entertain and encourage participation. We hope that all will get a better understanding of the aims and objections of the Boy Scout movement."

One emphasis of this year's Scout Week which concludes on February 13, is placed on the fitness activities of the movement and the progress made in its "Fit for Tomorrow" program.

All members will take part in the annual rededication ceremony either at unit meetings, patrol meetings or in members homes. They renew their pledge to live up to the Scout Oath or Promise.

On Sunday, February 10 members in uniform will accompany their parents to church. Fifty-seven Scouts in the district are to receive religious activities, and services rendered in special projects assigned by the priest, minister or rabbi.

In recognition of the Scouting birthday many local merchants have given Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers the use of store windows for displays of the handicraft items they have made and to demonstrate some of the skills they acquire in their units.

Serving on the Anniversary committee from Winchester are Leo Fitzpatrick, Albert MacDougall, Bernhard Anderson and George DeMars.

Methodist Youth Visit Churches In Study of Faiths

For the past month, the M. Y. F. of Crawford Memorial Methodist Church has been studying the Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

On Sunday, January 6, Father Campbell, a priest from the Paulist center in Boston, visited the youth fellowship and answered questions pertaining to the Roman Catholic faith. This was followed up the following Sunday by a visit to St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in Winchester at the 9:00 o'clock Mass, and by a visit in the evening when questions were asked regarding the Mass and some of the symbols in the church.

On Sunday, January 20, Miss Judith Kolb, a jewish student from Boston University and majoring in religion, came to discuss the Jewish faith and answer any questions. She also showed many interesting slides from her visit to the holy lands and also some of the improvements that are being made to develop the country. The youth fellowship will follow this up with a visit to a Jewish synagogue sometime in the near future.

Sunday January 27, marked the end of the present study of these two faiths and the program was concluded by comparing the beliefs of protestants to those of the Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

Middlesex League Hockey

Belmont took a giant step towards capturing its first Middlesex Hockey League title last week when it edged defending league, State and New England champion Melrose, 2 to 1.

With five games remaining on the schedule Belmont enjoys a four point edge over Melrose and a five point spread over Wakefield and Winchester which are tied for third place

The Middlesex League, one of the best balanced leagues in Eastern Massachusetts has had a different champion every year since its conception.

Winchester was the first league champ during the 59-60 season. Then it was Wakefield the following year and last season it was Melrose. It appears that the new champion every year theme will be continued.

The feature game on this week's schedule at the North Shore Sports Center will be between Belmont and Stoneham. In their first meeting this season Belmont won 2 to 0 in a closely contested game.

In other games this week Lexington meets Reading, Melrose faces Winchester and Watertown opposes Wakefield.

Belmont, Melrose, Wakefield and Winchester are still in the running for State Tournament berths. A team must win or tie 75 per cent of its games to qualify.

Wakefield and Winchester, however, would have to go the rest of the season without a loss to make it. Both teams have lost three games. Teams that play a 14-games schedule like the Middlesex League entries, cannot qualify for the State tourney if they lose four games.

There's still a close battle among three goal tenders in the Middlesex League. Belmont's Dave Crisafullo has allowed 10 goals for a 1.1 goal per game average; Melrose's Bob Quinn has allowed 11 goals for a 1.2 reading and Wakefield's Bob Ring has allowed 12 goals for a 1.3 average.

Women's S. O. I. Bowling League

It certainly looks like a real battle to the finish with about five teams fighting for first place. The Alpines, our team of the week, are doing a good job of staying on top. The Newports are waiting for a chance at the one game that will put them in front.

The Kools, Luckies and Camels are coming up slowly but surely. It's going to be quite a fight. Remember there are only nine more weeks of bowling.

As I glance over the figures I notice Margie is back in third place on the Top Ten list and Jerry's average is climbing steadily upwards.

Cusi and Rose are the only bowlers in the 100 club this week. I have heard of so many girls, who have bowled almost 100. Think we will have to start a club for those girls.

Well, now, our team of the week is in first place, so I guess I'll have to be nice to them, Alpines stand up and take your bow.

We are going to give Anita Dolloff an award for being the most soft-spoken captain. Oh, boy is she quiet.

Marie Pizzo is the Groucho of the group, mean her mannerisms. Ah, such a twinkle in her eyes when she smiles. Sue Barbaro is such a charming personality that people don't know she can be quite a cut up.

Laura Ciara is the most deliberate bowler I've seen in a long time. The control is marvelous. It works so keep up the good work. Mildred Traica so glad your bowling has improved. You surprised every one with your high score to make the 100 club.

The Viceroys are going to get the "axe" next week.

Albree Donates Rifle Trophy To Norwich Univ.

The Norwich University varsity rifle team will compete as individuals this year for a new Norwich trophy donated to the college by G. Norman Albree, of 7 Stratford Road.

Known as the Albree Trophy, it will consist of a plaque on which, each year, the name of the Norwich varsity shooter with the highest season average score in shoulder to shoulder competition will be engraved. The plaque will hang permanently in the Norwich rifle range.

It is given by Mr. Albree out of a personal interest in marksmanship which has been constant with him since his youth. He is a ballistics engineer and himself a fine marksman, winner of many records and awards.

In addition to the plaque, Mr. Albree will provide a small display medal, also carrying the name of the winner, and he has established a trust fund to yield income for this annual personal award.

Mr. Albree is the father of Maj. John A. Albree, a 1951 graduate of Norwich, who for the past three years has been assigned by the army to Norwich's ROTC faculty as an Armor officer. Major Albree also serves as an assistant commandant for the Corps of Cadets.

Saint Mary's Triumphs 6-3

Paced by John Stabile's hat tricks St. Mary's C.Y.O. hockey team downed a tough Belmont sextet 6-3 in a game at McHugh Forum last Saturday. This win coupled with East Boston's loss to Arlington, moved St. Mary's into second place in the league, two games behind undefeated St. Agnes of Arlington.

Frank Manzie started things off for St. Mary's at two minutes of the first period by taking Pepper Cunningham's pass and whistling a low slap shot into the Belmont cage. Belmont came roaring back however, to pump two quick goals in to take a 2-1 lead after one period.

In the second period, John Stabile put St. Mary's back on top by scoring two of his three goals. His first came on a rebound off Skip Fucillo's blast and his second was on a pretty set up by Pepper Cunningham. Cunningham swung the Belmont defense to the left and slipped the puck to Stabile who hit the strings from 15 feet out.

In the third period, Belmont tied the game on a rebound shot which beat McCarthy to the short side. Scarcely 30 seconds later Stabile put St. Mary's in front to stay with the prettiest of his three goals. Stabile cut in on the right win, faked a shot and swung completely around the net and tucked the disc in the open corner. Two minutes later Kiley added to the lead by defeating Muraco's pass past the Belmont netminder. With only thirty seconds left in the game Danny O'Connell, husky third line center, finished the scoring by knocking in a loose rebound in front of the Belmont cage.

Next Sunday at 7:45 a.m. St. Mary's takes on St. Ann's of Peabody at McHugh Forum. This should prove to be a rough, hard-hitting game as the last meeting between the two clubs erupted into a full scale brawl with several players being suspended.

Alexander Houlding '64 of 19 Yale Street a student at Bowdoin College is a member of the cast of "Thieves' Carnival," a romantic comedy to be presented by Masque and Gown, The Bowdoin College dramatic organization. the play will be presented in Pickard Theatre on the campus February 16 and February 18.

Sachems Win Fifth Straight Meet From Lynn Classical, 45½ to 31½

Winchester made it five wins in six starts in the Northeast Conference indoor track season Monday afternoon, beating Lynn Classical, 45½ to 31½ in the Andover Academy Cage.

Winchester was without Dick Lindsey, crack 300 yarder, out with a sore ankle and bad back. Coach Knowlton juggled his team to compensate, sending Geof Peckham after the mile and shifting Rich Rowe from the dash to the 300.

Both boys did well in their new assignment, Peckham winning a 4m 57.9 mile with Jon Buckley a very close third. All the Winchester rooters thought he was second, but there was no doubt about Peckham's performance.

Just to make it unanimous Rowe turned in a first place in the 300 with a 36.5 performance that saw Pepper Cunningham place third, again in a very close finish.

Bill Thoms won the 600 going away in 1m 21s, and also tied for third in the high jump as well as running the anchor leg on the relay team for a good afternoon's work.

Shifting from the mile to the 1,000 yards Dave Bird was once again bothered with pace, but finished an excellent second on the shoulder of Wiswall of Lynn.

Bill Graham tied for first in the high jump with Papalas of Lynn, but the 5ft. 5in. performance was well below his beat. Roger Borggaard and Steve Wardwell finished one-two in an unexceptional shotput.

In the relay Winchester gave a sparkling performance with Bill Thoms ten yards back starting the anchor relay. Bill caught the Lynn runner half way through the leg and breezed home going away in 1m 27.8s. The summary:

Hockey Game With Lexington Ends in Fight

The Winchester-Lexington Middlesex League hockey game at the Lynn Sports Center last Saturday afternoon ended in a wild melee with three minutes and twenty-one seconds remaining, after the officials had meted out seven misconduct penalties to Lexington players and two to Winchester. The officials, Bill Stewart and Ben Bertini, wisely called the game at this point, awarding the contest to Winchester, by virtue of its 8-2 lead at the time.

Previous to the scrap the game had been fairly rough and Coach Finigan, hoping to get his reserves some work, had just taken his second and third string out of the game, returning his varsity to competition when the action started.

George Murphy had tried to cage a rebound at the goal and his impetus had carried him partially into the net when the Lexington goalie fell upon him and started to throw punches.

Murphy extricated himself as soon as possible and immediately skated to the Winchester bench as he had been coached to do. Meanwhile the Lexington goalie skated the length of the rink and attacked the Winchester goalie, who tried to avoid him by skating behind the goal.

Lexington had three men in the penalty box at the time the trouble started and all three climbed onto the ice and started swinging. The Lexington coach went onto the ice to try to stop the fight and after him streamed his bench. Coach Finigan wisely kept his boys on their own bench and stayed right with them.

When the melee was over seven Lexington boys and two Winchester boys, Barry Johnson, league-leading scorer, and the goalie, Conner, were given misconduct penalties, which means they can not play in the next game with Melrose. This is unfortunate since the Winchester boys were simply defending themselves from attack.

Winchester scored four goals each in the first and second period and were on top of Lexington all the way. Ed Cutting and Tom Johns each tallied twice. The summary:

Winchester — Conner, g; Lawson, rd; Johns, ld; Murphy, c; Johnson, rw; Cutting, lw.

Winchester Spares—Gustin, Carey, Cussen, O'Callaghan, Eaton, B. Murray, R. Murray, Cowles, Soucek, Howard, McCormack, Scherban.

Lexington Spares—Grinnell, E. Sullivan, Lowry, Fontas, Donahue, Whittier, King, Sparrow.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

The Spades turned in some really wonderful bowling this week, scoring the highest team single and triple for the year.

What did you do, Lucy? Did you hand out pep pills before the match? Every member of the team did beautifully. Lucy bowled 267, Blanche 261, Marie 268, Barbara 259, and Magda 274. Totals for the team were 438, 427, 464, for a total of 1329. Marie's 103 was high single for the night, and Magda's 274, high triple for the night.

The other teams weren't doing too badly, either. The Diamonds took three from the Hearts. The scores were very close. Only four pins decided total pins. Rose turned in a 260 total. Eva and Eleanor had 256 each, and Peggy's 250 was excellent.

Wayne F. Baltzer Initiated Into Honor Society

Wayne F. Baltzer of 16 South Gateway, after a rugged pledge period, has been duly initiated into the National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles at Company B-12 Regiment Boston University. His pledging began last September and ended this January, and among highlights of the period was a Hellweekend conducted at Fort Devens where the pledges ran through the training courses and took part in combat war games.

Town Bowling League

With new teams on top, the second half got into full swing this past week.

The Mill Hillers got off to a flying start as they bombed the St. Mary's club. With strings of 515-505 and 477, St. Mary's could not keep pace. Jim Callahan 326, Bruce Kelley 318, and Fred Kimball 298 were the standouts in this match.

The Post Office took on J. H. Winn and won by 100 pins, 1382 to 1282. Lennie Landry who has taken up the "anchor man's" spot and rolled a 297, which was high in this series.

The last place Hobos are no more, as they rolled over the Brothers-in-law in a tight match G. Trulson was the big gun for the Hobos, and they should be strong contenders this half.

Strike Lanes took the life out of the Giant Killers in a real close match 1336 to 1305. R. Smith curved his way to high man after he cleaned his glasses.

The match of the night was between the 49ers and the Atlantic Gelatin. The score Atlantic Gelatin 1543, 49ers 1517, and on points 4 to 4.

Joe Nash 122-109-104 for 335 was high man, as he was followed by Bud Nash 320, Oscar Lovgren 317, for the Atlantic Gelatin. The 49ers, B. Wilson 97-113-115 for 325 was high as B. McGovern 314, and R. Banks 313 followed in line. In this match of the 30 strings rolled, 20 were over 100.

Grandma's Teeth sunk the Converse in another fine match. 1391 to 1379 as the Grandma's Teeth won 6 to 2 on points. As the match went, Grandma's Teeth 465 to Converse 454, Grandma's 472 to Converse 469, and the last string Converse 456 to Grandma's 454, a fine match.

Harlem Diplomats To Attract Big Crowd

A good size crowd is expected to see Canada's Harlem Diplomats play at the High School gym on Saturday, February 9th, at 7:30 p.m. Many fans refer to the Diplomats as Canada's version of the Harlem Globetrotters. The Diplomats who appreciate the compliment are fast becoming world known themselves. The busy Diplomats played in eight countries last season.

The Diplomats boast of two outstanding comedians. Goose, Jr. is already the most popular basketball player in Canada. The amusing Goose, Jr. is the best young ball handler to come along in a decade.

The other featured comedian, Dick Harvey, the talented Toronto gent is known for his baseball as well as his basketball showmanship. He worked with the Kansas City Monarchs and the Birmingham Black Barons teams responsible for Jackie Robinson and Willie Mays respectively.

The opposition will be: Winchester High School Faculty and Alumni which is being recruited by Coach "Jimsy" Phillips of the high school team. Already such stalwarts as Bob Kessler, George Watson, Lou Knght, Roger Rawden and Jim Phillips are in the faculty lineup, but the Star, unfortunately can find no foundation in fact for the rumor that Trainer Lou Goddu will take his old place in the faculty back court, though Lou will be on hand just in case any of the faculty need his ministrations. It is also reported on good authority that neither Coach Knowlton nor "Micky" Meurling will don the spangles.

However, Coach Phillips believes the faculty team will give a good account of itself, and if Frank Provinzano referees, the professors should have slightly better than an even chance.

Winchester Eighth In B.A.A. Games

Winchester's recently organized indoor track team placed eighth among 18 teams in the B Division of the B.A.A. Schoolboy track and field championships at the Boston Garden last Saturday.

Bill Thoms, Winchester's record-holding quarter-mile champion, placed second in the 600. Levy of Salem won the event in 1m 17.8s with Thoms only slightly slower. Places were awarded by times.

Paul Klorer placed third in the 50-yard dash, being edged out by Marmo of Wakefield, a boy he beat at Andover in the Wakefield-Winchester meet.

Bill Graham cleared five feet eight inches to place fifth in a high jump won at 5ft. 10 in. by Gittins of Cambridge Latin.

Bird drew a slow heat in the mile and his time was not good enough to be considered. Fardy of Melrose did 4m 40.7s in winning the event. Lindsey, showing the effects of his ankle injury, was unable to get a piece of the 300 yard run, won by Katchpole of Dedham in 33.6s.

Tibor Saddler, Winchester's exchange student, got a poor start in the hurdles and did not have a chance in the 45-yard event. Unused to running on boards, he was handicapped for the event. Dick Amoroso found the going too tough in the 1,000, which was won by Newell of Reading in 2:24.3s.

S. O. I. Bowling League

Alabama blanked Bates 4-0 to hold first place in the fourteen-team league. Bill Fiore led the way for the victors by rolling 98-125-95, while Vin Puma and Correction Fiore followed with scores of 105-94-104 and 100-107-93, respectively. Capt. Bob Fiore had a good night hitting 115-124-101 for the losers, who droped from third to fourth place.

Second-place Yale took Penn 3-1. Richie Bucci of the winners had everybody rooting for him when he had a first string of 141, followed by a 102. On the third string he had 120 going in the sixth frame with a strike. He ended up the last four frames with an eight, two tens and a spare, with six more on the spare for a total of 164 and a 407 for three strings. Mike Saraco had a good 109-135-110 for the losers.

Georgetown won over Boston College 3-1. For the winners Chick Vespucci had 115-102-92, and Dick Trabucco 108-102-91. The losers' Jim Faieta had 78-114-136 and Slim Lentine 117-102-104.

Jack McIsaac with 102-99-111 led Notre Dame to a 3-1 victory over Harvard. For the losers John Frongillo had 103-106-94.

California blanked Navy 4-0. Cal's Capt. Muskie Tofure rolled 110-133-107, Paul Gangi had 101-115-105, and Carl Bertolucci 90-95-115. For Navy Capt. Choppers Gangi had 114-116-96, Mario Lentine 89-109-120, Roundy Fiore 99-91-111.

Army and St. Mary's ended in a 2-2 deadlock. Army's Capt. Tony Saraco rolled 133-99-110 and Johnny Dattilo 84-122-94. For St. Mary's Major Ciarcia had 89-128-102, Frank Provinzano 89-119-105, and Mingy Frongillo 113-101-92.

Important matches next week are Alabama vs N. D., Yale vs Bates, Holy Cross vs St. Mary's.

Sachems Surprise Wakefield

The Winchester High School basketball team came from behind to surprise Wakefield last Friday night, winning by a score of 58-47.

In the first period Wakefield, led by Bill Wallace, jumped out to a 10-4 lead. The Sachems fought back as junior Vic Papadinis hit for three straight baskets to tie the score at 10-10. Each team exexchanged baskets and Wakefield held the ball for the last shot. With just 3 seconds left Bill Wallace hit a jumper from the right to give Wakefield a 14-12 lead at the end of the quarter.

Wallace put his team ahead by 6 points as he hit for two quick baskets as the second quarter opened. The Sachems had many opportunities to cut this lead, but were careless. Finally, with two minutes left the Sachems cut the lead as Bob Watson hit for a 3-point play. The score at the end of the half had Wakefield in front 27-23.

The Sachems tied the score as the third period got under way, but were hurt as Vic Papadinis fouled out at 5:39. Wakefield built up a six-point lead, 35-29, but the Sachems came alive, led by Roger Schipellite and Jim Devaney, and tied the score with two minutes left in the third period. Coach Phillips then put in his defensive team, and the Sachems started to move. They bottled up Wakefield's offensive game and quickly took the lead on baskets by Mike O'Dair and Jim Devaney. As the quarter ended the Sachems led 46-41.

The fourth quarter brought about a defensive battle as neither team was able to score a field goal. The Sachems missed only two from the line out of 14, and this proved to be the big factor as they went on to win 58-47.

Leading the Sachems were Bob Watson and Jim Devaney with 14 and 13 points respectively, while Bill Wallace led his teammates with 16 points.

Guards Tommy Ford and Bob Branley should be credited with great defensive play as they held Wakefield's high-scoring Bill Wallace to only one field goal in the second half.

Jayvees Stunned By Wakefield

The Winchester High School Jayvees lost to Wakefield Jayvees last Friday night by a score of 60-56, in game in which the Sachems blew a 15-point lead.

The Sachems led 20-5 after the first quarter on the shooting of Pete Fahey, and maintained a 32-19 lead at the half.

As the third period got under way Wakefield, led by Tom Steutzer, cut away at the Sachems' lead as the locals played sloppily to retain a slim 40-39 lead at the half.

Winchester stretched its lead to 5 points at the start of the fourth quarter, but Wakefield fought hard to pull out the game 60-56.

Steutzer led the Wakefield Jayvees with 25 points, while Porter Mulford led the Sachems with 13.

Winchester In 58 To 47 Victory Over Wakefield

Fighting for a place in the playoffs for the State title the Winchester Sachems, with their backs to the wall, defeated the Wakefield Warriors last Friday evening in the high school gymnasium, 58-47. The second team lost a close preliminary game, after leading at the half.

The game was a weird one with neither team scoring a floor goal during the final period. This shows how close the guarding was with both teams using presses during the final period and the work of the Winchester reserves, Ford, Rigney and Fahey, counting heavily for the Sachems.

Winchester shot 19 out of 58 for a percentage of 33 with no basket out of nine tries in the final period. A big third period, when Winchester scored 10 of 18 put the game on ice. Wakefield got no basket out of 11 shots in the final chuckka, and only four out of ten tries in the third period.

Two of Winchester's high scorers, Watson and Papadinis, fouled out, throwing a big load during the final minutes of play on the reserves who came through nicely.

Wakefield was ahead at the quarter, 14-12, and led at the half, 27-23, a big third quarter when Winchester outscored the Warriors, 23 to 14 and a last period when the Sachems had the edge in foul baskets, 12-6, were the deciding factors.

All told after intermission Wakefield could tally only four baskets from the floor while Winhester hit for 10. The Winchester defense held Wakefield's high scorer Wallace to 16 points. Devaney had 13 for Winchester and Watson, 14.

The win gave the Sachems a record of seven victories against six defeats, and Winchester needs to win them all from here in if they hope to make the playoffs.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

The member-guest knockout team of four tournament rolled into high gear last week as the field began to narrow down to the quarter-final round. Being played in the home at the mutual convenience of team captains, this event is scored under the international match point (IMP) system adopted by the American Contract Bridge League for its major team matches. Here are the latest results as reported at press time:

First Round:

Herb Wood team d. Darrell Root team by 48 IMP

Ralph Gartner team d. Edward Sullivan team by 68 IMP

Barbara Sawyer team d. Ralph Atkinson team by 38 IMP

Val Habicht team d. Mary Devaney team by def.

Second Round:

Ann Murray team d. Philip Cade team by 11 IMP

Stephen Haseltine team d. George Kimball team by 4 IMP

Blair Hawley team d. Richard Smith team by 19 IMP

William Wheelock team d. James Bradley team by 37 IMP

Donna Redpath team d. Charles Watson team by 12 IMP

Lloyd Butterfield team d. Kay Dunn team by 7 IMP

The Howell movemnet has been gaining in popularity since it produces a single overall winner, permits each pair to play directly against most of the other teams, and gives each pair a crack at every board being used in the section. A nine table Howell was played as Section A of the January 23rd game, operating on an average score of 88.

Arthur Bibby and Harold Brown	118
Ida Finlay and William Duryea	107½
James Byrne and James Bradley	103½
Donna Redpath and Alta Stewart	103
Gerald Barrett and Ted Atkinson	94
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	94
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	92
Edward Sullivan and Perry Bunyar	92
Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet	88½

Section B evolved and revolved as an 8½ table Mitchell, leading to the percentage method of scoring.

North-South

Gerry Lawrence and Betty Yeomans	.599
Darrell Root and Richard Smith	.590
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones	.533

East-West

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hills	.651
Frank Stewart and William Atkins	.609
Lillian Sheridan and Rose Hickey	.593
Miggs Root and Lolly Smith	.568

Stepping up to the firing line this week is ace bridge reporter Darrell Root. Here are his comments:

"The hand to be discussed this week is Board No. 26 from Section B, and the results indicate the difficulty as well as the importance of being in the proper contract.

"The hand was played six times with five different final contracts as a result, the only duplication being two 3 no trump contracts by North. The other bids were 2 hearts, 4 hearts and 6 hearts by South, and a 1 no trump doubled and redoubled by West. East was the dealer, and both sides were vulnerable."

North
♠ Q J 7 6
♥ K 7 4
♦ 5 3
♣ A K 9 5

West	East
♠ K 9 5 4	♠ 10 8 2
♥ A 2	♥ Q 10 3
♦ J 9 8	♦ Q 6 4
♣ Q J 7 6	♣ 10 8 3 2

South
♠ A 3
♥ J 9 8 6 5
♦ A K 10 7 2

At our table East passed, South opened with 1 heart, West passed, and North bid a questionable three hearts; then came four no trump from South, five diamonds from North, and a final optimistic bid of six hearts by our partnership, going down one trick when both the ace and queen of hearts in the opponents' hands take tricks.

In the three no trump contracts we can assume that the bidding started with one diamond from South, a two no trump bid by North, and then three no trump by South. Another sequence may have been one heart by South, one spade by North (North's hand is too strong for a two heart bid), two diamonds by South, and three no trump by North. In any case, the three no trump bid is doomed to be set one with a club lead which is the most likely lead from the East hand. Moral: it is living dangerously to leave your partner at three no trump when you have a singleton in one of his suits.

The North-South pair who arrived at the best bidding spot of four hearts showed good perception of the importance of opening a weak five-card major suit in preference to a strong five-card minor suit. If the South hand opened with hearts and followed with a bid and rebid in diamonds to show the two five-card suits, then of course North had the information with which to arrive at a four heart bid, easily making five for a next to top score for their side.

The top score North-South, however, was captured by that always pleasant-to-meet but hard-to-beat pair at the bridge table, Gerry Lawrence and Betty Anne Yeomans, who scored 1600 points by setting their opponents three tricks at one no trump doubled and redoubled by West. We reconstruct this bidding as follows:

North—double, pass
East—pass, pass, pass
South—1 heart, pass, pass
West—1 1 NT, redouble

The one no trump bid by West is weak even for those who play weak no trump bids, and his partner left him in because East has no five-card suit and does have a stopper in hearts. When West redoubles, however, East in our opinion, should have bid two clubs. This bid doubled can be set only two tricks, which would give East-West a better score than having North-South score game in hearts. In all probability, North-South would re-enter the bidding rather than let the East-West team steal the hand for two clubs.

The top score East-West was shared by the all-feminine pairs of Lillian Sheridan and Rose Hickey, Nancy Atkinson and Jo Dingwell, and Lolly Smith and Miggs Root for their accurate defense play in setting the opposition by one trick.

A LOT OF SNOW WENT UNDER THE BRIDGE last week end as the Highway Department cleared the town ways for Sunday morning churchgoers and the Monday business bustle in the center.

Morgan Memorial Needs Materials For Workers

A reminder of the importance of keeping the several Morgan Memorial collection boxes around town filled has been received from that organization.

Winchester is also reminded that a total of 1100 filled Goodwill bags each day is required to keep 450 handicapped people at work.

Warm clothing and household articles are in serious need at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries where they will help provide employment and job training for handicapped people during January and February, it was announced today by Henry E. Helms, executive secretary.

Mr. Helms said Goodwill Industries is in the midst of the two worst months of the year for collection of usable materials.

"There is always a seasonal decline the first two months of each new year," he said. "So we ask our friends to send us repairable clothing and materials so that we can maintain full-time employment for 450 handicapped workers now on our payroll.

Mr. Helms pointed out that the materials would be put in first class shape and sold in Goodwill Thrift Stores at minimum prices. "Every penny of proceeds from sales of these re-made goods is used for wages for handicapped people," Helms stressed.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is the largest private, non-profit and non-sectarian agency serving the handicapped in New England.

Goodwill officials said they needed clothing, blankets, household articles, kitchen utensils, books, electrical appliances, shoes and any other type of household item.

The collection boxes at handy locations may be used. Or, if people wish, they may telephone HUbbard 2-1894, or mail a post card, asking for a Goodwill truck to make a pickup.

The handicapped people assisted by this work have many different disabilities. The Goodwill employment roster lists handicapped suffering from arthritis, blind and partially sightless, cerebral palsy, hemiplegia, poliomyelitis, cardio and vascular diseases, peripheral vascular disease, visual defects, hearing defects, epilepsy, mental retardation, psychonerosis, arrested tuberculosis, endocrine disorders, speech defects, asthma and respiratory difficulties, congenital defects, deformities of bones and amputees, and other difficulties brought on just by nervous breakdowns.

The handicapped people seek to be independent through employment. At Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, they find this opportunity.

"So, when winter winds and storms come in January and February, please remember to send your discards to us where they will become time cards for the handicapped," Helms said.

K of C Planning Valentine's Dance For February 9

A Valentine's dance is planned for the evening of February 9 at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Dancing will be from 8-11:45 p.m. with Dick Errico's orchestra furnishing the music. There will be refreshments and tickets can be obtained at the door.

Youth Week At First Baptist

Sunday, February 3 is the climax of the Youth Week activities at First Baptist Church. The youth committee with the help of a group of parents have arranged for a delicious supper of baked chicken legs and chicken breasts, stuffed potato, peas, rolls, cream pie - for the young people followed by a special program to be held in the fellowship hall from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

There will be the film, "The Faces of Youth" shown to the young people followed by a discussion led by the State youth director of the Massachusetts Baptist convention, Mr. Allen Hinand.

The film will be shown again to the parents and church school teachers of youth at 8:00 p.m. and a panel discussion will follow led by Mr. Hinand. All parents and persons concerned with the youth ministry at First Baptist are invited to attend this significant meeting on Youth Sunday.

Plenty Of Opportunities In Army Aviation

There are more than 7,000 openings a year for qualified applicants for specialized training in Army Aircraft Maintenance, according to Sergeant Jack Bateson Army recruiter in Winchester.

Sgt Bateson said that special attention is being given to Army Aviation during the month of February and that he has received permission to enlist an increased number of qualified young men for guaranteed training in any of a half dozen courses.

"The most basic course, and one I'd recommend to any young man interested in a career in light aviation, is the Aircraft Maintenance course at Fort Rucker, Alabama," he said. From this course, he explaned, the most qualified students are given a chance to go on to further training at Ft. Eustis, Virginia, where more than 3,000 men last year attended eighteen separate courses in such things as maintenance and overhaul of instruments, electrical systems, hydraulic systems, etc.

In addition to these courses, attendance at which he can guarantee in writing for the qualified applicant before enlistment, Sgt Bateson explained that there is also a special "Warrant Officer Candidate Course" open to high school graduates. Under this program a young man receives a 4-week OCS type of pre-flight course prior to starting flight training. At the completion of his 16 weeks of flight training, with 10 flying hours, the applicant receives the bars of a warrant officer and the cherished silver wings of an Army Aviator.

Any air-minded young man with an eye to the future of light aircraft will be given an appointment by Sgt. Bateson to talk over his future as an army aviator. He may be contacted at his Medford office or by calling EXport 6-5777.

Facts About The Telephone

If the need arises, New England telephone users can now call to such remote places as Basutoland, Bechuanaland, Burundi, French Somaliland, Reunion, Swaziland, all in Africa, French Guiana in South America, Sarawak in Asia, or New Hebrides in Oceania. In all they may call over 150,000,000 other telephones around the world—and these represent over 98 per cent of all phones on earth.

The 1962 edition of "The World's Telephones," published by the Bell System, reports that in 1961 the number of telephones in the world rose to 150 million. Russia had a greater percentage gain of telephones in 1961 than any other major country, but it still ranked sixth in total telephones. The United States, with 77,422,000 telephones, ranked first. The United States has 52 per cent of the total telephones in the world.

All figures in the report are as of January 1, 1962, as it takes a year to compile them. At the same time, the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company says there were 5.0 million telephones in the six-state region. In those areas operated by the New England Telephone Company the telephones were distributed as follows: Massachusetts, 2,449,196; Rhode Island, 356,661; Maine, 302,938; New Hampshire, 226,690; and Vermont, 121,688. In addition there are about 60,000 telephone subscribers served by independent telephone companies in the area, and approximately 1.4 million telephones in Connecticut served by the Southern New England Telephone Company.

The United States had 41.8 telephones per 100 persons. The United Kingdom was second in number of telephones with 8.6 million or 16 per hundred persons. West Germany had 6.5 million telephones and Japan, 3.6 million. Sweden had 38.5 telephones per hundred persons, and Canada 32.7 per 100. Russia, even with its high rate of gain, had only 2.3 telephones per 100 persons.

Canadians again apparently used their telephones more than anyone else. They averaged 551.6 telephone conversations per person. The United States was second with 529.7 conversations per persons, while Iceland was third with 487.3.

'62 Report Of The Library

The year 1962 has been marked by the decision to transfer 8th grade students to the adult department of the Library. This was done reluctantly because adults were already crowded by the more than 1,400 young people (grades 9-12) who were entitled to adult cards. However, it became evident during the school year 1961-62 that many 8th graders were given the same assignments as 9th graders, and that they were not finding sufficient material in the Children's Room.

With excellent cooperation from the principals and librarians of the junior high schools, the parochial schools and Marycliff Academy all 8th graders visited the Library in October and November for an introductory tour of the adult department and for instruction by Mrs. Roberts, the young adults' librarian. As a result over 400 of the 8th graders now have adult cards.

Student Space Needed

The present rearrangement of the Library resulted from the need for more student space without infringement upon the quiet space for adults.

The bulk of the reference collection has been shelved in the Main Reading Room, since it was felt that this change would take the crowded confusion of the young people away from the lobby. The result has been a quieter lobby and West Reading Room.

The Downs Room and the small microfilm room off the balcony are reserved for older readers, secondary school students being allowed there only to obtain a needed book or record.

Space was made for tables and extra chairs in the Main Reading Room by removing the free-standing bookcases - now used in other areas of the Library. Books formerly in this reading room are now shelved in the alcoves or in the stacks. Some less used stack books have been shelved in the attic.

An intensified program of weeding and discarding duplicate copies worn-out and out-of-date books has resulted in the withdrawal of over 7000 books from the Library in 1962. Many of these were in the fields of industry and business, including mathematics, technology and trades. Fiction books were also weeded during the year, as were the religious books. Work is now going on in art books and travel.

Many books have been replaced by new editions, or sometimes by new copies of the same edition of the book. Discarded books have been sent to the veterans' hospitals through the Red Cross, others have been given to the Merchant Marines, Salvation Army and Morgan Memorial.

It might seem that the transfer of 400 young people out of the Children's Room would relieve somewhat the crowded conditions there. However, books borrowed in November 1962 show a 5 per cent increase over November 1961 in the Children's Room, and a glance at the room itself any afternoon after school also proves that the room is just as crowded as it ever was.

Charging System Survey

A survey of the charging system in use at the Library was made early in 1962 by Mr. Joyce, assistant librarian, and Mrs. Roberts, head of the circulation department. Other charging systems were used as comparison, and a visit was made to the Medford Public Library to study the self-charge system used there. As a result, it was decided not to change the basic system of the present Gaylord machine charging, but to find ways to use it in a more efficient manner.

A change has already been made to send overdue notices on a revised timetable which has resulted in the expected saving of staff time, postage and materials. Other changes will be made wherever possible if the increased efficiency obtained does not cut down on services which townspeople now enjoy.

Special Exhibits

Special exhibits have been arranged during the year at the request of and in cooperation with the League of Women Voters, Mental Health Association, UNICEF, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, EMARC, and the Winchester Hospital. Many fine art exhibits have been arranged for the Library by members of the Winchester Art Association. These included the work of local artists in April, the art work of school children from St. Mary's and Immaculate Conception in May, and an exhibit of high school student art work in June.

The Rich Room has accommodated a total of 155 meetings in the past year. Family film programs on Friday evenings have had an average of 40 attending. Saturday morning films have been shown to capacity audiences of school-age children. Story Hour replaced the films in April and May.

Miss Russell, the children's librarian, and Mrs. White, part-time children's helper, took a refresher course in story telling in the spring. In addition to Saturday films and stories, the Children's Room had a Summer reading club of over 360 active members. During the year 17 classes and a Girl Scout troop have visited the Children's Room with their teachers for instruction in how to use the Library. Miss Russell visited all classes in Grades 1-6 to tell them about the Summer Reading Program.

The Library has been host to several groups of librarians during the year - the children's librarians and the young adults' librarians of the surrounding area, also the members of the Greater Boston Public Library Administrators' Group.

Mrs. Roberts, young adults' librarian was a member of the panel sponsored by the Young Adults' Round Table at the New England Library Association Convention in October.

Mrs. Laban and Mrs. Mallery now hold professional librarians' certificates as the result of successfully passing the examination given by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners.

Lois G. Smith, head librarian, has served on two committees of the Greater Boston Public Library Administrators' Group in 1962. She also acted as one of the judges in the Writing Contest for the young people of St. Mary's Parish. The College Club Study Group on Contemporary Literature requested a member of the Library staff as speaker at the opening meeting of this group in October. Mrs. Laban represented the Library on this occasion and gave reviews of many of the good books of the past year.

New Staff Members

Miss McLatchy, a graduate of Winchester High School Business Course, joined the staff in June as junior clerk. Mrs. Ann Anderson became the reference librarian in September, replacing Miss Nicot who resigned to accept a position in the Lexington Public Library. Mrs. Anderson has her library degree from Simmons College and joins the staff after several years of experience in the Arlington Public Library. Both new staff members are Winchester residents.

The Hospital book collection for the use of patients and staff has increased by 260 new books in 1962, and books borrowed increased from 2,964 in 1961 to 3,383 in the past year.

Thanks are due the Board of Trustees for the guidance and help given the librarian in her work of administering the Library. For loyal and willing service at all times the librarian is indebted to each individual member of a fine staff.

Dessert-Bridge To Aid Missions In India

It will be a grand slam in "spades" when all "clubs" in Winchester sparkle like "diamonds" at Epiphany's Valentine Dessert-Bridge on February 14th at 1:30 p.m.

The proceeds from this annual affair will help missions in India and help support a theological student from India studying here. With all "hearts" wanting to help in this important work it should be easy to make up a table of four and spend a pleasant afternoon with friends at Hadley Hall.

Hadley Hall always looks like the first breath of spring on this occasion with the gaily decorated tables. The attractive and tasty desserts will satisfy anyone's appetite.

Tutankhamun Show Opens Today At Boston Museum

Mrs. Maurice Freeman and Mrs. George Marks will be hostesses this evening at one of two special previews today designed to give members of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts an opportunity to leisurely view the eagerly-anticipated exhibition "Tutankhamun Treasures" before it goes on public view tomorrow Friday, February 1, through March 3.

These small, jewel-like treasures represent a selection from the more than 2,000 objects found in the tomb of the boy king Tutankhamun. Over 3,000 years old, these antiquities, which have never before been allowed to leave Egypt, represent technically and artistically the best that Egyptian art has produced.

Hot mocha will be served at the afternoon preview which is from 3 to 6 p.m., and the evening preview and reception from 8:30 to 11 p.m. will honor His Excellency, Dr. Mostafa Kamel, Ambassador from the United Arab Republic to the United States.

Personnel Board Is Seeking 3% Increase To Town Employees

The Personnel Board appeared before the Finance Committe Monday night to report on its request for an across the board increase in pay to town employees. The Board estimated the cost to the town might be around $48,000.

After discussing the proposal for two hours, the Finance Committee decided not to vote its support, rejection or qualification of the budget item at that time, pending further investigation and discussion.

The committee considered among other points the possible separation of the salaries of the protective departments from the overall increases.

Another point reviewed was the relative merits and demerits of the continued inter-town comparisons on salary scales. Also discussed was the state-wide cost of living increase during the past year (estimated at about 2%), the comprehensive picture of Winchester employees relative to employees of other towns when all fringe benefits are considered, the very small employee turnover within the market, and the history of town salary increases over the past six years.

Only one member of the committee expressed "100% support of the across the board increase" for Town employees. The committee generally, however, seemed inclined to want to treat the protective departments separately.

One major point debated was the question of overtime pay in some departments, and its significance to the base wage scale.

The "merry-go-round" aspects of the year after year "magic" middle position objective regarding Winchester's wage and salary scale in comparison with sixteen other nearby towns elicited much concern by many members of the committee, as did the policy of blanket increases without regard to merit.

Election List Of Who's Running For Town Offices

With the annual Town Meeting Election less than a month away, on Monday, March 4 and with 20 town office positions to be filled, the following persons who took out nomination papers have been certified by the Registrars of Voters as official candidates.

Edward E. Hicks of 4 Churchill Road, James M. Looney of 37 Tufts Road and David S. Wardwell of 39 Lorena Road are seeking a three year term on the five-man Board of Selectmen.

For one five year and one three year term vacancies on the four-man Planning Board, Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road and Neil H. Borden of 58 Winford Way are running for election.

For two three year term vacancies on the six-man School Committee, Richard M. Alt of 7 Pine Street is running for reelection and Lawrence E. Beckley of 5 Marshall Road is running for election.

Marguerite H. Troop of 2 Elmwood Avenue is running for election to a three year term as Town Treasurer.

Miss Troop, formerly the assistant treasurer, was appointed by the Board of Selectmen last May as acting Treasurer after the death of Mr. E. Abbot Bradlee. She was reappointed on September 30 to serve until the annual town election.

Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue is running for another one year term as Town Moderator.

2,936 Adults Get Polio Vaccine At 2 Health Clinics

The Board of Health's adult polio clinic gave the Type 1 vaccine doses to 1,367 persons last Saturday in the Town Hall between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

In addition to those who previously had registered, Dr. Roger Burgoyne, medical director of the clinic, said that 392 walk-ins also came to register and take the vaccine.

There was a steady flow of persons going into the clinic through out the day "even more than the week before," Dr. Burgoyne said.

Last week 1,569 persons received polio vaccines, making a total number of adults participating in the town-wide health immunization program to date 2,963.

Michael D. Saraco, agent for the board, said that although the board would have liked to have processed more adults, it was "generally pleased with the turnout."

"Follow The Fun"

Winton Cabaret Is A Big Hit; Witty, Clever, Funny And Fun

Amidst SRO signs and twinkling lights, the 1963 Winton Club review opened to loyal and royal cheers last Thursday night. Titled "Follow the Fun," and carrying a subtitle guaranteed to pale even the most avid Shakespearean punster ("Frigid - Airs"), the show produced plenty of entertainment as well as plenty of revenue for our favorite hospital.

How the 4S - the Society of Singers, Swingers and Sewers - gathers the energy, the time and the talent to put together these extravaganzas year after year escapes us. But they do, and they have produced the highlight of the season for our adult populace for forty-two years in a row!

Directed by Jud Davis of the Cargill Producing Organization who assisted in last year's great "Growing Pains," and under the guidance of this year's Cabaret chairman, Mrs. Malcolm Burr, "Follow the Fun" carried a winter sports theme to its logical conclusion—Florida. Though this year's show included less "professionals" and soloists, it seemed to make up for this in better costuming, tighter production and even-better-than last season scenery and decoration.

When Winton Club's decorating committee first visits the Town Hall to decide how best to deck the hall for the year's show, its initial decision must be to go home and forget the whole thing. Somehow, duty over-rides judgment and they tackle the problem with gusto and ingenuity. This year they didn't even forget that marbled, clucking clock on the balcony bridge.

The hall has never looked better nor more in keeping with the theme of the show than it did for "Follow the Fun." Snowflakes dazzled in profusion, hung from the ceiling. Tiny electric lights blinked from artistically-draped loops and handsome wall scenes as well. The scenery went so far as to include a reverse panel set, allowing a visible switch from snow to sand in the finale, doing a great deal to make that number play well. This is the first time in our recollection anything so daring, complicated and effective has been attempted on the stage.

Though we never did find out who Charlie was, the various scene titles all referred to him, starting with "To the Fun House, Charlie." The show opened on three stooges, used primarily for comic relief, to allow set changes behind the curtains and to provide the continuity that spells the difference between a review and vaudeville. These three, Paulette Taggart, Bob Mathews and Jim Willoughby, are experienced hands and performed ably throughout the evening. So did the show's mascot, a highly flexible moose, "played" by Bud Gerould at the decision-making helm and H. B. Woodward at the stern.

LWV To Give Voters Facts On Candidates

One of the major public services performed by the League of Women Voters is to provide accurate, unbiased information about candidates who are running for public office. Prior to every election, a questionnaire is submitted to each candidate by the League asking pertinent questions concerning his qualifications for office. The answers are submitted to the Winchester Star for publication.

This year, the Star prepared a summary of articles 6, 17, 25, 37, 38, 40, 42 and 49 which will appear on the Warrant in March, and asked the League to include this summary requesting that the candidates indicate support of or opposition to each item.

In addition to the questionnaire, attendance records of each Town Meeting member are compiled by members of the League's Voters' Service Committee and are also submitted to the Star for publication. In the February 14 edition, both the attendance records and the answers to the League questionnaire, plus the summary of items on the warrant, will appear together so that information can be saved for reference on election day.

The February 21 edition of the Star will carry answers to a similar questionnaire sent to candidates for town offices.

Company C To Disband Feb. 27, To Enter Brigade

Company C, 319th Engineer Battalion, located at 119 Swanton Street, will hold its last meeting as a unit on February 27, 1963. Due to the Defense Department's Reserve Re-Organization plan, the Winchester Unit has been de-activated. The men will become part of a new proposed Brigade.

One of the major reasons for the announced re-organization is to give the United States more striking capability in the event of another Berlin situation or Cuban crisis.

Company C has been located in Winchester for six years. During its first year the unit had an enrollment of eight men and met at the American Legion Hall on Vine Street. For the past two years Company C has been located at the Sons of Italy Hall. Its enrollment has increased to 100 per cent capacity, or 85 men.

The final meeting of the unit will be a regularly scheduled drill. At the conclusion of the meeting, a small party is planned. Sports films will be shown and refreshments will be served. All past members are invited to attend.

RR Depot Upkeep Requirements Set By Court Decree

The Board of Selectmen at its Monday night meeting outlined the requirements issued in a final court decree on January 31 relative to the maintenance of the former Boston & Maine depot in the center, for patrons use.

As a result of some complaints brought against the present owner, the DeVries Construction Company, the railroad asked the court for a final decree establishing for HOOT MON! OR IN THIS CASE, WOMEN. Twelve doughty visitors from Scotland were here over the week end and demonstrated to the Winchester Country Club's women curlers that although the latter may be younger, more sophisticated and look better in stretch pants, they can't necessarily win over their more experienced counterparts from overseas. Actually the home rinks did very well in what was exhibition curling only, and of three contests won one, tied one and lost one. The visitors, who came from many parts of Scotland and are at the end of a good-will cross-country tour, include one grandmother of 26. Among the many Winchester women who showed them hospitality was Mrs. Thomas Righter, center rear, shown with the group after curling. The visitors wear their plaid skirts for curling even at home, where it is predominantly done out of doors.

Comptroller Bill Passed By House; Senate Takes It Under Consideration

The House of Representatives approved on Tuesday and sent to the Senate Bill 1130 which will establish the office of Comptroller in Winchester and abolish the position of Town Accountant.

The bill, filed by Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue, will create the position of Comptroller to eliminate costly duplication of effort and machinery and modernize the accounting structure of Winchester's government. The Comptroller would be appointed by the elected five-man Board of Selectmen, would be directly responsible to them and would be removable upon evidence of cause. He would have absolutely no independent policy making power, but it was estimated by the selectmen and the Finance Committee that such a cordination of administrating personnel and materials at the Town Hall would mean a great saving to the town.

A Joint Legislative Committee on Cities and Towns held a public hearing at the State House on Tuesday, January 29, to hear the arguments for and against the bill by local townspeople. Arthur Hewis challenged the wisdom of centralizing the accounting powers in one individual who would be appointed by the selectmen. Representatives from several town boards, including both the selectmen and the Finance Committee, appeared at the hearing to show how the proposed bill could mean savings to the town and explained why the March 29 Town Meeting authorized the filing of the bill by the town's representative. Offering testimony supporting the bill for a comptroller was Arthur H. Mckinnon, director of the State Bureau of Accounts.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Cities and Towns gave the bill its unqualified and unanimous support last Friday and recommended that it be passed by the Legislature.

The bill was given its first reading in the House on Monday, with the favorable report by the joint committee being put on the calendar.

It was given a second reading on Tuesday, and the House rules were suspended to give it a third reading that same day due to the fact there was no opposition to the bill.

On Wednesday it was proofread before being sent to be placed on the Senate calendar for a second reading (the House's passing of it constituting the first reading). The second reading is scheduled for either Thursday or Monday in the Senate.

Barring any amendments to the bill in the Senate it will be passed in toto and sent to the office of the Secretary of State to be engrossed, i.e.; put into parchment and final form. Then it will be returned to both the House and Senate for final approval before going to the Governor's office for signing.

Selectmen Vote New Location For Town Honor Roll

The Board of Selectmen met last week with Arthur E. Rand, town architect and John T. Horn and James Rae of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post to discuss the article in the Town Meeting Warrant for a new memorial Town Honor Roll. The article asks the Town to raise and appropriate money to construct a new Honor Roll, replacing the old one located in front of the Town Hall.

Mr. Horn said the Aberjona Post committee felt that the best location would be at the corner of Washington and Mount Vernon Streets. He said he feared that if it were erected at the War Memorial there would be a lot of vandalism, even if it were fenced in.

The selectmen concurred with Mr. Horn's opinion and voted the corner of Washington and Mount Vernon Streets on Town grounds as the most suitable location.

Mr. Horn suggested that an appropriate time for dedicating the Honor Roll would be on Veterans' Day, November 11. The board asked Mr. Horn to include his request for $200 dedication expenses in the special article for the Warrant.

New Parcel Post Office Starts Work

All wedding and birthday presents, mail order shower curtains, and parcels of soiled laundry from absent young are this week for the first time being processed at the new Post Office parcel post center at 786A Main Street.

For the past few years they were processed next to the market on Shore Road. Now, the receipt, sorting and truck delivery to homes of packages, catalogues and other heavy mail items will be done from the new location.

"Parcel income varies too much to make much of a daily average estimate," Postmaster Thomas Gilgun said, "but I can say that right now it is particularly heavy.

Mr. Gilgun is pleased with the federal plans for the new Winchester-Woburn area mart section center office. He pointed out that although the office in the centre is ideally situated, there is no area where it could expand, and consequently it has not been able to keep up with the very rapid population growth here over the past 15 years.

Board Of Appeals Grants Addition Home For Aged

The Board of Appeals has issued a permit to Lord & Miller, Inc., authorizing the construction of an addition to the Home for the Aged People at 110 Mt. Vernon Street for the purpose of installing a modern elevator unit on the Elm Street side of the building.

The board held a public hearing on Tuesday, January 8, on the petition appealing a refusal of a building permit on the ground that the addition would be nearer than the 20 foot zoning regulation in a General Residence District to the street line.

The applicant was seeking to replace an old, piston-type elevator, which has had repeated mechanical failure and represented a potential danger to the residents. The old elevator services only the first and second floors and does not extend down to the basement where the recreation room is located, the petioner stated.

The proposed elevator will be fireproof, will not disturb the fire escape on that side of the building, and its exterior wall will be stucco

MTC Sees Success Of RR, Bus Experiments

A total of 31,529 more passengers used the Boston & Maine trains during the latest reporting period (Friday, January 18th through Thursday, January 24th) according to Dr. Joseph F. Maloney, executive director of the Mass Transportation Commission.

For the third straight week, the passenger figures continue to show impressive gains over 1962 levels. The first full week produced a 15.6% increase, the second a 20.8% increase and this past week, Friday, January 18th through Thursday, January 24th 24.3% more passengers used the trains than in 1962.

Actually, some 25,897 more passengers used the B. & M. trains during week days with another 5,732 more passengers travelling on Saturday and Sunday. This breaks down to 4,561 more Saturday users and 1,171 Sunday passengers over last year's figures.

This week's total, including Saturday and Sunday shows that 147,202 people rode the B. & M. trains in 1963 versus 115,573 in 1962.

"The figures are indisputable evidence that the public is vitally interested in this program. What the results will prove no one dares to guess at this time," said Dr. Maloney. He again warned against jumping to conclusions. He said: "We have a long way to go. Our cost studies are an integral part of this over-all program and these will not be available for several months."

In the peak hours Monday to Friday, known as the commuter hours, the number of passengers increased by 12.5% and in the off-peak hours the increase was 36.3%. Both of these figures are 1963 over 1962. During this reporting period, 1,741 more passengers were carried during the commuting on a daily basis which could mean that there were about 1,200 less cars, equivalent to more than one expressway lane of traffic, if these passengers did in fact leave their cars in favor of the trains.

The New Hampshire district, including Lowell, Woburn and Winchester, had a 28.2% increase in patronage having carried 33,578 passengers in 1963 versus 26,196 in 1962.

Mrs. Catherine E. Manning

Mrs. Catherine E. Manning, mother of Mrs. Helen M. Maguire and a resident of Winchester since 1947, died Sunday morning, February 3, at her home, 13 Valley Road after a lingering illness. She never completely recovered from a broken hip she sustained six years ago.

A native of County Cork, Ireland Mrs. Manning came to this country in 1882, settling in Somerville. Upon the death of her son-in-law, Henry J. Maguire, she came to Winchester to make her home with his widow, living first at 141 Forest Street, and since 1947 at 13 Valley Road. She was a member of the Ladies Sodality of St. Mary's Parish.

Mrs. Manning's husband, the late Daniel F. Manning, died some years ago. She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Maguire; and three granddaughters, Janet Fisher of Stoneham; Patricia Ambrose and Barbara Chaffe, both of Winchester. She was also mother of the late Grace (Manning) Chaffe.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the Lane Funeral Home at 10:15. Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 11 o'clock. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Edward F. Gorman

Edward F. Gorman of 185 Highland Avenue, retired Boston post-office clerk, died suddenly Wednesday evening January 30 at his home at the age of 80.

Mr. Gorman was the son of James, and Mary (Ring) Gorman. He was born November 13, 1883, in Charlestown and was for 45 years a clerk in the Boston Post Office, retiring 12 years ago. Formerly a resident of Somerville, he had made his home in Winchester for the past 12 years.

He was a charter member of the Boston Post Office Clerks' Union, a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Clement's Church in Somerville and a member of St. Mary's Church of Winchester.

Mr. Gorman's wife, the late Mary E. Reynolds, died in 1933. He leaves a daughter, Miss Claire M. Gorman of Winchester, a teacher in the Somerville schools.

The funeral was held from the Lane Funeral Home Saturday morning at 8:15 a.m. Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

August S. Niewenhous

August S. Niewenhous of 15 Glengarry Road, supervisor of car service for the Boston & Maine Railroad and a veteran of World War II, died Saturday evening at the Massachusetts General Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Niewenhous was the son of August S. and Mary (Kelley) Niewenhous. He was born in New York City December 12, 1917, grew up in that city, attending the New York schools and graduating from New York University.

An accountant, Mr. Niewenhous was at the time of his death supervisor of car service for the Boston & Maine Railroad. He was an active member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, a member of the Mr. and Mrs. Club of St. Mary's Parish, New England Railroad Club and the Transportation Management Club of Boston. He was widely known in railroad circles.

Mr. Niewenhous was a veteran of World War II, in which he served with Railroad Operations in Alaska, with the rank of chief warrant officer.

Besides his parents, living in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Mr. Niewenhous leaves his wife, the former Margaret M. McCormack; a son, August S., III (9); a daughter, Daria (4); two sisters, Mrs. Mary Gormley and Mrs. Louise Grady, both of New York; also two brothers, John H., of New Jersey, and George B. Niewenhous of Vermont.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home with Solemn Requiem High Mass celebrated at St Mary's Church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in Holy Mount Cemetery, Tuckahoe, N. Y. Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Parker D. Shepperd

Parker D. Shepperd of 5 Chesterford Road died suddenly, following a heart attack, Tuesday evening, January 29, at his home.

Mr. Shepperd was the son of Parker D. and Sidonie M. (Habert) Shepperd. He was born November 6, 1909, in Denver, Colorado, was graduated from Fort Lupton (Colorado) High School and from the University of Colorado with the degree of bachelor of science in Mechanical Engineering. At the time of his death he was a heating engineer for the Johnson Service Company of Cambridge. He had made his home in Winchester for the past five years.

Mr. Shepperd was a member of the Cleveland Engineer's Society, of the Cleveland Power Squadron and of the Coast Guard Auxiliary of Boston.

He leaves his wife, the former Kathryn Vaught; three daughters, Mrs. James K. Bowers of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Harlan D. Taylor of Tampa, Fla.; and Miss Marnie Shepperd of Winchester; also six grandchildren.

Services were held Monday in Cleveland, Ohio, with burial in Lakewood Park Cemetery in Rocky Ridge, Ohio.

Mrs. Louise B. Boutwell

Mrs. Louise B. Boutwell of 23 Sheffield Road, wife of Roswell M. Boutwell, III, and a life-long resident of Winchester, died suddenly at her home Saturday, February 2, at the age of 41.

Born in Winchester, Mrs. Boutwell attended the Winchester schools, the Brimmer-May School in Boston and Edgewood Park Junior College in Westchester County, N. Y. She was secretary-treasurer of the Ladies Committee of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, a member of the League of Women Voters, Winton Club, Friends of the Winchester Hospital and of the Literature Study Group of the Winchester College Club.

She was active in soliciting donations for the Children's Medical Center in Boston, was a member of the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church and a teacher in the church school.

Besides her husband, she leaves three sons, Roland Hill Boutwell, 4th; Jeffrey Hood Boutwell and Stephen Barr Boutwell; her mother, Mrs. George B. Hayward of Winchester; and a sister, Mrs. M. Donald McFarland of Kansas City, Mo.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the First Congregational Church with the minister Dr. Dwight L. Cart, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Winchester Historical Society

The Winchester Historical Society was treated to another outstanding lecture at its winter meeting held last Saturday February 2, at the library with the president, Mr. Arthur R. Keehn, presiding. The speaker was Mr. Wyman S. Randall of Melrose and his subject was "The Romance of Covered Bridges." Mr. Randall is vice president of the Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges.

In his lecture Mr. Randall spoke of the various forms of covered bridges, their interesting construction as well as mentioning the many early builders of this type of span which was so much a part of the countryside between the years of 1800-1900. His colored slides ranged from New England's picturesque covered structures to those to be found in some of our southern and western states. There are 1,344 covered bridges left in the United States.

The meeting adjourned at 3:50 p.m. leaving a feeling of warmth and enthusiasm which will long be remembered.

Personnel

John McElwee, chairman of the Personnel Board, said that although studies have been made in this area of thought, a way for translating the idea into an effective and feasible program has not been found yet and evidence from other towns that have tried it indicate that whatever rating system is used, nearly every employee ends up with either a close to the top rating or else every employee is dissatisfied with the program for various reasons.

During a lengthy discussion of the possible separation of the police and fire departments from an overall increase figure, Mr. McElwee said the Personnel Board was in favor of a 3% increase for all departments without any separation of the protective departments.

Mr. Elwee also said that it was the board's contention that more aggressive recruiting programs should be instituted for the protective departments. He added that he felt there was a definite need for adjusting the salary positions of police sergeants and fire lieutenants within the overall departmental scales.

Omer LaForte

Omer LaForte of 29 Montvale Avenue, Woburn, a former widely known resident of Winchester, died Thursday, January 31 at the Holy Ghost Hospital in Cambridge after a long illness at the age of 83. His Winchester address was at 35 Salem Street.

Mr. LaForte was the son of Charles, and Esther (LaRachial) LaForte. He was born October 25, 1879, in Canada, but lived for more than 70 years in Winchester and was widely known to residents in all walks of life.

For many years Mr. LaForte drove a delivery team for George W. Blanchard Co. Later after the company went out of business he was employed by the Beggs and Cobb Company. Proud of his physique he kept himself at the peak of condition at all times.

Mr. LaForte leaves a sister, Sister Gabriella, a nun in the Sisters of Mercy stationed at Manchester, N. H.

The funeral was held Monday from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home with Requiem High Mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Winchester Beats Framingham By Heavy Gym Score

Winchester topped the Framingham gymnastic team on its home floor Saturday evening by a 15.93 to 10.47 score.

Taking four firsts, four seconds and five third spots, the team showed an overall strength which it has been indicating all year. It outclassed Framingham throughout despite the loss of star tumbler Mike Hammel due to injury.

Highest single rating for the Winchester team was 8.53 points picked up by Cullen in the long horse event. Other firsts went to Croft, side horse and to March in both horizontal and parallel bars.

Second place ratings went to Lowry, side horse, March, still rings, Donovan, parallel bars and Hoyt, horizontal bars, and third placements to Ring, floor exercise, Cade, tumbling, McSweeney, parallel bars, Halverson, long horse and Donovan, horizontal bars.

The teams meet Lexington tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the Lexington gym.

Flag History Is Presented Scouts By Elks Members

Members of the Winchester Elks Lodge No. 1445 recently gave a talk outlining the history of the American flag, to members of Scout Troop 524.

The flags were presented in the order of their origin, and placed in their stands as the impressive ritual was read by William F. Holland, Past Exalted Ruler, who gave a brief history as to the origin of each flag. The following members took part in the ritual, which is presented exclusively by this Lodge... Past Exalted Ruler, William F. Holland, Exalted Ruler, Creighton L. Horn, Leading Knight, Jack Murphy, Loyal Knight, Frank Hadley, trustee Nicholas Zamanakos. The flags were presented as follows:

The Pine Tree Flag; the Snake Flag; Congress Colors (or Grand Union); 13 Stars and Stripes, flag of 1795 made by Betsy Ross; 20 Star Flag of 1818; 48 Star Flag and 50 Star Flag.

At the end of the ritual, the troop recited the Pledge of Allegiance.

Panel to Discuss Academic Pressure On WHS Students

"Study more! Get higher grades! Aim toward the best college possible!" Are these words often heard by high school students? If so, do they heed them? Can they heed them, or are high school students apathetic? Perhaps the students are under too much pressure for academic performance.

The High School Parent-Faculty Advisory Council invites all who are interested in an analysis of academic pressure in relation to the high school student to attend a discussion of this timely topic on Wednesday evening, February 13, at 8:30 in the Music Room of the Senior High School.

The topic becomes complex particularly in a community such as Winchester which values high educational standards. Along with academic requirements, however, other areas such as family activities, religious and community groups, recreation and adequate rest also have a claim on the time of the high school student. Does academic work prevent a balanced distribution of time between school work and these other areas?

At the February 13 meeting, a five member panel with Howard Niblock, principal of the High School, as chairman, will discuss the following topic: Is the High School Student Under Too Muchd Pressure for Academic Performance?

Henry K. Fitts, instructor in the English Department, and Miss M. Constance Trickett, dean of girls, will speak from the faculty viewpoint. James Case III, instructor in English at the High School and formerly assistant dean of freshmen at Harvard College, will offer the ideas of a college dean.

The point of view of the community youth workers will come from the Reverend Wesley A. Mallery, assistant minister of the First Congregational Church; and Mr. Robert C. Ericson, chairman of the Parent-Faculty Advisory Council, will be the panel representative of the high school parents.

The program will encourage questions from the audience and further discussion of this important topic pertaining to academic performance.

Unitarian Sunday Service In Their Hands

Local Car Pools For Talk By Martin L. King

Friends and members of the Winchester Fair Housing Association are being reminded this week of a talk to be given by the Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr. at Lexington High School on the evening of Monday, February 11 at eight o'clock.

Martin Luther King, as a leading Baptist Minister, came into prominence during the years 1955-56 at the time of the bus strike in Montgomery, Alabama. Protesting segregation on city buses, Montgomery Negroes refused to use public transportation for more than a year. The Reverend King insisted that the strike be conducted passively without resorting to violence.

His policy of non-violent resistance was so effective that it forced desegregation of the buses. In his book, "Stride Toward Freedom," Reverend King describes the bus strike and the role he played in helping to carry it out.

The formation of The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, an organization dedicated to the principle of non-violent enforcement of civil rights, was an outgrowth of the bus boycott. As president of this organization, Reverend King devotes much of his time to promoting its cause.

Reverend King's talk is being sponsored by the Lexington Civil Rights Committee. Emmons Ellis, president of Winchester's Fair Housing Association, has urged all residents of Winchester who are concerned about the enforcement of civil rights, including fair housing, to attend this meeting.

Mrs. William B. Harvey, Jr., of 55 Yale Street is in charge of ticket sales here and is also prepared to inform interested persons of car pools which are being formed. Her number is PA 9-3980.

Elks Honor Past Exalted Rulers

At one of the best attended meetings in many months the Winchester Lodge of Elks last Tuesday held a past exalted rulers' night. The P.E.R.'s took over the duties of the present officers, and in a highly efficient manner conducted the business of the lodge for the evening.

Past exalted rulers in attendance were Nicholas J. DiZio, William H. Holland, Francis P. Allen, William E. Dailey, Newell W. Purington, Pasquale R. Ferraina, Joseph B. Peel, Fred Clement, Al Barnard, Harry McGrath, Michael Penta and Mitzie Mawn.

Inducted into the lodge as new members were Mitchell Kloss, who is associatel with Wilson the Upholsterer, and Joseph G. Dobson, associated with Twombly Associates. Joe will be remembered by Red Sox fans as one of the mainstays of the pitching staff for many years. He was a member of the team when they won their last pennant in 1946.

Bud Twombly won the attendance prize of $28.00. If it weren't for his honest face, we'd suspect collusion.

Three Young Men Will Preach At Unitarian Church

Sunday February 10 will be observed as Youth Sunday at the Unitarian Church. Each year in February, members of Metcalf Union take over the entire service, including the sermon.

The young preachers this year will be Cody Meissner, president of Metcalf Union, Guy Hutchings and Paul Gibb. They will be assisted in the service by Stuart Davis, Peter Fontneau and Robert Jones.

Inasmuch as the male members of the High School group are taking over the service, the female members will do the ushering. Girls appointed for this are Cynthia Abbott, Marcia Aston, Barbara Benham, Hope Barker, Teresa Cochran and Karen Trump. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rich are advisors to the Metcalf Union.

Members of the Motion Choir- Nancy Goodale, Nancy Robinson, Martha Kimball, Merrilee Zimmer, Suzanne Fontneau, Anne VerPlanck and Faith Barker - will present an original interpretation of a universal prayer. The accompaniment for this will be played by John Baldwin.

Rep. Women Plan State House Tour

A Board meeting of the Winchester Republication Club was held at the home of Mrs. James Blackham of 33 Canterbury Road, on Wednesday morning, January 30. Coffee and refreshments followed the business meeting.

Of special interest to all Republicans will be a Tour of the State House on Monday, March 11. The schedule of events are as follows:

10:15 a.m., Assemble in the Hall of Flags; 10:30 a.m., Choice of attending hearings or tour of State House; 12 noon to 1:30, Box luncheon; 1:35 p.m., Guest Speakers after which you may visit Sessions of the House or Senate.

Those interested should call Phyllis Baldwin at PA 9-2399 or Caroline Joslin at PA 9-0088 for further information.

Members are urged to attend this tour. It will not only be a pleasant get-together but also of vital interest as well as informative on the procedures of our State House.

On Wednesday, February 13, at 1:30 a Valentine dessert and meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earle Spencer, 26 Glen Road. Note change of date. The speaker will be Richard Fleming.

Mr. Fleming is executive secretary for the Massachusetts State Committee. Born and raised in Melrose, he graduated from Dartmouth College and has his masters degree in Business Administration from Amos Tucks, graduate school of Dartmouth. He is a former officer of the United States Navy. In 1960 Mr. Fleming was research director for Congressman Bradford Morse after which he came to the State Committee as research director and now is executive secretary.

Marycliff Mother In Exhibition Of Paintings, Prints

Through the invitation of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, Mother Borella, art instructor at Marycliff Academy, will exhibit her work at Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

The showing is part of an art enrichment program which Mother Caroline Putnam, R.S.C.J., has inaugurated at the college. Mother Borella's work can be seen during the month of February at Stuart Hall. Her work includes oils, prints and serigraphs.

Mother Borella is currently enrolled in the graduate school at Syracuse University where she is working for her Master of Fine Arts degree in painting.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Last year over a million ¼-inch drills were sold. Yet none of the purchasers wanted a ¼-inch drill—what they wanted were ¼-inch holes!

Likewise, many thousands of people in and around Winchester buy insurance policies each year. Undoubtedly you are among them. What you really want, however, is not insurance policies, but PROTECTION. Are you SURE you are getting it?

"Protection" comes only to those who carefully select the right coverages in the proper amounts. Merely buying "a policy" doesn't mean you'll get protection.

That's why it PAYS to put your insurance problems in the hands of a professional insurance agency. Such an agency can render skilled help, based on years of experience, in making sure your insurance program will deliver PROTECTION.

So get the "protection" you think you are buying. Visit our office and talk things over.

We will see that you are not just "insured" but "protected."

Hoorah for Hathaway's American Broadcloth!

HERE is a shirt you can wear week after week, year after year. American broadcloth is stalwart stuff. Laundering just adds to its luster. And not one grain of starch is needed to keep it looking crisp all day.

Hathaway tailors this all-cotton broadcloth with their usual generosity. Extra-strong stitches. Extra-long tails. And plenty of room in the shoulders and chest.

London regular collar. French or barrel cuffs.

Editorials:

An Eye For An Eye . . . A Fang For A Tooth!

Society enacts many laws that aid and contribute to the manufacture of criminals, and then a few that punish them. Diminish the few penalties against lawbreakers that are in effect, and one thing will be certain . . . society will further help to prepare the crimes against it the criminal commits.

During the past week there has been a lot of noise on Beacon Hill about abolishing capital punishment in Massachusetts. Last Wednesday Governor Peabody said he would commute the death sentence during his term, and that he would like to be able to sign into law the repeal of capital punishment.

On Monday, Attorney General Brooke followed suit and supported the governor's idea of eliminating the death sentence. But he said when the present law calls for it, and instances require pressing for it, then he would have to go along with the requirements of the law . . . and the only way to change it would be to change the law.

There is nothing new about the proposal for doing away with the death sentence in Massachusetts. In fact, it is an old wind blown stale by so-called "progressive" penal theorists.

What is interesting in the statement the governor made is this: he said one possible exception to his commuting the death sentence would be a person sentenced to death for the murder of a prison guard during an escape attempt.

Why did the governor make an exception for the murder of a prison guard? Why did he set one particular group of persons aside and say to potential killers, in effect: "If you kill someone, just anyone, then I'll commute your death sentence to life imprisonment; but if you murder a prison guard I shall not interfere with the state's taking your life in exchange." Put that way it sounds brutal, doesn't it? Yet it is essentially the same thing the governor said but turned around so its starkness hits you.

The basic premise in the foundation of American society and government is the declaration that every man is created equal and should be accorded equal consideration under the laws. Why did the governor make that exception for prison guards? Obviously he believes that by making that statement he will make any prisoner attempting to escape from a state prison think twice about his method of escape and avoid at all costs attempting to kill a guard. This is a commendable thought. But, is not that the rationale behind having the state exact the death penalty for murder in the first place . . . to make potential killers think seriously about possible retributive consequences before committing the crime of murder?

It would appear that strictly the same value is involved; the same crime is made in either case against the law of the state, the same crime is made against the individual murdered, and the same crime is made against the moral fiber of the society's raison d'etre. To mark a perfect example this week: the cold-blooded murder of the 21-year-old mother and her two-year-old son over the week end was premeditated, brutal killing, and the killer(s), it would seem, are just as deserving of capital punishment as would the murderer of any prison guard . . . who, by the way, is paid to do the job he is doing.

Attorney General Brooke and others who advocate complete abolition of the death penalty claim that statistics prove wherever capital punishment has been abolished there has been no "appreciable" rise in the number of murders committed. It should also be noted, however, that in those states and nations where the death sentence was eliminated, there was no decline in the number of murders occurring.

Ask any law enforcement officer whose duty it is to catch lawbreakers, and always the answer will be that capital punishment should remain on the books as a threat over the head of prospective killers, and if it prevents a single murder by its mere existence it is worth retaining as a protection measure.

In most states having capital punishment the jury or judge can specify whether the sentence should be death or life imprisonment. And for causes of death other than the deliberative forms of murder, there are varying degrees of manslaughter charges, with court options ranging from acquittal to years of imprisonment, depending upon where and to what degree there is responsibility.

Even if the death sentence is not frequently used in this state against murderers, it should remain as an ultimate penalty to be available for use against the harshest and most hardened of killers if a judge or jury deem that final degree of punishment necessary.

Capital punishment serves two purposes then: the first is to serve as a retributive example to others, thereby exerting a preventive force within the society; and secondly, to be a just punitive measure." An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth . . ., against violators of the state's most serious crime.

Although rarely thought of in the sense of being a good law, that is exactly what capital punishment is for a state when it is tempered by a good judiciary system. It helps to secure the preservation of the constitutient members of the society . . . which is one of the chief functions of the state.

Khruschev And Cuba . . . The Bear May Be Crouching

Those familiar with the rise of Khrushchev to power within the political structure of the Kremlin between the time of Stalin's death in 1953 and Khrushchev's taking of the dictatorship in 1958 will understand the wiliness of the cunning fox who is only too willing to sacrifice a small thing to eventually gain something bigger.

Khrushchev toppled each one of Stalin's successors by sacrificing some important thing or idea, only to come back a little higher in political power and prestige within the Soviet Government. The anti-Stalin purge, fostered by Khrushchev, might have meant the collapse of the Communist government, but it succeeded in having Beria executed for his part with the secret police in the many Stalin purges.

Malenkov was reduced when Khrushchev teamed up with Molotov, the foreign minister, and appeared to side with the old Bolshevik. With Malenkov out of the way, Khrushchev then attacked Molotov's foreign policies as having caused Tito's leaving the Russian fold. Khrushchev went to Yugoslavia and endured personal insults just to gain the prestige of international negotiating, and went back to Moscow with a worthless but impressive sounding agreement with Tito's government.

When Molotov warned a Party Congress meeting that Khrushchev's liberal reforms in the satellite countries would spark revolts, it should have meant the end of Khrushchev's political career when the Polish, Hungarian and East German revolts began. But the wily fox ordered tanks sent in to those countries to crush the revolts quickly and at any cost. With the ending of the revolts he emerged from that political battle on top, and then quickly set to undermining Bulganin's cult of the individual with the deceptive principle of collective leadership. Khrushchev now alone retains the mantle of power in the Soviet Union.

What is to be learned from all this? Basically one principle idea: that when Khrushchev can't get his way with something, he pretends to make a sacrifice to appease the situation and the obstacle blocking his path. Then, adroitly, he makes a sweeping comeback at the point where he is least expected—right where he was previously stopped.

It was, is, and will be the same in Cuba.

Khrushchev does not dare to go to war with the United States. And he would not unless he had some strategic advantage that could promise to swing the balance of power away from the United States to the Soviet Union. There are two, possibly three, areas in which he could hope to accomplish this. One would be to have a military satellite orbiting the earth or in space that for some reason would have the United States at a scientific disadvantage. Another would be to have missiles ready to go against the United States from a point near enough to the United States such that a "Pearl Harbor surprise" could be counted on—in other words, a Cuba. A possible but unlikely third might be the chance that a fleet of Soviet missile submarines could get near to the United States without being detected.

The second idea was attempted and succeeded, for a while. President Kennedy's threatening move caught Khrushchev off guard, especially after his success with the Berlin Wall when the Western democracies reacted too slowly to do anything about the setting up of the wall or to do anything effective towards having it removed. So Khrushchev gladly sacrificed the removing of the missiles, or so it appeared, to "preserve the peace." If he had any thoughts of preserving the peace he never would have armed Cuba to begin with.

But now it is claimed that there are many troops, arms, and military supplies still in Cuba. And Cuba is now the second most heavily armed country in the Americas.

Are there still missiles in Cuba? We do not know, we are told, and if the President does know he doesn't appear to be willing to tell about it. Let's hope we don't have occasion to find out the way American service men found out there was a Japanese navy on December 7, 1941.

If the pudgy bear from the big land to the north is crouching for a bigger and better comeback, he might just remain true to form and reappear where he made his supposed "sacrifice"—in Cuba.

House Votes 4-1 On Public Salaries Minimum Option

The Massachusetts House gave its first indication last week of its stand the next two years on the so-called local option bills.

By a margin of four to one House legislators refused to defeat a bill designed to set a minimum salary scale for local police when accepted by a majority of city councillors or town meeting members.

The bill, sponsored on behalf of the Mass. Police Association by Rep. Thomas F. Farrell (D) of Worcester, would require a minimum starting salary of $5500.

Second year service would be at $6000 and the minimum of $6300 would be effective after the second year.

House Republican Floor Leader Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield attempted to kill the legislation on the floor. The bill had been reported favorably by the committee on public service.

By roll call vote of 45 to 175 the House refused to defeat the measure as called for by the GOP leadership.

Communities accepting the proposed new chapter would pay the cost of any salary increases included in the range of the scale.

On the question of referring the bill to the next annual session and thereby killing it, Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue voted "yes."

The Massachusetts Senate solidly backed the House bill passed last week offering cities and towns the permissive or option legislation to establish a $5500 minimum standard for police salaries, with a third year minimum of $6300.

On Monday's question of ordering the bill to a third reading, Senator Philibert L. Pellegrini of Arlington, who represents Winchester, voted "yes."

The Senate gave final approval to the bill Tuesday and sent it back to the House for final enactment.

Chadwick Asks A One-Third Cut In House Members

The Legislative Committee on Constitutional Law was urged yesterday to "update governmental machinery" by cutting the membership of the Massachusetts House of Representatives by one-third.

Sponsor of the bill, Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue said his legislation to set up single representative districts would reduce the possibility of "wild gerrymandering."

Rep. Chadwick argued his bill is necessary because of changes in the number of people represented in the House.

Representatives, he said, are no longer delegates from the urban communities alone, and he attacked the Massachusetts system of double and triple Representative districts.

A Representative from a single district, alone representing his area, is solely responsible for his actions, said Rep. Chadwick.

He said Massachusetts has the fourth largest Legislature in the country.

A constitutional amendment to reduce the number of House members would provide more office space and clerical help for legislators, said Rep. Chadwick.

Recommend Full-Time Court For Woburn District

The Legislative Committee on Judiciary is expected to repeat its action of last year in recommending that the Woburn District Court be made full time.

Judge William H. Henchey of that court told the committee he was "not looking for a full-time job or a pay raise."

When and if the legislature makes the court full-time, he will decide whether or not he will stay on as its justice.

Immediate attention must be paid to the court area, he said.

Woburn court lists among the top in the state for the number of cases pending, and there is no comparison, said the judge, with any other part-time court in the state.

Joseph K. Collins, executive secretary of the Supreme Judicial Court, made an exception to one of his usual rules not to take a stand on such legislation, and favored the bill.

Winchester court cases are heard at the district level in Woburn. In the past two years Winchester cases have averaged about 300 a year in the Woburn court.

Book Reviews

By Leila-Jane Roberts, Winchester Public Library

Books And Young People–Friend or Foe?

"Would you please help me pick out a book to read?" With this deceptively simple question begins a treasure hunt to match the interrogator with the book which will fill his assignment and make him keep on with the liftime pleasure of reading.

Perhaps the question in return will be, "Is this for an assignment, and if so, for which teacher?" Mr. A's definition of a classic may not be exactly the same as Miss B's. If the answer is negative, succeeding questions will help to discover fields of interest, reading level background in literature and the many other facets which help in matching the reader and the book.

Perhaps our questioner is an eighth grade girl proudly clutching her badge of Young-Adulthood, a card in the Upstairs Department. She may be intrigued with the collection of junior novels by authors she has come to know in the Boys and Girls Room. One of the best novels ever produced in this category is Seventeenth Summer by Maureen Daly. Although the book was written in 1942, it still circulates widely and no less than eight copies have been worn out over the years at the Public Library. It is easy to identify with the main character because she has the same problem with her family not understanding her wish to be considered grown-up and her need to be a child in some ways at the same time. Rosamond DuJardin, Margery Hall, Mary Stolz and Winchester's own Helen Miller Swift are other authors whose books are always popular with early teens.

Boys tend to head toward nonfiction unless they discover that several authors write fiction for them. John R. Tunis has written sports stories for many years and his Go, Team, Go and The Duke Decides are on the list of the National Council of Teachers of English. His newest book, Silence Over Dunkerque, takes up the mature question of how soldiers act under pressure of war. Only a young French girl and a dog's devotion save Sargeant Williams and one of his men after the evacuation in 1940. If your choice is suspense, this is your answer.

The Wonderful Winter by Marchette Chute is a good example of a story that can also answer an assignment. This story, of a young boy who runs away to London and joins a family involved with the Globe Theater where Shakespeare's plays are being produced, is based on intensive historical research, so the reader learns about Elizabethan London while he reads a novel.

Authors are surprised to discover that their readers are getting younger, but librarians have learned this pragmatically. No longer are reading lists made out by grade levels. Keeping the balance between reader and book becomes more and more difficult. One fifth grader asked for "another horse story like Gone With the Wind. Obviously this child's experience has not caught up with his reading ability and it does seem too bad to subject him to fare beyond his understanding and to take the shine off a good novel that will mean much more later in life. This is the Age of Relativity and the challenge of successfully relating book and reader is great at all levels.

Myopia Club Had Its Beginnings In Winchester

PART III

Myopias Beaten in Dedication Game

When the Myopias were in the field one of the opposition hit a long fly over the head of one of the fielders and everyone wondered where he was. He was found lying on his back drinking "something stronger than lemonade out of a bottle." Gendron's picked nine won the game, since the Myopias, according to the Woburn Journal, were "too mindful of the rites of hospitality to take the honors." The makeup of the Myopia nine on this occasion was F. Prince, 3b; C. A. Prince, 2b; Sanborn, p; M. H. Prince, c; Jones, 1b; Russell, ss; Dabney, cf; Abbott, rf; and Jackson, lf. Elmer Fletcher, a boy then but later a prominent citizen, carried the drum in the dedication parade, and had a first-rate time of it.

The Woburn Journal of July 30, 1880, printed a story about the club and mentioned the interesting fact that Myopia hired a pew in the Unitarian Church of Winchester, presumably to offset the sporting character of the organization. Charles Prince also donated a clock to the church but the timepiece and all early records of the church were lost in a fire that preceded the building of the present church.

From the "Woburn Journal"

The Journal's article follows in full:

> "Some years ago a number of Boston boys about attaining their majorities associated themselves together in a club for social, literary and athletic purposes, and finding themselves a prosperous organization, in 1878 were incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth and authorized to hold property. About two years later the late David N. Skillings, taking an interest in the club from his acquaintance with some of its members arranged to build for them the beautifully located and arranged clubhouse on an elevation on the west side of Mystic Lake. Many people riding in the cars of the Lowell Railroad on the east side of the lake have commented upon its favorable location and handsome exterior. Though some have spoken of the club as an evil, anyone who takes the trouble to investigate its purpose and look over the list of members will soon have his prejudices removed. The house commands a fine outlook over the lake with a glimpse of the towns lying between it and Boston, while in the distance, the "hub" is seen with the world quietly revolving around it. All the appointments of the place are in good taste, of most modern style, not overdone as is too often the case . . . Full provision is made for all kinds of athletic sports and the moral tone of the members is shown by the fact that the club has hired a pew in one of the churches of the town whose minister has favorably impressed its members. Marshall K. Abbott, Esq., and Frederick Dabney, Esq., are its president and treasurer. The roll of its members embraces several Winchester gentlemen of high standing in our community. The name of the club is significant of a painful defect in vision on the part of many of its members. Before the clubhouse was regularly occupied a general picnic of the townspeople was held on the grounds and many who were present will recall how tasteful everything about the house appeared and the favorable comments of everyone upon the location."

Hunting Replaces Baseball

But now boating, tennis and baseball commenced to cloy and the club came to the third division of Myopia sporting activity in Winchester, hunting, the most important phase of their sojourn here.

Frederick Prince explains briefly the transition from baseball to hunting, mentioning that his enthusiasm for hunting led him to start several members of the Myopia Club riding cross country, among them being Robert Bacon, George P. Gardner, Frank Seabury, Augustus Hemenway and J. Murray Forbes.

However, with the emphasis on hunting it appeared to some of the Myopias that the location of their clubhouse was too far removed from Boston and it was then that J. Murray Forbes and Robert C. Hooper obtained an option on Clyde Park in Brookline and the suggestion was made that the club transfer the Myopia Club there. This it was decided to do and all the members of the Myopia Club became members of The Country Club, taking the country club name.

In the fall of 1881 at a dinner at the Parker House in Boston, at which were present Messrs. Hugh A. Allen, Hugh K. Norman, William D. Sanborn and Frank Seabury it was remarked casually that the club should have a pack of foxhounds, and then and there it was agreed that the quartet would be responsible for the expense of getting a pack of hounds from England. With the coming of the hounds The Country Club at Clyde Park in Brookline was organized.

Police Pay Raise Necessary: Fair And Competitive

Editor of the Star:

The following article will appear in the warrant for the annual representative Town Meeting: "To see if the Town will grant any increases in the rates of annual compensation to be paid to the police officers of the Town of Winchester, raise and appropriate money therefor, and take any action in connection therewith."

This article was inserted at the request of members of the Police Department. A committee representing the police officers intends to have a motion introduced under this article for a ten per cent increase. The committee met with the Board of Selectmen relative to this matter on January 28, as ably reported in The Star in last week's issue.

Our reasons for seeking increases in salaries are as follows:

1. Winchester's position on a salary scale appearing on a list of 16 comparable towns selected by the Personnel Board is eighth at present. Due to raises being granted in other towns on the list, Winchester will soon be at best 13th, probably 15th, unless salaries are adjusted in Winchester this year.

Thus it would appear that the "middle position" policy of the Personnel Board is not being maintained in 1963. Indeed, unless something is done, we may occupy the bottom position.

We on the police department are not sold on the "middle position" anyway. We do not agree that Winchester should be in the middle when it comes to wages and salaries. Why not be in a class with Wellesley, the top town on the list?

2. The police job needs to be made more attractive to potential employees. Very few good men are seeking employment on police departments any place. They are taking better paying jobs in other branches of the public service and in private industry. They find better working conditions in other jobs. Furthermore, the police profession has lost prestige since the days when police officers were the highest paid municipal employees.

The few young men who are interested in police work usually join better paying departments, such as the State Police, Metropolitan District Police, Registry of Motor Vehicles. Several Winchester young men have done so, some after temporarily trying out the local department. Four have joined the State Police in the last couple of years.

3. In a semi-military organization such as a police department, morale is important. Adequate pay is essential to maintain morale. Police officers in Winchester cannot support their families on police salaries alone. There is dissatisfaction with the rate of pay and a feeling that a good performance record is unappreciated. In the long run the result is bound to be a loss of initiative and efficiency.

4. The trend throughout the state is to increase police salaries. $6300 per year for patrolmen is the magic number. Some police departments have it now, many expect it this year. We are not asking for it in 1963, but we hope to have it in 1964.

5. Winchester is called a "high-class" town, a "great place to live in," "beautiful," "the finest town in the state," and we agree. We on the police department do our best to aid in projecting a favorable image of the town. We certainly have a high-class school system, and we see to it that our teachers are paid competitive salaries, else we may lose them to other school systems. A middle position on the salary scale would be unthinkable in the field of education.

How about other town departments? We think we have a first rate police department and we are sure that our rating adds some lustre to the image of Winchester. We doubt, however, that the police department will remain first rate very long on inadequate salaries, because the calibre of the personnel will be lowered.

The Chief of Police and other officers are greatly concerned about the problem of personnel, worried over what kind of a police department we are going to have in a few years unless something is done to attract sufficient and suitable recruits.

6. The financial status of the police officers should be improved this year. It would be bad for the officers, bad for the police department, and bad for the town to sit back and do nothing while other towns are moving ahead.

We are confdient that the people of Winchester want to maintain a first rate police force, that they want the police officers to be treated fairly, and are willing to expend a reasonable amount for the kind of police protection Winchester has been accustomed to.

Therefore, we are going to proceed on that basis to fight for what we believe is necessary, and will welcome the support of the good people of Winchester.

Gratitude For Ambulance Service

Editor of the Star:

I wish to express my deep gratitude to the town for providing, and to the Police Department for manning the police ambulance. Last week there was a desperate emergency in my family and the fact that the ambulance came in a very few minutes, Officer James Cogan knowing just what to do, and getting the person to the hospital in a very short time, made a great difference. I'm glad we did not have to wait for an ambulance from some other town.

Elected President Of Dartmouth Alumni of Boston

At a recent meeting in the Harvard Club, Lester R. Godwin, 7 Grassmere Avenue was elected president of the Dartmouth Alumni Assn. of Boston. Two other local men were elected to positions of responsibility; Frederick F. Stockwell, 6 Ledgewood Road to 3rd vice president and Richard Barnard, 36 Salisbury Street to secretary.

LESTER R. GODWIN

The coming year is one of special significance as the next Annual Dinner will mark the 100th Anniversary of the Association with an unmatched record of consecutive observance.

Mr. Godwin has been active in Dartmouth affairs since his graduation in 1930 and has recently been national enrollment committeeman for this area. He is president and treasurer of the General Oil Co., Inc., of Medford and has been active in the industry. Recently he was chairman of the Better Home Heat Council, president of the Mass. Oil Heat Assn. and serves on the Board of Directors of the N. E. Fuel Institute.

During World War II he served with the Army Air Corps and was chief of Military Personnel for the Air Transport Command in Washington. Prior to the Korean War he remained active in the Reserves and was recalled for duty in 1951 with the U. S. A. F. He was promotedto colonel in 1952 and as chief of Military Personnel for Mats he inspected bases throughout the free world. His decorations include the Legion of Merit and the Army Commendation Medal with four oak leaf clusters.

League

On February 26, the League will sponsor a Candidates' Meeting at Lynch Junior High School where every candidate for town office will be asked to speak, and candidates for Town Meeting will be invited to attend. Dr. Leonard Mead, senior vice president and provost of Tufts University, has consented to serve as Moderator.

If you 1) read the answers to the League questionnaire carefully; 2) look thoughtfully at the previous attendance records of Town Meeting members; 3) attend the League Candidates' Meeting on February 26; 4) and Vote you qualify as a well informed, interested citizen! Have you registered?

League of Women Voters to Study United Nations

This month, the League of Women Voters of Winchester will present unit meetings to discuss its national study item no. 1: "Continued support of the UN system and an evaluation of means to strengthen that system under present-day conditions." Members of the League foreign relations committee have chosen several specific areas for discussion dealing with the structure of the UN—the balance of powers within the organization; possible ways to meet its financial needs and the responsibility of the U. S.; the role of the UN as an international police force.

League unit meetings are held each month for members and friends to discuss subjects of timely interest. Material is prepared in advance by members of Leauge Committees who present background material and direct the discussion, encouraging participation by those who attend. The purpose of the unit group meetings is to stimulate interest in current events and to create an increasingly better-informed electorate.

Everyone is welcome: it is not necessary to be a member of the League or even to be invited specifically by a League member. The same material is covered at each meeting, but a series is scheduled so that those who wish to participate can find a time that is most convenient for them.

Tuesday, February 12, 7:45 p.m.: chairman, Mrs. Sears Walker; PA 9-3564. Hostess, Mrs. Lewis L. Wadsworth, 54 Wedgemere Avenue.

Wednesday, February 13, 1:00 p.m.: chairman, Mrs. H. L. Ferber; PA 9-5296. Hostess, Mrs. Robert A. Drake, 6 Lagrange Street.

Wednesday, February 13, 7:45 p.m.: chairman, Mrs. William A. McKenzie, Jr., PA 9-0394. Hostess, Mrs. Walter J. Farrell, Jr., 33 Pierrepont Road.

Thursday, February 14, 9:30 a.m.: chairman, Mrs. John S. Ahern, PA 9-3914. Hostess, Mrs. Louis Kuhn, 331 Main Street.

*Babysitting service (this unit only) Mrs. Marshall Kincaid, 12 Prospect Street.

Thursday, February 14, 1:00 p.m.: chairman, Mrs. Robert A. Nyere, PA 9-3006. Hostess, Mrs. Wilbert Underwood, 9 Ravenscroft road.

Chairmen of any of these meetings can arrange transportation for or give further information to anyone interested in attending.

As a result of several years' study of the State Civil Service System by various civic groups, including the League of Women Voters, bills aimed at correcting some of the faults of the Merit System are now being heard by the Joint Civil Service Committee at the State House. These hearings are scheduled for Monday mornings, 10:30 a.m. in Room 489.

Mrs. John Ahern, Mrs. William Meader, and Mrs. Robert Mulford were among those who attended the February 4th hearing at which Mrs. Norman Beecher, State Civil Service chairman of the LWV spoke in favor of bill no. H2658 which favors establishment of a point system for veterans. This would alter the existing "veterans' preference" provision.

Additional hearings are scheduled for February 11, February 18, February 25, and March 4. These hearings are open to the public and afford an opportunity to see government in action. Anyone who would like to join a group going in may call Mrs. Malcolm Masters at PA 9-1039. Mrs. Masters is the local League of Women Voters Civil Service chairman.

Appeals

finished to match the rest of the building, the petitioner claimed.

George H. Gowdy, chairman of the Home for the Aged building committee, told the board that although the outer portion of the addition will extend one and one half feet beyond the required zoning limit, it will be no nearer the street than portions of the presently existing walls on either side of it. The location selected was the only one which could adequately service the much-used recreation room, Mr. Gowdy added.

The board stated that the granting of relief would not result in a menace to the public safety, health or welfare of the neighborhood, but if not granted would result in unnecessary hardship to the petitioner. The board therefore granted the appeal for a permit.

The Board of Appeals has granted permission to Anthony Marchesi of 86 Irving Street to convert a single-family house at 132 Swanton Street into a two-family house.

The petitioner spoke in favor of his appeal at a public hearing on Tuesday, January 8. No one appeared in opposition.

Mr. Marchesi told the board he planned to add a bathroom and another furnace to the house, but that the exterior appearance would not be changed. The house has a three-car garage.

The board decided that since there were already three other two-family houses in the neighborhood, and since there would be no significant changes in the house's external appearance, that the petition should be granted.

Clergymen Join In Plans To Note Brotherhood Week

Winchester's clergymen, noting that February 17 - 23 is Brotherhood Week, have agreed to devote attention to this theme, as it applies to the nation and to Winchester, in sermons during the month of February.

Speaking for the Ministers' Association of Winchester, the Reverend Newton H. Clay, pastor at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, said he believed all members of the Association agreed that the subject of Brotherhood was one of great importance, and it was his understanding that each member planned to emphasize its importance in a sermon during February.

Reverend Clay defined Brotherhood as: the absence of prejudice with regard to a man's color, religion, or national origin.

Both the Right Reverend John M. Manion of St. Mary's Church and the Reverend James F. Kenny of the Immaculate Conception Church have stated their belief in the importance and timeliness of this subject in the world and in Winchester, and have said that it will serve as a topic for sermons in their churches during February.

Emmons Ellis, chairman of Winchester's Fair Housing Association expressed great pleasure on learning of the unanimity of opinion on this subject among Winchester's clergymen. He said he believed that the correlation between Fair Housing and Brotherhood was obvious and he thought the clergymen would agree. He pointed out that nearly all of Winchester's clergymen are sponsors of the Fair Housing Association and that all the churches are represented on the sponsor list of the Association.

St. Mary's Mr. & Mrs. Club Mardi Gras Ball Tomorrow

The requirements were the same as those formulated at the time of the original purchase of the building by the Construction Machinery Company, and included:

1 Keep the ramps and platforms and access ways lighted and clear of snow and ice and passable at all times.

2. Keep the access way through the station open. A question may arise as to whether or not the current owner could open and lock the doors between 10 p.m. and 7-a.m.

3. Keep the waiting room on the lower level heated, lighted and clean including the coin operated toilet facilities for men and women.

Doherty—McHugh

Against a background of white gladioli and carnations at St. Agatha's Church in Milton, Miss Cornelia Lane McHugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick McHugh of Quincy, became the bride of Mr. John Francis Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Doherty of 137 Highland Avenue, and West Harwich, on the morning of Saturday February 2.

Bradford Bachrach

MRS. JOHN F. DOHERTY

The Reverend Arthur J. McCarthy, S. J., officiated at the nuptial mass and bestowed the papal blessing. A reception was held in the Louis XIV ballroom of the Somerset Hotel, Boston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in an 18th century white velvet gown fashioned with an empire bodice, with a portrait neckline and long sleeves, a bell skirt and a train. A matching velvet Dior bow held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a white velvet missal with white cymbidium orchids and English ivy.

Miss Patricia Eileen McHugh was her sister's maid of honor. She was gowned in peacock blue velveteen made with a fitted bodice, long sleeves, a bell skirt and a matching fabric rosette at the back of the waist. She wore a matching velvet bow headpiece and carried a garland of white cymbiduim orchids and ivy.

The bridesmaids, whose gowns and flowers were identical to those of the maid of honor, were the Misses Jane Marie and Judith Condon of Rockland, cousins of the bride, and the Misses Helen Gallagher of Lynn and Gail Brosnihan of Worcester.

Mr. Raymond Miller of Lowell was best man. And ushering at the ceremony were Messrs. Thomas Curran of Ithaca, New York, John Walsh of Worcester, David Cronin of Lynnfield, John Burke of Swampscott, Frederick Kavanaugh of Holbrook, and Robert Apsey, John Hogan, and Richard Woodward, all of Winchester.

The bride's mother was gowned in a copen blue velvet sheath, fashioned with a scalloped neckline, and long sleeves. She wore a hat of matching blue velvet and a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Doherty was in a Ming green satin sheath. She wore a matching green hat and green orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Emmanuel College and the bridegroom of Tufts University. Mr. Doherty is an associate of Lehrer and Madden of Wellesley, Insurance Brokers, and after a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale Florida, the couple will be making their home here in Winchester.

Conference Group To Be Chaired By Mrs. J. Blackham

Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr. has been appointed Massachusetts conference chairman for the 11th annual Republican Women's conference to be held in Washington, D. C. April 25, 26, 27, 1963 was recently announced by Mrs. Clare B. Williams, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee.

MRS. JAMES W. BLACKHAM, JR.

Welcoming all women, this conference beamed toward the elections of 1963-64 will stress the importance of continuing G. O. P. gains in municipal, county and State elections. Combining basic campaign techniques with the latest tactics, it will provide the "meat and potatoes" type of political know-how.

Sounding a clear call that they can "Win With Womanpower" of Republican women from the farm, the factory, the professions and business, new citizens, senior citizens, homemakers, women in service groups, garden clubs, ethnic groups, and church groups from all 50 states are planning to attend the Lucky Eleventh Conference this April in Washington.

Mrs. Blackham who will head the Massachusetts delegation is a former president of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester, membership chairman of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women, former finance director of that organization, Republican state finance chairman for Winchester, a member of the speakers bureau of the Republican state committee, Republican town committee as well as a member and officer of many other civic and charitable groups.

March of Dimes Asks Mail Returns

Residents of Middlesex County were asked today to return their mailer envelopes with contributions for the 1963 March of Dimes.

The appeal was made by Mr. Samuel A. Cammarata, campaign director of the 25th anniversary campaign of Middlesex East Chapter .

"Contributions, large and small, will help the chapter to continue its polio patient aid program and also continue as a co-sponsor of the Bill Cunningham Birth Defects Center at Boston City Hospital," he added.

Contributions may be made in the envelope received, but if it is not available, returns may be sent directly to the chapter office, 16 Garden Street, Cambridge.

Mrs. Dewey Ryu Will Speak To The Mission Guild

Mrs. Dewey D. Y. Ryu of Korea, now a student at Harvard Graduate School, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Mission Union Guild of the First Congregational Church next Tuesday, February 12th.

MRS. DEWEY D. Y. RYU

This meeting, which will be held in Chidley Hall, will start with luncheon at one o'clock under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roland H. Moody. The worship service will be conducted by Mrs. Thomas N. Kell.

Mrs. Ryu, who came to this country as a foreign student in 1956, graduated from Wellesley College in 1960, receiving her master's degree two years later from Radcliffe where she had studied under the Soviet Union Region Studies Program. She is now in the History Department at Harvard, working toward a Ph.D. Her husband is a student in the field of chemical engineering and they met and married in this country in 1961. Both are interested in college teaching as a profession and plan to return to Korea when they get higher degrees.

Mrs. Ryu will speak of her life in Korea and her views of that country, and her remarks should tie in with the Lenten Study Program of the Guild which will be held in March on the theme, "Rim of East Asia." All women of the church are cordially invited to attend this meeting next Tuesday. Babysitting will be provided at a nominal fee.

Professional Nurse Group

The Professional Nurse Group will hold its next meeting tonight, Thursday February 7, at the Choate Nurses' Home in Woburn. A short business meeting will begin promptly at 8 p.m.

There will be a change in the schedule and Mr. Michael Tarantino, assistant executive director of the Middlesex T. B. and Health Association will be the guest speaker. Mr. Tarantino will discuss the nurses part in relation to the treatment and care in T. B. and respiratory diseases. A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

Refreshments will be served.

Last month the speaker was Dr. V. Sklowdowski whose topic was "Human Factors in the Space Age." Slides were shown and a very lively discussion followed Dr. Sklodowski's talk which was most interesting and very stimulating. He brought to our attention many of the problems which have been overcome and many which are being overcome in this very modern space age.

Mrs. Henderson To Speak At The Morgan Memorial

Mrs. Alexander Henderson of 6 Standish Lane, the president of the American association of women ministers, will be the featured speaker at the February meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial on Friday, February 8 at 10:30 a.m.

She is the wife of the Rev. Henderson, formerly minister of the First Baptist Church of Medford for many years. Presiding will be Mrs. D. Talmage Erb, of Malden; vice president of the Auxiliary and a widely known lecturer.

Nadeau Has Daily Program On Radio WCRB

"Passport To Music," a daily radio program by Northeastern University Professor of Music Roland L. Nadeau, formerly of 39 Henry Street, is being presented over station WCRB, Boston.

The series, scheduled to be run Monday through Friday at 4:30 p.m., started Monday, January 28.

Professor Nadeau discusses and illustrates at the piano the sound and meaning of familiar and little known selections for the piano.

Each day he considers different aspects within the week's especially selected composition.

Among the musical selections he will discuss in the near future are "Clair de Lune" and "Sunken Cathedral" by Claude DeBussy, "Babar, the Little Elephant" by Francois Poulenc and the rondo movement from "Pathetique Piano Sonata" by Beethoven.

Professor Nadeau received his bachelor's and master's degrees in music from the New England Conservatory of Music in 1951 and 1953 respectively.

He has appeared on numerous television programs including approximately 50 educational television programs and is the author of more than 75 articles on music.

Boy Scout Troop 503 Eagle Award

On February 11, a special parents meeting is planned to honor Steve Butterfield. For it is at this meeting, that Steve will be presented his Eagle award, and the program is set to make it a night he will remember. Troop 503 especially want the parents of the Scouts to attend, and see the real progress of the troop in the past few months. The meeting will start at 7:45 p.m. at Chidley Hall in the First Congregational Church.

An inter-patrol rally was held by the Troop on January 21 and 28. This consisted of competition between the patrols in various scouting skills, such as: knot-tying, first aid, signal flags, etc. Judging was done on the basis of speed and skill. Most points were gained, however, by the patrol best in attendance and correctly attired in uniform.

Under the supervision of asst. scoutmasters Frank Bower and Bill Schmink, the nine patrols struggled. Out of a possible 240 points, Patrol No. 5, the Panther Patrol, obtained 123 and was the victor. The boys in this patrol are Thomas Mumma, David Dutting, Winslow Kelly, Bruce Stebbins, Richard Bower, and Carl Hilkert. An award was made by scoutmaster Frank Bower of a special pennant which will be placed on the Panther Patrol staff.

The boys went on a day hike on February 2. This was through the Fellsway, and gave many of them the opportunity to pass their second class requirements. The boys who went were: David Baird, David Clark, Joseph Day, Thomas Dillon, Daniel Griffin, Carl Hilkert, Richard Bower, Peter Horton, Charles Knight, James Olson, James Sauber, Dennis Ross.

Republican Town Committee Meets

The Winchester Republican Town Committee held its monthly meeting at Red Cross headquarters on Tuesday, January 29. The first order of business was a resolution in memory of Oscar Merrow, composed by Mr. Earl Spencer as follows:

Resolved: That the Winchester Republican Town Committee notes with a sense of great personal loss the passing of our esteemed member, Oscar E. Merrow. A man of refinement and sterling character, his high degree of devotion, enthusiasm, and unswerving principle were an inspiration to all who knew him and an example to all who worked with him in his efforts to enrich not only the Republican Party, but his Town, his State, and his Nation.

In the absence of Mrs. Barbara Nichols, Jason Dade read the minutes of the previous meeting.

A letter from Brad Morse was read regarding his position in current legislation.

A most informative discussion followed, led by Mrs. Whitman and Representative Harrison Chadwick regarding state legislation and future activities of the local Town Committee.

Joyce Minihan was elected an associate member at this meeting.

Next meeting February 28.

Africa Is Topic Of Alliance At Unitarian Church

Mrs. Read Moffet will be the guest speaker at the Unitarian Alliance Meeting on Tuesday, February 12, at 2:30.

She will give an illustrated talk "African Vibrations," using colored slides which she and her parents made when they traveled extensively in Africa. Entertained hospitably as they traveled, they were able to get pictures of inside Africa, impossible to most tourists.

Mrs. Moffet, the former Jane Miller, traveled a great deal with her family during her childhood. She graduated from Smith College in 1956 and after work in the Knox Art Gallery in Buffalo, New York, she came as assistant director to the DeCordova Museum. Last summer she traveled to Russia with her parents.

She is presently consultant teacher for five schools in Lexington working with students who are studying the new social studies curriculum of Harvard. Using her own slides she is able to correlate the various branches of their study of history, geography, art, and archeology.

Guests from the neighboring Unitarian and Universalist churches have been invited to this meeting. There will be a short business meeting at 2 o'clock. A Valentine Day tea will be served at the conclusion of the lecture. It is hoped that an unusual number of the younger members of the alliance will also come to hear our attractive, dynamic speaker.

We have the exciting TV game of Password. Hours of fun for ages 10 to adult. At the Winchester Star.

The Power of The Flower

★ RECENTLY a member of a bereaved family came into our office in an extremely agitated and embarrassed state. It seems the family had requested that flowers be eliminated at the service. But now, confronted with the results of this omission, they were stunned by the bleakness which the absence of flowers created and apparently by the number of comments being made about it. In some measure we were able to assist them in their dilemma, but we suggest that it is best to consider thoughtfully before deciding to "omit flowers."

It Was A Hearty Occasion

Kelley Honored At Retirement Dinner

With about 90 fellow employees and friends wishing him well at a notably good dinner Saturday evening, John L. Kelley of 21 Winchester Place a veteran member of the Highway and Tree departments, started on retirement this month.

The testimonial dinner was held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, and among the head table guests were Commander George S. Stearns of the V. F. W. of which Mr. Kelley was a charter member.

Having served the town for 26 years, Mr. Kelley was also honored at the head table by the presence of James A. Wakefield, Jr., superintendent of streets and tree warden, Howard Ambrose, assistant town engineer, John Van Dyke, representing the board of selectmen and Sherman Saltmarsh, former selectman, all of whom wished him well in his retirement years.

Carmen Frongillo was master of ceremonies for the evening, John Horn, foreman of the maintenance department of the Highway Division, presented the honored guest with a money gift from his co-workers and friends, and Richard Horn was chairman of the dinner committee.

In charge of arrangements in addition to the two Horns were Neil Kerrigan, Harold McElhinney, Daniel Mistretta, and Edgar Thompson. Sharing a place of honor was Chester Kelley, brother of the dinner's honor guest.

Valentine Bridge Planned By Guild Of Infant Saviour

The Annual Valentine Dessert Bridge will be held on Tuesday, February 12 at 1:00 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Come and bring your friends to this delightful event. The co-chairmen Mrs. George Winterson and Mrs. F. J. Hughes and their committee have been working very hard to make this party a success.

Assisting the co-chairmen are: Miss Laura Boyden, Mrs. Walter Crotty, Mrs. U. Conti, Mrs. Percy Cliff, Mrs. Emilio D'Errico, Mrs. Daniel Doherty, Mrs. James Donohue, Mrs. Harold McCarthy, Mrs. Peter Murphy, Mrs. William Perkins, Mrs. William Pearce and Mrs. Harold Smethurst.

On February 26 there will be a Rummage Sale in the K of C Hall from 10:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Saint Mary's Sodality

At the regular meeting held on February 5 Father Turke gave a very interesting talk on the Centrality of Christ in our faith and spiritual lives.

He announced the Day of Recollection would be on Saturday, March 2 at the Medical Missionaries of Mary, and hoped there would be a good attendance. Midge Pazolt is chairman of the day of recollection.

A cartoon show will be held in St. Mary's Hall on Sunday, February 10 at 2 o'clock for the scholarship fund.

We are sorry to have omitted Mary Campbell's name in the list of new members. Welcome, Mary.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

At the January 30th meeting, playing memberships for 1963 expanded past all previous records, with the new year still only one month old!

The WDBC, in fact, has continued to grow steadily in popularity ever since its launching in 1959, and now entertains well over 1,000 players each year.

Section A was played under the standard Mitchell format and old favorites came through strongly in both directions.

Openings For Pilots And Navigators

Colonel Arthur C. Carroll, commander of the 94th Troop Carrier Wing at L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, announced recently that there are openings in the wing for pilots and navigators. To qualify, applicants must have had previous experience in those positions in the Armed Forces. Former pilots with multi-engine experience are preferred but it is not an essential requirement.

In addition to augmenting their civilian income, those selected will have an opportunity to retain their flying status and add to their retirement income. Ranks of First Lieutenant and Captain will be assigned on the basis of prior service.

The 94th Troop Carrier Wing has Squadrons at L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, and at Grenier Field, Manchester, N. H. Qualified applicants may elect assignment at either location. Further information may be obtained by calling at the Personnel Office at either location or by telephoning CRestview 4-6100 EXT 4337 at Bedford or NAtional 4-4031 at Manchester, N. H.

Fashion Show Valentine Tea For Fortnightly

The Fortnightly Spring Fashion Show and Valentine Tea will be held on Monday, February 11 at two o'clock in the Social Hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The president Mrs. Herbert D. Thompson, will conduct a brief business meeting. Mrs. Charles E. Potts, Jr., the club's first vice president is in charge of the Spring Fashion Show which will present the spring collection of Winchester's Peck and Peck branch store. Miss Helen Niedringhaus, program chairman, will introduce the commentator, Mrs. Richard Miano, manager of Peck and Peck. The models will be many attractive young ladies to be attired in bathing suits, coats, dresses and suits all so well selected from Peck's spring collection. Those modelling are Mrs. Richard Nelson, Mrs. Robert Nestor, Mrs. James Blackham, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Rand, Mrs. Sherman Saltmarsh, Jr., Mrs. Paul Stoneman, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. Ralph Hatch, Mrs. Gerald Mosher, Mrs. Wason Hyde, Mrs. Ralph Meigs, Mrs. Galen Vincent, Mrs. Robert Swanson, Mrs. Lane Mc Govern, Mrs. Robert Duffy and Miss Eleanor Albee.

Mrs. Donald VanRoosen, pianist, will provide delightful background music during the fashion parade, Mr. Charles Forester, Winchester florist, will arrange the floral decorations suited to the occasion.

Following the spring fashion show tea will be served by Mrs. Harold Bergquist, chairman of the club's social committee and the members of her committee. The gracious pourers at the tea table will be Mrs. Lawrence Kinney and Mrs. S. Bennett Brenton, Jr.

The Fortnightly members with their guests will find it an entertaining afternoon as will the public who are cordially invited. Tickets may be obtained at the door. Membership tickets must be shown at the door.

Christian Crossroads Club

Would you like to go on a tour of Europe? Although we cannot offer you the actual trip, we can promise you slides and a talk of Europe on Sunday, February 10.

Miss Constance Trickett, girls' guidance counselor at the Winchester High School, will speak on the Experiment in International Living and her personal experience in connection with the Experiment.

This talk and discussion is being sponsored by the Christian Crossroads Club, a non-sectarian religious-social group for young adults between the ages of 18 and 35.

If you are a young adult and are interested in such an illustrated talk on Europe, why not come down to the First Baptist Church on Mt. Vernon Street, on February 10, at 8 p.m. Refreshments will follow our meeting. All young adults from Winchester and surrounding suburbs are cordially welcome to attend. Please come with your friends if you would like.

N. E. Boat Show February 16th

More than an acre of boats and other nautical attractions will be on display at Boston's Commonwealth Armory when the 7th annual New England Boat Show gets underway on Saturday, February 16. It continues through Sunday, February 24.

The boat show, third largest in the country will feature more than 200 boats ranging in size from the Queen of the Show, a 35-foot Owens 'Maracaibo' Yacht Sportsedan, to tiny dinghies. Boat enthusiasts will find inboard and outboard cruisers, runabouts, canoes and a variety of sailboats.

The nine-day show is endorsed by the New England Marine Trade Association. Hours are from 1 to 10:30 p.m. daily and from 1 to 8 p.m. on Sundays.

Patricia Audrey Devine of Quincy has been selected as the 1963 Boat Show Queen. She also was Queen of the National Motor Boat Show held in New York in January.

Door prizes to be awarded during the show include motors made by Johnson, Mercury, Evinrude and Scott, plus a 13-day Grace Line Caribbean cruise for two.

A special feature this year will be an exhibit by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration highlighting a full-size model of the astronauts Mercury capsule.

The ever-popular color forms, "Babes in Toyland," "Huckleberry Hound" and other interesting subjects at the Winchester Star.

Charity Bridge Next Week End

Friday, February 15, is the date for local bridge fans to gather in Hadley Hall, at the Church of the Epiphany. All players are welcome. Registration for places begins at 7:45 p.m. You can save time at the door by having your tickets in advance; call Mr. Ralph L. Gartner PA 9-5730 or Mr. Ralph M. Atkinson PA 9-2903.

The game is sponsored by the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club for the benefit of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Institute of Logopedics. A large committee of local members of the Club is working hard, hoping to better Winchester's last year's national showing in contributions. Entry fees are tax deductible.

In duplicate bridge, each hand is played by a number of couples; it is fun after you've played it to see how others have done. Also you play with different couples during the evening. There will be a section for regular contract players too.

A happy, social affair is anticipated with door prizes, refreshments, and, as always, the play of the cards.

Merit Scholars To Appear On WBZ Mon., Feb. 18

Three of the six Winchester High School students who were named this fall to be semi-finalists in the 1962-63 National Merit Scholarship Program will be given a special salute on WBZ radio at 9 p.m. on Monday, February 18, the other three will be honored in a subsequent program.

Lawrence Archibald, Neal Baker and Ruth Beckley will be the first to appear on "Bruce Bradley's 9-o'clock Scholar," which features high scoring students for their outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. This test of educational development was given in more than 15,000 high schools last March.

As a finalist the student is eligible for a scholarship award sponsored by approximately 130 business corporations, foundations, associations, and individuals.

Grace Gregory, Richard Starkweather and Joan Zrodowski will appear on a later program of the same WBZ feature.

Science Secrets. Educator approved Science Lab Kits, for boys and girls ages 5-15 for $1.00 each, or a cabinet set for $9.50. At the Winchester Star.

Library Film Program

The February 8th family film program will offer Americans All, The Magic Fiddle, and Otto Asks a Riddle.

Americans All concerns the history and geography of the countries south of the Rio Grande—Mexico and Central America — with their bright, striking scenery and unusual customs. The emphasis is on the importance of cultural understanding between the American Republics.

The Magic Fiddle is a delightful folk tale about a young man who is given a magic fiddle by a beggar, and who makes everyone dance wildly with his playing. When the villain of the piece, the sheriff, whose dignity has been offended, leads the young man to the gallows, the fiddler requests the return of his fiddle as a final favor. He plays the crowd dances, and, as in all proper folk tales, he escapes.

Otto Asks a Riddle is another in the Otto the Auto series and will appeal especially to the younger members of the audience.

The program will begin at 7:30 sharp on Friday night and at 10:15 Saturday morning for the school-age children.

"MEMOS" from your Stylist

By: "Woody"

The woman of today can scarcely match her sister of centuries past in the matter of makeup. The nicer ladies of Jezebel's day blacked their eyebrows with manganese and antimony, and tinted their eyelids, upper and lower as well, with gaudy greens and yellows. Red ocher was rubbed on their lips and vegetable dyes on their fingernails.

More recently we note the author of a fourteenth-century Book of Vices and Virtues rebuked ladies for incessant looking in mirrors and combing their hair—"tressing it in many tresses to make it straight and seem crisp." So, it would appear that the ladies of today with a reasonable and understandable concern for their appearance are merely following a mandate handed down virtually at mankind's beginning.

Perhaps the shortest and most direct route for the local feminine contingent is in the direction of WOODY'S HAIR STYLES. Our operators and stylists know beauty in its modern form and feature distinctive cutting and the latest methods in hair coloring. Make your appointment at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St., soon. Sunday, February 10

The importance of understanding God as infinite Spirit will be emphasized at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

"Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty" (II Cor. 3:17) is a Scriptural passage from the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will also be read: "When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness" (p. 264).

Johnian Chosen Violinist For "The Crucible"

Paul Johnian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aram Johnian, of 19 Hillside Avenue, and an undergraduate student at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, has been chosen to play the violin in the contemporary opera, "The Crucible," winner of the 1962 Pulitzer Prize in Music, which will be presented by the New England Conservatory at the Loeb Drama Center in Cambridge from February 14 through 16.

"The Crucible" is based on the Arthur Miller play about the seventeenth-century witch trials in Salem, and the performance is sponsored by the Friends of the New England Conservatory. Mr. Johnian is a 1962 graduate of Winchester High School and is already well known in town for his fine musicianship.

Annual Meeting At Second Church Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Second Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, was held on January 30th. At 6:30 p.m. there was a catered dinner. The business meeting began at 7:45 p.m.

The members of the church voted to do the following things: To accept a budget for 1963 of $11,845; to raise $1,980 for Benevolence, the "Our Christian World Mission Program" of the United Church of Christ; to hold the annual anniversary dinner on March 22nd; to conduct Sunday services on a twelve month basis; and to have Mrs. James Coles be the chairman of the Fair Committee and Mrs. Henry Clark be the chairman of the Rummage Sale.

The folowing officers were elected: deacon, Mr. Richard H. Brownell; moderator, Mr. Levon K. Boodakian; clerk, Miss Carol A. Richburg; treasurer, Mr. George D. Richburg; financial secretary, Mr. Warren F. Saunders; auditors, Mr. Roland Carlson and Mrs. Sydney C. Erb; prudential committee, Mr. John F. Karr and Mr. Robert H. Watson; music committee, Mrs. John Karr; Church School superintendent, Mr. Ronald H. Richburg; Christian enlistment committee, Mr. B. Roy Carlson; committee at large, Mr. Gordon R. Richburg.

At the annual meeting, the "United Church Herald" was formally introduced to the church. This is the denominational publication. Mrs. George Bragdon is the "United Church Herald" representative at the church.

MR. LINCOLN SIGNS A BILL

Among the least well known of our 16th President's deeds is his signing of the National Currency Act in 1863. Yet it is truly important.

The Act provided not only for a much-needed national currency but also for national banks, to take their place alongside the existing state-chartered banks.

Under this dual banking system, the role of commercial banks in the Nation's life has become increasingly greater.

1963 is the Centennial of the National Currency Act. Our bank is proud to join in the observance of this significant anniversary.

New Executive Chef Appointed At "The Ship"

Edward Bevilacqua of 15 Faulkner Street, Malden, has been appointed executive chef of The Ship, according to an announcement recently by John R. Zappala, 28-year-old owner of the Lynnfield landmark.

The new chef has held executive positions with a number of Greater Boston eating and dining establishments, including the Kernwood in Malden, Joseph's of Boston, the original General Glover Inn and Seiler's Caterers.

Buffet luncheons are among his specialties and are an innovation at The Ship, served daily Mondays through Fridays.

Bevilacqua, a World War II paratrooper who made many combat "jumps" in Europe, is married to the former Rose Crescenzo of Orient Heights. They have three children, Edward, Jr., 13; Joanne, 9; and Steven, 4.

The famous restaurant on Route 1 is open seven days a week.

Thomas K. Connolly, 56 Richardson Street has been designated as a Distinguished Military Student in the Northeastern University 2,800-cadet ROTC Brigade, the largest voluntary officer-producing Army ROTC unit on a single campus in the nation.

Cadets become eligible for DMS designation in their junior and senior years when they show that they possess outstanding qualities of leadership, high moral chracter, and a defined aptitude for military service.

Connolly, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connolly is a 1958 graduate of Winchester High School, from which he received the Jere A. Downs Scholarship.

He is presently employed as a junior accountant at the Robert, Finnegan and Lynah Co., Boston, as part of the Co-operative Plan of Education.

Under the N. U. "co-op" plan, upperclass students alternate periods of classroom instruction with practical experience on regular paying jobs in business, industry, and the professions.

A senior, Connolly is enrolled in the College of Business Administration, one of the nine schools and colleges at Northeastern, where he majors in accounting.

At Northeastern he is president of Alpha Kappa Sigma Fraternity and a member in both the accounting and management society.

Fletcher to Speak At Inter-Church School Meeting

On February 12, at the Unitarian Church, Prof. Joseph Fletcher, Robert Treat Paine Professor of Social Ethics, Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, will speak to the Inter-Church School Teachers. There will be juice at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:00 p.m. Dr. Fletcher will then speak on "Holy Worldliness and Christian Education."

According to Who's Who Professor Fletcher has had a wide social experience as a coal miner, an auditor's assistant, rope factory worker, resident worker in a New York settlement house, social research director for the National Council of the Episcopal Church. His graduate studies were pursued at the London School of Economics (1929-32). He was ordained in America, served as a curate in a London slum parish in England, was chaplain in a woman's college in the South, then Dean of the Cathedral in Cincinnati. For nine years he was Dean of the Graduate School of Applied Religion in Cincinnati (1936-44) and lecturer in labor history at the University. His peace work has taken him through the "Iron Curtain" to Communist countries and to Southeast Asia. He has preached and lectured in more than thirty universities in America, Canada Latin America and Australia.

His "outside" activities all follow from his professional concern with social life and thought. He is president of the Human Betterment Association of America, a nation-wide program of educational, medical and casework services in voluntary sterilization; and editor of Pastoral Psychology and the Journal of Pastoral Care; a board member of the Euthanasia Society of America, and of the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts; he is a member of the Business Ethics Advisory Council, of the Secretary of Commerce; director of the Musser Seminar at the Harvard Business School; visiting professor elect (1963-64) at Cambridge University, England, and International Christian University in Tokyo.

Besides publications in various journals and periodicals such as Harpers, Ladies Home Journal, and the Nation, he has contributed to symposia (Sex and Religion Today, The Crisis in American Medicine, etc.) and is author of The Church and Industry, Christianity and Property, and Morals and Medicine.

Controversial Zoo To Be Subject For Local M.S.P.C.A.

Crushing criticism is often heard of the Stoneham Zoo. "Sloppy, smelly, and neglected" they call it, yet problems are monumental and "help" is often no help at all!

Mr. Edward Stone, curator of Franklin Park and Stoneham Zoo, is scheduled to "reveal all" about these two spots. Much improvement is to be desired and changes are in the works. A polished speaker, Mr. Stone promises a fascinating discussion when he is guest lecturer at next Monday's meeting of the Winchester Auxiliary of the M.S.P.C.A. (That's February 11 at 1:30 p.m.)

Mrs. Robert Durfee of 48 Cabot Street, will open her charming home. Tea and sociability will close the afternoon. Members and friends are invited to hear Mr. Stone on a subject of vital interest to Winchesterites.

Winton Cabaret Is Big Hit; Witty, Clever, Funny And Fun

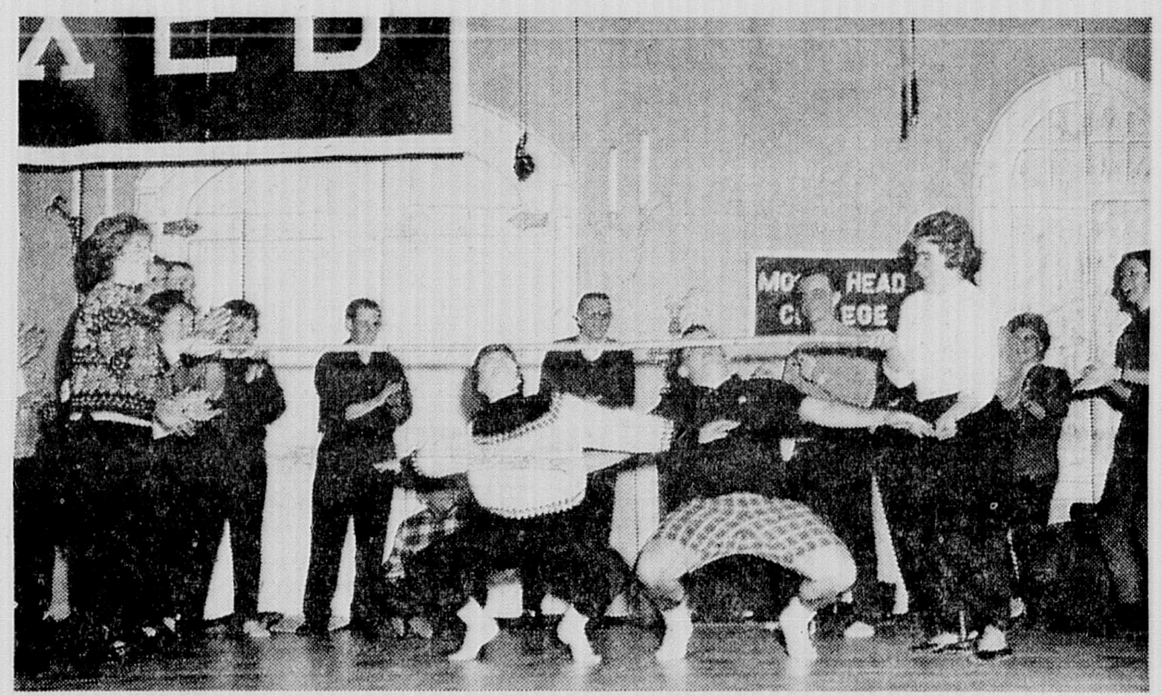
After Anderson's "Sleighride" overture, everyone was off for winter fun to the happy whistling of "Do, Re, Mi" and a set complete with Civil War circa ancestral portraits. Janet Hill, wigged in white, added a nice light touch to the chorus in this opening production number.

Next, on a Sunday afternoon, we watched the sweeping antics of the lady curlers at the club, committing boo-boos on the rink. Though some of the non-curling audience must have been mystified, everyone understood the incongruity of the lady curler in the white sheath as not quite wearing the uniform of the day.

Bunnies by the bushel came prancing on as we were treated to another effective production number. As they bounced by, tassle-tails flying, we suddenly realized this chorus contained daughters of people we remembered seeing in Winton Club shows "not too long ago." Rather disconcerting, but visible proof these shows will go on forever, the lifeblood being protected by a long line of descendents. These gals were good. Undoubtedly better than mother.

Personally, we have never been able to decide whether the audience talks so much because they can't hear the show—or whether you can't hear the show because the audience talks so much. Whichever, the problem still remains in spite of herculean efforts by the sound engineers. Though many commented they could hear more this year, many of the lyrics were lost. This was particularly unfortunate in view of the truly clever lines and wordsmithing done by the Worthens, Nelsons, Geroulds, Berta Swanson, Bernie Kimball, and the muffled moose who carried a few tunes.

MOOSE ON THE LOOSE CHASES DONNA ON THE RUNNA. Donna Dean, wearing a bath towel ensemble and a mixed expression of surprise, hotfoots it across the stage to escape two-step chasing Moose, run by Bud Gerould (fore) and H. B. Woodward (aft).



HIGH-NOSED, OPEN-MOUTHED, AND DEEP KNEE-BENDED LIMBOISTS Phyllis Williams and Paul Sullivan show how long they can go. Also participating in the Moosehead College soiree are Marilyn Willoughby, JoAnne Gerould, Ralph Perkins, Bob McNamara, Jim Woolley, Donald Senna on the bongo, John Kavanaugh and Bob Adams behind the dancers spurring them down to lower heights, and Amanda Latourelle, Bunny Van Valey and Joan DeCamp.

AND A WALTZ WAS IN ORDER. Waltzing couples included June and Ted Nelson, Rosamund and Warren Wells, Adeline and Guy Mingolelli, Mary and Sam Reid (back), Hank and Nancy Porter (front), Midge Pazolt and Brock Lynch, John and Bettina Harrison, and Don and Betty Stebbins.

MRS. MALCOLM S. BURR

It was Mrs. Malcolm S. Burr of 15 Grove Street, who held the reins as general chairman. Some 31 committee heads and numberless workers assisted her.

"Semper Hospitalis"

Next we visited a fraternity house, complete with "semper hospitalis" motto and ice statues. This year's show lacked much association with the motivating influence behind it all—i.e., the hospital, and the motto came as a pleasant reminder what we were all there for. The statues stayed statues, absolutely frozen until cued for their performance, done under purple lighting that produced a most effective, "black light" fluorescent glow. The mood music was excellent and Tommy Blake, as the soloist, did a deep, rich and haunting number that actually held the audience completely.

In the program, whoever put the advertisement selling "ice cubes, ice carvings and complete icing services" on the same page as the ice statue number showed sheer genius.

"To The Castle" we went for a scene complete with Connie Snelling as a lovely queen, Jack Chitel and his jazzy trumpet as court herald, and Tom Ferriman and Nancy Collins doing the singing. The waltzing was superb, the ladies looking lovely in yellow, pink and lavender as they swirled to "Hi Lili, Hi Lo." Jack's horn brought cheers and the singing brought admiring words from each table.

High Kickers

Somehow the Old Howard crept into the winter motif, and the audience was treated to the high kicks of the evening. But not before the stooges pantomimed their best of the evening - a stitch and sew sight gag that ended up in a Hucklebucking twist. The high kickers, in purty-pink and sequins were well rehearsed, did precision work and even high kicked from the stage steps. We doff our homburgs to those gals and only wish that Act II could have included a reprise. Certainly they should be on hand for next year's performance.

TOMMY BLAKE singing "Soon It's Gonna Rain."

In front of the fire at the frat house, a big production number burst forth, punctuated by a Chubby Checker limbo rock that had the house on its feet. Watching various individuals, you couldn't help but enjoy Paul Sullivan - in his conscious and unconscious mannerisms. Mr. Sullivan seems to bubble with enthusiasm whether front stage for a go at the limbo stick, or tucked behind twenty others in the scenery.

Composer Frank Leosser and his wife used to delight guests with one of his songs, "Baby, It's Cold Outside." Bob Adams and Phyllis Williams did the same with their rendition Thursday night. Jane Olivadoti provided a cute tune as well as a smooth bossa-rhumba-cha-cha with various members of the fraternity. Tricky dancing, done well, on cue and tempo.

Sing-A-Long

The one and only Joe Derby then took over stage and ticket-holder as he went into the routines so easy for him to handle. Loose as spaghetti, he slipped into soft shoe and other such, to the stop-tempoed "old Folks at Home." Attempting the impossible, he succeeded in leading the audience in a dance and sing-along through "In the Evening" and "Mill Stream." Winton wouldn't be Winton if Mr. Derby ever decided to hang up his educated shoes.

JACK CHITEL won't sell it, either the cool outfit or the cool trumpet.

Winton Drill

Just as nothing can top THE game, nothing beats THE drill and the showman's spot to place it is the wind-up slot for Act I. We missed the male auxiliary. Usually the men tend to head North when the girls swing South, providing many laughs. It's such an easy way to prove the superiority of the female sex we're surprised the girls let them off this year. But Les Femmes, in slick black, more than made up for the loss in a complex routine that involved red-flagged ski poles and double-time tempo changes. Kate Smith may have made their number famous ("Marching Along Together") but there wasn't a Kate Smith figure in the line. The girls did a sound-off vocal, cut back to original tempo without missing a step, swung into their rafter-raising wheel effect and the first act was over.

TOM FERRIMAN hits a high note.

Intermission Thursday yielded some delightful door prizes from local merchants - including hair dryers for thin-thatched husbands. Friday and Saturday evenings were spent dancing and renewing old acquaintances.

Act II started off with a rousing polka number, showing off gay costumes and the best backdrop of the evening. The barmaids danced, the boys sipped their cider and egg white beers and all sang to their lungs content. Certainly the most colorful number in the show, the cellar rousings brought the audience back to showtime in quick order and set the pace for a short but good second act.

The best rehearsed number of the show came up next with a Currier and Ives print of gentlemen and their ladies about to go skating. In freeze-form, the cast soon slipped into a skater's waltz that showed what patience and originality can produce in a Winton Club show. Girls, in Christmas red, led by Jan Cooper in Christmas green, then came down on the floor to perform an intricate number that included lacing and spinning in good ballet form.

Before the audience could say "I like that best," our three stooges were back to set the stage for a moral-pointing scene on the trials and tribulations of taking up the long sticks. The full cast turned out in a pole-splintered, cut-stitched, arm-fractured scene that also put the audience in stitches.

Hazel O'Donnell, in the clearest and easiest-to-hear voice of the show, satired the lyrics to "meet every mountain" very nicely. The friendly moose joined with our stooges and abandoned pantomime for the show-stopping "You Gotta Have Heart." The counter melody and harmony makes or breaks this tune and our local talent handled these so well we wondered why they'd stayed in pantomime all evening. Then we remembered the acoustics and the need for pantomime in the hall as the only real means of telling the audience just what's going on.

Suddenly the snows melted and the whole gang was swim-suited at the beach, reprising "Do Re-Mi," high-kicking, wiggling the hula and having a grand old time as the show came to a natural finale.

Next year, we hope Winton will give just a bit more space to the customers on the weekend and just a bit less space to the show, before the Fire Department throws up hands in despair. Also, that they print the original lyrics in the program - otherwise forever lost to the audience and to memories many in the show would like to hold dear.

The Program

Next day, musing through the program, one realizes the amount of effort and the contribution made by those behind the scenes. There's that rolling juggernaut, the advertising committee, that finds advertisers in the darndest places, the local businesses that clean the costumes, loan halls for rehearsal, play piano, give publicity, find a prop so badly needed, give some paint to cover a backdrop. And there's people - to do the little jobs that total into a big job and make for success.

If you've visited the hospital lately - as it seems we have more than usual to see our friends - one needs no reminder of what all this whoop-de-do is about. In the midst of renovation at the same time as expansion, the work there is endless. And at the moment, perhaps needed more than ever. The ladies, bless 'em, provide the labor and the dollars that keep the clock wound and running smoothly. They make the difference between the nice place you know and a factory you don't want to spend any time within.

If we must be sick - and this comes to all men, sooner or later - there's no place like the Winchester Hospital for our locale. As you slide down between clean sheets and your toe doesn't enlarge a hole already there, thank the ladies and make a mental note to buy even more tickets for next year's Winton Club show.

THREE THUMBING STOOGES. Bob Mathews, Paulett Taggart and Jim Willoughby demonstrate the fine college art of hiking a hitch. Note the optimistic, blase, and disgruntled degrees of bearheartedness.

CURLERS CROON OVER BROOM. Curlers Margie Colony, Jane Wild, Ann Wild, Edna Bentley, Roz Lynch, Petie Comins, Bernie Kimball and Alice Moore, sing a song in "Curling My First Bonspiel."

SONGS FOR SKI BUMS. Connie Snelling, Bob McNamara, Barbara Jellison and John Kavanaugh find singing is fun in ski outfits at "Follow the Fun."

PAL Basketball League

Games Played January 23

As the first round of league play ended Tony Shields' Ohio State team defeated Kevin Mawn's Providence five 27-20. Ohio State thus ended with a 4-1 record. Stan Hewis, Ken Garvey, and Billy Shields paced the attack with 10 points, 8 points, and 7 points, respectively.

Providence playing with but five men, for the second week in a row, could not find the range. John Martin led the attack for the losers with 11 points. Big Willie Floyd was held to 5 points (all foul shots) and this hurt Providences chances of a victory. Providence now has a 2-3 record.

In the second game Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati team edged out Dan Winn's Navy team by a score of 55-47. Cincinnati powered by Mike Ciarcia 22 points, John Buzzotta 12 points, Tom Harris 10 points, John Doherty 8 points, and little Jigger Bond 3 points, won its fifth game in a row.

Cincinnati leads the loop with a 5-0 record. Rich Rogers had 30 points, and Peter Mawn had 10 points, in a losing cause. While Pete Provinzano had 4 points and Ken Lavalle 3 points also helped.

Navy only lacks a little height for a winning team as they proved they have good shooters. Jake Horn and Bob Thompson's Holy Cross team bombed Frank McNamee's Duke team 42-26 in the final game of the evening.

For the winners Brian Collins had 15 pojnts, Jimmy Mumma had 10 points, Paul Rigney had 7 points, and Dan MacIsaac had 6 points. Ricky Kidder was once again the star for Duke with 12 points. Bob Blanche his teammate also chipped in with 10 points. Holy Cross ended with a 3-2 record while Duke has yet to win with a 0-5 record.

Games Played January 30

Round two began with some thrilling games. In the first game Kevin Mawn's Providence five defeated Frank McNamee's Duke team by a 29-15 score. John Martin paced Providence with 10 points, while Big Willie Floyd, who is still having trouble finding the range, netted 9 points, and Brian LaPointe had 7 points.

Donald Letty returning to action scored 3 points. Ricky Kidder bombed in 5 long shots for 10 points for the losers. Jay Morris substituted for Duke because of lack of players and scored points. Jay also played a fine game on defense.

Tony Shields' Ohio State team won over Dan Winn's Navy team by a 44-27 score. Billy Shields muzzled his way around for 28 points, and many rebounds. Teammates Ken Garvey and Stan Hewis had 8 points and 6 points respectively. Rich Rogers had 19 points, while Peter Mawn helped out with 8 points in a losing cause.

In a battle of the top two teams Bob Thompson and Jake Horn's Holy Cross team edged Jim Sullivan's Cincinnati team by a slim margin of a single point 35-34. This was by far the best game played all year. Brian Collins scored a layup as the buzzer rang to give Holy Cross a hard-earned victory.

Paul Rigney 14 points, Jimmy Mumma 10 points, and Brian Collins 9 points proved the winners, while John Doherty had 12 points, Mike Ciarcia and Tom Harris had 8 points apiece for the losers.

It was good to see a few parents come to watch the boys play. Why not have a few more come down and watch the future stars of Winchester?

The P.A.L. was honored by the presence of three all-star players from last year. Ray Rigney, Joe Marrone, and Bob Crotty. Rigney and Marrone were kept busy scoring and keeping the clock, while Crotty was busy bothering the coaches.

Sachem Seconds Bow to Reading

The Winchester High School Jayvees lost to Reading last Friday by a score of 62-49.

Reading jumped out to a 19-13 lead at the end of the first quarter and went on to take a 33-28 lead at halftime.

As the second half started, the Sachems caught fire and cut the lead. Reading was unable to keep up their shooting, and the Sachems took advantage, taking a 45-43 lead, going into the fourth quarter. Reading led by Bob Mollica then turned on the Sachems, outscoring them 19-4 in the fourth quarter, and went on to win 62-49.

Badminton Club Sweeps Match

Roaring into high gear in their first home match of the season, the Winchester Badminton Club swept all ten doubles competitions against Framingham on January 31, to take over undisputed first place in the North Division of the Massachusetts Badminton Association "D" League. Not only are shut-outs very rare in League competition, but no one can recall any previous occasion on which the Winchester team registered such an impressive win.

Coupled with their 6-4 victory at Needham in their opening match, Winchester's record now stands at 16 wins and four losses. The team is undefeated in ladies' doubles, has won seven out of eight mixed doubles events, and stands five-and-three in men's doubles.

The winning pairings against Framingham, and the scores by which they topped their opponents in the individual two-games-out-of three contests, were:

Men's doubles: Bill Macneill and Russ Meade (17-18, 15-2, 15-9); Al Kajander and Ed Williams (15-8, 15-8); Jay Gottesfeld and Walt Raleigh (15-1, 15-7); Brad Hersey and Paul Surette (15-12, 15-4).

Ladies' Doubles: Alison Hersey and Maxine Kajander (18-13, 15-7) Paula Di Iorio and Gloria Gottesfeld, who won their match by default.

Mixed Doubles: Ed Williams and Paula Di Iorio (15-9, 12-15, 15-4); Tom Smith and Gloria Gottesfeld (12-15, 15-2, 15-9); Bob Gallant and Stella Gallant (15-5, 15-10); Lloyd Butterfield and Lois Hersey (15-6, 15-5).

Middlesex League Hockey

Winchester, the highest scoring team in the Middlesex Hockey League, is expected to go all out in an effort to stop league leader Belmont at the North Shore Sports Center Saturday afternoon.

Winchester, sparked by its high scoring first line of Barry Johnson, Ed Cutting and George Murphy, has scored 36 goals in 10 games. Its first unit has accounted for 23 goals. Cutting has 11 and Johnson and Murphy six each.

Belmont nipped Winchester 4 to 3 in their first meeting. No other team has scored three goals against Belmont this season.

Last week Winchester was eliminated from the State Hockey Tournament when it dropped a 3 to 1 decision to Melrose for its fourth loss. Thus the thinking is that Winchester has nothing to lose and will go to extremes to play the role of a spoiler.

An interesting sidelight to the game will be the performance of Belmont goal tender Dave Crisafulli against Winchester's potent first line.

Crisafulli, one of the most highly regarded goal keepers in the state, has allowed only 11 goals for a 1.1 goal against average. He has two shutouts and holds the opposition to a single goal in six games. Wakefield managed to score two goals against him and Winchester three.

Belmont, with a four point lead over second place Melrose and its first Middlesex League championship almost within its grasp with just four games remaining, is expected to come up with another fine performance.

The league's scoring race didn't change last week. Individual leader Barry Johnson didn't play and Melrose's Paul Hurley and Winchester's Ed Cutting, tied for second place, failed to score. Johnson has 19 points and Hurley and Johnson 16.

Winchester Sets Back Lawrence Central, 43-34

Winchester won a big meet in the Northeast Conference Indoor Track series, beating Lawrence Central, 43 to 34 Monday afternoon at the Andover Academy Cage.

Things started poorly for the Sachems as Flynn and Fitzgerald of Central finished first and second in the mile in 4m 52.2s, Dave Bird of Winchester doing no better than third.

Tibor Saddler, however, Winchester's exchange student, got the Sachems back in contention with a 6:4s hurdles victory, with Central men second and third. Paul Klorer crashed through with a victory in the dash in 5.8s to keep Winchester in the money. Again Central men were second and third.

The 300 was the big race for Winchester, with the ailing Dick Lindsey returning to action to win in 36.4s with Rich Rowe running a good second. Bill Thoms ran a fine 600, winning as he pleased in 1m 22.2s. No one has pressed bouncing Bill yet.

Peckham ran a good 1000 yarder, but had to settle for third behind Moffat and McCarthy. The high jump was another good event for Winchester with Bill Graham trying for first with Flynn of Central at 5ft. 6 in. and Bill Thoms picking up an important third. Central did not have too much in the shotput and Steve Wardwell and Roger Borggaard placed 1-2 at 43ft. 3in.

Town Bowling League

Ralph Jury led his J. H. Winn team in a match against the 49ers, and gained a tie in points 4 to 4 in a hotly contested contest. Al Coleman and Bob Wilson pushed "Winn's" to the limit for the 49ers.

Converse rolled a 541, their first string, held on to the total, as the Mill Hillers grabbed the second and third strings. It was a good match with B. Perkins 113-100-110 for 323 and E. Stearns 126-99-87 for 312 for Converse. Elwood Fuller rolled the best string of the night, as he put 4 strikes together for a single of 148, which has been the third highest of the year. B. Kelley, 310, J. Callahan 310 and Fred Kimball 305, but they rolled with a dummy and gained a tie 4 to 4.

Grandma's Teeth grabbed onto first place as they stroked the Strike Lanes 8 to 0. Art Leanos 145-104-102 for 351, E. Robertson 115-95-109 for 319 and Bill Sipp 103-115-90 for 308 were the gunners. L. Ricker with 92-101-109 for 302 was high for the losers.

Atlantic Gelatin continued to make it a good race as they bombed the Hoboes 1469 to 1322. J. Nash 315 and Oscar Lovgren 306 were high for the winners. B. Cliggett with 112-97-110 for 319 was the loser's big man.

St. Mary's continues to surprise, as they took eight points from the Giant Killers, who were without B. Yonaker who is a convalescent in the hospital.

Joe Cussen rolled his way to 110-116-96 for 322 as his teammates were all up near 290, as was not the case with the Giant Killers. Their best effort was a single string of 112 by Jackie Rachels.

The Post Office took 6 points from the Brother-in-Laws as Ken Griswold with 117-99-96 for 312 was the best man here. Lennie Landry anchored the Post Office with a single of 133, a very nice effort.

The league standing is as follows:

New League For Junior Highers At Bowladrome

On Thursday January 31, the Winchester mixed Junior High bowling league got underway at the Winchester Bowladrome, 259 Swanton Street.

This league, consisting of all boys and girls of junior high age, will be held every Thursday from 3:15 to 4:30. The nominal cost includes shoes, dues and three strings of bowling.

All boys and girls interested may sign up at the Bowladrome, PA 9-9849, or contact Bill Sipp. Come one, come all.

Diplomats To Play Here Meet Faculty At Gym

The famed Harlem Diplomats, Canadian version of the Harlem Globe Trotters, will invade Winchester Saturday evening for an exhibition game in the high school gym. The Diplomats, said by many who have seen both, to be fully as good as the Globe Trotters, played in eight countries last year, and this season are booking games like crazy.

The Diplomats combine ball handling skill with clowning and a comedy touch that never fails to win their audiences. They boast two of the best ball handlers and clowns in Goose Tatem, 2nd, and Dick Harvey, both of whom are ready to show why they are consdiered to be the best young ball handlers to come out of Canada in a decade.

Facing the Diplomats will be a Faculty team recruited by "Jimsy" Phillips, coach of the high school team, who has gotten together a formidable group of players calculated to give the Diplomats a run for their money.

Faculty director of Athletics Henry Knowlton has made arrangements for advance sale of tickets at the A.A. Office Thursday and Friday. Tickets are $1.00 and it is expected that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to secure tickets in advance for what promises to be a "good take".

Lou Goddu definitely will not play in the faculty back court, and neither will Coach Knowlton. The same goes for "Mickey" Muerling, but the refereeing will be done by Frank Provinzano and Izzy Battino which should make the Diplomats tend strictly to their knitting. Frank and Izzy promise to work a "tight game" which should guarantee plenty of good basketball during the evening.

S. O. I. Bowling League

With four of its bowlers going over the 300 mark the last time out to defeat Bates 3-1, Yale has boosted itself into top position. Capt. Richie Bucci was his usual self when he rolled 132-109-115 for the night with Joe Capone close behind by hitting 132-93-128. Mike Collucci did very well with 96-82-132 as did Hokie Procopio who finished up with 90-120-94. Bates' Capt. Skitchy Fiore was up there in a losing cause with scores of 119-126-115 and his teammate Mario Mascioli hit a comfortable 85-119-107. The loss moved Bates down one notch to fifth spot.

Alabama led the pack all the way in the second half until last week when it was taken over by Notre Dame 3-1. Top performers for N. D. were Capt. Dick Tofuri 122-114-88, John Frongillo 106-107-109 and Al Repucci 99-117-105. Al Malatesta was not too far behind with 99-100-91. Emile Doucette with 90-132-96, correction Fiore with 85-98-115 and Bill Fiore with 94-101-100 did best for the defeated. Alabama now holds second place while the wire helped N. D. move up one place to ninth.

Holy Cross still maintains third place after winning over next to last place St. Mary's. Holy Cross had a good night when Capt. Moose Bellino rolled 112-101-128, Arka Amico 109-113-88 and Phil Ardagno 86-102-116. Leading bowler for St. Mary's was Joe Ciarcia who hit for 92-112-109 but the team certainly missed its captain Max LaCarrubba who sat it out after being low man the week before.

John Mangano joined the 140 club in Boston Colleges' victory over Army. John scored 104-140-103 to lead his pack with Jim Faietta doing very well rolling 104-91-119. Capt. Tony Saraco led his Army team with 101-95-114 with Woozy Giacalone and Dom Gallello finding the range for respective scores of 97-104-100 and 91-105-105.

California jumped up from eighth to sixth place after taking eighth place Harvard by a 3-1 score. Having much to do with the victory were Capt. Muskie Tofuri who had 103-98-122 and Carl Bertolucci 103-104-99. Charlie Gangi was five pins short of the 300 mark with strings of 96-119-80. Bowling well for losing Harvard were Jack MacIsaac who zeroed in for 123-109-106 and Babe Tofuri who ended up with 117-96-106.

Georgetown started the second half of the schedule quite strongly but has been slipping of late and now finds itself in seventh place after being the victims at the hands of Navy's 3-1 win last week. The win climbs Navy from eleventh to tenth spot and the big guns were choppers Gangi with 120-134-113, Roundy Fiore 93-134-94 and Paul Amico 89-112-131. Roundy had a good second string going when he connected for seven successive spares but he "froze" in trying to make them count and finally ended up with a 134. Top performer for Georgetown was Capt. Dick Trabucco with 106-119-91 and just trailing him were Joe Marrone with 104-102-105 and Chick Vespucci with 114-90-98.

Maryland has finally pulled out of cellar position when it whitewashed last place Penn 4-0. Digging in for Maryland's victory were Dan Gattinerri who knocked them over for 99-93-119, Max Di Mambro 96-110-98 and Sonny Mistretta 97-99-102. Art Dunbar led the Penn team with good scores of 97-92-128 and Capt. Jeff Gaudioso ranked second with 92-93-111.

Games attracting much attention next time out will be first place Yale vs St. Mary's, second place Alabama will take on sixth place California and third place Holy Cross is pitted against fifth place Bates.

Melrose Sets Back Winchester, 3-1, Johnson's Loss Hurt

Winchester High without Barry Johnson, league high scorer, and Ricky Conner, fell a victim to strong Melrose in a Middlesex League hockey game at the Lynn Sports Arena last Saturday afternoon. Johnson and Conner received misconduct penalties in the ill-fated Lexington game the week previous and under Middlesex rules were not permitted to play against Melrose.

Hills played a beautiful game in the Winchester nets, but Johnson's loss was a hard one, since Coach Frank Finigan had to juggle his lineup to try to compensate for the loss of his star and his boys were very tired at the end of the game.

Johnson and Conner simply tried to defend themselves from attack and in no sense deserved misconduct penalties. Once given, they could not be recalled and neither boy was permitted to play.

Melrose scored a very lucky goal after 7:04 of the first period. From a fierce melee right in front of the Winchester net first Turco and then Lennon took swipes at the puck. Sheridan then took his try and succeeded in getting the puck about two inches across the goal line. Hills had no chance at all with the pressure put on by Melrose.

Winchester knotted the count in the second period on a pretty combination play. With Melrose shorthanded Murphy went into the corner for the puck, which he passed out to the waiting Bob Murray. Murray slapped a shot past the goalie to the left to even things at 3:47.

Winchester protested the winning Melrose goal, but to no avail. At 1:29 of the last period Lennon fired in from the blue line. Hills made a great save, but Lennon continued into the net where he knocked Hills down and pinned him there. Meanwhile Turco came in behind Lennon and slapped the puck over the prostrate Hills.

The goal was allowed over Winchester's protest, and Melrose scored an insurance goal at 5:25. This goal was a honey. Sheridan took the puck on the left side and skated in. The Winchester defense converged to stop Sheridan and did so nicely.

The Melrose boy, however, passed across to Queeney who was tailing the play and he slapped the puck past Hills high into the net in the upper corner.

The summary:

Melrose—g, Quinn; ld, McBride; rd, Ambrogne; c, Turco; lw, Hurley; rw, Sheridan. Spares—Lennon, Queeney, Robinson.

Winchester—g, Hills; ld, Johns; rd, Lawson; c, Murphy; lw, Cutting; rw, O'Callaghan. Spares—Eaton, Murray.

Local Badminton League Standings

Round two of the Winchester Badminton Club Intramural League has ended with considerable shuffling of the standings. As of January 31, the teams stood as follows:

	Won	Lost	Points
Shuttles	7	4	178
Woodshots	7	4	123
Feathers	6	6	105
Racqueteers	3	9	71

On Thursday, January 24, the Shuttles and the Woodshots met in a tight battle for first place. While the Woodshots won three out of the five doubles matches and outscored the Shuttles 49-34, the Shuttles still clung to the league lead.

Winning combinations for the Woodshots were Russ Meade - Bill Macneill in the men's doubles; Bill Macneill - Maxine Kajander in the mixed doubles; and Maxine Kajander - Lois Hersey in the ladies' doubles. Victorious Shuttle pairings were Paul Surette - George Peabody in the men's and George Peabody - Aggie Bixler in the mixed.

On Tuesday, January 29, the Feathers dominated their match with the Racqueteers, capturing five of the six doubles combinations. In piling up 93 points, which pulled them into third place, the Feathers won both mixed doubles matches when Ed Williams - Marj Moore and Al Kajander - Alison Hersey topped their opponents. marj Moore - Alison Hersey took the ladies' doubles, as did Ed Williams - Al Kajander and Walt Raleigh - Peter Gove in the men's.

The Recqueteers earned their 20 points when Brad Hersey - Lou Dexter won the third men's doubles.

Sachems Bow To Melrose In Double-Overtime Game

Making a great bid for a come from behind victory, the Winchester High School basketball team fell short in the second overtime period losing to Melrose, the league leaders, 74-70.

Melrose jumped out to 8-2 lead on the shooting of Tom Dougherty, but the Sachems cut the lead to 10-8 as they finally seemed to get going. Again Melrose built up their lead, led by Len Locke, to take an 18-10 lead. Sachem Mike O'Dair sank a long one hander just before the period ended, to make the score 18-12.

The Sachems cut the lead to 18-16 as the second quarter started, on the shooting of Bob Watson. Melrose led by the fine playmaking of Dave Smith, built up their lead again as they took a 32-26 halftime lead.

As the second half began, the Sachems fought hard to close the lead, but Melrose led by the fine shooting of Tom Dougherty played steady ball, taking a 47-41 lead going into the fourth period.

The Sachems led by Vic Papadinis shooting, closed the lead to 47-46 as the fourth quarter got underway. Melrose forward Bob Barclay hit a jump shot to give his team a 49-46 lead. Sachem Vic Papadinis stole a Melrose pass to make the score 49-48.

The Sachems took the lead 50-49 when Papadinis hit a jumper from the line. Melrose tied the score 50-50 on a foul shot by Dave Smith. The Sachems lost the ball and Melrose's Bob Barclay put his team ahead 52-50. Sachem Pete Fahey tide the score 52-52 on a jumper from the corner.

The Sachems tightened their defense and held Melrose in check while on offense the Sachems, led by Vic Papadinis and Pete Fahey took a 56-52 lead. Tom Dougherty hit a foul shot and Bill Voss hit for a 3 point play as Melrose tied the score at 56-56. Tom Dougherty then put Melrose ahead 58-56 sinking 2 foul shots. Sachem Pete Fahey hit two foul shots with 1:30 seconds left to tie the score 58-58. Bob Barclay then hit for 4 straight points to put his team ahead 62-58.

The Sachems then hit two foul shots to make the score 62-60 with 30 seconds left. Then guard Mike O'Dair stole the ball and the Sachems tied the game as Vic Papadinis hit a jump shot with 8 seconds left. Melrose couldn't get a good shot off and regulation time ran out, with the score 62-62.

Len Locke put Melrose ahead 64-62 as the overtime period started. Melrose forward Tom Dougherty committed his 5 fouls with 2:07 left in the overtime period. Sachem Pete Fahey sank a foul shot to make the score 64-63. The Sachems then took the lead on two foul shots by Vic Papadinis 65-64. Melrose's Len Locke put his team ahead 66-65 on a lay up with 1:30 left.

The Sachems then scored 4 straight points on a basket by Vic Papadinis and two foul shots by Jim Devaney, to take a 69-66 lead. Melrose's Bob Barclay sank two foul shots with 50 seconds left, to make the score 69-68. The Sachems tried to freeze the ball, but Melrose's Dave Smith picked off a Sachem pass with 25 seconds left. With 10 seconds left Len Locke drove in for a lay up to put Melrose ahead 70-69.

The Sachems lost the ball with 3 seconds left, but Bill Voss of Melrose was fouled with 1 second left. Occurring at the same time, was a technical foul against Voss for shoving Branley. Voss missed his shot, and Branley went to the line to shoot the technical. He sank the shot to tie the score 70-70. Time ran out, thus bringing about a second overtime.

Melrose scored at the 2:20 second mark of the overtime when Bob Barclay sank two foul shots to give his team a 72-70 lead. This was all that was needed as Bob Harnett added a basket just before the time ran out, as the Sachems lost a thriller.

Tom Dougherty led the winners with 24 points, followed by Len Locke with 18 points, while Vic Papadinis led the Sachems with 23 points, of which 21 were in the second half.

Sachems Lose To Reading

The Winchester High School basketball team lost to Reading last Friday by a score of 53-50. John Beeman's layup with 30 seconds left gave Reading a come-from-behind victory.

The Sachems led by Vic Papadinis jumped out to a 12-4 lead, but Reading closed the gap to 17-10 as the first quarter ended.

As the second quarter got underway, the Sachems led by Mike O'Dair increased their lead to 27-15. Reading steadily ate away at the Sachem's lead, cutting it to 32-24 as the half ended.

Reading cut the Sachems lead to four points, on two quick baskets by Tom Kelly as the third period began. The Sachems tried to add to their lead, but the hot shooting of Reading's Rich Baxter and Tom Kelly kept the Sachems from breaking away, with the score 44-40 at the end of the third quarter.

Reading pressed the Sachems as the fourth period began and closed the lead to 46-44. The Sachems scored a quick basket to make the score 48-44. Reading's Rick Baxter sank two foul shots to cut the lead to 48-46 with two minutes left. The Sachems lost the ball out of bounds and Reading's Paul Romano was fouled. He sank the free throw, to make the score 48-47.

Sachem Jim Devaney gave the Sachems a 50-47 lead with 1:30 left, on a jump shot from the right corner. Readings Tom Kelly made the score 50-49 with one minute left on a set shot from the right of the key hole. The Sachems tried to freeze the ball, but Reading's Paul Romano intercepted a pass and fed the ball to John Beeman who hit a lay up, to give Reading a 51-50 lead.

The Sachems brought the ball up and missed their shot. Reading froze the ball until with 10 seconds left, Beeman again hit another layup, to give his team a 53-50 victory.

VFW Post 3719 Auxiliary Bowling

Where do all you girls get all your energy? Let me in on your secret please, I need it. Maybe this cold weather agrees with you. Those bowling scores this week were simply wonderful.

Phyllis nearly reached the 300 mark. She rolled 294. Lucy was very close behind with 287 and Stina third with 278. High single string to Stina with 116. High single for the first half was 114, Stina. Phyllis and Marie each had a 110 string and Lucy had a 105 string.

In their match, the Spades won all four points from the Diamonds. The Diamonds with two members out put up a very good battle however, Rose can be proud of her team.

The Hearts and Clubs split two and two. The Hearts took the first string by four pins and the second by one pin. Nellie's 98 in the third was the winning point for the Clubs, agreed? Not very many bowlers can get two spares in a row, Nellie, but you did it!

Have you noticed the way Ruthie bowls? She rolls the ball nice and easy, then turns her back on the ball and the pins fall all over the place. Marguerite O. keeps on improving. Your total this week was your highest yet, Marguerite. Keep up the good work. Peggy's lucky (or is it unlucky) number is four. Could it be that you are trying too hard?

Valentine Dance Is Planned By K. of C. for Feb. 9

The Winchester Knights of Columbus will conduct their monthly Social Night on Saturday evening February 9. The coming social will be Ladies Night with dancing from 8:00 to 11:45 p.m.

Dick Errico and his orchestra will provide the music at this Valentine's Dance. Refreshments will be served.

Co-Chairmen Norman Doucette and Robert J. Sullivan, Jr., and other committee members have planned for a very enjoyable evening for all at the Valentine Social which will be the last such event by the K of C before Lent. Tickets may be purchased at the door on February 9.

Maksoud says:
THE '63 LINES ARE HERE!

Yes, like automobiles there are '63 models in carpeting, too! February is when they're all introduced. We've selected only the best in each price range. We do this so that when you come into our showroom we'll have just what you want at the price you want to pay.

You'll be happy to know that we've tested everything according to our rigid quality control system. We test for staining, test for washing qualities and we test for durability. We'll stand behind everything we sell.

Why don't you come on in: there are over 200 new qualities in over 2,000 new colors to choose from in both wool and nylon broadloom. And by the way, we also have recent Oriental rug purchases from nine countries.

St. Mary's Rolls 5-0; Manzie Nets Two

Sensational goaltending by Paul McCarthy and Kevin Connor coupled with a four point performance by Frank Manzie gave St. Mary's a 5-0 victory over St. Ann's of Peabody and assured the local club of second place finish with only one game remaining in the current campaign.

John Stabile opened the scoring wen he took Manzie's lead pass and scored a fluke goal which bounded in off the stick of the Peabody goalie. Just twenty-seven seconds after this initial counter Frank Manzie and Dennis Griffin combined to give their club a two goal lead. Griffin intercepted a Peabody pass at mid-ice and sent Manzie in all alone. The hustling left winger came right down the middle and slapped the puck into the Peabody goal.

As the period came to a close Peabody began to control the puck long enough to get two breakaways on the Winchester goal. Both attempts were thwarted by McCarthy's sprawling saves.

Early in the second frame the Winchester defense was caught up ice and two Peabody players broke in unmolested on the St. Mary's goal but McCarthy came up with a scintillating stop on the initial shot and recovered in time to make a Carcenous skate save on the rebound attempt.

This was St. Ann's last good scoring opportunity of the period as St. Mary's completely dominated the remainder of the period with Dennis Griffin and Frank Manzie providing the club with a 4-0 lead. Griffin's goal was a low slap shot into a screen with Manzie and Cunningham collecting assists. Two minutes later it was Griffin who set up Manzie for his second tally of the contest.

In the final frame Peabody took advantage of a Winchester penalty to get two more scoring opportunities. This time it was Kevin Connor who successfully stopped both bids to preserve the shutout. This was the second shutout in three games for the goaltending duo of McCarthy and Connor.

Although St. Mary's had the game on ice, Frank Hession, Bob Nannene and John Moran combined beautifully to put the frosting on the cake with one of the prettiest goals of the year. The play began with Nannene feeding a sideboard pass to Moran who moved down the right side, pulled the goalie to the pipe and, with a defense man draped all over him, successful in sliding a pass over to Frank Hession who jammed the disc into a completely empty cage to round out the scoring.

Next Sunday at 12:00 noon St. Mary's opposes East Boston in their final game of the regular season. The following week St. Mary's faces off against an opponent yet to be named in the quarter finals of the league's play-off series.

Women's S.O.I. Bowling

Sue Barbaro was very excited with her two spares. From her expression one could see how surprised she was. Love the way "Little Angie" jumps around. Wish she got strikes all the time, she makes everyone so happy.

The Kents are the team of the week. I hope they are ready. Capt. Cusi Fiore is a joy to have on one's team. They like you for yourself, not because you are "chairlady." You make us all jealous because we don't have your energy.

Florence Ciarcia is so nice we have elected her "Mama" for everybody. If I started to write all the nice things there are about her I would have to write a book.

Evie Giacalone, from now on you will be known as "Wrong Way Corrigan." She can't keep the ball going in the right direction. Margaret Maggio will be "Auntie" for the group, although she jumps around like a youngster. Glad to see you in action.

I see the Newports are back in first place. Come on, girls, give them a run for their money.

Glad to see Ginger back on the top ten list.

Heard the girls had quite a trip when they went for trophies. Emma, did you put ice skates on the wheels? Don't know why your passengers couldn't tell you it wasn't a parking lot. Nora, somebody told me you were all wet. Cusi, is your knee better? Is anybody going to sue? Emma is loaded.

Don't forget the Bloodmobile Monday, February 25, from 1 to 7. Let's see if we can't have a large turnout. By Wednesday you will feel 100 per cent better and will bowl like a whiz.

We are going to have a raffle February 13 for you know what. Bring lots of money.

There are only eight more weeks to join the 100 Club. Let's get going.

Registration Now For March Merit Scholarship Test

All 1964 class members of Winchester High School who wish to enter the 1963-64 National Merit Scholarship competition should register now at the school office, W. Howard Niblock, principal, has just announced.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be given in the school at 9 a.m., Saturday, March 9, 1963. Students who will graduate from high school in 1964 and enter college in the same calendar year are eligible for scholarship consideration in the 1963-64 Merit Program.

To receive consideration, the student must take the test when it is offered in his school. Participating students pay a small fee on the day of the test. Any interested student who is unable to pay the fee should consult Mr. Niblock.

Awards in the Merit Program are granted on the basis of intellectual merit, but student financial needs determine the amount of individual stipends. The stipends are renewable each year without further testing.

A student's performance on the qualifying test also provides him with information that is useful in career planning or in selecting courses in high school and college, Mr. Niblock said, as after the test, each participating student receives an interpretive folder prepared by Science Research Associates, the testing agency, that reports individual test results for comparison with scores of high school students across the country. Thus, students can learn more about their educational strengths and weaknesses, whether or not they plan to attend college.

Professor Hurlbut To Speak To Mineral Club

On Thursday evening, February 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Library's Rich Room, the Winchester Children's Mineral Club will hold a winter meeting.

PROF. C. S. HURLBUT

At this meeting Professor Cornelius S. Hurlbut, Jr. of the department of mineralogy at Harvard, an expert on the crystalline structure of minerals, will speak. In addition, many youngsters will receive awards for the year. The public is invited to attend.

Professor Hurlbut is the author of "Minerals and How to Study Them" (1949) and "Manual of Mineralogy" (1959).

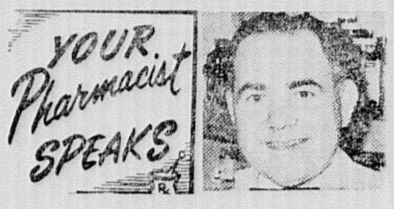
He also is a fellow of the Geological Society of America and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and is president of the Mineralogical Society of America. He is vice-president of the Cambridge Thermionic Corporation.

Forum Sponsoring International Weekend

The fifteenth annual International Weekend of the Senior Forum of First Congregational Church will be held this Saturday and Sunday. International students from several colleges in the Greater Boston will be guests of Forum families overnight Saturday and for Sunday dinner. An American-style pot-luck supper will be held at the church Saturday night which will be followed by a brief program of entertainment and an evening devoted to square dancing under the direction of Dud Briggs of Belmont who has been a "regular" at these weekends for many years.

Under the general direction of Scott Erskine and Janet Niles, co-chairmen, and the counsel of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kimball Archibald week-end advisers, the arrangements are being completed by many committees as follows: fellowship hour Saturday, May Mumma, chairman; decorations, Ruth Beckley and Jeffrey Russell, co-chairmen; mimeographing, Debbie Gay; table setters, Janet Millican; waiters, Carolyn Kell and David Bird; hall committee, art work committee; Forum flashes, Charles Baldwin; Sunday fellowship hour, Carol Brink. Scott Erskine will assist the ministers of the church in the 11:00 o'clock Forum at Church service on Sunday. A corps of Forum boys will serve as deacons and ushers. The Forum Choir will join forces with the Church Choir to provide music for the service.

With young people from around the world sharing the fellowship of American homes and American young people sharing the hospitality and the program of the church of which they are members, such an International Weekend is productive of long-range effects in building understanding between people of the world. It is not unusual for families who have entertained such international students to continue the contacts through many years. In its quiet way such an international gesture strengthens the forces making for a world of goodwill and peace.



By: Fred McCormack

The discovery of penicillin was one of those strange, magical accidents quite common in the world of science. A vagrant spore carried out of nowhere on air currents settled on a plate of germ culture being studied by bacteriologist Alexander Fleming in 1928.

The mold left by the mysterious spore intrigued Fleming less than a strange halo surrounding the mold itself. Study revealed that within this ringlike halo all germlife was destroyed.

It wasn't until 1941 that others managed to produce enough concentrated penicillin — less than a teaspoonful—to try on a human being. This amount was tragically small as far as the first patient was concerned, but sufficient to disclose the astounding potential of the new drug.

The newest and best in drugs and medical supplies of all types are available at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY. Accurate and professionally-filled prescriptions are assured at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

Tuesday Morning Sewing Group

DJAMIR MAKERS. Members of the Church of the Epiphany Tuesday morning sewing group who volunteered to make 20 children's "djamirs," pullover outer garments used to clothe women and children in the remote mountain regions of Algeria. Interrupted in their work are Mrs. F. W. Dreektrade, Mrs. Edmund Wright, Mrs. Kate Shoemaker, Mrs. Fred Cameron and Mrs. Victor Voges.

Local Sewers Are Making "Djamirs" For Algerians

A "djamir" is not exactly a pajama. It's a pullover type outer garment made of cotton flannel worn by refugee women and children in the remote mountain regions of Algeria. The traditional-style clothing comes in bright hues of yellow, blue, mustard and green, with a large bloomer of unbleached cotton, called a "serewal," completing the outfit.

The Winchester Red Cross made an appeal for home stitchers and sewing groups to help in a special project to provide clothes for Algerian refugee children, setting a goal of 150 garments.

The Church of the Epiphany Tuesday morning sewing group, under the direction of Mrs. Donald M. Wright, is now working on 20 of these children's djamirs.

Also among the individuals who are sewing them at home are: Mrs. James Wakefield, Mrs. Francis E. Smith, Mrs. Stanley Howe, Mrs. Hugh J. Grimes, Mrs. Raymond Holdsworth, Mrs. Peter T. Dale, and Mrs. Gerald R. Barrett.

More than 1,000 out of a total of 6,500 garments assigned to the Boston area have already been completed, but more help is needed to speed production so that the clothes can be finished and sent to Algeria to be of help to refugees. The local chapter of the Red Cross has aksed for more volunteers to help meet the goal of 150 outfits for Winchester. (Volunteers may telephone PA 9-2300)

The American Red Cross has appropriated $50,000 for the necessary materials for the djamirs at the request of the International Red Cross Relief committee.

Sewing programs have been launched in several other countries as well by national societies, including Denmark, Finland and Sweden.

With the bad winter weather steadily worsening the situation in the newly independent Algeria the Red Cross has been hard put to keep up with the needs of the people there. Distribution of clothing and blankets have begun, but present supplies are far from answering the needs. Teams of women are trained there by the Red Cross and are sorting used clothing to make up adequate outfits for the men, women and children.

A mammoth vaccination program is being carried on by 16 mobile units staffed by first aiders recruited from Canada, Great Britain and Switzerland. Several cases of typhoid have been reported.

Monthly rations are being distributed to over two million persons, about half the population. And a program for supplying tools and seeds to help the Algerians become self-supporting as rapidly as possible is being planned.

Democratic Notes

The local town committee has received praise and thanks from the several successful candidates in the recent election. It is always gratifying to have one's efforts recognized and one's work appreciated.

Plans are rapidly taking shape toward the successful carrying out of the Committee's Irish Night which will be held on Sunday evening March 17, in the Elks' Hall. Select Irish films will be shown and the entertainment will be wholly of an Irish nature as befits the feast day.

Mrs. Bee Wilson, chairman of this social evening, held a meeting of her committee last evening and the details of the arrangements arrived at will be published in next week's Star. Mrs. Helen Nadeau is co-chairman and Mrs. Anna Notemyer will assist the co-chairmen in planning the refreshments.

Civil War Group Annual Study Of Abraham Lincoln

The Winchester Civil War Study Group will meet in the Winchester Public Library on Wednesday, February 13 at 7:45 p.m.

In accordance with custom, this meeting will be devoted to Abraham Lincoln. There will be a round table discussion in tribute to his memory. All men interested are invited to attend and participate if they so desire.

Cub Pack Awards

On Wednesday, February 6, Cub Scout Pack 524, sponsored by Parkhurst School Parents' Association, held their monthly pack meeting.

Den skits on Freedom were presented by Dens 2, 3, 5, and 7, under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Malloy, Mrs. Rita Manoogian, Mrs. Joan Walsh, and Mrs. Mary Vitka, respectively. Den displays were made on the Freedom theme by Dens 1, 4, and 6, under the direction of Mrs. Marge Petterson, Mrs. Mary MacLeod, and Mrs. Shirley Sullivan, respectively.

Awards chairman, Ed Micozzi, gave out to the following boys the badges they earned in the previous month:

Craig Holt, Wolf Badge, Gold Arrow and 2 Silver Arrows
Daniel Sullivan, Wolf Badge
Jay Vitka, Wolf Badge
Chris Pacetti, Wolf Badge
James Ricercato, Gold Arrow and Silver Arrow
Bruce Mullen, Gold Arrow and Silver Arrow
Gary Walsh, Wolf Badge
Michael Deshler, Bear Badge, Gold Arrow and Silver Arrow
Danny Meyer, Gold Arrow and Silver Arrow
Bob Swanson, Silver Arrow
Marc Micozzi, Silver Arrow and Gold Arrow
William Malloy, Wolf Badge
Bob Petterson, Bear Badge

Also at the pack meeting service pins were awarded to those boys who were in the pack last year, and denner stripes were issued to the denners and assistant denners.

It was announced that the boys of Pack 524 will have a swimming party on Saturday, February 9, at the Somerville YMCA. All boys will meet at Vinson-Owen School at 2:00 p.m. Saturday.

'62 Town Financial Position 'Healthy'; Is 3-A Credit Rate

At this time of year, with the annual Town Warrant Meeting a mere month away, Winchester residents begin to wonder what the financial condition of the town is, whether the town can afford the great expenses that would be asked of its treasury if all the warrant articles should happen to get passed, and the taxpayer in them gets jittery that the tax rate might climb more than just a dollar or two higher than last year's seemingly intolerable level.

While the latter two are speculative problems at this point, the town's financial picture at the end of the year 1962 should please and relax even the most conscientious of town worrywarts.

"Winchester's financial credit rating position within the Commonwealth is excellent," James J. Costello, town accountant, told the Star yesterday. "In fact," he said, "Winchester is one of just six towns in the state that enjoy a Triple-A financial credit rating."

During the year 1962 the town did not borrow any money, paid off $295,000 of its debt, and increased its assessed valuation. "Therefore, the town's financial picture is very healthy from the point of view of debt," Mr. Costello said.

During 1962 the town took in $221,139 in revenues more than it spent, so the town had an operating surplus for the year as well. In the past three years both the surplus revenue and the free cash remaining available for town appropriation has stayed at a "stable and substantial level," according to Mr. Costello, and this has contributed to the excellent financial condition of the town.

A brief and general breakdown of the town's fiscal accounting during 1962 will show how the town arrived at its present healthy financial condition.

The cash balance on hand at the beginning of the year 1962 was $1,231,773. The cash receipts to the town treasury during the year was $7,408,065. Subtracting the town's operating and administrative expenditures of $7,440,510, the new cash balance at the end of 1962 is $1,199,328.

The operating surplus figure of $221,139 was realized when the town estimated it would take in and spend $5,700,000 for the operating budget. (An extra $1,700,000 was in the town's appropriation for other than the actual administrative costs of running the town, and this is included in the total estimated income and expenditures for the year.) However, instead of spending the estimated $5,700,000, the town spent $5,581,616, or $118,383 less than was anticipated. In addition, instead of receiving $5,700,000, the town took in $5,801,755, or $101,755 more than was expected.

FINANCIAL POSITION, to p. 7

Rapid Reduction Of Town Debt Is Seen in 3 Years

The town debt has been rapidly amortized, or decreased, at the rate of $295,000 a year during the past three years through Town Meeting appropriations. As of the end of 1962, the debt had been reduced to $3,450,000. In 1961 it had been $3,745,000; and in 1960 it had been $4,040,000.

As the size of the debt has been substantially decreased each year, and as simultaneously each year the town's assessed valuations have risen, the town's legal borrowing debt limit has greatly increased—and along with it both the town's credit capacity and ability to borrow if the need should arise.

A town's cumulative debt limit is set by state law at 5 per cent of a town's average net valuations of real estate, personal property and motor vehicles for the preceding three years. (This is a conservative approach by the state at keeping cities and towns fiscally sound.)

Town's cannot legally borrow more money than the 5 per cent restriction allows, although some exceptions are made. One exception is the law which permits borrowing outside the normal legal limit for school construction, and Winchester availed itself of this provision to construct the two new schools it now has.

Winchester's normal legal debt limit for 1960 should have been $2,749,585. However, its debt was $4,040,000. $1,915,000 was above and therefore considered outside of the debt limit. Subtracting the outside limit from the total debt left $2,125,000 in balance. The difference between the normal 1960 debt limit of $2,749,585 and the balance left from the total minus the outside, or $2,125,000, left a remainder of $624,385 as the town's new borrowing capacity for that year.

The normal legal debt limit for 1961 should have been $2,863,074. However, its debt was then $3,745,000. $1,795,000 was the new above and outside debt limit figure after the $295,000 amortization was paid. Subtracting the outside limit from the total debt left $1,950,000 in balance. The difference between the normal 1961 debt limit of $2,863,074 and the balance left from the total minus the outside, or $1,795,000, left a remainder of $913,074 as the town's new borrowing capacity for that year.

And finally for 1962, when the legal limit should have been $2,973,256, the debt was $3,450,000 at the end of the year. $1,675,000 was the new above and outside debt limit figure after amortization payment. Subtracting the outside limit from the total debt left $1,775,000 in balance. The difference between the normal 1962 debt limit of $2,973,256 and the balance left from the total minus the out-

BENEATH THE MOON FIREFIGHTERS LABOR FURIOUSLY to get into the burning house at 54 Canal Street trying to rescue Mrs. Frances Conlon. The Sunday night fire was not discovered until the blaze was a raging inferno. Firemen, police and doctors valiantly attempted to save the widow's life, but the team's efforts failed. Mrs. Conlon was the first Winchester resident to lose her life in a fire here in 23 years.

1963 Town Meeting Member Candidates Polled On Warrant

When the Winchester League of Women Voters announced to the Star that it intended to get informational background on the candidates running for Town Meeting Members, including their education, occupation, and activities in town affairs, the Star requested that the League also include a questionnaire seeking opinions or positions of the candidates on eight of the 64 articles on the 1963 Town Warrant.

The eight articles selected were thought to be of particular importance to the whole town, not to any single precinct. The League was very cooperative in helping the Star conduct the candidates opinion poll, and the results are now being printed.

The Star and the League are well aware of the deliberative nature of the Representative Town Meeting. Therefore, the statements of opinion should be interpreted as simply that, not as a definite promise or commitment as to how any one candidate will ultimately vote. Most of the candidates will participate in precinct debates and will weigh carefully the recommendations of the Finance Committee and other official town boards. For this reason, in some instances, it is a good sign that for some of the questions some candidates have answered either "undecided," or else have given their reason for not having answered the questionnaire.

The eight warrant articles selected by the Star as particularly significant to the whole town and recommending themselves to a Town Meeting Member opinion poll were as follows.

New Town Office Created, Leg. OK's Comptroller Bill

The House of Representatives enacted Wednesday afternoon and sent to the Senate for enactment House Bill 1130, which will establish the office of Comptroller in Winchester and abolish the position of Town Accountant.

The bill filed by Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Everett Avenue, was approved in the House on Tuesday February 5, when the Joint Legislative Committee on Cities and Towns gave it its favorable recommendation after a public hearing in the State House on Tuesday, January 29.

From the House the bill went to the Senate where it met no opposition and was speedily approved.

The bill as submitted was then sent to the Secretary of State's office to be engrossed, i.e., put into final parchment form. Yesterday it was returned to the House for final approval, or enactment. It then went to the Senate for its final approval and enactment.

All that remains before the bill becomes an official act of the Legislature is for the Governor to sign it into law.

Town Attitude To Be Study Subject Of Jaycee Survey

A town attitude survey will be conducted in Winchester during the next month by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. Joseph W. Saylor, chairman of the survey committee, cited the purpose of the canvass. "This survey is being conducted as a service to the town. It is expected to point out key problem areas of the town; areas where improvements are needed. It should also show what is good in Winchester. Results of the survey will be analyzed and made public through the Winchester Star. The Jaycees will then assist in making improvements where possible, either directly or by action through local officials."

The survey will be conducted through four weeks, February 15-March 15. Members of the Jaycees will contact by phone those families chosen at random to be interviewed. They will arrange an appointment with the head of each household to be interviewed. The individual survey time should not take more than fifteen minutes.

Additions to Last Week's Star List Of '63 Candidates

The Town Clerk's office has announced that the following candidates for town offices should be added to the list of candidates printed in last week's Star.

Eugene B. Rotondi of 224 Forest Street is running against Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road for a five year term vacancy on the five-man Planning Board. Neil H. Borden of 58 Winford Way is running for election to a three year term on the board.

John J. Barry of 1 Euclid Avenue, Arthur W. Pratt of 1 Salisbury Street, and Philip P. Wadsworth of 66 Oxford Street are running for two three-year openings on the six-man Board of Trustees of the Public Library.

Joseph P. Abdella of 439 Washington Street, Leo F. Roche, Jr. of 26 Sargent Road, and Francis E. Smith of 1 Wolcott Terrace are running for election to fill a single three year term vacancy as Commissioner of Trust Funds.

Elsie M. Nelson is running for reelection to the office of Town Clerk.

To the original list of Town Meeting Member candidates should be added the following names: Edward E. Hicks, Precinct One; R. Francis Haley and Harry L. Wood, Precinct Two; and Warren E. Carley, Precinct Five.

The Town Clerk also announced that there is a one year vacancy for Town Meeting Member in Precincts Two and Five and a two year vacancy in Precinct Six.

Mardi Gras Ball Has Imaginative Couples

Last Friday night over one hundred gaily and imaginatively costumed couples attended the pre-Lenten Mardi Gras Ball of the St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club in St. Mary's Hall.

The revelers participated in a Grand March down a palm-lined Bourbon Street to pay homage to their King and Queen, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Fiske. Dazzling beauties walked hand in hand with convicts, and peasants with royalty.

Following the promenade the judging committee, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. James O'Neill announced their prize awards. Mrs. John Dolan, costumed as an Indian Maharanee, was awarded the prize for having the prettiest costume. She was escorted by her husband, Mr. John Dolan, appropriately dressed as an Indian Mararajah complete with turban and medals.

Mrs. Fred Cause in the masquerade of "Mr. Muscles" with bulging biceps was chosen as having the funniest costume. The prize for the most original costume went to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins and their live chicken. Mr. Collins representing Castro complete with chicken and Mrs. Collins being costumed as Mr. Khrushchev.

A most spectacular and thrilling sight during the Grand March was the promenade of Mr. and Mrs. James Dobbins and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cullen. The two couples depicting the "Spirit of '76," complete with Old Glory, drum and fife. Another unique couple were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Perkins. Mr. Perkins dressed in a tuxedo escorted his wife, beautifully costumed as the lovely Madame Butterfly.

Raging Blaze Kills Mrs. F. Conlon, First Local Fire Death In 23 Years

Funeral services were held this morning for Mrs. Frances T. Conlon, 70, who died in a conflagration that enveloped and destroyed her home at 54 Canal Street on Sunday night. She was the first person to lose her life in a fire in Winchester in 23 years.

Mrs. Conlon was alone in her home when the fire broke out. Robert Conlon, who was living with his mother, had left the home shortly after 9 p.m. to go to work for the evening. Fire officials estimated that the fire, which started in a first floor lounge room, blazed for some time before being spotted by a neighbor.

One fire officer said the widow apparently had been resting or sleeping in her bedroom, which was directly above the lounge. Her first indication that there was a fire was probably in seeing the flames leaping up past her window on the outside of the house, he said. She then went to the stairs to leave the house, he guessed, and unable to get past the fire, she went to the front bedroom where there was a telephone to call for help. She was later found in that room, a victim of asphyxiation.

The two and a half story wooden frame house was completely gutted by the intense fire. Fire Chief James E. Callahan estimated the damage at over $20,000. A representative from the state fire marshal's office said the probable cause of the fire was careless disposal of smoking materials.

The fire was first observed by a neighbor at about 9:40 p.m. Mrs. Mary Saraco of 62 Water Street saw from her house the Conlon home aflame. Since she did not know the telephone number at the fire station, she called the police.

The police alerted the fire department and at the same time sent a radio car that was cruising in the vicinity to the fire scene.

The firefighters manned Engines 3 and 4, and the Ladder and Rescue Trucks, and started down Mt. Vernon Street and up Main Street toward Canal Street.

Meanwhile Police Officers Mario Buzzotta and Donald Pigott had arrived at the burning building. They tried to force their way into the front entrance of the house but were unable to get past the intense heat and smoke.

At this time the fire engines had reached the corner of Main and Canal Street. Captain Michael Connolly, acting fire officer until Chief Callahan arrived a few minutes later, said: "On the way to the fire we could see the glow of the house fire on the horizon from Main Street, and while traveling along Canal Street balls of flame and smoke coming from the burning house were visible."

"It seemed apparent," the captain said, "that it was unlikely that any human life could still be living in that inferno at that time from the way the house was totally engulfed in fire and smoke."

All the rooms on the first floor facing Farrow Street were ablaze and the entire house was charged with smoke. The fire had already extended from a first floor room through windows to the exterior of the house. The siding, eaves and shingles on the roof were afire.

"When we arrived," Captain Connolly said, "Officer Buzzotta and Health Agent Saraco were at the front door of the house and shouted to us that they thought there was someone in the house."

Normally the firefighters would have connected their hose lines as soon as possible and started combating the fire, Captain Connolly explained, "but since there were occupants there we had to go after them immediately in the hope that there might be a chance of finding and rescuing them.

Captain Connolly ordered most of the personnel on the trucks to enter the house immediately, breaking doors and windows, and trying to beat a path through the fire with a charged one and a half-inch hose line. A few firemen remained behind to hook other hoses onto nearby hydrants and raise ladders.

The Ladder Truck was positioned at the corner of Farrow and Canal Streets and the aerial ladder raised near the roof. One man went up this ladder to open up the roof to vent the fire.

In regular firefighting attacks, firemen attempt to open up and vent a fire from above the fire base as quickly as possible to draw flames and smoke out so that the fire can be reached and fought below. In this case, where two persons were believed still in the burning building, the firefighters dispensed with fighting the fire first, and concentrated on finding and saving the occupants—which is their primary responsibility in such a situation.

Cheif Callahan ordered a second alarm sounded by radio at 9:52 p.m.

Additional apparatus and men from mutual aid towns responded to the second alarm, including Woburn, Arlington and Medford. Off-duty Winchester firefighters living in that section of town came to the fire and aided their comrades in attempting to subdue the fire enough to get into and through the house to get at the occupant. Auxiliary firemen also showed up to help, as did additional police officers and neighbors.

At approximately the same time the firefighters arrived, William Conlon, son of the owner, arrived from his nearby Lake Street home. He had heard the alarm for fire box 44, and knowing this to be the vicinity of his mother's home, he rushed to the house.

Finance Committee's Report Nearly Done

The Finance Committee goes to press early next week with its report to the town on its recommendations regarding articles to come before the annual Town Meeting.

In addition to sub-committee meetings planned for Saturday, two full meetings were planned this week. One on Tuesday evening went beyond midnight and another scheduled for tonight is expected to go even further into the morning hours.

This week's schedule will bring them down to the wire in work which must precede their official decisions, which are due to be in the hands of Town Meeting members a week before the March 14 Town Meeting.

The 15 members of the Finance Committee man nine investigatory sub-committees averaging about three sub-committees a person. This brings the estimated total man hours per peak week volunteered by the committee as a whole in the job of watchdogging the town's financial health to about 175 hours.

At Tuesday night's meeting the committee again met with the Selectmen in a run-through of warrant articles on many of which the Selectmen had not yet firmed their own stand. They ended the evening with two members of the School Committee.

A review of Highway Department capital outlay requests with the Selectmen evoked consideration of the possible value to the town of a centralized maintenance review agent for both buildings and motor power equipment.

General employee salary raise discussion again centered on the

WHS Track Team Ends Season In Tie for Title

Winchester High completed its indoor track season successfully Monday afternoon by beating strong St. Mary's of Lynn, 40 to 31 in a real hat-hoister to finish tied with Wakefield for the Northeast Conference Title.

The relay race decided the issue and Winchester's crack quartet of Dick Lindsey, Paul Klorer, Rich Rowe and Billy Thoms ran a record smashing team race to bring victory to the local team.

Lindsey ran a scorching first leg, finishing ten yards in front, and Paul Klorer added slightly to this advantage. Rich Rowe also gained slightly on the St. Mary's third runner, getting Bill Thoms away about 15 yards to the good. With that lead and running beautifully, Thoms won the race in a record-breaking 3 min. 25.2s.

Jon Buckley and Dave Bird got Winchester off to a good start by finishing first and second in a slow five minute mile.

Tibor Saddler, Winchester's exchange student, ran a record, equalling 6.3s in the hurdles, and Paul Klorer won the sprint in 5.8s.

Dick Lindsey led the field in the 300, a race that saw Richie Rowe disqualified for bumping a St. Mary's boy coming off the first turn. Since Rowe was merely trying to pass the Lynn runner, which he had a perfect right to do, it would seem that throwing him out of the race was pretty drastic. Rich finished a close second.

Bill Thoms, Winchester's record-holding quarter miler, lost his first dual meet race of the season when he was edged by Knudsen in the record equalling time of 1m. 19.8s.

Jeff Peckham and Dick Amoroso finished second and third behind Collins of Lynn, and the Sachems were swept in the shot, won by the 230 pound Lipson of St. Mary's in a record-smashing 47ft. 8¾ in.

In the high jump, Bill Graham, patently off form, placed second, and Bill Thoms, third, in a 5ft. 6in. event, won by Hogan.

Winchester's win left the Sachems tied with the Wakefield Warriors, each having won seven of eight meets. Wakefield beat Winchester in a hotly contested meet earlier in the season, but lost in turn to Lawrence Central Catholic, a team Winchester beat rather handily.

Two records were tied and two broken during Monday's meet. The summary:

Obituaries

Mrs. Frances Teresa Conlon

Mrs. Frances Teresa Conlon, widow of Thomas William Conlon and a life-long resident of Winchester, died Sunday night in the fire that destroyed her home at 54 Canal Street. Mrs. Conlon was found in the house by firefighters who took her over ladders to the ground. She was rushed to the Winchester Hospital where she was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Mrs. Conlon came from a family prominent in Winchester. She was the daughter of Patrick, and Mary (Conway) Noonan, and was born in Winchester May 6, 1892. She attended the Winchester schools and was graduated from Winchester High School in 1910.

For some time after graduation she was a secretary for her father at the Felt Mill on Canal Street. Later she was for a short time a clerk in the Assessors' Office at the town hall. In recent years she had worked as a clerk in the office of the M. & M. Transportation Co. in Somerville, retiring from this position recently.

Mrs. Conlon was a member of the Catholic Daughters of America Massachusetts Catholic Order of Forresters, Guild of the Infant Saviour, the Fortnightly Woman's Club, the Auxiliary to Winchester Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; and the Sodality of the Immaculate Conception Parish.

On February 6, 1918, she married Thomas William Conlon, who was proprietor of a garage in the North End. He died in 1954.

Mrs. Conlon leaves two sons, Thomas William Conlon, Jr., Superintendent of the Water Department, and Robert Francis Conlon, both of Winchester; also a sister, Mrs. John F. O'Brien of Los Angeles, California. She was a sister of the late William J. Noonan, for whom the Noonan School was named and of P. Roger Noonan who died during last December.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the Costello-Moffett Funeral Home with High Mass of Requiem celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Miss Abby A. Briggs

Miss Abby A. Briggs of 126 Highland Avenue, retired beauty shop operator and a resident of Winchester since 1932, died Saturday evening at the Winchester Hospital after several weeks illness that followed an operation which she underwent on January 23. It was the third operation she had undergone in eight months.

Miss Briggs was the daughter of Henry G., and Mary A. (Smith) Briggs. She was born December 11, 1889, in Peabody and spent her early life there, being educated in the Peabody schools. She moved to Woburn in 1919.

She studied beauty culture at Wilfred Academy in Boston and in 1932 came to Winchester, opening the Mystic Beauty Shop at the Locatelli Building, in the ownership and operation of which she was joined by her long time friend, Miss Alice Nichols.

Miss Briggs and Miss Nichols continued to operate the Mystic Beauty Shop until 1955 when Miss Briggs became ill. She never completely recovered her health from that time, but made a courageous fight, against the inroads of disease, that won for her the admiration of all who knew her.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Henry D. Folsom of Rockland.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Kimball Chapel with Dr. Dwight L. Cart, minister of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Burial was in Blue Hills Cemetery, Braintree.

Ralph del Sordo

Ralph del Sordo of 67 High Street, a retired member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and a widely known violin teacher in Greater Boston, died Tuesday, February 12 at the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital in Boston. He had not been in good health for some time.

Mr. del Sordo was the son of Giovanni, and Ernestine (Mercuro) del Sordo. He was born October 10, 1894, in Flumeri, Italy, and when two years old was stricken with polio.

He came to this country as a child of three and because of his physical limitations, due to the polio attack, was encouraged to study the violin.

He studied under noted teachers including Felix Winternitz and Sylvan Noach, the latter a former concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He joined the Boston Symphony in 1920 as one of the youngest players to perform under the baton of the then leader, Pierre Monteux.

He continued to play under Serge Koussevitzky and Charles Munch, remaining with the orchestra 35 years until his retirement in 1955. He was also widely known as a teacher of the violin and as a soloist upon the instrument in the Greater Boston area. He was a life member of Euclid Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Boston.

Mr. del Sordo leaves his wife, the former Doris Harding, and a brother Amerigo del Sordo.

Services will be held this Friday afternoon at the Kimball Chapel with the Rev. Richard W. Knost of the Universalist Church of Malden, officiating. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Anna L. Perry

Word has been received in Winchester of the death in North Wilmington on January 27 of Mrs. Anna Littlefield Perry, wife of Samuel Perry and a former resident of Winchester.

Mrs. Perry was the daughter of Judge George L. Littlefield, and Georgianna (Stevens) Littlefield. She was born September 19, 1876, in Winchester and lived in town until her marriage to Samuel Perry, a native of Winchester and a Boston pattern maker. She and Mr. Perry were married September 16, 1903, and moved to North Wilmington at the time, returning to live in the old family homestead on Highland Avenue upon the Judge's death.

The Perrys did not long remain in Winchester, returning to North Wilmington where they lived for many years.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Perry leaves a daughter, Mrs. William Smith of Miami, Fla.; a grandson and granddaughter and three great-grandchildren.

Earle G. Anderson

Earle G. Anderson of Woburn, a former resident, died suddenly a week ago today while golfing on the Pocassett Golf course in Bourne. He was the victim of a heart attack.

Mr. Anderson leaves a wife, Elizabeth Nelson Anderson, a native of Winchester, and two daughters, Barbara Louise and Elizabeth Mae.

He was born in Woburn where he lived most of his life. He was for many years associated with the General Electric Company from whose services he retired two years ago.

Services were held Saturday from the Graham Funeral Home in Woburn.

Isaac E. Sexton

Isaac E. Sexton, president of the Sexton Can Company of Boston and a long time resident of Winchester, died Tuesday, February 12 at his home at the age of 85 years.

Mr. Sexton was the son of Isaac and Helen R. (Carlisle) Sexton. He was born January 6, 1878, in San Francisco, but left the west coast at the age of 2 years for St. Paul, Minnesota. At the age of 10 he came with his family to Somerville and attended school there, going through the grammar grades before starting to work for his father in the can manufacturing business.

He remained with his father's firm until the business was sold. Then, with his brother, William, he founded the Sexton Can Company in Boston in 1902, and at the time of his death he was president of the firm. He was a member of the Winchester Country Club and of William Parkman Lodge of Masons.

On October 10, 1906, he married Nellie R. Fraser, who survives, with a son, Edward W. Sexton of Cambridge; and three daughters, Mrs. Helen S. McIntyre of Natick; Mrs. Jane S. Prescott of Charlestown, N. H.; and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Kidder of Barrington, R. I.; also nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were private and were conducted by Dr. Dwight L. Cart, minister of the First Congregational Church. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Garden Club To Learn Drying And Preserving

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday, February 20, at the Crawford Memorial Church Hall. Dessert and coffee will be served at 1:30 followed by a brief business meeting and program at 2 o'clock.

A great deal of interest has been shown in this month's program. The club has heard many excellent speakers on flower arranging. It is always a pleasure to watch them design lovely arrangements in their own individual style. But one thing they share in common is the great amount of preparation in selecting and conditioning their materials.

Mrs. Thomas Park of West Acton, will devote her entire lecture Wednesday to these mechanics of flower arranging. Her talk on "Preserving or Drying French Flowers" will explain the entire process, from gathering the material to the final wiring and arranging, including samples of the drying medium and the methods of using it.

Saturday Evening Finds "Barretts" On W.H.S. Stage

On this Saturday February 16, the Junior and Senior classes at Winchester High School will present their annual play.

This year's selection will be "The Barretts," by Marjorie Carleton. The play depicts the epic romance between the two poets, Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett. The conflict arises through the objection of her tyrannical father.

The cast will include Larry Archibald, Juliet Foskett and Steve Brown as the leads. Diane Kelley, Nancy Hollinshead, Chuck Quinn, Doug Cann, Sue Tully, Dick Starkweather, Tom Salter, Marcia Kimball, and Betsy Woodward round out the cast.

Tickets may be obtained at the door for a very reasonable price. The public is invited. Those who come won't be disappointed.

Of Social Interest

Kelley—Clogston

On the afternoon of Saturday, January 26, in the First Congregational Church, Miss Marion Alice Clogston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton H. Clogston, of 36 Forest Street, became the bride of Second Lieutenant Erskine Hawes Kelley, III, U. S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine H. Kelley, Jr., of 191 Forest Street.

MRS. ERSKINE H. KELLEY, JR.

Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at the three o'clock ceremony against a background of gladiolas, chrysanthemums and carnations, and a reception followed in Chidley Hall at the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length white velvet gown appliqued with lace and fashioned with a scoop neckline, three quarter length sleeves and a bell skirt with fullness in back and at the sides. A velvet train fell from her shoulders and her elbow length veil was caught to a small old fashioned lace and pearl crown with a bow at the back. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations with ivy.

Miss Elizabeth Osborne of Winchester was maid of honor. She was gowned in red velvet, made with three quarter length sleeves, and a bell skirt with a satin bow and sash in the front and matching shoes and hat. She carried a white fur muff with red roses and ivy.

The bridesmaids, who were gowned identical to the maid of honor, were Miss Patricia Lynch of Lexington, and Miss Susan Carter of Winchester. Miss Melinda Clogston was junior bridesmaid for her sister. She was in a red satin dress with a round neck, three quarter length sleeves, a gathered skirt and shoes and hat to match. She carried a white muff with an arrangement made with a red rose and ivy.

Mr. Sherwood B. Kelley was his brother's best man, and ushering were Joseph Toppi of Winchester and Paul Franson of Brookline.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Clogston was gowned in a blue lace sheath with shoes to match, a pink hat and pink rose corsage. Mrs. Kelley was in a brown sheath fashioned with a jacket, dark brown accessories, brown hat and a yellow rose corsage.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Clogston of Lowell and of Mr. John Collier of Tyngsboro. She is a graduate of the Winchester High School, Curry College and the Hickox Secretarial School and is presently employed with the John Hancock Mutual Life insurance Company.

Mr. Kelley, a graduate of the High School and of Northeastern University in 1962, is presently with the United States Army Signal Corps, serving in Fontainebleau, France. He has preceded his bride to Fontainebleau, where the couple expect to make their home for the next 18 months.

Valentine Engagement

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Diane M. Gentile, daughter of Mr. Anthony P. Gentile of 12 Prince Avenue, and the late Mrs. Ida M. Gentile, to Mr. Samuel P. Ingenere, son of Mrs. Samuel Ingenere of 96 Wellsmere Road, Roslindale, and the late Mr. Ingenere.

MISS DIANE M. GENTILE

Miss Gentile is a graduate of Winchester High School, Class of 1961, and is currently employed at the office of the Middlesex District Attorney. Mr. Ingenere is a graduate of Boston College High School, Class of 1956 and attended Boston University Junior College. He is now employed by the Raytheon Electronics Company in Sudbury.

An October 12th wedding is planned.

St. Mary's Mothers' Club Change of Date

An Anniversary To Be Remembered

A surprise 25th anniversary party was tended to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edmund Bond of 47 Clark Street on Sunday, February 3.

The occasion brought members of the immediate family together for a gay reunion, the first to be held in many years and, costumes and games added to the fun of the evening.

The party was held at the home of Mr. Bond's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy of Medford. A beautifully decorated cake was one of many special marks of the evening.

Daughters, Patricia, now Mrs. Robert Sedler of Georgetown, and Gail Bond of Winchester, were present, and sons, Charles M. of Lowell, and William and Joseph, both of Winchester. Missing was son John, now serving with the U. S. Army in Germany. But recent news of him was conveyed by son William, just returned from military service in France. William and John enjoyed leaves together this fall, visiting each other alternately in Paris, France and Darmstadt, Germany.

William also had recent news from his mother's brother in Roscommon, Ireland, where he had visited before his recent return to this country.

Others enjoying the party were Mr. and Mrs. William Bond of Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dougherty of Woburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maliszewski of Dracut. Nieces Carol and Ruth Dougherty joined in the family fun along with two grandchildren.

En Ka Hears And Gives Reports Of Services to Town

The winter meeting of the En-Ka Society was held at the lovely home of Mrs. Edward Little on Lakeview Road. After a delicious luncheon served by En Ka's gourmet cooks, Mrs. R. B. Richmond and her committee, the meeting was opened by Mrs. Phillip Wadsworth, president.

After the secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted, Mrs. Wadsworth interrupted the business meeting so that the speakers of the afternoon could be introduced. En Ka members were privileged to hear Mr. Herbert Wood who spoke about the activities of the Winchester Babe Ruth League which was started to keep boys, 13, 14, and 15 years of age, interested in baseball after graduating from Little League.

They also heard Mrs. Arthur Hertig, whose report on the Winchester Scholarship Foundation was a great tribute to this organization which, since 1945, has continued to grow so much that in 1962 it was able to help 19 Winchester young people to further their education; and Mrs. Lyng, of the Winchester Public Welfare Department who explained the areas of duty of the Welfare Department and told of the need for financial aide beyond that received by the Welfare Department from the State and Town. Help such as En-Ka gives, provides the important extras that the Welfare Department could not give otherwise.

As the meeting continued, Mrs. Fred Cardin, finance chairman, read the following expenditures approved by the Board:

Social Service Committee - $1500

Babe Ruth League (uniforms and umpires) $1000.

Little League $400.

Girl Scouts (fence and outdoor fireplace) $500.

Winchester Youth Hockey $300.

Homefronters (postage) $158.

Winchester Public Schools (record player, projectors, display case) $1125.

WVNA (Bulletin Board and Sweeper) $80.

Mrs. Harry Mueller, social service chairman, reported that Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets had been distributed by her committee and that over 150 individuals had been helped by En Ka during the Christmas season.

Mrs. George Blair, civic chairman, reported that 100 candy filled Christmas stockings had been made by Mrs. Creelman and her committee and given to shut-ins during the holidays by the W. V. N. A. and the Welfare Department. Her committee is also capably handling the monthly suppers, birthday cakes, and transportation for the Home for the Aged, as well as making sponges for the Winchester Hospital and pushing the Library Book Truck there.

The final report before adjournment was given by the ways and means chairman, Mrs. Winthrop Knox. Mrs. Knox described so enthusiastically the plans for the En Ka Street Fair that everyone is looking forward to the "Bermuda Buggyride" to be held on the Town Hall grounds on May 24 and 25.

Many Parents Already at Work On Variety Show

The Ticket Committee for the Winchester High School Parent Faculty Association Show, "Varieties of 1963," met on January 31, under the co-chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Gannon and Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman. Through the cooperation of Mrs. James H. Mumma and her class mothers, the following volunteers are distributing tickets to the High School room mothers, Spaulding Bookshop, and McCormack's Apothecary; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Griffin, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Armstrong, Mrs. C. R. Olsen, Mrs. T. H. Kuhn, Mrs. Keith Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Ward, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Rushton Harwood, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Cruwys.

Miss Louise Cone is handling tickets at the High School. Everyone will be contacted by either a room mother or one of the ticket committee. However, we urge you to get in touch with one of our committee if you do not receive a telephone call soon. Tickets will also be on sale at Filene's and Converse at a date to be announced later.

"Varieties of 1963" promises to be fun for all if early rehearsals are indicative. Mary Haff and Anna McLean, chairman and co-chairman of two musical skits have been busy this past week rehearsing a modern dance number with a group of Winchester High mothers. Their ideas for the two skits are being worked out with the help of Noreen Johnson (Connell) well-known dancing instructor in town who has assisted many of the jr. high and high school youngsters in their own talent shows.

At the present time there are ten mothers involved and as the skits shape up more talent will be drawn in the pantomime and rhythm number in the first part of one skit will be done by Dorothea Collins, Dorothy Hills, Rose Marchant and Mary Avakian with the help of four of our high school teachers (male). The second part or modern dance number will be done by Anna McLean, Mary Haff, Margaret Hoffman, Maxine Kajander, Ann Brown and Dorothy McDonald. Rehearsals for the second number will start in one week.

Another skit guaranteed to evoke nostalgic memories along with a few laughs is being worked up by Mrs. George O'Dair and Mrs. Arthur Hills. Taking part with varying degrees of vigor are: Dur Price, Jane Kittredge, Henry Knowlton, Bill Branley, Bob Watson, Gene Rotondi, Art Hills, Don Dalrymple, Charles Papadinis, Jim Jefferson, Hartley Curtis, Bob Kittredge, Warren Price, Henry Fitts and Joe Butler.

The next few weeks will be busy ones, and all participating parents and faculty look forward to presenting a good Show on Friday evening, March 15, at 8:15 p.m., Winchester High School Auditorium. See you there!

Two Here Receive Morse Support For Service Schools

Congressman Brad Morse has announced the selection of two Winchester boys as candidates for the U. S. Service Academies.

William A. Gaffney, of 10 Glengarry, was named by Morse as his first alternate candidate for appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Gaffney was also selected as a competitive candidate for the U. S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. He will compete with five other boys from the Fifth Congressional District for the coveted Air Force appointment. The final selection, Morse pointed out, would be made by Air Force authorities.

Morse also announced the selection of Douglas Macfarlane, of 15 Meadowcroft Road, as his 2nd alternate candidate for appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

Gaffney, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover M. Gaffney. He is a senior at Winchester High School where he has been active in Junior Varsity football, dramatic activity, and in the Junior Red Cross. He has been an officer in DeMolay and a leader in Boy Scout affairs.

Macfarlane, 18, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Macfarlane. He attended Winchester High School for three years, where he was active in Junior Varsity football and Cross Country. He was a former patrol leader in the Boy Scouts and has served as a swimming instructor and counsellor in Summer camps. Macfarlane is now a senior at the Lenox School in Lenox, where he serves as captain of the Varsity Cross Country team.

Lincoln Students Take Parents On Mexican Journey

Recently, the Lincoln School sixth grade presented an original three act puppet play entitled Mexican Journey, under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Walters.

For some weeks the class had been preparing for this performance. The papier-mache puppets had been molded and painted during art classes as was all scenery and backdrop staging. Colorful costumes fashioned and sewn by the children resulted in an unusual assortment of characters. There were sequin-arrayed dancers, burlap-garbed Mestizos, serape-draped peasants, poncho-clad Indians, rainbow-hued gauchos, and senoritas with ivory combs holding lace mantillas in place.

Writing the script was a cooperative effort involving the entire class. Dances and songs taught in music were interspersed at appropriate places and this correlation of material gathered from areas of art, music, social studies, and language, culminated in a production of high merit.

The lilting strains of Lake's "The Lonely Bull" filled the air as students and friends entered the auditorium which was bedecked with posters, backdrops and other memorabilia Mexican.

Opening exercises and introduction of cast was handled by Nancy Curtis, Mary Jane Gray and Rosemary Politano. An introductory repartee between Leo Lauretano and Kenny Tully replete with accent and humor enchanted the eager listeners. From the audience came Priscilla Lougee, Doug Rolli, and Robert Sullivan who chatted with Mr. Ed a talking horse played by Anna Buzzotta.

The curtain opened on Act I showing puppets mounted on a fieldstone wall with flower-filled window boxes. The Smith family, comprised of Will Bradley, Marcia Barrow, Terri Paonessa, and Gay Aubrey, started on a tour of Mexico, after credentials were checked by custom official Steve Giacalone. While traveling through Mexico successfully guided by Neal Benshimol, Tommy Flaherty, Charles Knight, Grant Nowell, Julie Cross, and Michael Tofuri, the Smiths explored many fascinating and historical places including the Cortez Palace, Sun Pyramid, Mt. Popocatepetl, Aztec ruins, and the Floating Gardens. Puppets in these settings were Margaret Canfield, Sherrill Harris, Betsy Shaw, Judy Snow and Carol Whitney. David Schmink was standard bearer and an explanation of Mexico's flag was given by Kristin Uhlig.

Backstage, Chris Allyn and Henry Dieterich shared honors with Signs and Scenery designers Susan Jeffery and Bruce Hutchings.

After many informative and amusing adventures through Mexico in weather ranging from sunny days to sudden rainshowers, the Smith family conclude the tour with promise to return again to this friendly country. Credit for this production is due the hard-working directors, Anna Buzzotta and Carl Smiley, from the first "buenos dias" to the last "adios amigos."

Bloodmobile Day

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street on Monday, February 25 from 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The Winchester Sons of Italy Lodge has undertaken the formation of its first Bloodmobile Day and is anticipating a large response for its initial call.

It must be stressed that donors do not have to be members of the Sons of Italy Lodge for this call; donors must be between the ages of 18 and 59; if you have not given the life-saving fluid for two months you are eligible and if you are questionable because of past illnesses the professional staff on hand can determine whether you can give or not.

The donors and their immediate needs for one year after their donations and we all realize that donating blood is a community responsibility and we have heard families are assured normal blood "the life you save may be your own."

The Sons of Italy committee under the chairmanship of Richard Penta is working diligently to make this first "donation day" a huge success and anticipates at least seventy-five donors to respond. The committee has also arranged a "car pool" to transport donors to and from the Sons of Italy Hall and suggests that donors please call PA 9-9898 from noon to 7:00 p.m. on "donation day" if the transportation is desired.

We do hope to see you on Monday, February 25 at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Give blood and give it regularly!

Dr. Martin Luther King Speaks To Overflow Crowd About Desegregation

Saying that "Human progress never rolls in on the wheels of inevitability," Dr. Martin Luther King, champion of non-violent direct action in the cause of civil rights, encouraged an overflow audience at Lexington High School Monday evening to take an active part in the battle against segregation. The meeting was attended by more than 30 Winchester representatives under the sponsorship of the Winchester Fair Housing Association.

"It is necessary in every community all over the nation for people to rise up and take a stand. No section of our country can boast of clean hands in the area of brotherhood," King declared. He said that if integration is to become a reality, white people in the North have a responsibility to speak out when they see discrimination occurring in housing, in places of employment, in schools, and in colleges.

He went on to commend such groups as the Lexington Civil Rights Committee which sponsored his talk, and Winchester's Fair Housing Association which actively supported it.

Dr. King began by reminding his audience that the first Negro slaves were brought to America, the only people to come here against their will, in 1619, the year before the Pilgrims landed. Since that time, the nation has come a "long, long way in extending the frontiers of civil rights, but it still has a long, long way to go.

Dr. King pointed out that today there are 1,500,000 registered Negro voters in the South, but there are more than 6,000,000 Negroes of voting age.

Negroes earn more money today than they ever have before, but they still earn less than does any other group.

Negroes, like all citizens, pay taxes, but it still is nearly impossible for a Negro to get a college education in some state, tax-supported universities, as witness the case of James Meredith.

"Religious institutions have failed to take a stand in the field of civil rights. Eleven o'clock Sunday morning is the most segregated hour in America today."

Dr. King said that Negroes themselves must stand up for their rights. In this connection, he discussed non-violent direct action which he said "can secure moral ends through moral means." This, he pointed out, is the direct opposite of the Communist principle that "the end justifies the means." He said that non-violent direct action disarms an opponent because "the capacity to inflict suffering is matched by the capacity to endure suffering." Dr. King believes that "on the whole, Negroes in the South agree that non-violence is the best method to be used in achieving desegregation. Non-violence will not necessarily be followed as a way of life, but it is generally considered by Negroes to be their most potent weapon in their struggle for freedom.

As far as the federal government is concerned, Dr. King believes that a good beginning has been made, but their is still much legislation which should be passed, particularly in the areas of employment and housing.

Dr. King was introduced by the Honorable Edward T. Martin, assistant attorney general of the State of Massachusetts, representing Attorney General Edward Brooke who was unable to attend because of a previous commitment. Mr. Martin, in his introduction, pointed out that Mr. Brooke and Dr. King were old friends, having been fraternity brothers in the late 1930's at Boston University.

The Reverend Thomas MacLeod of St. Brigid's Church, Lexington, brought the evening to a close by saying that though the members of the audience could not pray together since they did not all say the same prayers, they could sing the same song together. They rose, at his suggestion, and sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Dr. Leonard Mead Serves Air Force Behavior Research

Dr. Leonard C. Mead, senior vice president and provost of Tufts University and a recent resident here, has been appointed the 1963 chairman of the Air Force Advisory Committee on Behavioral Sciences Research. This committee meets in Washington several times a year to review professional projects submitted for Air Force consideration and support.

Dr. Mead, a specialist in the behavioral sciences, has an extensive record of research and publication in the field of Human Engineering. This has been described as the science of improving man's efficiency, comfort and safety at his job. It has been especially useful in designing equipment and flight suits for the very high speed Air Force planes.

St. Mary's Reports On Recent Events

Friday, February 1 was a memorable day for the first graders of Saint Mary's School. They became members of the Pontifical Association of the Holy Childhood. The entire student body assembled in Saint Mary's Hall for the reception of the new members.

The program commenced with the singing of the hymn "Immaculate Mary." Father Francis Turke presiding at the ceremony, gave a short sermon on the meaning of a missionary both at home and in foreign lands. Father Turke then blessed the medals, questioned and received the new pupils into the society, and conferred the special Holy Childhood blessing on all the children.

The assembly terminated with a presentation by the eighth grade students. The performance, Our Lady's Juggler, a short play based on an ancient French legend, was superbly produced, directed and executed by these students.

On a recent Saturday afternoon, Saint Mary's Boy's Schola, despite snow and inclement weather, set out for Bethany Infirmary in Framingham, residence of the informed and aged Sisters of Saint Joseph, to render an enjoyable program. Many varied selections were chosen by the Schola. Mrs. Loretta Cox and Mrs. James Daschbach accompanied the boys on the piano.

The boys, well received and appreciated by all, returned home, happy and content that they were able to perform for these sisters.

The annual Science Countdown, sponsored by Lowell Tech was held recently at Saint Mary's School. The Count-down was administered to members of Grade 8. Competition was keen; participants were eager; and the questions were difficult. Upon completion of the Count-down, Peter Ferrell was chosen the winner. St. Mary's congratulates Peter on his recent achievement.

D. A. R.

February is a significant month for the Daughters of the American Revolution. It was through the efforts of D. A. R. and C. A. R. that a statute was enacted by the Massachusetts legislature directing the Governor to proclaim it annually "American History Month." Massachusetts is one of only nine states to do this officially. It is observed by D. A. R. Chapters throughout the Commonwealth at their meetings.

This is also the month when the recipients of the D. A. R. "Good Citizen" awards are announced by local chapters. Mrs. Michael Macdonald, Jr., chairman of the Good Citizen Committee of the Committee of Safety Chapter, will introduce Winchester's "Good Citizen" at the monthly meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Lester C. Gustin, Jr. 407 Highland Avenue, on Monday, February 18.

Mrs. Charles O. Nichols, regent, will make the presentation of the award to the young lady who has been chosen from three nominated by the senior class at Winchester High School, as the girl who best exemplifies the qualities of good citizenship. The final selection was made by the faculty.

The winner will attend the State Conference of D. A. R. in Boston in March with Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Macdonald and will be among the girls representing other chapters who are eligible for the prize of a $100 bond and the title of "State D. A. R. Good Citizen." This year the Massachusetts Society has added $50 and $25 bonds as second and third prizes. A certificate will be presented to her at graduation in June.

Guests are cordially invited to attend Monday's meeting. Tea will be served at 2:00 p.m. Anyone needing transportation may call Mrs. Sundberg, PA 9-1335 or board members.

We have a fine selection of used cars, some of which we were holding to show for Washington's Birthday. However, our new car sales have been greater than we anticipated. Consequently we are forced to sell these cars as we are getting cramped for space. Why not select the used car of your choice.

IGA FOODLINER

ALWAYS HAD LOWER DISCOUNT PRICES

As is the case of every trend in the retail food industry, we at the IGA Foodliner have very carefully studied the trend toward discounting.

Our policy at Foodliner has been, and always shall be, to offer our customers the finest quality food at the lowest possible prices. It is a policy which is not only practiced, but is one to which we strictly adhere. Yes, we at Foodliner sincerely practice what we preach.

Our study shows that we offer Foodliner customers an over-all savings of 12 (twelve) per cent below the discount stores. And we do this without the elimination of personal services, store hours, trading stamps, variety, etc.

We do not ask you to take our word so we offer at the bottom of this notice a complete list of our EVERY-DAY meat prices — these are prices which have not changed for over a year. We do, of course, offer outstanding weekly specials in addition, but never do we sacrifice the quality for which we are so well known.

This same policy holds true throughout all the departments of our store—groceries, service fish, delicatessen, produce, dairy and in-store bakery.

There is only one reason that we are able to make this claim and that is because we (Irving, Burt, and George) are the owners, and as such this is the only way we know how to conduct a sound, ethical business.

Air Force Points To Recent Growth

The constantly growing air arm of the United States Army is creating opportunities for high school graduates at a rate unequalled in recent years, according to Sergeant Jack Bateson, Army recruiter at 49 High Street, Medford.

Sgt. Bateson said that Army Aviation, in number of machines the worlds third largest air force, will soon increase its strength from 5,000 to 6,500 aircraft.

In addition to this increase, the sergeant pointed out that Army Aviation's budget (barring cuts) will be doubled in the coming fiscal year.

Interested high school graduates and young men who will graduate in June may obtain full details of the opportunities available in Army Aviation by calling Sgt. Bateson, at EX 6-5777, or by visiting his Medford office.

Winchester Youth Hockey

The Winchester Youth Hockey program, a non-profit organization, was started this year for Winchester boys only, at the M.D.C. rink in Medford.

This group was started by William W. Cruwys, director, and George A. Rowe, secretary-treasurer, after many futile attempts to secure ice for this organization was finally assured us by the M.D.C. commissioner, Mr. Robert Murphy. Thanks to some hard and diligent work by our secretary-treasurer, George Rowe.

Jim McElholm, former Winchester and Northeastern hockey star and present head coach of the Brockton High School hockey team, was asked and readily volunteered to teach and coach in this program. He was capably assisted by Herb Wood and Dave Rowe, current freshman hockey star, with Bill Cruwys, also teaching and directing the overall phase of the skating and hockey program.

Starting in November, over 70 boys signed up to participate in this program, teaching skating drills and hockey fundamentals for the first two months. Then the boys were divided by age, size and ability into four teams, issued colorful jerseys and have been in keen competition in league games which will continue until the middle of March provided ice is available.

The basic principles of this organization is to teach Winchester boys, the proper skating techniques and hockey fundamentals. No complicated system or plays are used, only good position hockey is stressed with each boy playing his position properly. Three instructors are on the ice during a game to referee and also point out to individuals mistakes or pointers that actually occur during a regular game.

The tremendous improvement in the boys has been worth the many headaches, heartaches and early morning rising that has gone into this program, and that is the aim of the Winchester Youth Hockey program, to try and improve each boy in his skating, hockey and moral accomplishments.

Beanpot Hockey Local Flavor

The beanpot tournament trophy won by the Boston College hockey team over Harvard 3 to 1 at the Boston Garden on Monday evening had a short stay in Winchester following the game.

The trophy was carefully guarded by Charlie Craven, Jr., of 6 Madison Avenue West, who is the manager of the team. Charlie had the honor of taking the trophy home with him after the game, and then taking it to Boston College where it will be displayed until the tournament.

Boston College again has one of the best records in Eastern College hockey.

Charlie is a senior in the College of Business Administration, majoring in Accounting, and will be a member of the centennial class. A graduate of Winchester High School in 1958, where he also was hockey manager, Charlie also attended Chauncey Hall.

Steve Powers played defense for Northeastern in its 4 to 2 win over Boston University and Bill Lamarche centered the second Harvard line until injured in the second period.

Kiwanis Special Program to Note Brotherhood Week

The 1963 Winchester Kiwanis 2nd Annual Inter-Faith Brotherhood Dinner will take place on Wednesday evening, February 20, at 6:30 p.m. in the Masonic Hall here.

Speakers for the evening will be the Rev. Armand Morisette, O.M.I. of Lowell; Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, Jr., First Baptist Church of Winchester, and Rabbi Bernard H. Bloom of Temple Isaiah, Lexington.

Greetings will come from Richard Coakley, program chairman, and introductions by John B. Mercurio chairman of church activities.

It will be Ladies' Night for members and their guests and there will be patriotic community singing.

A scrumptous dinner of Southern fried chicken will be served with all the fixin's by our Southern gal, Kay Isaacs.

Our first venture in the Inter-Faith Brotherhood meeting was a huge succes.

The public is invited.

Nine Tables Compete At Duplicate Bridge Club Evening Here February 6

Gerry Lawrence and Clarence Woodward joined forces to pile up five top boards and two ties-for-top for a wide margin victory in Section A of the club meeting on Wednesday, February 6th, as the nine table field completed 24 boards for an average score of 84.

Big news of the week, of course, is the club's annual charity bridge tournament which will be held tomorrow evening, Friday, February 15th, at the Church of the Epiphany, starting about 7:45 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and play either duplicate or regular contract bridge. We understand that there will be a number of attractive door prizes as well as refreshments and a pleasant evening of bridge.

Having held this event, for national beneficiaries selected by the American Contract Bridge League, our club is then eligible to hold a similar event under league sponsorship for a local charity. Plans are already under way for a big event later in the spring with net proceeds to be donated to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation. Preparations for this benefit are in the capable hands of chairman, Dottie Hills, and more details will be announced as soon as possible.

One of the most interesting and exciting contracts, in our opinion, is one no trump (preferably doubled and redoubled!) The play of this type of final contract is often a see-saw affair, with neither side able to take clear control. There are usually several avenues of attack and defense as well as ample opportunity to avoid or fall into traps.

We were shown the following board from last week's Section A by a declarer who went down in one no trump and asked for our comments. With neither side vulnerable, the bidding was:

On the opening lead of the 3H, dummy played the 8H and East covered with the QH. How do you, as declarer, plan to play the hand?

Our declarer held off the first round, and covered East's return of the 4H with her JH, which held the trick. She then led to dummy's QC and back to her KC; but, since the AC did not appear, she was out of entries to the dummy and out of luck on her contract.

Looking back, we are not enthused over the first round hold up play. Covering with the AH would leave the suit still stopped once and give declarer the initiative. Also, West might have had K-5-3, in which case the hold up play would have cost declarer her second stopper. Again, after winning with his QH, East might have shifted to the KS thus attacking South's weakest suit and clarifying things for the defense.

The hold up, however, would not have been fatal. Once in her hand, though, declarer should pause to take inventory. With five clubs outstanding, there was less than a 50-50 chance of the AC being singleton or doubleton, and no defender holding three to the ace would be likely to look at this dummy and play his ace on either of the first two rounds.

But declarer can look to diamonds for a better shot at her seventh trick. Going to dummy with the JC, she can lead right to her QD and is home free. (Leading the 9D from dummy and letting it ride is better only when South has a second sure entry to dummy.)

What if the East and West diamond holdings were reversed? Then the KD would capture the QD and West would knock out South's last heart stopper.

North	South
S—6 5	S—A 7 2
H—	H—
D—9 7	D—A 10 3
C—Q 4 3 2	C—K 9

With these remaining cards, South can still make a courageous play! Lead the 9C with no hesitation (it would take an extraordinarily alert West to come up with his AC) and win in dummy with the QC. NOW the 9D is led and East's (hypothetical) JC is trapped. This series of plays, finessing twice in diamonds, has a 75%-25% chance of success, losing only when West has both diamond honors. It's an even safer bet, in this case, when we recall that East did all the defensive bidding.

The Winchester Star

Established 1880 by Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Editorials:

It Used To Be A Hanging Offense ... Someone Was Shot For It Last Week

In the wild west one of the wildest things a man could do was to steal a horse or tinker with someone else's property. Avengers were relentless and horsethieves stood a good chance of soon hanging at the end of a rope.

Things haven't really changed much. Only the horses have been converted to horsepower, that's all.

This fall our police department was able to capture two housebreakers after they had stolen from a number of Winchester homes. How were they captured? Technically by our police force, represented by Officers Buzzotta and Parsons, but there was an additional factor. Someone called the police station to say there was a strange car parked in the neighborhood of Priscilla Lane.

That tip to the police department by an alert and concerned citizen was what led to the eventual arrest of the housebreakers.

For a number of weeks now Winchester has been plagued by car thefts in the town, stolen cars turning up here, and the damaging and ransacking of vehicles belonging to local residents. Just this past week there have been ten such occurrences.

Chief Derro says he does not think the thefts are caused by Winchester residents. However, he does think that the quickest way to catch the offenders is for the citizenry to keep an open eye in their neighborhoods and around town and to notify the police department when anything does happen.

"No law abiding citizen objects to being stopped and questioned in reference to any situation that may have arisen in a neighborhood," Chief Derro noted.

A 14-year-old Burlington youth received 50 shotgun pellets in the back early one morning last week when he attempted to siphon gasoline from the tank of a homeowner's car. It was a tragic situation indeed, but it points up the seriousness of the issue and the need for adequately informing our police of strange goings on. The present delinquents can and must be stopped, both for our protection now, and so that others will be advised not to play around in Winchester in the future.

The Great Emancipator ... Greatness Is To Be Revered

Almost every nation claims a few of its national heroes as great men of the world as well. What sets these particular heroes apart, and maybe something a little better or higher than the multitudes of other daily and era heroes? Is it some one deed or one thought or idea, or is there something just a little more to their greatness than a single contribution to mankind?

Let's look at one man from American history who is held in particularly high esteem by many peoples in many lands, as well as in our own: Abraham Lincoln.

Abraham Lincoln was born on the Lord's Day, was the son of a carpenter, and was martyred on Good Friday. Do these coincidental happenings relating to religious events and symbols have any particular significance from the point of view of enhancing or detracting from the image of his greatness? It is probably not the case for most people who think on Lincoln and his life. One interesting point to consider, however, is that Lincoln thought men could and should learn to live and work together (hence his striving to keep the Union), that men are basically equal and should be treated as equals (hence his Emancipation Proclamation), and that a man should be humble in walking this earth (and it is interesting to compare Lincoln with his Civil War generals—most of them were pompous, haughty, etc., but who among them is remembered as Lincoln is?).

An American tourist while visiting Westminster Abbey in London one day, strolled around a corner toward the Parliament Buildings and noticed a tall familiar figure in a statue beside some gardens. It was an impressive life-size statue of Abraham Lincoln. For some reason he was not too surprised to see this statue of a great American fighter for civil liberties standing in a British park. England is another country that is noted for its concern for the rights of human beings, and it is evident in the nature of its government, the way it practices justice under law made by representatives of the people, and in the very customs of the people.

But, on the other hand, why should the British erect a statue of a great American statesman? There is one answer and one answer only, greatness is to be revered—regardless of national origins or boundaries, language, religion, philosophy or any other paper-thin barrier.

Why was Lincoln a great man of the world? He lived his life as his mind and heart dictated to him it should be lived, with no compromise of principle. He had a philosophy of life and government that was of the highest quality. The way he carried not only his own personal family tragedies but also the tragedy of the nation embroiled in a Civil War, proved the strength of the man. Here is the inspiration of Lincoln. A strong man with the strength of principles, mind and heart, enduring and winning over everything, even time. He still lives on the American scene.

If Shakespeare put it that life is but a play and we are actors on the stage; then Americans should look back to last Tuesday's holiday—Lincoln's birthday—and say here was one of the prime stars in the world's play.

Greatness is to be revered.

Open Letter To My Congressman:

I hate to tell you my troubles, but I have tried everything else I know. I feel that only you can help me now.

I have a dependent relative staying with me who has very little fiscal responsibility. He is very good natured and means well, but he keeps buying presents for my wife and me, and our two children. He charges these presents to my account. When he sees something that he thinks we need he buys it for us. Many of these things are not needed by us and in very few cases are they exactly what we would have bought if we had bought these things ourselves. Because he doesn't work for a living, money doesn't mean too much to him and he tends to buy the first thing he sees and doesn't shop around like I would do if I were purchasing items. He is also quite generous to the poor and needy, but often gives to those he doesn't know who feed him a soft line.

I just received a bill for his last spending spree and it gives me a sick hopeless feeling. I keep thinking how better off I would be if I could just spend that money for things I want and could give to the people and charities I think are needy. Honestly, he does so much of my spending that I tend not to give money to charity any more.

He won't listen to me, but he will listen to you because he respects you. Please use your influence to cut the spending habits of my Uncle Sam.

Sincerely,

Jack A. Wilson

Bill to Abolish Death Penalty In Mass. Gets Push

The current campaign to put through the legislature an act to abolish the death penalty in Massachusetts is becoming a grass roots movement.

And while there is little doubt on Beacon Hill that the campaign will fail as it does perennially, there is a growing view that the 1963 session will mark a big step forward for the abolition movement.

There is a good chance, legislators agree, that an abolition bill will clear the Senate this year.

The lawmakers also agree it will be defeated overwhelmingly in the House.

The Senate vote on capital punishment will hinge primarily on the new members of that chamber. Five ardent opponents of death penalty abolition in the Senate last year are not now members of the General Court.

The new faces in the Senate are relatively young men with more liberal views.

Senate President John E. Powers Boston Democrat, has given his blessing to an abolition bill for the first time. Powers, who exercises extraordinary control over the Senate, should be regarded as an important factor in the Senate vote.

Governor Endicott Peabody has given his support to the movement again an unusual position for a Governor to take. And the chief executive's views have been punctuated by his announcement to commute any death sentence during his term.

Ironically, the leaders in Massachusetts government have attacked their combined support for an abolition bill against age-old arguments in favor of capital punishment which have, during the past year, aroused the public to agreement.

Citizens in Boston have long since passed the point of fear alone; they have demanded an end to a string of slayings, and they have been angered because the murders have continued.

So, politically speaking, 1963 would not seem to be the year for the death penalty abolition movement. It might even be expected to suffer a set-back.

Yet the "conservative" Senate, despite the demands of an ired public and with the blessing of the Governor, Senate President and high government officials, is expected to vote for abolition, legislation defeated by only a thin margin last year.

Senate endorsement of an abolition bill this year, in the light of the much-increased murder rate, would give the abolition group powerful ammunition for the 1964 campaign.

Enforcement agencies, aware of the changes taking place, are concerned.

Legislators may not be flooded with the annual letters voicing objection to abolishing the death penalty—several officials already have cornered lawmakers in person to have the death law retained.

Legislators feel the anti-abolition movement will join the "reform" group in a grass roots attempt to win support.

The question of abolishing the death penalty will take on added interest and importance in 1963; it won't be a matter of formal and usual defeat.

Open Meeting Law Repeal Opposed

The Legislative Committee on State Administration apparently has frowned on a bill to repeal the state's open meeting law.

At a hearing Monday in the State House, David Brickman, representing the Mass. Newspaper Information Service said a pending bill to repeal provisions of the law would "annihilate years of work and subvert the very heart of open meeting legislation."

Several committee members asked if the information service favored amendments to the law to close loopholes used by some boards and agencies to circumvent compliance by opening sessions to the public.

Mr. Brickman answered that time is needed to have the law settle and become accepted as it is before more stringent provisions are enacted to tighten it.

Largely, he said, the law has been successful, but some local departments and boards still attempt to circumvent it.

Rep. Stephen Chmura of Holyoke charged advantage of the law, had taken advantage of the law, and had endorsed "limited" attendance at functions that "should have been made aware to the public."

No one favored the bill filed by Rosaire J. Rajotte.

Senator George V. Kenneally (D) of Boston, chairman of the committee, asked if measures could be taken to tighten the law, and Senator Michael J. Gavin of Newton asked when action could be taken to crack down on departments using the guise of an executive session to circumvent a public airing.

Rep. John J. Navin of Marlboro suggested the legislature be petitioned to establish definitions in the law to close some loopholes.

Mr. Brickman said the law is workable, and that more effort is needed to enforce it.

The proviso in the law for executive sessions is the most abused issue, Mr. Brickman told the committee. "This has been tortured and distorted on behalf of secrecy," he asserted.

He explained the intent of the law was to protect persons from having personal matters discussed in public. Thus, welfare and veterans' services boards were exempted from the law.

Rep. Chmura declared the term "executive sessions" is too broad for interpretation.

Mr. Brickman indicated there is a gradual acceptance of the law by die-hard agencies in some communities.

The committee is expected to file an adverse report on the appeal bill.

Advancement Of Public Service

What is CAPS? It is an organization formed by representatives from many civic groups to investigate the possibility of improving the Massachusetts Civil Service.

The name CAPS stands for Citizens for the Advancement of the Public Service, and the public is invited to attend a meeting to be held on Saturday, February 16, between 2:00 and 4:00 p.m. at Holton Hall at Boston College, Chestnut Hill on this subject. Chairman of the meeting will be Aaron Feinberg, former Brookline personnel director.

A panel composed of Daniel J. Finn, Jr., Civil Service commissioner; Leo Kramer, American Federation of state, county, and municipal employees; Howard Whitmore, former chairman of the Baby Hoover Commission, will address itself to a general discussion of the goals of the organiaztion. Louis Lyons curator of the Nieman Fellows, Harvard University will be the moderator.

The formation of CAPS results partly from the work that the League of Women Voters has done in the field of Public Personnel Administration in Massachusetts. The Civil Service has been a League study item for several years, the conclusions being incorporated in the book "The Merit System in Massachusetts - A Study of Public Personnel Administration in the Commonwealth" published by the League last year. It is available from Mrs. William F. G. Dawson at PA 9-6392.

CAPS seeks support from the public. For more information about this meeting on February 16 call Mrs. Malcolm Masters, Winchester League of Women Voters Civil Service chairman.

Do Rabbits Inhabit Mt. Everest?

Perhaps not everyone realizes that the Reference Department at the Winchester Library, in order to keep up with the increasing demand for information, is constantly adding new books to its collection and withdrawing others which are out-of-date. Questions on a wide variety of subjects are asked, so a listing of some of the recently acquired reference books may throw some light on how we arrive at answers.

Suppose you want to find out who wrote that catchy little tune, "In My Merry Oldsmobile." Look it up under just that in the new book by David Ewen called Popular American Composers from Revolutionary Times to the Present. You'll learn that it was written by Gus Edwards who also composed such popular works as "Way Down Yonder in the Cornfield," and "School Days;" that he was born in Germany, and that he discovered many well-known stage personalities including Groucho Marx, Georgie Jessel, and Eddie Cantor.

The Readers' Encyclopedia of American Literature serves more or less the same purpose in the literary field. It contains 6500 articles on all phases of American literature. Author entries give biographical data. Title entries usually have a brief synopsis of the plot and critical remarks. Important characters are identified. In addition, The Readers Encyclopedia discusses literary movements and groups and deals fairly extensively with such broad subjects as the novel, poetry and social criticism.

Another and rather different work is The Standard Encyclopedia of the World's Mountains, edited by Anthony Huxley. A detailed discussion of the most important mountains covers geological formation, historical importance, flora and fauna and, of course, who discovered or explored them first. A special feature of this encyclopedia is its selection of superb color plates.

In the field of religion we have a new reference work, The Handbook of Biblical Personalities. As its title suggests, it contains a series of informal biographical sketches of all the significant personages in Biblical literature. It not only identifies and places in context but gives the meaning of each name. The writing is simple but concise and leaves the reader with a familiar impression of each personality.

New and revised atlases are a useful aid in locating certain types of information. A recently acquired one is called The School and Library Atlas of the World. Although it lacks some of the more exotic, and not always significant, features of some of our atlases, it is valuable because of the size and clarity of its maps, and, more important because its statistics are up-to-date.

Did you know that lemmings do not commit mass suicide, that, Kipling to the contrary, the great Indian rhinoceros in spits of its bulk and fearsome appearance is inoffensive and retiring, that a species of rabbit inhabiting Mt. Everest lives at the highest altitude of any mammal, that the blue whale grows to a length of 100 feet and weighs 119 tons? These facts are to be found in a compact little volume called Systematic Dictionary of Mammals of the World.

Among the more technical reference books recently acquired by the library are The Industrial Directory of Manufacturers in Massachusetts which lists all manufacturing concerns employing eight or more people - alphabetically, geographically, and by product; Stedman's Medical Dictionary which is a standard work frequently revised - (this is the 20th edition); The Official Guide to Catholic Colleges; the Federal Payroll Withholding Tax Tables - 1963; and Sargent's Guide to Summer Camps and Summer Schools.

And finally, for pure reading pleasure and not reference at all, although it is classified as such, I recommend The Dictionary of Word and Phrase Origins by William Morris. It contains such fascinating bits of information as the origin of "hair of the dog," that most unsound theory that the best remedy for a hangover is another drink; why "colonel" is pronounced the way it is; how "sundae" got its name; why TR described Wilson as a "Byzantine logothete," - in all, nearly 400 pages of such gems.

These are just a few of the new reference books that the library has added to its shelves in the past two or three months. Come in and browse around to see what else we have. There are many more just as full of curious information.

Myopia Club Had Its Beginnings In Winchester

PART IV

The Hounds Arrive

The arrival of the first imported pack of hounds was recorded in the Winchester Star on May 12, 1882. They were brought over by George H. Warren on one of his steamers.

> "Twenty full-blooded fox-hounds from England arrived at the Myopia Club house on Friday last and the members are in ectasies over them. They are beauties and excite the admiration of all lovers of noble animals."

Some time later the local reporter wrote:

> "Oh, but don't those English fox-hounds more than cut a swath as their proud keepers parade them through our streets to exercise their aristocratic limbs. You can bet your bottom dollar on it. I can't say for certain which are the proudest, the keepers, the dogs, or the Myopia Club, those bold dashing huntsmen to whom they belong."

Elmer D. Fletcher, who later became well known and something of an historian in Winchester, often visited the kennels on Myopia Hill to watch the dogs being fed. He said they were well behaved and would approach the kennel man only when called by their right names.

All the papers were not enthusiastic over fox-hunting as the following indicates:

Fox Hunting Near Boston

> "And so the young bloods of Boston are to ape the English in the sport of fox hunting. Well, why shouldn't they? What nobler and more inspiring spectacle can be imagined than the sight of half a hundred horsemen and horsewomen and a pack of hounds pursuing a little fifteen-pound tame fox, which hasn't the shadow of a chance of escaping through meadows and lawns to his place of refuge beneath some farmer's woodshed? And then it is so great an honor to be 'in at the death,' more especially if the jaded and frightened beast is dispatched with pitchforks in the hands of the ladies, as was recorded of a late fox hunt in New Jersey."

The earliest account of a Winchester run and also one of the best appeared in the Boston Herald, and follows:

A Myopia Hunt

> "The Myopia Hunt Club held a meeting at Winchester in the forenoon (Jan. 1, 1883) and the clear sky and crisp air, not to mention the hunt, were inducements which brought out about a dozen of the club, together with several ladies. The meet was at the Club Kennels at 10:30 o'clock. Several of the riders were arrayed in the attractive 'pink coats' and made a pretty sight. The hounds, when thrown in a cover, ran toward Lexington. The country was exceedingly good in this direction and for five miles the chase continued through perfectly open country, the best in fact yet found in a hunt. Master Reynard was at last hunted down and killed in an open pine grove. He was a beautiful specimen and elicited much admiration from the party . . . The brush was awarded to Miss Norman, the pate to Mr. T. W. Merrill and the pad to Mr. Appleton. . . . The hunt was highly enjoyed by all present, and the appearance of the riders after their arrival home showed the health-giving character of the sport while the horses and hounds seemed to enjoy the fun as much as their masters."

Hugh K. Norman also followed the hounds at Winchester. One day he took Thomas C. Thatcher to the club and here is the latter's account of his visit.

> "My first introduction to the Myopia Club . . . was in an embryo state; my classmate, Hugh K. Norman, took me in 1879 or 1880 to a Christmas Punch party in the Myopia first headquarters, delightfully situated in Winchester overlooking Mystic Lake. It was, however, a dark night and the punch was so good that I recall little of the very primitive setting."

The pink coats worn at this time were, according to Fred Prince, bought second hand in Montreal and were rather an innovation.

The Myopians under the leadership of the Prince boys and their fellow members took a great interest in town affairs, particularly as regards boat races, town festivities, church sociables and celebrations. Seven Myopians won prizes at the boat races one Saturday afternoon in October 1878. They also contributed a great deal toward the success of the entertainment given by the Adelphian Club in Lyceum Hall. The Myopia float that took part in the Fourth of July celebration in 1882 won second prize.

Candidate Reply On Star-LWV Poll Of Warrant Items

Editor of the Star:

This weekend I received through the courtesy of the League of Women Voters a questionnaire requesting my position as a candidate for town meeting member on seven articles to be acted upon by the town meeting in March. I applaud your effort to stir up interest in the coming town meeting, but while I have initial opinions about certain of these articles, I do not feel that I can honestly answer your inquiry on what may well prove to be controversial questions.

The town meeting is the legislative body of the community. As such, its duty is to consider the matters brought before it by articles in the warrant. Until the warrant is available for the use of all voters, only a few people who pay very close attention to town affairs know the wording of such article or by whom it was sponsored. Some of this information has been already published in the Star but not all.

Secondly, the town meeting members are advised on the scope of the articles, the background thereof, and the estimated cost by the Finance Committee which labors long and arduous hours from before Christmas until their report goes to press. The publication of this report gives the voters more information as to the articles in the warrant.

Thirdly, it is only at this stage that the voters of a precinct are in a position to make their views known to their elected town meeting members; it is only at this stage that each town meeting member can really study each article and come to a tentative opinion.

Fourthly, it is not until an article is reached on the warrant at the town meeting and the motion thereunder is made to the meeting, that the exact action to be voted upon, and the exact appropriation to undertake this action is known.

Finally, it is only during the town meeting itself, when each town committee involved and each interested person has an opportunity to express opinions in open debate that a town meeting member is finally able to consider all the facts, on the basis of these to form a reasoned and thoughtful opinion on the merits of each article, and then to vote "aye" or "no" as his best judgment for the future of our town dictates.

It is not until each of these stages has occurred, not until I know the purpose, scope, cost, the views of my neighbors, the recommendations of the informed committees and of those particularly interested in an article that I could, in all honesty, feel qualified to cast a vote on the articles on which you now wish me to express an opinion. For this reason I must respectfully decline to answer the questionnaire.

Very truly yours,
Robert P. Bigelow

Witness Praises Effectiveness Of Fire Department

Editor of the Star:

While assisting at the tragic fire on Canal Street Sunday evening, I was deeply impressed by the courage and effectiveness of our Fire Department.

I realized then that the men of our force are even more vital than our superb equipment. To maintain this calibre of personnel, I strongly support the members of the Fire Department in their request to reduce their hours of work to a 48 hour week.

mittee. The other members of this sub-committee are: Mrs. Peggy Harsch, Mrs. Margery Flaherty, Mrs. Sarah Mullen, Mrs. Betty Hill, Mrs. Kay Jennings and Mrs. Mary Doherty.

Treasurer William Dailey will be in charge of door arrangements and Jack Costello, Mrs. Marie Colella and Mrs. Anna McLean are planning the entertainment. This will consist of Irish films, songs, stepdancing, and music. Mrs. Mary Murphy, Mrs. Elinor Russo, and Mrs. Helen Gaynor are the other members of the entertainment committee. It looks like another successful affair for the Democratic Town Committee.

Fire

Mr. Conlon entered the house through a rear kitchen door with Lieutenant Joseph Connolly and Robert Haggerty. He thought his mother was in the first floor lounge where the fire was most intense. Upon reaching the kitchen he was repelled by the smoke and heat.

Mr. Conlon then reentered at a different place by breaking a window on the west side of the house and going through the window, but he was unable to make it any further than the front vestibule on his hands and knees due to the tremendous volume of smoke and intense heat.

Mr. Conlon tried desperately to get up the stairs to the second floor to search for his mother and brother, both of whom he thought to still be somewhere in the building, but he was beaten back by the consuming flames at the stairway.

The firefighters who had entered the house through the front entry kept hose lines played on the stairs, but they were unable to break down a fire lane safe enough to allow passageway through the flames.

Meanwhile, Lt. Connolly, after being driven out of the rear of the house, went to the fire trucks and ordered Norman Doucette and Robert Sullivan to put special breathing apparatus air packs on and try and get through the smoke and search.

They first searched the first floor area, after knocking down the advance of the fire, and then went to the second floor to continue searching.

They searched through the dense smoke in every room. Barely able to see more than a foot or two ahead of themselves at a time, even with hand spotlights, they felt their way around chairs and obstacles, checked on and under beds and opened closets.

It was several minutes more before they located Mrs. Conlon—about 15 minutes from the time the alarm was first sounded. Firefighters Sullivan and Doucette discovered Mrs. Conlon lying on the floor of a bedroom in a corner. She was lying between the bed and the wall, near a telephone and a window.

Chief Callahan said she had apparently collapsed from smoke inhalation before either getting the window open or getting a phone call made to the fire station.

FIREFIGHTERS SCALE SIDE OF HOUSE to open it up for ventilation to draw the smoke and heat outside, and to pour water into the fire. The fire was so advanced when firefighters arrived that it took the firemen several minutes to subdue the blaze sufficiently to gain entrance to search for the occupant.

Mrs. Conlon was lifted out the window, taken across a porch roof by Douglas Rae, and lowered down the ladder by firefighters Sullivan and Doucette.

Lt. Connolly was at the base of the ladder and placed her on a stretcher.

Artificial respiration was attempted on the spot, as was oxygen by a mechanical resuscitator. Dr. Edward Rendall treated Mrs. Conlon at the scene and enroute to the Winchester Hospital. Drs. Rendall, Rooney, Benson and Hickey performed an emergency tracheotomy at the hospital in an attempt to save her life. But she succumbed, and was pronounced dead by Dr. J. Vincent Dirago, medical examiner.

After Mrs. Conlon was taken from the building, the firefighters learned her son Robert had left for work and was not in the house.

The fire was finally quelled and declared out at 12:30 a.m. The entire inside of the house had been burned out.

The Rescue Truck remained at the scene all night to provide power for lights for the detail left to keep a watch on the burned out building. All the other apparatus was back in the station house at 1:45 a.m.

Chief Callahan said that approximately 25 firefighters fought the fire, along with many others who offered their services. There were no serious injuries to firemen, the chief said, but noted that Lt. Connolly wrenched his left leg and knee, Robert Swymer cut his right hand ring finger, Jack Kimball received minor burns on his neck, and firefighter Doucette strained his right side below the ribs.

Mardi Gras

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reid were chairmen of this most successful ball. The decorating committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins succeeded in transplanting the atmosphere of New Orleans during Mardi Gras to St. Mary's Hall in Winchester. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Mahoney and their committee provided a most delicious buffet supper during the intermission.

Jaycees

Approximately 600 households or about 10 per cent of the family population, will participate. Mr. Saylor emphasized that each person interviewed will statistically carry the weight of ten people.

The survey itself is preprinted to save time. Most of the questions involve a simple check mark as a response, yet all questions may be answered at length depending on individual feelings. There are questions concerning the efficiency of town services such as telephone, postal, trash disposal, medical and hospital, transportation and parking. Questions on the school system, recreation facilities, the library, police and fire departments are included. There is also a group of questions which encourages answers in the form of personal comment.

Mr. Saylor remarked that the Attitude Survey is the largest single project undertaken by the Junior Chamber of Commerce since its inception. He also emphasized that this is not the usual market survey, for its results may effect you directly as an individual as well as offer guidance to the comunity. He encourages cooperation with the members of the Jaycees in order that they may discover ways in which this community may be made even better.

Town Debt

side, or $1,675,000, left a remainder of available borrowing capacity for the year 1963 at $1,198,256.

Again, in English, what this means is that each of the past three years the total debt has been reduced by $295,000, and therefore is decreasing. At the same time the net valuations of the real estate, personal property and motor vehicle, have increased each year. Therefore, the town's ability to borrow significantly larger amounts of money on the 5 per cent law has increased, and the town's credit position has improved.

Troop 524 Ribbon Winner Saturday At '63 Scoutarama

For the second year in a row, scout troop 524, sponsored by the Parkhurst Parents' Association, won a blue ribbon, 1st prize, at the annual "Scoutarama" held at the Woburn Armory on Saturday, February 9. Their booth was continually crowded with spectators, watching the excellent experiments and displays put on by the scouts, and smartly supervised by scoutmaster William Krupsky. The chemistry experiments were performed by the following boys: John Eames, William Elliott, Charles Weedon, Ross Stevens and Craig Heindel. To add to the excitement there were several sports events, and these scouts participated in the compass relay: Richard Anderson, Chris Barlow, David Cincotta, Wayne Krupsky, John Lima, Leo Majahad, Peter Majahad, Harry Mueller, J. Rondeau, David Sidebotham, and Steven Swanson.

First Lessons In Music Heard By Wyman Parents

A music education program was the high point of the winter meeting of the Wyman Parents Association meeting held at Wyman Hall on Friday.

During the brief business meeting Mrs. John White, president, of the Association announced that the School Committee is devoting its February 25 meeting to study of the continuing population problem at Wyman. The School committee invites all interested parents to attend this meeting.

Mrs. White then turned the meeting over to Wendell S. Withington, music director, who spoke briefly about the growth of music through the elementary grades. He emphasized that the morning's program was a demonstration of average classroom work; it was not rehearsed and was not meant to be a finished product.

He went on to say that music in the grades should not be considered a frill or an extra; rather, it is an educational activity requiring thought, creativity and skill. Music, he said, should be and can be enjoyed while it is being learned. Grade school music consists of a five point program; singing, rhythm, listening, playing and creating.

Mr. Withington introduced Miss Natalie Bellows, music supervisor, who teaches music in the first three grades. She began the program by directing the first grade in several songs, then showed how the children learn tone and pitch by the use of calling games.

The second graders exhibited their skill in scale reading, also in playing rhythm instruments along with singing. By the third grade the children are reading music from books rather than learning by rote. They demonstrated round singing, which is preparation for the two part singing they will do in fourth grade.

Mr. Withington then took over again and showed typical classroom work in the fourth grade. The first section had a lesson in reading music, with emphasis on rhythm, pitch and two part singing. The second section was a class in music appreciation, with emphasis on listening and relating the life and times of the composer to the type of music. Composition was the lesson of the day for the last fourth grade. These children wrote a little poem and composed the music for it.

Under Mr. Withington's direction the fifth grade gave a superb demonstration of two part singing.

It was interesting to note the progress from the calling games, slightly off pitch, of the first grade to the excellent choral singing by the fifth. The program showed the fine work done by Miss Bellows and Mr. Withington, as well as by the regular teachers, in teaching our children the rudiments of good music.

The Winchester Women's Lodge of the Sons of Italy are having "Carnevale" night at their Lodge Hall on Swanton Street this coming Saturday night, February 16th at eight o'clock.

The committee, headed by Marion Marrone as chairman, includes Emma Provinzano, Phil Marrone, Vi Bruno, Geri Buzotta, Jenny Amico, Mary Vespucci, Angie Dattilo, Ann Caggiano, Sue Barbaro and Julia Pettite.

They have planned a surprise in keeping with the mode of the evening. "Carnevale" translated from the Italian, means a festival of merry making usually before the first day of the Lenten season.

A variety of Italian sandwiches will be served, prepared by the committee. Every one is welcome to come in costumes if they wish. "Special" prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, the most original and the funniest costume!

Join us in this once a year Festival ! !

Annual Meeting Of Winchester National Bank

Thomas M. Downes and Leo Pistorino were elected to the Board of Directors of the Winchester National Bank on Tuesday, January 15. They will succeed Dr. Richard W. Sheehy and Joseph W. Worthen who were appointed Honorary Directors. George H. Gowdy was elected vice president to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Dr. Sheehy.

THOMAS M. DOWNES

Mr. Downes is president of Downes Lumber Co. Boston. A 1934 graduate of Harvard College, he entered the armed forces in 1942 and served with the U. S. Marine Corps until 1945, at which time he had risen to the rank of Major.

Mr. Downes is president of Godfrey Lumber Company and a Director of Lumber Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He is a member of the Board of Governors of the Harvard Club of Boston and treasurer of the Winchester Harvard Scholarship Fund. He is also a trustee of Belmont Hill School.

Active in town affairs, he served on the Town Finance Committee and at present is a trustee of the Winchester Public Library.

LEO PISTORINO

Mr. Pistorino is president of Pistorino & Company Inc. He is also president of Bowker Storage and Distributing Co., Inc., of Cambridge.

He is a member of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of World Trade Center of New England and president of its International House.

Mr. Gowdy is vice president and Director of New England Gas and Electric Association. A former member of the Board of Park Commissioners, he has been active in town affairs for many years.

GEORGE H. GOWDY

Dr. Sheehy was one of a group of Winchester men who organized the Winchester National Bank in 1917 and he has served the bank as a director for the 45 years since its founding. Generally regarded as Winchester's most beloved citizen, Dr. Sheehy has devoted a lifetime to the Town of Winchester and its citizens.

Mr. Worthen a Director since 1947, has long been active in civic affairs. He served the town as chairman of Selectmen and was for many years town moderator. As Honorary Directors their advice and guidance will be most welcome by the Board.

Financial Position

The combined monies of spending less than was planned and appropriated and taking in more than was planned and expected, comprise the $221,139 operating surplus for the year. This is not unusually high, however. The operating surplus for 1961 was $347,146 (partially due to a windfall of distributions of money from the state to the town), and for 1960 was $263,738.

To be accurate, the accumulated surplus for these years was higher: for 1962 the accumulated surplus was $710,067; for 1961 it was $723,392; and for 1960 it was $694,003.

However, from these pleasantly large appearing amounts must be subtracted the town's uncollected taxes and revenues, which, as in a business, must be considered a "loss," or "bad debt" for accounting procedures. Therefore, the unrealized dollars are held in reserve, while the remaining amount is considered free cash and is available for appropriation at the Town Meeting. The 1962 amount available for 1963 appropriation is $621,379. The 1961 amount was $648,240; and the 1960 amount was $616,234.

Spring Preview Shows Fashions To Fortnightly

The Fortnightly Spring Fashion Show was held on February 11th at two o'clock in the social hall of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church with its decor in gay hearts, flowers and festoons of red and white so suited for the Valentine occasion.

The president, Mrs. Herbert D. Thompson, presided at a brief business meeting before she presented Mrs. Charles E. Potts, Jr., the club's first vice president, in charge of the Spring Fashion Show. Mrs. Potts introduced the commentator, Mrs. Ruth Miano manager of Peck and Peck who presented models in the top-flight creations just out of their wrappings, shown for the first time as Peck & Peck's best for the spring.

The fashionable models were - Mrs. Richard Nelson, Mrs. Robert Nestor, Mrs. James Blackham, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Rand, Mrs. Sherman Saltmarsh, Jr., Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. Gerald Mosher, Mrs. Wason Hyde, Mrs. Ralph Meigs, Mrs. Robert Swanson, Mrs. Lane McGovern, Mrs. Robert Duffy, Mrs. James Walsh, and Mrs. Andrea Maietta. Mrs. Donald VanRoosen, pianist, provided delightful background music during the fashion parade. Mr. Charles Forester, Winchester florist, arranged the floral decorations suited to the occasion.

Club members actively working for the success of the afternoon were - Mrs. Everett Goss, treasurer; Mrs. William Priest, member of reception and hospitality committees; Mrs. Alfred Drew, chairman of reception committee and Mrs. Robert Sanborn, chairman of transportation. Club members attending the models were - Mrs. Charles Ladd, Mrs. Ralph Hatch, federation secretary; Mrs. Francis Bowes, member of community service committee; Mrs. Wilbert Underwood, member of legislation committee; Mrs. George Lemay member of conservation and garden committee.

Following the Spring Fashion Show tea was arranged and served by Mrs. Harold Bergquist, chairman of the club's social committee and the members of her committee, Mrs. Frank White, co-chairman, Mrs. William Sorenson, Mrs. John Ahern, Mrs. Joseph Burgatti, Mrs. Salvatore Scalesse, Mrs. Ernest Perry, Miss Ruth Albee, Mrs. George French, Mrs. Kingman Cass, Mrs. Parker Holbrook, Mrs. Lindsay Foster and Mrs. A. Belville. The gracious pourers at the tea table were Mrs. Lawrence Kinney and Mrs. S. Bennett Brenton, Jr.

Finance Report

relation of salaries to cost of living increases rather than position in any inter-town salary scale listing. It was noted that cost of living increases from 1957 to 1962 have been 12 per cent in the state but general employee raises here were 24 per cent.

Although there was no decision taken by the Finance Committee on the still unresolved parts of the School Department budget, the punch of the evening came with the appearance of Arthur Johns and Austin Broadhurst of the School Committee.

Putting on their prosecuting attorney robes the finance committee put tough, hard questions to Messrs. Broadhurst and Johns (both themselves ex-members of the Finance Committee) in the special area of teachers' salary increase, general increase of book and audio-visual aid expenditures, and the request for $15,000 for a paid consultant to survey a teacher evaluator program for the schools.

Mr. Johns and Mr. Broadhurst in return, stood firm for their committee's request for a salary raise which approximates 10 percent. They emphasized the growing national competition for good teachers and their feeling of responsibility to the town to keep Winchester salaries up to a point where the overall quality of instruction will not be damaged.

They reiterated their point that a large portion of the $30,000 asked budget increase for 1963 directly reflects the need of more teaching personnel and more materials needed to accomodate more students. They also said that some of the increase does relate to the national curriculum explosion which demands more courses and better equipped teachers for Winchester if it is to keep a good standing among the nations schools for its college bound students, and if it is to have a quality level of modern education for its non-college students.

Mr. Broadhurst and Mr. Johns conveyed their committee's real concern at the size of the reduction the Finance Committee wanted made in the light of the total educational picture of these times.

The Finance Committee is expected to jell its recommendations on the School Budget at tonight's meeting.

For Children

The opening performance of the Boston Children's Theatre production of "Aladdin" is scheduled for Saturday afternoon March 2 at New England Life Hall.

"Aladdin," one of the most popular fairy tales from the "Arabian Nights" collection, is the story of a ne'er-do-well boy, who is made the tool of a wicked magician. From Aladdin's first strugggles for the possession of the magic lamp to his final victory the story is a thrilling and exciting adventure, which appeals alike to old and young.

The Boston Children's Theatre will present this charmnig fairy tale, which has been dramatized into a three-act play by Katharine DuVois, on Saturday afternoons March 2, 9, and 16. The Theatre is again offering special group rates for civic groups, PTA's, schools, Scouts, etc.

Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the Boston Children's Theatre, 263 Commonwealth Avenue, KEnmore 6-3324.

Costello-Moffett Funeral Home

Winchester
177 Washington Street

★ RECENTLY a member of a bereaved family remarked that the home-like atmosphere of our establishment had been a source of solace during a trying period. She spoke in a shy, almost embarrassed tone, as if she were not certain we would take this as a compliment. But it was a most cherished compliment. Ours is a small and modest home in comparison with some. But it is designed to make people comfortable, to soothe their lacerated feelings. Here we want them to feel "at home."

Eleven Residents Of Town 85 Years Of Age or Over

Eleven residents of the town, native of Winchester, have reached the age, or will be eighty-five years old during the calendar year, 1963.

This information, reproduced as of general interest, was made available to the Star by Assistant Assessor Roland E. Simonds, who is quick to add that the list of eleven does not cover all those in town 85 years old. There are many of our citizens who have reached this advanced age, especially in the Italian section, but these residents were not born in town. About 200 live in town who are 85 years or older.

Apparently the women far outrun the men in longevity as only 25 per cent of those listed are male. Only two of those listed, Elsie C. Locke of Cambridge Street and former Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson, still live in the original family homesteads, that of Miss Locke being 102 years old.

Etta C. Richardson, who heads the list, having reached her 97th year, was a Cutter and lived as a girl in Cutter Village just above Mill Hill in town. Emma Rice was a Greeley, and was born in a house on Walnut Street. Mary B. Smith's maiden name was Boutwell, and these three ladies constitute those in the list of eleven who are married. Joseph M. Donahue and Mr. Simonds himself are the two males to reach the charmed cricle.

Following is the complete list of those 85 or over who were born in Winchester:

Etta C. Richardson - 97 years.
Emma G. Rice - 96 years.
Elizabeth J. Quigley - 91 years.
Elsie C. Locke - 91 years
Mary B. Smith - 88 years.
Mary E. Gillespie - 87 years.
Marion L. Brodeur - 87 years.
Joseph M. Donahue - 86 years.
Alice L. Robinson - 86 years.
Mabel W. Stinson - 85 years.
Roland E. Simonds - 85 years.

Spaghetti Dinner To Precede Next Legion Meeting

Dom Ferraina has announced that plans are complete for a real old fashioned spaghetti dinner Italian style at the American Legion Post home next Thursday February 21 at 7:45 p.m.

Due to the fine cooperation of the executive officers of the Viva Macaroni Co., Frank and Joseph Scarpaci, we are looking forward to this special treat. Comrade Ferraina will be assisted in this gourmet's delight by Fred Mitchell, Carroll Murphy and a much larger than usual squad of "helpers." Commander Kinton wants personally to welcome all Legionnaires to this special pre-Washington Birthday feast.

At the business meeting following the repast, the members will be asked to vote on Article 10 Section 2 to increase the Executive Board from 11 to 15 members. The most important subject will concern Article 19 of the Posts Reserve Fund which at a specially called executive board meeting on February 5 it was voted to apply a portion for already completed improvements to the Post which include interior painting, resurfacing, plumbing and exterior work to cement platforms. Commander Kinton wishes to urge all members to be in attendance at this most important meeting of the season.

Mark April 10th Sale for Blind

The lady is dark-haired, trim and tiny. Her hand rests confidently on the harness of faithful "Hildy" the seeing-eye dog. With her is her friend and helper, Mrs. Perry who drove her down from Taunton.

She is Mrs. Merrill Maynard who, blind herself, organizes Winchester's annual April sale for the blind, where blind craftsmen have the opportunity to sell the items they have labored over all year. There's no budget for this affair, no money for "promotion" or "miscellaneous expenses." All the money goes to the blind.

Mrs. Edward Little of 5 Lakeview Road, opened her beautiful home last Tuesday morning for a pre-sale committee meeting. Enthusiastically "at the ready" were representatives of various Winchester clubs, schools and church groups, which will man the tables and act as salesladies the day of the sale.

Mrs. Fred Cardin, chairman of the sale, introduced her co-chairman, Mrs. John Lynch, and thanked the excellent attendance for coming! Mrs. Cardin announced that the Snack Bar open all day (from coffee and donuts at 9:30 through homemade sandwiches at noon to tea cakes and tea later) will again be in charge of Mrs. H. E. Bergquist, who received a round of applause, by the way! Mrs. Ralph Meigs is to be her co-chairman.

Mark Wednesday April 10 on your calendar. The place is the Crawford Memorial Church and the cause is good!

Hospital Offers Refresher Course For Nurses Here

The Winchester Hospital will again conduct an R.N. Refresher program commencing in March.

Miss Marjorie F. Snyder, director of Nursing invites graduate nurses who are registered in any State, but have been inactive for several years, as well as currently active nurses who wish to maintain their professional skills in modern and progressive patient care.

"In 1962, the program was omitted because of construction relative to our Hospital expansion," says Miss Snyder, "but, because of the enthusiasm of graduate nurses in Winchester and surrounding communities, we will again conduct the 12 week program."

There is no charge for this course. It includes an evening meeting once weekly when physicians and nurses who are specialists in the various major areas of modern medicine and nursing will present lectures and demonstrations.

In the closing weeks of the program, a limited number of hours of experience under supervision is offered. This period of practice has been well accepted, and gratefully appreciated by the applicants who find that it completes a well rounded RN Refresher for them.

Nurses who are interested including those nurses who registered previously, but could not be accepted because of limitation in class numbers are requested to inquire at the Nursing Office, PA 9-1900.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale

As sure a sign of spring as that proverbial first robin will be the Brownie Scout of her older sister Scout at your door soon to take your order for Girl Scout cookies. Winchester Girl Scouts will be a part of the nearly seven thousand girls in the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council working together in a single gigantic effort to raise funds. The proceeds will supplement monies received from the United Fund for the development and maintenance of seven council sites for day and troop camping and a primitive camp for older girls.

For the first time in Winchester each Troop's treasury will also benefit from every box of cookies sold by its members enabling the troop to expand its activities to include more outdoor events, camping, and educational trips.

Girls will take orders for the familiar cookies between February 15 and 25 and will make delivery beginning March 18. There will again be an interesting assortment including five varieties: assorted vanilla and cinnamon; assorted sandwiches; butternut roundup, a peanut butter favorite; double fudge-filled; and the perennially popular cooky mints.

Mrs. Robert Durfee of 48 Cabot Street is the Winchester member of the cookie committee. Sale managers for the two Winchester neighborhoods are the neighborhood chairman: Mrs. Jenness P. Eugley for the Sachem, and Mrs. Lawrence Beckley for the Aberjona. They will be glad to answer questions or provide further information as will the office of the Mistick Side Girl Scount Council (395-8640).

Episcopal Diocese Of Suburban Area To Meet Feb. 22

Between 300 and 350 persons are expected to attend.

The Right Reverend Anson Phelps Stokes, Bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts, will broadcast his annual welcome message over Radio Station WBZ at 9:05 a.m.

Dr. John W. Ellison, rector of the Parish of the Epiphany, will deliver the Invocation, and the after-breakfast speaker will be the Reverend D. J. Christopher of the Diocese of Dornakal in the Church of South India.

Mr. Christopher is now studying at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, and during his stay, he is a guest of the Parish of the Epiphany.

His subject will be Village Life of Hindus and Christians.

Members of the following churches will also be in attendance: Grace Church, Medford; Trinity, Woburn; St. John's, Arlington; Holy Saviour, Arlington; Good Shepherd, Watertown; St. Andrew's, Belmont; All Saints, Belmont; and the host Church Epiphany, Winchester.

Library Film Program

Family night on February 15, will offer "Asian Earth" which documents the activities and problems of a Hindu peasant family of the lower Ganges valley. They are seen at work, play and worship during the cycle of one year. In the narration, the mother of the family presents her explanations and interpretations.

For the would-be scientist, the possible scientist, the "whilom," the just barely interested, Leaves is a challenge. This film discusses the structure, function and types of leaves. It observes the relation of leaves to roots, stems and flowers. It shows the opening of a horse-chestnut bud and the growing of a nettle twig, the arrangement of cells and veins for the manufacture of food.

Louisa May Alcott ought to have a better write-up than this but we haven't seen the film yet. The film evidently reveals her complete devotion to her family, assuming full responsibility for its support. She is shown as nurse in the Civil War and her success as an author is emphasized. Does anyone not know that she wrote "Little Women" and "Little Men," among many others?

The same program will be repeated Saturday morning at 10:15 for the school children.

Crittenton Circle To Hear Book Review

"A life-time love of books" has been mine. That's how Mrs. Arthur Cann of 4 Sheffield West, expressed it when we asked her about her March 1st Morning Book Review planned to benefit Winchester Circle of Florence Crittenton League.

At eighteen, vivacious Jacquie started in library work. In Baltimore where the Canns lived before moving to Winchester twelve years ago, Jacquie gave numerous book reviews and played character parts with the suburban "Village Players." She also devoted much time to reading to hospitalized children at John Hopkins.

"Then, too, I've worked in practically every book store in Boston and Baltimore," Mrs. Cann astonished us by remarking. In these book shops, Jacquie made a sincere effort to have a working knowledge of all the volumes in stock.

Jacquie Cann's perceptive viewpoint, her wealth of experience in the world of books, her deep insight and her wit all promise a most stimulating and entertaining morning for her audience.

Remember the date, Friday, March 1, at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Coffee will be served at 9:30.

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR Stylist

By: "Woody"

One of the mainstays of feminine beauty—complexion—is dependent on many factors. Food habits, toxicity of the blood stream, exercise, and, of course, the individual's personal care are involved.

Some complexions suffer from excessive amounts of oil; the danger spot being primarily in the triangular area formed by the nose and chin. Make-up tends to cake in this area and enlarged pores and blemishes occur. A mild, pure soap—preferably castile—worked into this area in a circular motion is usually an effective control.

Speaking of effective — the most effective hair styling this side of Hollywood is to be had at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES. Our stylists are highly trained perfectionists who carefully blend choice of styles to the individual's personality. You can expect the best at WOODY'S HAIR STYLES, 573 Main St. Phone PA 9-3065.

THIS WEEK'S HELPFUL HINT: Hair needs — in fact, demands care and attention. Remember, however, that the proper way to brush the hair is from the scalp out.

Tandem Club Mardi Gras

Tandem Club is ten years old this year. Our Mardi Gras on February 22 is to be our tenth anniversary dance honoring past presidents.

The tenth anniversary is tin or aluminum. This gives a wide scope for costumes as they may depict any anniversary from 1-75 or our tenth—anything tin or aluminum, or, look 'way back in your closet to find something left from 1953. Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, the most original and the most comical.

Roger Carpenter's Mel Tones will provide the music for this gala evening in Hadley Hall where we will have a variety of dancing including Frank Townsend calling off some "fun" dances. Plan your dinner parties now and buy your tickets from Frank and Rose Townsend.

Keep the date open for the Tandem Club Mardi Gras, Friday, February 22, at 9 p.m., Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany.

Reserve Officers May Put Time In Winchester's CD

The local Civil Defense unit has been authorized by the Department of Defense to utilize standby military reserve officers in civli defense activity. One retirement point for two hours of duty will be awarded. The wearing of the uniform is optional.

Standby reservists, to be eligible for participation, must 1) be on active status (S-1 for Navy only) in the standby reserve; 2) have no remaining statutory military obligations; 3) not be assigned to an organized drilling unit; 4) not have been declared unavailable for mobilization by the selective service system; and 5) be authorized to participate by his respective service chief.

Interested reserve officers should contact the civil defense office in the Town Hall between 10 a.m. and 12 noon, Monday through Friday.

Patent to Manning

Ralph M. Manning of Winchester and William J. Schultz, Lynnfield, were the recipients on January 29, 1963 of U. S. Patent No. 3,075,636, entitled "Draw Bench Loading Measurements."

This invention pertains to draw benches that are used to reduce the cross-sectional dimension or diameter of metal tubes or bars. Such a device consists essentially of a chassis that is movable along rails and is secured by means of a connecting member to an endless chain that is entrained about sprocket wheels, one of which is caused to rotate by a direct current motor. The chassis also includes a clamp which grips one end of the metal bar. Upon movement of the chassis, the bar is pulled through a stationary die to effect the desired drawing or reducing operation.

Draw benches are frequently large and expensive. They may exert a pull of up to 50,000 pounds and have drawing speeds of 80 to 240 feet per minute. According to Messrs. Manning and Schultz, it has been found in one plant that mechanical overloading of draw benches caused frequent damage to the gearing and breakage of draw chains, and in one instance a bench was actually pulled off the factory floor causing many thousands of dollars of damage to the bench plus the loss of production due to the shutdown of the equipment. This situation has been due in considerable part to the fact that control of the draw bench has largely been a matter of operator experience and judgment.

To cope with this problem, Messrs. Manning and Schultz have devised a novel apparatus which instantaneously indicates deviations from the maximum allowable stress which may be exerted on a draw bench. The apparatus produced electrical signals which are proportional to the power applied to, and the speed of, the draw bench. These signals are combined so as to provide an indication of the mechanical leading place on the draw bench relative to the maximum allowable loading. The apparatus indicates how much additional stress may be placed safely on the draw bench at any given time, and it also cuases a suitable alarm to be sounded when the maximum allowable load is exceeded.

In other words, the apparatus enables maximum output of the draw bench to be achieved, and it may also include a recorder which keeps a record of the loading of the draw bench.

This patent has been assigned to General Electric Company.

C. S. on WEEI

CBS Radio's "Church of the Air" series will feature a Christian Science broadcast this Sunday (February 17). The program will be entitled "Showing Man His Uprightness," and the speaker will be Richard H. Chase, manager, Christian Science Activities for the Armed Services. Music will be sung by Kenny Baker, Eula Beal, and a quartet. The program will be broadcast over Station WEEI (590 kc) at 8:35 p.m.

Account Of Reserve Fund Expended Appropriations

The Reserve Fund is annually appropriated by the Town Meeting for use in extraordinary and unforseen emergencies. It is customary to use the balance in the Overlay Reserve, the small margin the Assessors allow in making the annual tax levy to take care of tax abatements, as a source of funds for the Reserve Fund. The Finance Committee then votes the transfer of funds to various departments when occasions arise.

In the January 17 issue of the Star, the 1962 overdraft of the Reserve Fund was reported. It was a "paper" emergency in town financing of operating expenses which necessitated authorization by Arthur MacKinnon, state director of accounts, for the town to pay in 1963 monies the 1962 so-called legal overdrafts.

James J. Costello, town accountant, explained that it was not actually a case of the town spending more than it had, but is a technical process of accounting which arises because the Town Meeting comes only once a year.

Last year the deficit amounted to $2,940.57 beyond the Reserve Funds appropriated. In 1961 the overdraft deficit amounted to $6,640.47; and in 1960 the deficit was $21,591.76.

Below is a breakdown of the transfers from the Reserve Fund authorized by the Finance Committee in the years 1960, 1961 and 1962.

Nancy Collins, Margo Harmon Top Homemakers

Two young women were chosen last week to represent their schools by earning the title of Homemaker of tomorrow contest.

They are Miss Nancy Collins of 68 Hutchinson Road, Marycliff Academy senior chosen to represent that school, and Miss Margo Harmon, of 11 Cabot Street, chosen from Winchester High School.

Each won the honor by achieving the highest score in their schools in a test administered here in December; and each is now eligible, along with winners in other state high schools, for the Massachusetts Homemaker title.

Miss Collins is a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist at Marycliff also. In addition she is a vocalist of note, having most recently been heard here in the Winton Club cabaret, and has just been accepted as a member of the Handel and Haydn Society in Boston.

Miss Harmon is a member of the student council at High School as a class representative and was a regular on this fall's championship field hockey team there. Both young women have strong domestic interests developed over the years.

The state Homemaker of Tomorrow is awarded a $1,500 scholarship by General Mills, sponsor of the program. The runner-up receives a $500 scholarship. The school of each state Homemaker of Tomorrow is awarded a complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

The state Homemaker of Tomorrow, accompanied by her school advisor, also will join with other state winners in an expense-paid educational tour of New York City Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va., next spring. During the tour, the 1963 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and national runners-up will be named. The Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will have her scholarship raised to $5,000, with second, third and fourth place winners being awarded scholarships of $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

The story of aureomycin's discovery is one calculated to warm the hearts of those who feel that age has little to offer. Dr. Benjamin Duggar, forced into retirement from his college teaching at 71, discovered this drug, the first of the broad-spectrum antibiotics to be extensively marketed.

Three years of painstaking search finally produced a golden mold in a culture dish seeded with mud — specifically Missouri mud — and a new effective disease killer was born.

Missouri earth has no lone claim on medical immortality, however, for it was a pinch of Indiana soil which produced terramycin.

McCormack's Apothecary, however, can and does claim unexcelled prescription service. Fast, efficient, thoroughly accurate and compounded of the highest quality drugs; prescriptions are just what the doctor ordered at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY, 568 Main St. Phone PA 9-2700.

ZILLION DOLLAR MUSIC CONTEST

Richard Norris Speaks to WVNA

Mr. Richard F. Norris, member of the Board of Health, was guest speaker for the monthly board meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association held last Friday, February 8, at the Public Library. Mr. Norris stressed the cooperative working relationships among the social agencies in the town, with particular reference to the Board of Health and W. V. N. A.

Under contract to the Board of Health, W. V. N. A. has available a pool of six nurses from whom the Board draws. Visiting nurses staffed the recent polio immunization clinics for adults. The nurses supervised the clinics for preschool children and are currently giving the oral vaccine to children in all the schools.

In addition to this special townwide immunization program, the visiting nurses staff the weekly well-child conferences and immunization clinics for the Board of Health. The nurses aid in the prevention of communicable disease by visiting homes where disease has been reported. They make home visits to all families with new-born infants. W. V. N. A nurses participate in an X-ray clinic for food handlers and a TB-control program. Parochial school nursing also comes under the Board of Health contract.

With the goal of promoting better health among the residents of Winchester, Mr. Norris feels that this contractual arrangement between the Board of Health and W. V. N. A is providing the most efficient and economical nursing service for the town.

Mrs. Bradford M. Bentley, president, conducted the board's business meeting. Monthly reports were given by the chairmen of the various committees. In her report to the board, Miss Rita Plummer, executive director, mentioned the splendid support En Ka gives W. V. N. A. not only in purchasing office equipment but also aiding needy patients.

Jewish Appeal Appoints 1963 Area Chairman

Leo Dunn of Lexington has been appointed vice chairman of the Metropolitan Division in the 1963 Appeal of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston in charge of the West Area. The CJP is the central planning, fund-raising, and budgeting arm of the Greater Boston Jewish community. Its network of local, national, and overseas agencies provide a wide range of services in the fields of health, education, group work, family welfare, and community relations.

As vice chairman Mr. Dunn will be responsible for the CJP's fund-raising efforts in Winchester as well as in 17 other suburban communities. The Metropolitan Division comprises some 40 cities and towns in the Greater Boston area, and the 1963 appeal will be officially inaugurated March 10.

Elks New Home On Way To Becoming Reality

At the February 5 meeting of the Winchester Lodge of Elks, Richard DeConto, chairman of the building committee, presented the final plans from the architect for the new clubhouse to be built on Cambridge Street at the Woburn line.

The new clubhouse is to have an over-all size of 96 feet by 50 feet. A one-story edifice, allowance has been made for possible future expansion.

The members present at the meeting gave the green light to proceed with all necessary arrangements to get the construction under way. Unless unforeseen obstacles develop, the building should be completed this year.

The 40th anniversary of the local Elks organization will be celebrated with a dinner-dance at the Woburn Country Club Saturday, March 9. There with be a short session of speechmaking, to be followed by the festivities. An excellent local orchestra will furnish the music.

Those who delay in getting their tickets may be shut out. Contact Jack Murphy or Creighton Horn if you wish to attend.
